THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON

From Your Congressman
Fred Bradley
11th District, Michigan

The senate banking and currency committee this past week has been holding hearings on the so-called Inflation Bill, authorizing the President to stabilize prices and wages. This problem of inflation is not a new one. It has been recognized for many months that unless drastic measures are adopted, we will see such a spiralling of wages and prices as to seriously endanger our whole war effort. Food prices and wages are the two main factors in this inflation problem since price ceilings, through the Price Control Act, have already been established on most other civilian commodities. There are many who blame the Congress for not having acted previously. We must remember, however, that the Congress has acted and has given the President every power needed to curb this menace. Nevertheless, in his latest message, the President tossed the ball back to Congress and insisted it must pass additional legislation, more specific in its directive to the President to act, and act immediately. Apparently, this being an election year, the executive department has been afraid to offend—if offense it may be called—either the huge farm vote or the labor vote.

What are the facts behind our present serious inflation menace?

As the threat of war became acute in the summer of 1939, and with the influx of war material orders from abroad, our nation began to emerge from the secondary phase of the long depression. In the fiscal year of July 1939 to June 1940, the American people pocketed 71 billions in income after paying their taxes. Of that sum, they spent 64 billions for necessities and luxuries. There remained seven billions for national savings.

Between July 1940 and 1941, we had a balance of nine billions left in our pockets which increased to 19 billions in this last fiscal year ending July 1, 1942. In other words, our individual national pocket-book had 19 billion dollars of loose change available either for savings or for spending on additional luxuries or even additional necessities of life, if available.

The seriousness of inflation becomes readily apparent to anyone when he realizes that during the present fiscal year, which will end July 1, 1943, the treasury estimates that we, as individuals, will be paid some 115 billions after paying our huge taxes; but because of the scarcity of civilian goods, we will be able to spend but 67 billions, leaving us with 48 billions of extra cash in our pockets and waiting to be spent.

Left to themselves, prices are determined by the law of supply and demand. For example, if there is on the market a surplus of one commodity, the only way it can be disposed is to cut the price, which encourages buying. On the other hand, if there is a scarcity of a commodity, then it can be held for sale at the highest price possible. If, therefore, we upset the balance of the law of supply and demand—and in this case it is represented by these 48 billions of dollars in our pockets—then we have such a tremendously increased buying power—or demand—as to enable the seller to hold articles for unheard of prices which would be far out of line with the actual manufacturing and handling costs. On the other hand, the supply side of the scales is tremendously upset in wartime by reason of the fact that the manufacture of the majority of our civilian commodities have been greatly curtailed or discontinued by the conversion of their production facilities to war work. So, all in all, it means but one thing—inflation. Since we cannot increase the supply of consumer goods, government control must be exercised promptly; which could have been done under the powers already voted by the Congress.

As previously mentioned, with price ceilings established on most civilian commodities, the two main factors to be reckoned with are food prices and wages.

Let us first look at the farm prices and the word parity which confuses many people. The exchange value of any farm commodity is the standard that determines its purity price. The department of agriculture takes three steps in determining the parity price of a commodity. First, it elects a period of years where agricultural prices were considered in good relationship with the goods the farmers must buy. This elected base period was the five-year stretch between July 1909 and 1914. Secondly, the average price paid by farmers for a long list of commodities is worked out for the same period. Charts are figured on 86 representative commodities used by the farm family and 88 others used by farmers in the production of farm products, and on interest and taxes. The amount of these things for which the farm commodity could be exchanged is then set at an arbitrary value of 100. The third step is to ascertain the percentage of change in the average prices of commodities the farmers buy from the base period to the present. On August 15th last this average was at 152 percent above the average for the base period. So to be fair then, the parity prices on all farm commodities, having the 1909-1914 base period should be 152 percent above the average price of that period. This does not mean that everything which the farmer raises is actually pegged at 152 percent of its 1909-1914 price. For instance, grains are from 45 to 85 percent of parity, while hogs are at 128 percent, beef cattle at 137 percent, lambs 135 percent, butterfat stands at 107 percent, wholesale milk at 106 percent and eggs at 102 percent of parity. These are all based on our present actual market prices. Consequently, it can be seen that many inequities still remain in the schedule of farm prices but nevertheless at the same time our cost of foodstuffs has been steadily increasing monthly at the rate of about 1 1-4 percent, and within the past year and a half has increased the cost of living between 15 and 20 percent.

The President has proposed, therefore, that by October 1st, all farm prices should be set at parity or at recent price levels—whichever is the higher. The farmers rightfully insist that the parity formula should be changed to reflect increases in wages; at least in farm wages and, secondly, that there must be a ceiling on all prices if farm prices are to be pegged. That is fair and just.

Now let us look at the wage situation. The War Labor Board has been delegated to deal with this situation and they in turn in their concept of parity chose wages in effect January 1, 1941, as wage parity. The Board holds that labor groups are entitled to wage increases of 15 percent from their January 1, 1941, level but no more, to cover the increases of living costs from that date to May 1, 1942. This sounds all right in theory. In certain established industries, the production methods of which have not changed with the advent of war but which, nevertheless, are just as much engaged in essential war work as any defense plant, their wage scales have in many instances not been changed a bit. This is true in the coal mines for example. To match the cost of living, obviously they are entitled to a 15 percent increase. On the other hand, the wage scale and the real earnings in the new war production plants and in war construction jobs have sky-rocketed far out of line—far above the 15 percent increase—with the wages paid for similar jobs in prewar days. Neither the President nor the War Labor Board has suggested that such wage scales be reduced to bring them in line with other wage scales. However, as long as such wages are being paid, just so long will the trend of inflation continue and just so long will our war effort be endangered through the pirating of labor from normal industry into the mushroom type war industry.

At present income of workers and farmers are at record level. Cash income of farmers jumped from $8,700,000,000 in 1939 to $15,100,000,000; so, even when higher living costs are considered, the national farm income has gained 43 percent in real value.

The same is true of workers. Total wages and salary payments have jumped 65 percent above pre-war level and real earnings—after being adjusted to living costs—have climbed about 40 percent. Factory workers are better off. Their wages are up 112 percent above 1939 and real earnings (that is the ability to put that money to work) have advanced 82 percent.

Any attempt to stabilize wages and prices at prevailing levels does not mean that prevailing living standards can be maintained. Even if income payments continue the commodities that purchasing power can buy must, of necessity, diminish and our problem is to siphon away many more billions of surplus purchasing power. The day has come when the war is going to force all of us to drastically lower our standard of living. Henceforth we can look for no more tangible benefits from the war boom. Henceforth, no one will escape the impact of war. Salaries and profits will be trimmed by drastic taxes and rising wages and food prices, taken as a whole, must be stopped immediately. If I gather the temper of the Congress, and its individual members, the time when pressure voter groups can cash in on the war boom rapidly is ending.

Michigan Joining Nation-Wide Drive to Find V-Homes

The Michigan Council of Defense will utilize its organization facilities in every Michigan county to spur the V-Homes campaign which opened on a nation-wide scale September 15 under sponsorship of the U. S. Office of Civilian Defense.

It is expected that before the drive ends most of the estimated 37,000,000 homes in the United States will have qualified for the right to display the V-Home emblem.

To qualify as "a fighting American home", the household must meet five essential requirements. It must follow instructions of the air raid wardens for protection against enemy attacks; conserve food, clothing, transportation and health to hasten an increasing flow of war materials to the men at the front; salvage essential war materials which may be converted to immediate war needs; refrain from spreading rumors or fostering racial intolerance and buy regularly U. S. War Savings Bonds and Stamps.

When the head of the house has met these requirements to the satisfaction of his local or county council of defense and his air raid warden, the coveted V-Home emblem of service to his country may be displayed in his house, over his door or in his window.

The purpose of the V-Home campaign is to serve notice that every member of every family in every American home is actively engaged in the war effort. The Michigan Council of Defense, with the assistance of every county and local council, is entering the drive with the expectation of ultimately putting a V-Home emblem in every Michigan home.

The V-Home campaign is being supported by metropolitan and local daily and weekly newspapers, as well as a number of the national magazines. A comprehensive program of information for the public has been prepared, and preparations are complete for carrying the fight to the enemy from America's V-Homes.

Extend Plane Spotter Corps

The Michigan Aircraft Detection Corps, organized by the Michigan Council of Defense in cooperation with the Army will be extended to include additional areas in the lower peninsula. Chairman of local and county councils and county and local commanders of local and county Citizens Defense Corps have held meetings at Alpena, Traverse City, Rockford and Bay City on call of Capt. Donald S. Leonard, State Commander of the U. S. Citizens Defense Corps of Michigan, under whose direction plane-spotter units are being organized. Meetings have been held in the upper peninsula at which the basic observer network was set up.

SHORT STORY

Faith—Always Faith

By GERTRUDE MAY MORRISON

(Associated Newspapers—WNU Service.)

"THEY arrested a man as I came in," said Margo, addressing a rather oldish-looking woman, who was munching on a homemade sandwich.

Marge had just come into the employees' lounging room of the big department store where they both worked, in lamps on the sixth floor.

"Good looking guy, too. I'll say," she went on. "Ben, they called him."

The older woman went suddenly white. "Ben" — what memories stirred at the name. The hand holding the sandwich trembled visibly.

"What did the man look like?" she asked, trying to steady herself.

"Big brown eyes and red hair, with a curl over his forehead like a little boy's."

Then it was true—her Ben arrested.

"My God, Stell, what's the matter? I thought you was going to pass out on me," said Marge slipping an arm around her. "You pick good places to faint."

"I'm all right," said Stell, bracing herself. "Guess I must have been eating too fast, and then somehow it upsets me to hear of men going to jail."

"That man you're spending your life grievin' over isn't in jail, is he? Gosh, you're a simp, Stell."

"I don't know where he is definitely," added the other. "But I know he'd play an honest game."

"If that's what you call it to walk off and leave a woman," returned Marge loftily. "Better take my advice, forget him and step out with Big Jim. He likes you and would marry you, if you played your cards right. The boy's got a future," she added. "He'll be head of the lamp department some day."

The older woman did not reply. Instead she took another bite from her sandwich before inquiring, "What was the men arrested for?"

"Don't know exactly," said Marge. "Just saw him being loaded into the patrol wagon as I came in. You should have seen the dick! It's the first guy he's nabbed in I don't know when, and he was tickled pink."

Later that day Stell heard the girl in the credit cage say, "He told the cops his name was Good, and that he was looking for his wife who worked here. One of the cops laughed and said, 'Good, nothing! You're bad clean through!' The dick said he had followed him from one department to another on every floor of the store. And he was making the rounds the second time before they caught him with the goods—not anything much, just one silk stocking. What's a guy going to do with one stocking, I ask you? Unless he's got a one-legged girl?"

But Stell had heard enough. Ben had come back. Her Ben. He had been here in the store, wandering from department to department looking for her—too timid to ask—and then they'd picked him up. Surely, there was some mistake. Whatever else Ben was, he was not a thief.

But they had arrested him. Now at least she knew where he was.

Four years before he had left her. Left her sitting on their packed trunk, hatted and gloved, while he went to look for a drayman.

They were going to Iowa together—their first trip home since their marriage twelve years before.

"I'll chase down the street," he told her, "and get Connelly to come for the trunk. I'll only be gone a minute."

But he had never come back. Not until the wee hours of the morning, not until she had waited, and waited, and waited, did she remove her hat and coat and unpack.

The next day she went to work at the department store. And she had never heard of or from Ben until today. But she had kept on waiting, never going out anywhere, never looking at another man, just waiting for Ben, and working, often dreaming of her happiness with Ben. And now he was back.

At 6:30 she was at the police station, and the guard was leading her down the grim cement passageway.

What if he had grown tired of her, sick of the devotion she gave him? Perhaps he had been too kind to tell—he had always been afraid to hurt her. Had he taken this easy way out?

It was all so unlike the youth she had married. Such a queer smart.

The guard looked at the woman with curious, friendly eyes.

"So you've come—just as he said you would," he commented.

Then he called cheerily into the semi-darkness. "She's here—just like you said." And she was conscious of standing before an old young man in a coarse prison jacket, ill-looking, with great suffering in his hungry eyes.

"Ben, oh, Ben!" she cried as she thrust both hands through the bars at once.

All her love for him coursed through her and with it a mystic sense of happiness, an exalted, perfect moment such as she had not known in four bitter years.

Nothing mattered except getting him back, holding him close, feeding him, bringing him to life again.

"He's had a rotten break," the keeper was saying, "getting caught with that stocking, after all the rest he'd gone through."

"All the rest?" Her words were very faint. She found herself weeping and she had promised not to cry—not there—in jail.

Ben had raised her hands to his lips but beyond the anguished "Oh, Stell," he had not spoken. His mouth worked strangely.

"If he died, Miss, before he found you, then I was to tell you."

"Tell me what, Ben?" she said softly.

"It is only that I was looking for you, Stell, and, as God is my Judge, I didn't take the stocking. It got hung on my coat somehow. I was peering close at every woman behind the counters, not knowing how much you might be changed. God, Stell, how I've wanted you," he burst out, between choking tears.

For Stell, standing there, with his big hand helplessly clutching hers, was transformed by the age-old love for the child.

"Ben," she said eagerly, "then you weren't tired of me?"

"Tired?—God, Stell, you know it was heaven, at home, with you—tired? God!" and covering his face he sobbed.

"Tell her, man," interrupted the keeper. "Visiting hours are over at seven."

Then, without waiting further, he plunged on, "You never knew why Ben went to get the express man and left you there with the trunk? You never knew all these years what happened there at the dock?"

"There at the dock?" The woman found herself repeating strangely.

"Yes—never knowin' how he was knocked down—taken aboard that rotten ship—"

Her hands tightened on the iron bars—no longer grim, but mystic pathways to stars. Behind them, Ben—and he belonged.

The guard turned away.

"All these years," he muttered, "trustin' him and never knew what happened. Gee! Takes a woman, don't it, to have faith."

Cold-Storage Locker Plants Now Taking Hold

Near Centralia, Wash., in the fall of 1917, while the rest of the U. S. was busy with World War I, a hunter bagged some pheasants which he wanted to keep for his Christmas dinner. As an accommodation, an ice-plant operator named J. A. Winchell plunked the birds into a water-filled milk can, froze them in a solid ice cake. On Christmas day the frozen fowl came out of the ice cake fresh.

To Engineer Roger Sprague of Omaha's Baker Ice Machine company, who serviced the Winchell account, the frozen pheasant episode gave an idea. Mindful that most U. S. farmers lack easy means of preserving for their own use food which they raise, he saw the possibility of a new market for ice machinery: plants to freeze and store food for the public. The idea took years to catch on. But today thousands of farmers go to cold-storage locker plants, rent lockers big enough to hold 250 pounds of meat (or 6½ cubic feet of any food) for $10 a year. The plants quick-freeze their meat. They also slaughter animals (at $2 a head for cattle, $1.50 for hogs, 75 cents for sheep) and prepare and freeze vegetables or fruits for 2½ to 3 cents a pound.

Iowa, which had only a plant in 1933, now has 500 of them. Last year 3,000 U. S. locker plants did a gross business of $20,000,000. By 1940's end the completion of 750 new plants was expected to up the industry's investment to $45,000,000.

Saccar for Suckers

If the original tires have been replaced with new ones, don't accept this as proof of good mechanical condition. It probably means that a lot of mileage has been put into that car, else the original tires wouldn't have worn out.

If all the fenders are new and shiny, don't be too elated. It may mean the car has been in a serious wreck.

If the car is "guaranteed," get the exact terms in writing and make sure that this guarantee has protective teeth in it.

Don't be too eager to buy a used car because of its looks. Or because of its age—or rather, lack of age. One of the flagrant abuses by a few in the used car game is the repainting of late model ex-taxicabs, which are offered as nearly new automobiles. It is common knowledge that cabs are usually subjected to five times the normal amount of wear.

Do you know that, for a little while, white lead will take the grind out of a transmission, and that ground cork will smooth out a differential?

Do you know that putty temporarily seals leaks from an exhaust pipe or manifold? (of course it may fall off when it becomes hot and endanger the safety of the driver and his passengers by pouring carbon monoxide into the car.)

If you know these things, you have a fair chance of buying a car from an unknown dealer and experiencing no trouble. But unfortunately, too many of us do not know them.

Throw your scrap into the fight. Keep 'em firing—with junk!

GOOD FOODS GIVE MEATLESS MENUS

Prospects of meat rationing and meatless menus need not disturb the resourceful homemaker. By planning carefully, she can make sure her family gets the right food for fitness, and she can serve some tasty meals, too.

Some information on the food values meat contain and how to get this good in other foods is recommended by home economics extension specialists at Michigan State College.

Meat is an excellent source of protein. In addition, it has three members of the vitamin B group, niacin, thiamine and riboflavin, and also contains iron. But these food values can be obtained from other sources. The most efficient protein comes from animal sources, however this protein can be obtained from eggs, milk, cheese, poultry, fish and shellfish.

Vegetables, such as dried peas and beans, and particularly soybeans, have protein too. But it takes more of the vegetable group, and in good variety, to equal any given amount of animal protein. Still other sources of protein are nuts, peanuts, and grains, especially whole grains.

Aside from meats, niacin is received from grain products, with whole-wheat bread or cereals giving a particularly large amount. Niacin is received also from potatoes, green vegetables and fruits. Enriched white bread and flour have this food value more than unenriched kinds.

Thiamine in the day's meals, even in a meatless menu, is obtained by eating plenty of whole-grain foods, potatoes, the dry legumes, eggs, leafy green vegetables and many fruits. Good sources of riboflavin are milk products, eggs, and grain products, particularly whole-grain cereals. Some riboflavin can be obtained from vegetables and fruits.

Iron is received from many foods besides meat. Cereals are a good source of iron and so are whole wheat flour, dry legumes, eggs, potatoes, leafy vegetables and fruits.

From where I sit . . .

by Joe Marsh

IN the square of a little village not far from here I came on the prettiest flower garden you ever saw.

It was a lot of flowers all mixed up—hundreds of different kinds, I guess. So I asked a passerby if he could tell me about it.

"Well," he says, "In this town whenever anybody plants a flower garden and has any seeds left, they scatter them over this plot."

Then he leans over and pulls out a couple of weeds. "We all have to help pull out the weeds too," he tells me. "That way the village has a flower garden to be proud of."

That's about as pretty an illustration of co-operation as I ever come across. But there's plenty of examples of co-operation and civic spirit these days.

We were talking just yesterday about how the brewers and the beer distributors are working together and co-operating with law enforcement authorities.

You see a lot of friendship and fine old customs have grown up around beer. But the weeds—well—they've got to be pulled out, too.

Everybody has to lend a hand. And the brewing industry is just sensible enough to recognize that . . . But what's more—they're doing something about it.

The brewers don't want their beer sold in the wrong kind of places, and so they've teamed up with the authorities in a self-regulation program to make careless beer retailers "clean up or close up," as they say.

From what I read, the plan is working out mighty successful in a number of states, and is spreadin' out into others.

From where I sit, it looks like a fine idea . . . a mighty practical example of how honest co-operation works out to the benefit of everyone—the brewers, the beer retailers, and us plain citizens that like our gardens and our pleasures—with the weeds kept out.

Next Wednesday will be Patriotic Day at the Charlevoix county fair, with a program consisting of speeches, a band concert, a pole and flag raising, and fireworks display. The fireworks include eight set pieces, some with a fire frontage of 35x35 feet.

Charlevoix's second contingent for the new national army left today on the noon train for Battle Creek. Local men going were Louis Gravelin, Edward Durance, Albert McClanathan, Spid Krulik, Daniel Cannon, Arthur Nettleton, Lawrence Terry and Joseph Brock.

Miss Anule Bon has resigned her position as city librarian and will be succeeded by Miss Minnie E. Payton.

Miss Mary Wakefield, of St. Augustine, Fla., who is visiting in this city after an absence of many years, is a survivor of the ill-fated steamer Champlain, which burned on Lake Michigan near here about 30 years ago.

The Misses Beth and Ruth Hammett left Monday for Nashville, Tenn., to attend Ward-Belmont college.

Franklin Weaver left Sunday for Delafield, Wis., to enter St. John military school.

Frances and Genevieve Durance left Tuesday for Valparaiso, Ind., to attend the University.

Adolphus Allard, Lee Allard and Frank Coatta, members of Co. I, 33rd Mich. Inf., now located at Detroit, have been home on furlough.

A big plowing match will be held at the Will Bird farm at Ironton on October 11, for which prizes are being donated by local merchants. The Grange ladies will serve a chicken dinner at noon and there will be a dance in the evening.

Michigan's pheasant population traces indirectly back to 1790 when Richard Bache, son-in-law of Benjamin Franklin, first introduced the birds in the United States. Out in Iowa, pheasants took to the open country by accident. A windstorm 40 years ago is credited with the liberation. Two thousand birds took flight when pens were blown over on a pheasant farm near Cedar Falls.

There were only two life insurance policyholders in each three families in 1900 while today the average is nearly two policyholders per family. The number of policyholders in the United States has increased 560% since 1900, while the population increase in that period has been only 74%, showing the much greater spread of protection and security among American families today.

The Ordeal of the Family Budget

PITY the poor budget! Even under peacetime conditions he leads a strenuous life, but now he's really under fire. Ten percent for War Bonds, a big slice for taxes, ever-growing pressure from the rising cost of living — and on top of it all provision must be made for regular bank deposits. Impossible? No it isn't, if you face the grim facts that this is war, and that you must make sacrifices and give up things you thought essential. Organize your budget for victory without delay.

IS A PATRIOTIC SERVICE

A Plan to Protect Agriculture After This War

For years the tragic results of the expansion of food-producing acreage during World War I has haunted American agriculture. Every farmer, as a matter of patriotism, interrupted his rotation of crops to produce food and more food for our armies and our Allies. Now again in World War II, to feed our soldiers and our Allies and to serve the special demands of war industry, we are dislocating our normal production as a matter of patriotic service.

It seems plain that by the end of this war American farms will have created a tremendous surplus production power which ordinary peacetime requirements will not absorb. By the end of 1942 our overall average increase production over the average for the last 10 years will be more than 21 per cent. How then can American agriculture side-step a post-war farm tragedy even worse than that following World War I?

Experiments in Rubber and Other Products.

Our Government is now experimenting with domestic sources for rubber. Some sixty thousand acres are devoted to the production of guayule and its possibilities as a source of domestic rubber. Emergency plants for the production of thousands of tons of synthetic rubber from oil and alcohol are now springing into production.

We have learned how to make paper from slash pine and starch from potatoes. We are learning how to raise medicinal herbs which we formerly imported.

Denied the use of kapok which we imported from the East Indies and used in life preservers, we have discovered that the floss from milkweed makes better life preservers than kapok ever did. Factories have been built and several thousand acres are now devoted to raising milkweed intensively.

Already we are producing tung oil successfully. Thousands of acres will be needed before we can supply even our present domestic market.

Luckily, we have at hand the National Farm Chemurgic Council, an organization of research chemists from our several industries who compare notes and gain new enthusiasm in the research for new uses of old crops and new crops which can be cultivated in America. Our government has established regional research laboratories.

More than fifteen thousand different kinds of plants grow in the natural state in the United States. We use less than three hundred of these plants. Farm chemurgy will not be complete, nor the post-war problem of agriculture solved until every plant is re-examined in the light of modern science and made to serve its part in contributing to the comfort, happiness and security of our America of the future.

A Plan That Deserves Support.

The United States Senate is considering a plan which will require the use of 20 per cent of war profits during the war for the purchase of Recovery Bonds by each company in order to have available the necessary cash to quickly change their business and industrial plants back to peace-time activities at the close of the war and to adjust the employment of their normal number of factory workers.

This percentage of war profits could also be used in a broad plan of research by industrial chemists to develop new uses for products of the farm by our domestic industry. If our industry has the knowledge and the money in hand to convert an all-out war effort to peacetime production, maintain employment and launch the new products discovered by science, we have a reasonable chance to absorb our farm surplus even in the post-war period.

Depression hit our rural areas longer and harder than our industrial areas. Our hope for the security, happiness and prosperity of Rural America is at stake. If we can develop this practical plan for taking care of our surplus in the after war period, we can go forward unafraid in an all-out production effort for the winning of this war and in providing the food necessary for starving people in the after war period. We will know that we have provided an ever-expanding America with new crops and new uses. Worth thinking about.

Agriculture and Labor

"Agriculture has excellent reasons to take concern for the welfare of labor," says Wheeler McMillen. "The situation after the war is over will be of particular importance to farmers. Men earning good wages full time are much better customers than men without jobs. Men steadily employed under satisfactory conditions are far less likely than men without work to become the prey of men who agitate for strange kinds of government. Agriculture ought not, therefore, to develop hostility toward labor and toward labor organizations as such. A wiser course would be to try to use agriculture's influence for correction of those abuses which do no good either to laborers, farmers or the nation."

America's Real Stimulant

"In the United States, every man's value is determined by his activity, and every man is given the opportunity to develop his abilities. An American's real stimulant and pride consist in being a self-made man, in fighting, and in winning the fight."—Javier Prado.

LANSING LETTER

of scrap metal. The average American—you and me—we haven't taken the trouble to turn it in to the government. This war is the people's war, and the people must win it by personal participation in urgent needs of this type.

"The newspapers of Michigan have been asked by Washington to do a job. We intend to bring the message of scrap metal to every citizen in the next few weeks. We know the people of Michigan will do their part."

Automobile graveyards, under the WPB regulations, must turn over their stock within 60 days.

So when you drive by the next automobile wrecking yard, and notice how the old buggies clutter up the place, don't start wondering why somebody at someplace doesn't get busy and do something.

The answer is: The WPB is doing something about it. There is a steady flow of old cars into the wrecking yards, and also out of them. Count on that.

Local committees may decide to solicit donations of scrap metal, the proceeds of which are to go to a local charity: A community hospital, the United Service Organizations, the army and navy relief, Red Cross, community chest, and so on.

Price of metal is fixed by Uncle Sam. Furthermore, the junk man is needed to sort and handle the metal prior to its shipment to the mills.

He will be compensated for this service on a basis which the government believes to be fair and reasonable. The failure of the aluminum campaign, where huge piles of metal remained on townhall lots for months, was due in part to the government's failure to put the junk man to work.

Who is going to pay for the collection of scrap?

This scrap drive, supported by the Michigan newspapers, is the people's party.

Municipal governments and state and county highway departments will be enlisted to give a hand, but the task will rest with you and me. —The American people who must win the war. The job is too big for the "government"—those people who are hired to work for the rest of us.

It's got to be OUR JOB. The October 4 to 17 scrap party is going to be democracy at the grass roots—America with its sleeves rolled up.

BEAN STACKING A WAR MEASURE

Michigan's greatest navy bean crop goes into the harvest stage with an emergency warning by crops specialists at Michigan State College to remember the heavy losses encountered a year ago when many growers failed to stack beans to counteract wet weather.

Crop statisticians indicate field beans can easily set a state record of 6,864,000 hundred pound bags.

Experience of three bean growers in the 1941 harvest are cited by H. C. Rather, head of the college crops department.

One farmer built good stacks, putting up 19 acres with the aid of a helper in 28 1-2 hours. He threshed in November, had only a 2 per cent pick or a 22 cents a hundred deduction for culls and received $4.33 a hundred pounds. Another bean grower built poor stacks, had an 11 per cent pick and got a $1.21 deduction or a net of $3.34 a hundred pounds. A third farmer didn't stack, his beans were 35 per cent cull. This man got $1.25 a hundredweight from a sympathetic elevator manager although the beans actually had a market value of only 40 cents a bag.

Rather reminds growers that weather records show how futile it is to try to outguess the weather. September and October chances for rainfall are good for fall seeded grains, but too bad for the bean grower who doesn't stack.

Chances for rain are about as follows:

No rain any one day, 2 to 1. No rain two days in succession, 1 to 1.2; no rain three days in succession, 1 to 2.4. It's a better than 6 to 1 bet that any pulled bean crop in the field five days will get wet and about even that the bean crop will get a rain of at least a quarter inch in five days.

One of the blessing of war is that it shuts up the grumblers—well, almost, anyway.

When old Archimedes sat in his bathtub and discovered that his body displaced an equal amount of water, he hollered "Eureka," which in our language means "I have found it." That's also what "Wes" Wells hollered Sunday when he landed a 4 1-2 poand smallmouth bass in the upper channel. And a lot of others could have hollered the same thing only in a little softer tone, because if their bass weren't so big, they were plentiful. As for myself, I got up too early and froze out before the bitin' started . . . which remiads me there was a frost Sunday night back in the country away from the lake. Clayton Brown took a nice catch of big yellow-bellied perch from the Lake Michigan buy late last week, but "Jock" Gibson and Joe Foster couldn't locate them Monday, so guess we'll have to wait a while yet. Tuesday's blow should sturt something along the perch line, though. Hope to be able to mention something else besides a scattering steelhead before long, too.

Preparations are under way for an intensive scrap metal collection drive during the period of October 4-17, inclusive. In order that the steel mills may have the scrap required to produce the steel necessary for armament, defense officials have asked newspapers to aid in the campaign to enlist the participation of every man, woman and child in every community in the nation. Stock piles to keep the steel mills operating this winter must be accumulated before snow flies. If you made an effort to find scrap metal for the current drive held in August, you are asked to re-double that effort now. Maybe you have asked: "What can I do to help my country's war effort?" This is the answer.

It must have been the cold spell that started it all, because when fellows sturt wandering up into the deer country as early as September it'a a sure case of "buckitis," brought on in most cases by the tang of frost. Well, anyway, Charlie and Clarence Heise, Pete Withers and Hnrold Bedford were snoopin' around Trout Lake last week end.

After the ceremony, a wedding dinner wns served to immediate relatives at the home of the bride's parents. The bride and groom left thnt evening on a trip to the upper peninsula.

FARM MACHINERY IS "FROZEN" SEPT. 17TH

Arrange for Rationing Through County AAA Committees

All farm machinery in the hands of dealers has been frozen as of September 17 by the federal farm war board in the first step in rationing of farm equipment, Maurice A. Doan, chairman of the Michigan farm war board said in a formal statement.

Doan said Michigan county triple A committees were being sent instructions to set up rationing machinery. He said the county USDA war board would appoint a committee of two other farmers who would handle applications.

Doan said machinery had been divided into three groups. Group "A" would include scarce and especially needed equipment which could be sold only on approval of the county rationing committee. Group "B" would include items which could be sold upon certification by the farmer to the dealer that the equipment was needed to meet current needs. Group "C" would include smaller items that could be sold without restriction.

Group "A" machinery included beet lifters, beet loaders, combines, corn pickers, dies harrows, feed grinders, fertilizer spreaders, grain drills, grain elevators, hay balers, lime spreaders, manure spreaders, milk coolers, milking machines, pickup balers, potato diggers, shredders, and tractors, (including garden tractors).

Group "B" includes most other farm equipment and machinery.

Group "C" includes hoes, rakes, forks, scythes, shovels and all hand-operated and one and two horse drawn farm machinery.

Doan said there would be restrictions on transfer of used machinery or repair parts.

Farmers who qualify for group "A" machinery will be required to turn in old equipment and agree to rent or let others use the new machinery according to Doan.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Mrs. Frank Lamphear's 80th birthday nnniversary, which occurred on Saturday, was honored Friday evening by the Detroit Lions Football club, who have made their home this summer at Mrs. Lamphear's hotel, the Bartlett House. Guest of honor at dinner, Mrs. Lamphear was presented with a huge birthday cake and a gift from the Lions in remembrnnee of the nnniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Furgeson gave a party last Wednesday night at their home in Hayes township, honoring their son, Leonard, who left Thursday for army service. Supper was served to 45 guests, who enjoyed a pleasant social evening.

The ladies of the Murray school district, Hayes township, entertained Tuesday evening of last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Lawson, in celebration of the 19th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Spelgl and a farewell party for Leonard Furgeson, who left Thursday for induction into the army. Gifts were presented to the honored guests.

Mrs. Robert Miles entertained eleven guests Saturday evening in honor of the sixth birthday of her son, Bobby. Following games and lunch, the guests attended the theatre.

MRS. BEN NOWLAND IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Was Visiting in Everett, Wash., When Taken Ill

Mrs. Adele Nowland, 79, died Thursday in a hospital at Everett, Wash., after a week's illness. She had been in poor health for several months.

Early in July Mrs. Nowland left here to visit relatives, and was with her daughter, Mrs. Clara Holmes, at the time of her death.

Catherine Adele Whitford was born in Racine, Wis., October 19, 1862. With her parents, Charles and Clara Whitford, she came to this region at the age of twelve. The family resided in the Undine district, Hayes township. She married Henry Sandrock in 1880, and they lived in Chicago for several years. She returned to Charlevoix in 1896. In 1899 she was married to Ben Nowland. They resided in Marion township and later moved to Charlevoix. Mr. Nowland died in May, 1935.

Mrs. Nowland was a member of the Rebekah lodge and the Women's Relief Corps.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Clara Holmes, of Everett, Wash.; Mrs. Joseph Moore and Mrs. John Zeitler, of Charlevoix; three sons, Charles Sandrock of Cleveland, Ohio, Maurice Nowland of Detroit, and Frank Nowland of Charlevoix; a daughter, Frances, is deceased; a brother, Wallace Whitford of Everett; a sister, Mrs. Villah Driggett of Los Angeles, Calif.; seventeen grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

The body was brought here for funeral services Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the See Funeral Home, Rev. W. L. Cruthers officiating. Interment was at Brookside cemetery.

75TH ANNIVERSARY METHODIST CHURCH

Dinner for Members and Friends Was Held Thursday at Church

Climax of a week's celebration of the 75th anniversary of the First Methodist church of Charlevoix was the anniversary dinner served Thursday evening at the church.

Places were laid for 75 members and friends at tables decorated with fall flowers. Rev. Leigh H. Hagle opened the program which followed dinner. After singing of several old hymns by the group, Mrs. A. C. Belding presented an interesting history of the church.

Two notes whose payment has left the church free of debt were burned by Mrs. Ed Burns and Mrs. William Shapton, two of the oldest members of the church. Rev. Hagle then spoke, reading letters and telegrams from former pastors of the church. Those who sent greetings were Rev. A. F. Naglar, of Evart; Rev H. R. E. Quant, Grand Rapids; Rev. Cecil Pollock, Lyons; Rev. John E. Lockyer, Grand Rapids; Rev. John W. Alexander, Breckenridge.

The program was closed with humorous readings and songs by Earl Shapton and Ralph Nutter.

Chairman of committees for the event were: kitchen, Mrs. M. B. Hooker; dining room, Mrs. Jake White; decorations, Mrs. Fred Trimble.

Rev. William H. Helrigel, superintendent of the Grand Traverso district, spoke at the Sunday morning services which concluded the week's anniversary observance.

Dixie Nurseryman Breeds New Plants

Develops Odd Crosses of Apples, Peaches, Plums.

NEW ORLEANS.—If it's an edible plant, Sigmund Tarnok probably grows a variation of it you've never heard about. If it's a lily, you can omit the "probably."

On a side road out of New Orleans is the Tarnok nursery, where he has developed a grapefruit-sized oranga (juicy, seedless, capable of surviving two degrees below zero), where he's working to add a new vitamin to the tomato and where thrives the Pygmy lily which he created for tiny ponds.

Born in Hungary of nurserymen ancestors for five generations before him, he came to the United States with $25 and got a job in a Baltimore florist shop.

He has since been superintendent of parks at Macon, Ga., and has owned successively three nurseries. The road to his present place is bumpy—purposely left so because Tarnok hasn't time to show visitors around his plant-crammed acres.

It takes about three hours to walk around the nursery and inspect the Tarnok projects—like the new plant with an edible root that tastes like a peanut and looks like a shrimp.

And then there are strange crosses of apples, peaches and plums. But his specialty is lilies, because he bought his present land without looking too closely and later found it an area of ponds full of alligators and water moccasins.

Of the astonishing diversity of lilies he has produced he is especially proud of one that turned out deep red, "the darkest red ever."

He creates a new plant, patents it and turns it over to large-scale nursery operators. They market it and he gets royalties.

KINGSTON, N. Y.—Howard E. Van Winkle, 52, lives in Stone Ridge in the heart of the legendary Catskills.

(Sure, they call him Rip.)—

Van Winkle's ancestors lived for many generations in that area fictionized by Washington Irving.

(Yes, the old settlers say his great-great-grandfather was the original Rip who took the 20-year nap.)

Last night Van Winkle an apple grower, attended a meeting of the Hudson Valley Apple Harvesting committee. Price stabilization was discussed; then Theodore Oxholm, chairman, called for Rip's opinion.

But there was no answer.

(You guessed it—Rip was sound asleep.)

Street Car Is Chartered To Celebrate Birthday

ST. PAUL.—To celebrate their birthdays, Jean Miller and John Hastings hired a street car.

Miss Miller, 18, and Hastings, 17, invited 22 young people to their party aboard the car, which traveled along downtown streets for three hours.

Several amateur musicians and a phonograph supplied music for dancing. Refreshments were served on card tables. Everybody had a good time, including startled pedestrians who watched the car move slowly through the business district.

The rental fee for the street car was $10.

Fathers and Daughters Learn to Fly Together

RACINE, WIS.—Like father, like daughter, is the paraphrase at Horlick-Racine airport these days, with flying no longer a man's game.

Gordon Guilbert, Racine manufacturer, who was state golf champion in 1921, turned to flying as a sport after the airport opened, and his daughters, Patricia, 16, and Jeanne, 18, made it a family affair.

Felder Sommers, manufacturer, has been flying for years. Is a licensed pilot, and owns his own plane. His daughter Monnie began her flying career about the same time as the Guilbert family.

Wish Prompts Removal Of Tree 50 Years Old

SACRAMENTO, CALIF.—Robert Allen planted a camellia tree in the yard of his home here 50 years ago, expressing the wish that the tree remain with the family wherever they lived.

When the property was sold recently, Mrs. M. L. Drennan, Allen's daughter, arranged for moving the tree to her new home at Stockton.

During the intervening half century the tree had grown so large it required a special derrick and a box 10 by 12 feet to move it.

Girl Escapes Nazi Police in Tiny Boat

LONDON. — An 18-year-old French girl who took to the sea with three men in a tiny motorboat to escape from the German secret police arrived here recently from Africa to aid Gen. Charles De Gaulle's fight against the Germans. Her name was kept secret because her family is still in occupied France.

elections, community AAA committees were elected. Resulting from the new ruling that farm women can now vote in AAA elections and likewise hold office, Mrs. Frances Skornia was elected as an AAA community committeewoman in Bay township, and Mrs. Maud Wessels was elected to the same office in the Evangeline, Melrose community. The election of farm women to serve on these committees is one step forward toward the important part they will play in the "Food for Freedom" drive, for with our man-power in the armed services, women will be called upon to take their place in agriculture as well as industry.

The following community committees were elected in the county: Bay township: chairman, Carl Prnhaska; vice-chairman, Albert Bathke; third member, Mrs. Frances Skornia; alternates, Tom Willis and Toni Leist. Boyne Valley, Chandler, and Hudson townships: chairman, Henry Korthase; vice-chairman, Bert Woodward; third member, Harry DeNise; alternates, Carl Clark and Louis MaGee. Hayes township: chairman, Alfred Allison; vice-chairman, William Price; third member, Jas. O'Brien; alternates, Peter Winnick and Clifford Struthers. Marion and Norwood townships: chairman, Edwin A. Gregory; vice-chairman, William Parsons; third member, Cleyton Smith; alternates, Archie Brown and LaVern McGhan. Wilson township: chairman, Ralph Lenosky; vice-chairman, Luther Brintnall; third member, LeRoy Hurdy; alternates, William Guznlczak and Harry Fall.

Evelino township: chairman, George C. Ferris; vice-chairman, Joe Leu; third member, Mark Saunders; alternates, Walter Kemp and Herman Kamradt. Evangeline and Melrose townships: chairman, Melvin J. Somerville; vice-chairman, Frank Carlson; third member, Mrs. Maud Wessels; alternates, James Hnhaskn and Robert Tainter. South Arm township: chairman, Lawrence Addis; vice-chairman, Theodore LaCroix; third member, Ira Lee; alternates, William Boss and Delbert Ingalls. Beaver Island: chelrman, William Schmidt; vice-chairman, George Ricksgers; third member, Frank D. O'Donnell; alternates, James W. Gallagher and Lawrence McDonough.

LOCAL MAN HAS NARROW ESCAPE

SHERLAND PIXLEY WAS REPORTED MISSING

Reached Safety After Two-Week Hike In New Guinea Jungle After Japs Shoot Bomber Down

Pvt. Sherland Pixley, of Charlevoix, was one of four crew members of an American bomber shot down within three miles of a Japunese airdrome in New Guinea, who Sunday were learned to have reached safety ufter n two-week jungle hike which wore out their shoes and took 10 pounds off each man.

Pixley is the son of Mrs. Joha A. Johnson, who resides on the old Bartholomew farm, Rt. 3. His comjunions in the plane were 1st Lt. Gilbert Erb, of Chicago, pilot, 2nd Lt. John Twilley, of Shreveport, La., navigator, snd Sgt. Richurd Tennant, of Farmington, W. Va.

Their bomber was in a squadron blasting grounded Jnpanese Zero fighters September 12 nt Bunn, Japanese invasion bnse on the northeast coast of New Guinea. A burst of anti-alrcraft lire set a fuel tank nfire, forcing Pixley and Tennant to make parnchute jumps, while Erh and Twilley stayed with the plane nntil it crash-lunded in the ocean, to sink almost immediately. Pixley, making his first purachute jump, came down within a mile of the airdrome while the plane landed three miles away.

For the first few duys of hiding in the jungle, watching the Japanese patrols working constantly through their territory, they had to go without food because they had salvaged none from the plane. They finnily reached on allied outpost afoot and got help on their trip back to Austrulin.

Thnt her son wns safe aftor his thrilling experience was welcome news to Mrs. Johnson, who had been notified by telegram lust week that he was missing in action in the southwest Pacific nrea. Radio broadcasts Sunduy night, and Monday's newspapers related the exciting tale.

Pixley uttended school here two years and graduated from Boyne City high school. Following his enlistment in the army air corps in July, 1940, he received trninng ns a ground mechnnic at Chanute Field, Ill.

FOURTEEN MEN PASS EXAMINATION FRIDAY

Report October 10 for Transfer to Fort Custer

Fourteen men passing physical examinations uud inducted into the army at Knlamazoo September 25, have been ordered to report st the city hall at 3 p. m. Saturdsy, October 10, for transfer to Fort Custer at the expiration of their two weeks' furlough.

PLAN AIRCRAFT DETECTOR CORPS

SPOTTING STATION WILL BE LOCATED HERE

Police Chief Clarence Heise, Aiding U. S. Army Effort, Seeking Volunteers

Preliminnry steps towurds establishment of n U. S. army nirecraft detector statlon in Charlevoix were taken nt a meeting at the court house last Thursduy evening.

County defense and police officials heard the plan outlined and necessity for such precautionury meusure explained by Major Montgomery C. Barnes, northern Michigan urea controller.

Under the plan now heing worked out for all of northern Michigan, spatting stations, manned by volunteers on a 24-hour lasis, will be located every 8 1-2 miles. Stations will be established at Charlevoix, Boyne City and Enst Jordan.

Police Chief Clsrence Heise has assumed the duties of chief observer for this city and is lending the urmy his cooperution in recruiting the needed volunteers to man the statien. Tentative plans cnll for three 8-hour shifts at night, four 4-hour shifts during the day. Two persons will be required for each shift.

Women, high school students and men who desire to be of service will bo recruited.

Locution of the station in Chnrlevoix is yet undecided, Police Chief Heise states. Cities where stntions are located will be obligated to finance cost of constructing and heating.

Telephones will be instnlled in each.

Primary reason for establishment of aircraft detecting stations in Michigan is protection of this state's highly important urmument production and the Soo locks, which nre termed one of the most vital defense points in the world. It is believed any bombing attack on the United States would be centered on these arens nnd the army is acting to forestall any surprise attack such as the Penrl Harbor incident.

Those willing to volunteer their services mny contnct Police Chief Heise at once.

APPEAL FOR MORE SCRAP METAL NOW

WANT SCRAP PILES READY BEFORE SNOW FLIES

Nation's War Effort Is at Stake! CSO Will Continue Receiving Depot in Charlevoix

Newspapers of Americn have been nppealed to by Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the War Production Board, to save a critical situation in the war effort.

Scrap metal which is essential for the production of steel, has fallen down nnd tho newspapers hnve been nsked to help solve this number one problem of the nation.

This paper has already taken part in the untional scrap cnmpaign. Last month the Courier carried three large advertisements urging the collection of scrnp metal. Two of these were ordered by the War Production Board, nnd tho other was sponsored locally by the Charlevoix Service Organization. The appeal brought good results. Novertheless, there nre many, many tons of scrap still lying around homes, places of business and farm in Charlevoix county, which may be of little value to you and of untold worth in the war effort.

The national appeal now, and it is urgent in this section, is thnt every bit of scrap metal including iron, tin, copper, aluminum, etc., and all scrap rubber he gatbered before the ground is covered with snow.

We Americans must unite in this drive NOW. Get your scrap together, and the newspapers will do their utmost to keep you informed on how to dispose of it. In this manner we will assist in trying to preserve our freedom and yours.

GAS RATIONING BY NOVEMBER 22

HENDERSON PROPOSES TIRE-SAVING PLAN

Tires to be Inspected Every 60 Days, Speeds Limited to 35 Miles Hour, Federal Edict

Price Admlnistrstor Leon Henderson announced Ssturdny thnt nation-wide rationing of gasoline will begin about November 22 and that the nation's 27,000,000 motorists thereafter will be required to submit their tires for federal inspection every 60 days. Simultaneously, Joseph B. Eastman, defense trnnsportation chief, ordered speeds of all rubber-tired vehicles in the United States limited to 35 miles an hour.

Designed to save tires now wearing out eight times fuster than they can be replaced, the rationing plnn will follow the one now in effect in 17 eastern stntes. Rationing is expected to reduco the use of privnte passenger cars an avernge of almost 60 per cent from normnl.

Owners of cars in the present unrntioned nrea will be required to register and will receive n basic gasoline ration for their cars to nllow 2,880 miles of trnvel per year based on gasoline consumption of 15 miles to the gnllon. Additional mileage up to 470 miles a month may be obtained by the motorist who can show that his original nllotment is insufficient to meet occupationnl needs; who skows either that he has formed a car-sharing club to keep his car filled to capacity while in use, or that there is no other means of transportation available to him.

A "preferred mileage" category will be established for 14 types of occupations deemed essential to the war effort nnd to the public health and safety. These rations will be tailored to meet the proven need, without a specific ceiling on mileage.

SUB SURVIVORS BELIEVED SAFE

BEN GILL MAY BE PRISONER IN JAPANESE CAMP

'All Rescued' Says Plainfield, N. J. Man in Message Broadcast from Japan to San Francisco

Hopes for the safety of Ben Gill, reported lost last April with the submarine Perch, were raised Tuesday by receipt of a clipping from a Plninfield, N. J., newspaper which reported n message from a survivor of the craft.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gill received the clipping from Mr. Gill's sister-in-law in Sheboygan, Wis., who had obtnined it from a relative in Plninfield.

We quote the clipping:

"Lt. (j. g.) Jacob J. Vandergrift, Jr., 25, son of Mrs. Mnrjorie Holmes-Vandergrift, listed as missing in action April 13, is believed safo in a Japanese prison camp. A Japanese broadcast picked up in San Francisco and carrying messages from the prisoners of war included tho following:

"'Mrs. Marjorie Holmes-Vandergrift, 829 2nd Place, Plainfield, N. J.: Mom, we were all rescued and mado prisoners of war March 3. I am in good heaith and not wounded. Address letters to Zentsuji Prison Camp, Japan, via International Red Cross, Geneva, Switzerland. Love from son.'

Mrs. Vandergrift has already written to her son in an attempt to verify tho broadcast, which was heard by an international news gathering agency. Lt. Vandergrift was reported missing after the U. S. Navy listed the U. S. S. Perch, a submarine, as overduo and presumably lost in action."

DUCK HUNTERS CONTACT COAST GUARD

Should Obtain Information Regarding Restricted Areas

Duck hunters planning to hunt on Great Lakes waters from boats are being strongly urged by conservation officers to consult with U. S. coast guard officiuls to determine their need for personal identification cards or of licenses and numbers for bouts of certain sizes and equipment.

Obtaining the proper credentials often takes considerable time, the officers say. Hunters may avoid delay during the season by acquainting themselves with the details of wartime regulations for navigable waters and restricted defense areas at the nearest cosst guard station, well in advance of planned trips.

SCHOOL PUPILS IN SCRAP DRIVE

JOIN NATION'S JUNIOR ARMY TO AID CAMPAIGN

Will Scour Charlevoix for Old Metal to Aid War Effort; Officers Are Named

Tho boys and girls of Charlevoix and Charlevoix county are purt of a Nationul Juntor Army which on October 5 will begin a grent attnck.

The attack is agninst the worst enemy within our borders today. This enemy could stop our factories from making guns and ships and tanks nnd planes. This enemy could prevent those weapons from being made by preventing manufacture of the steel out of which parts of those weapons nre made.

This enemy is starvation of the steel mills.

But the school pupils of our nation, organized in n great Junior Army, are going to feed the mills. They are going to find and bring together the things out of which tnnks nnd ships nre made—things like rusty pipe, broken bed springs, air guns that won't shoot any more.

Around Chnrlevoix and Charlevoix county that is junk, scrap. But nfter it has gone through the mills it is bombs for the Nnzis and bullets for the Jnps.

Commanding Generul of the Michigan division of the Jnnior Army of school boys and girls is State Superintendent of Public Instruction Eugene B. Elliott. The regiment in Charlevoix is headed by Supt. O. P. North.

Each school principnl is Major in the Junior Army. Under each major come the captains, the teachers. School boys nnd girls of each school room will be lieutennnts, sergennts, corpornls and privates of the Junior Army. Those who do well will be promoted, just like real soldiers in the fighting army.

CHARLEVOIX WINS OPENING CONTEST

DEFEATED MANCELONA BY 13 TO 6 COUNT SATURDAY

Carey and Swanson Outstanding In Initial Contest; Meet Strong Boyne City Team Next

Coach Ray Kipke's Charlevoix Red Rayders defeated Mancelona by a 13 to 6 count in the opening contest of their 1942 schedule ut Mancelona, Saturday.

While Charlevoix out-gained the Antrim county team consistently, errors were costly and upset numerous scoring opportunities. Don Carey and John Swanson were the spark-plugs of the Rayder attack. Carey's end runs gained consiberable ground, while Swnnson's work on offense, and particularly defenso, wns outstanding.

The first period was scoreless with Charlevoix on Mancelona'a 5-yard line us the whistle sounded. The Rayders advanced to Mancelona's 1-yard strip as the second quarter got under way, but the scoring opportunity was lost when Rowe fumbled over the goal, giving Mancelonu a touch-back nnd the ball on their 20-yard line. Charlevoix scored near the close of the period, however. With the pigskin on Charlevoix's 30-yard line, Carey advanced to Mancelona's 12 in two plays nnd passed over the goal to Rowe on the third. The try for extrn point was blocked.

Mancelonu evened the count in the third stanza, scoring on three plays after Rowe fumbled on his 1-yard line. A like buck for extra point failed and the scorc stood 6-6.

Early in the final quarter, Carey swept the end for an udvnnce from his 50-yard line to Mancelona's 25. Swanson advanced 10 yards and Carey went around end to score, und then passed to Rowe for the extra point and n 13 to 6 lead. Neither team scored during remainder of the contest.

The Rayders meet whnt likely will be their toughest opposition next Saturday when they tackle Boyne City's power house on Bayne's field. Boyne hus tucked nway two victories so far this season, defeating the class B Cheboygan nnd Petoskey teams by decisive margins.

MRS. ROY KELLOGG, DIES IN PETOSKEY

Was Resident of That City for Thirty Years

Mrs. Roy Kellogg, a former resident of Charlevoix, died nt her home in Petoskey last Friday evening following several years of fniling health. Funeral services were held Sunduy afternoon nt 2:30 from the Stone Funeral Home in Petoskey, with Rev. H. A. Baines and Rev. L. J. Nevins in charge. Interment wns at Brookside cemetery in this city.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By KEN USHER

Each flea firmly believes that he lives on the most wonderful dog in the world. That's patriotism.

Duck wenther, but no ducks—that's the verdict of all local nimrods for the opening week end of the season. Nono of the fellows, due, no doubt, tu a desire to "baby" the tires they have left, went to the favored marshes to the north and there definitely is no flight yet along Lake Michigan. Reports of off-color hunting were state-wide, however, so maybe it was just as well the local enthusiasts stayed ut home.

And speaking abont the weather reminds me that Sunday was the first time in my existence I've seen the ground covered with snow in September. After raining some part of thirteen out of fourteen consecutive days, the Weather Man topped the two-week perlod off with a fine display of winter. Up along the Jordan river where Nick and I were working our bird dogs, there was two inches of snow on the ground. It was indeed a strange sight to sco abundant green foliage covered with snow.

Fishing activity has resumed after being stopped almost completely by the two weeks of bad weather. Don Clothier picked up a couple steelhead Tuesday morning off tho Luke Charlevoix channel. Noticed Sam Halverson's boat anchored in the center of Round lake all Tuesday morning, so must he the perch are coming in.

From our boys in Australia comes the story of the mother kangaroo which, after pausing several times to scratch her stomach, yanked two baby kangaroos from her pouch and thrashed them soundly for eating crackers in bed.

If our local deer hunting enthusiasts appear a little gayer than they have been for some time, it's no doubt due to current announcements that gas rationing won't be started until the deer season gets pretty well under way, at least.

NATIONAL NEWSPAPER WEEK TO BE OCT. 1-8

Governor Murray D. Van Wagoner Proclaims Observance

Governor Van Wagoner has proclaimed the week of October 1-8 as National Newspaper Week in Michigan.

"America's 'secret' weapon in this all-out fight against dictatorship is its free press," the governor said. "Without freedom of the press, institutions of Democracy would perish. Thomas Jefferson suld, 'our liberty depends upon freedom of the press and that cannot be limited without being lost.' Such is the guardianship of the newspapers of the United Stntes."

"Newspapers of Michigan constitute a vigilnnt army on our home front. In bringing to the people the facts of the war and the natlun's many pressing problems, they ure contributing to an enlightened und determined public opion."

SERVICE MEN MUST WRITE FOR BALLOTS

County Clerk Will Furnish Ballots Upoo Writteo Request

Soldiers wanting to vote for governor and other state candidutes in the November election can do so only if they write to their county clerk for absentee voter ballots, Deputy Attorney General James E. Shepherd has announced.

Shepherd pointed out that the wnr ballot act passed by Congress would allow soldiers to vute only for congressional nnd senatorial candidates. To get a war ballot, an application has to be sent to the soldier by the secretary of state, returned by the soldier, nnd then n ballot is mniled to him. The ballot is then sent back to the secretary of state, who sends it to the county clerk, who sends it to the local board of canvassers.

Shepherd said the absentee voter ballot was much more practical. However, regardless of which ballot a soldier requests, the secretary of state is required to print 17 ballots, one for each congressional district in the state, to be used as war ballots, or suffer a federal penalty.

Fire Thursday Afternoon

The fire department was called Thursday afternoon to the residence of Mrs. G. W. King on Mason street to extinguish a fire in the rear portion of the house. The blaze was believed to have been caused from a defective stovepipe which extended through the wnll connecting kitchen and bathroom. Damage was confined to these two rooms, although much of the interior of the house was badly smoked.

According to the National Tuberculosis Association, the number of active cases of tuberculosis in the United States is estimated to be about 500,000.

UPPER PENINSULA HUNTING IS OPEN

Thursday, October 1, Marked Beginning Upland Game Season

The 20-day Michigan upland game bird shooting season opened in the upper peninsula today with the partridge supply plentiful but with foliage so heavy and undergrowth so thick as to make hunting real he-mnn work in many areas.

While conservation officers found plenty of ruffed grouse throughout the peninsula—though in some districts still in heavy cover because of the wet weather—they report only a fair supply of sharptailed gruuse in the extreme western end of the peninsula, a nurmal number north of Escanaba, good shooting prospects near Republic, Gwinn, Gibbs City, Crystal Falls, Sagola and Ralph, while in the eastern end of the peninsula the sharptails' range has been noticeably extended. Scattered flocks of prairie chickens are reported near Chassell, and the supply of these birds is rated normal northwest of Escanaba.

Rabbits also are said to be plentiful, but they are likely to get little attention until the bird season wanes. Heavy rains have left many secondary nnd woods roads in poor condition.

Upland game bird shootiag in lower Michigan does not begin until October 15.

AT THE MOVIES

"About Face"

Doaning the uniform of Uncle Sam's nrmy is no new experience to young William Tracy. With his role as Sergeant Doubledny, in the newest Hnl Roach service comedy, "About Face," coming Oct. 3-4 to the Palnce Theatre, Tracy steps into khaki for the fifth consecutive picture. Featured in addition to Tracy are Joe Sawyer, Jean Porter, Marjorie Lord, Mnrgaret Dumont and Veda Ann Borg.

"Yokel Boy"

An avalanche of sure-fire entertainment, offering tops in both hilarity and tunefulness, is the Palnce Theatre attraction "Yokel Boy," which opens Oct. 3 in the first of a 2-day run. In the cast are Albert Dekker, Joan Davis, Eddie Foy, Alan Mowbray, Lynne Carver and Mikhail Rasumny.

"Joan of Ozark"

The new Republic comedy hit, "Joan of Ozark," which opens at the Palnce Theatre on Oct. 8, starring Judy Canova and Joe E. Brown, is one of the best farces on the Nazi regime that has come out of Hollywood to date. Joe E. Brown masquerades as Herr Hitler is a number of the scenes, which will provide laughs for nll theatre-going audiences. Other feature players are Eddie Foy, Jr., Anne Jeffreys, Jerome Cowan, Alexander Granach.

August Peak Bounty Month

In August, the first of the four peak bounty months of the year, eight wolves, 203 coyotes and 19 bobcats were bountied at a cost to the state conservation department of $3,805. All the animals except 28 of the coyotes were taken in the upper peninsula.

Leelanaus county, Michigan, gets its name from the Ojibway Indian word meaning "The Delight of Life." It is famous for its fine resorts and beautiful scenery.

ASK CITIZENS CUT MEAT CONSUMPTION

Voluntary Ration of 2½ Pounds a Week Is Requested

The food requirements committee of the war production board has announced an average cut of 21 per cent in deliveries of meat for civilian consumption for the last three months of this year and appealed to civilians immediately to hold consumption of meat at 2 1-2 pounds per person per week until rutioning starts.

The WPB committee, through its chairman Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard, said limitation orders on restricted civilian meat deliveries by packers would be drafted nnd issued by the office of price administration within a few days.

Pending ment rationing, which the committee has recommended be put into effect as soon as possible, Wickard announced these two steps implementing the wnrtime meat program established earlier this munth:

"To make certain of sufficient meat for the army, navy and lendlense uses, the committee set up a policy of limiting total packer deliveries of meat into civilian consumption, nnd placed the limit for such deliveries during the final quarter of 1942 at the following percentages of total packer-deliveries during the final quarter of 1941—beef and veal, 80 per cent; lamb and mutton, 95 per cent; pork, 75 per cent.

"To provide for fair sharing of this meat supply, the committee asked civilians voluntarily to hold consumption at 2 1-2 pounds per person per week."

The GHOST PLANE by ARTHUR STRINGER

CHAPTER XVIII

"Why do you say that's Karnell?" Slade asked as he strode on at Minty's side.

"It's Karnell all right," averred Minty. "Zeke told me that when he sidled back for a handful o' shells."

"Good," said Slade. "I want to meet up with Karnell."

"Make sure it ain't an unexpected mastin'," Minty warned him.

"I've got my eye pacled," said Slade. He stopped short and blinked across the ridge-crests. "What's more, I think that's our friend Zeke crawling along that bogback."

Minty stared in the direction the other pointed.

"That's Zeke all right," he admitted.

"He sees us," cried Minty as he rounded a sheltering rock. "But this is enemy territory, son, and we'd best keep under what cover we can find."

Yet Slade, he soon saw, was making no effort to keep under cover. The tawny-headed bush pilot was advancing down the slope that led to the matted bogland veined with open water. For far out on that soggy tundra, plunging along from tussock to tussock, was a heavy-shouldered man with a rifle in his hands.

"That's Karnell," cried Slade. "Don't let him get away."

Minty promptly dropped on one knee and took a pot shot at the fugitive.

But Karnell ducked in time to hear a bullet whine over his head. Then he clamberad up on an island fringed with shrub-willow and faced his pursuers. Both Slade and Minty, when they saw the leveled rifle, flung themselves flat on the wet soil. They lay without moving, until the gunshot echo died away.

Karnell, looking into his rifle chamber, saw that his last shell had been fired. His shout, however, was one of defiance as he turned and leaped from his willow-fringed island to a runway of broken sedge-tufts leading deeper into the muskeg.

He shouted again, hoarsely, as he went panting onward from sedge-tuft to sedge-tuft.

He looked for islets with a showing of clump-willow, for in those root-bound spaces he knew he could always find the promise of support. Across two of these he leaped. Then in his haste he sprang for an island of wire grass. It was a sizable-looking island and to the eye it had an aspect of solidity. But instead of being an island it was merely a floating raft of tangled vegetation, a tissue of fiber-bound peat that parted and sank under his weight.

It went down slowly. But as it went it left nothing ponderable for the groping long arms to catch at. The churning water rose to the wide shoulders. It rose to the screaming throat. Then it closed over the back-flung head and a few bubbles appeared between the tatters of fiber-bound peat that floated on the water.

Slade, clinging to a willow-clump, saw the stirred-up water grow quiet again.

"Let's get back," he said. "I've still got Tumstead to deal with."

Then he stopped short, arrested by the familiar drone of a distant plane.

He watched the plane as it passed overhead.

"That's the Padre," he said as Minty came up with him.

The old sourdough blinked after the passing wings that dipped and circled for a landing and then were lost to sight.

"I thought mebbe she was that ghost plane there's so much talk about."

Slade's laugh was harsh.

"There'll be less talk about ghost planes," he proclaimed, "when I get my hands on Tumstead."

Slade held out a warning hand as he came to the crest of the ridge. For above the scrub that furred the valley slope before him he detected a wisp of smoke.

"What's worryin' you, son?" demanded Minty as he leaned on his rifle.

Slade, instead of answering, moved forward until he had a better view of the valley bottom. There, in a rock bowl beside a purling stream, he saw a campfire. Squatting over it was a ragged figure, holding a skillet with a stick tied to its handle.

"Why, it's Zeke," gasped Minty.

Zeke, startled by their advance, scrambled for his rifle. But the poised barrel slowly lowered as he identified the intruders.

Slade felt a wave of weakness go through his body. He realized, as he subsided beside the fire where the tea pail bubbled, that he was very tired.

"Why, Lindy, you look all in," cried Zeke, conscious of that sudden slump.

Slade stiffened his shoulders. But it took an effort.

"I'm all right," he protested. "Where's Frayne?"

"We'll go into that," said Zeke, "after I've bucked you up with a swallow o' hot tea and some sowbelly."

"Where's Frayne?" repeated Slade.

Zeke, busy over his fire, caught the determination in the other's query.

"That's what I'd give an arm to know," he admitted. "There ain't been a pop out o' him for two hours now. But how about that orang-utan mate o' his?"

Zeke showed no emotion when told of Karnell's end. He merely directed a reproving eye at his shaky partner. You should've got that buzzard on the wing."

Slade found his boiled tea strong and bitter. But it washed away his weariness.

"How about the other man, Tumstead?"

Zeke blinked about at the encircling spruce ridges.

"That bird seems to be hidin' out on us, same as his boss."

Slade was on his feet again.

"I've got to save that Lockheed," he said as he reached for Minty's rifle.

"What's a Lockheed?" queried Zeke.

"Our stolen plane. The plane they've been ferrying that pitchblende out with."

Zeke reached for the battered tea pail and drank from it. Then he wiped his mouth and essayed a head-jerk toward the west.

"She's there," he announced. "And she'll stay there."

"What does that mean?" questioned the startled Slade.

"It means I snaked through the scrub and climbed aboard her. And bein' there, jus' to make sure o' things, I twisted her fuel-line out."

"You what?" barked Slade.

"I jus' anchored her where she lay," answered Zeke, "by tearin' out her feed-pipe. I emptied her tank, son. And I ain't got that smell o' gasoline out of my pants yet."

"And you didn't see Frayne?"

"Not hide nor hair o' him."

Slade stood thoughtful a moment.

"Then what's he up to? He can't get out of this territory without a plane. Yet he can't use that Lockheed. And he can't skulk back in these hills for long. We've got to know where he is."

It was Zeke who spoke next.

"That's what your Flyin' Padre says. He and his girl's busy on their two-way radio over there at the lakeside, tryin' to call Edmonton and Churchill and Mounties headquarters at Coppermine. Said he reckoned it was about time for the air patrol to edge in on this."

"We can't wait for that," announced Slade. "And if I know Frayne he won't wait for it."

A happy thought lightened Minty's seamed old face.

"How're you t' know he ain't lyin' out there with a bullet hole through his head? He was sniped at considerable, by Zeke and me, even if our eyes ain't what they used to be."

"That would still leave Tumstead," said Slade. "I'm going to get my plane and scout over these ridges."

Zeke proceeded to mix a fresh portion of flapjack batter.

"Well, I hope you found 'em up pronto," he announced. "For grub's gittin' low with us two, Lindy, and I've a hankerin' to amble back to that Knsakana shack of ours and know a considerable spell o' peace and quietness."

Slade made no response to that. He merely swung Minty's rifle over his shoulder and started up the slope that stretched between him and the lake where his plane rested. His glance at the sun told him the long northern afternoon would soon be merging into its equally long evening. And there were things to be done before the brief hours of subarctic darkness set in.

It was on the crest of the second ridge that he caught sight of Lynn. She hesitated, apparently bewildered as to what course to take. But, once she heard Slade's shout, she quickened her steps and came panting up the slope.

"What is it?" he asked, arrested by the alarm on her face.

"It's Tumstead," she said. "He came to Father, just now, with a white rag on the end of a stick. He said he was ready to give up. Frayne, he claimed, was lying wounded over the hill and had to have help."

Slade's face darkened.

"Did your father believe that liar?"

"He said he had to," was Lynn's panted reply. "He's gone out to Frayne. He said he couldn't let a man die without help."

"I don't like the look of this," said Slade. "Where is Tumstead now?"

"He pretended to go back with Father. But something tells me he didn't."

"Where's your plane?" Slade promptly questioned.

"At the lakeside there," said Lynn, leading him to slightly higher ground and pointing to the expanse of blue water that could be seen through the spruce tops. "We'd been working on our radio. Father'd been having trouble in sending and found a transmitter fuse had crystallized and had to be replaced. I was back in the cabin, testing out the set, when Tumstead came down the bank and talked to Father."

Slade peered through the trees, to a lower arm of the lake. The tension went from his face when he saw the Snow-Ball Baby still moored there.

"Let's go," he proclaimed.

"Go where?" asked Lynn.

"Back to your ship," answered Slade, "or to mine. I've got some quick scouting to do around this neighborhood."

"Alan, you can't fly," she told him. "You mustn't."

Slade, looking down at her, smiled at the determination in her face.

"I've got to fly," he announced. "That's my business."

He was moving on along the ridge crest toward the lake, disregarding the restraining hand she linked in his arm.

"But you're as foolish as Father," she maintained. "You're in no condition to fly. You're tired and worn out. You've got to have proper food and sleep before you're fit for taking chances like this."

The tremor in her voice brought him to a stop. He stood looking down at her again, but this time he looked down at her as though he were seeing her after long absence. Through his dull fog of fatigue and anxiety the loveliness of her face came slowly home to him.

"I'm used to taking chances," he said, with a little of the earlier ring of iron gone from his voice.

"Then I'll take them with you," she announced. "If you go up, I go too."

His thin face softened with a smile.

"Am I worth it?" he asked, conscious of how little room for kindliness life had been leaving them.

"You are to me," she said with the forlorn and final candor that walks hand in hand with desperation. She even moved a little closer to him. "I love you."

He forgot hunger and weariness as he took her in his arms and held her close.

"I have to be worth it," he told her as he smoothed back her hair. Then his laugh was brief and bitter. "They haven't left us much room for this sort of thing, have they?"

"We must make room," she protested, clinging to him. But as he lifted his head she could see the hardening light in the Viking blue eyes.

"Let's go," he said for the second time.

LOCAL DRUG STORE TO HANDLE LINE OF VETERINARY MEDICINE

Schroeder & Hovey, local druggists, announce a new valuable service to farmers and stockmen of this county. This store, for the first time, has established a department for the sale of veterinary biologicals and pharmaceuticals made by the highly regarded Lederle Laboratories.

Never before has it been so important for farmers and stockmen to guard the health of their valuable animals, it is pointed out. The immunization of horses, cattle, swine, sheep, fowl, small animals, against disease costs but a trifle when compared with possible heavy losses of these animals thru easily preventable infections.

In the development of animal vaccines, serums, etc., Lederle Laboratories is noted for its distinguished pioneering. Lederle perfected the first refined, hog cholera serum, first introduced into this country an effective rabies prophylactic, developed Anthrax Spore Vaccine (Carbozoo), was first to obtain government permission to produce an effective swine erysipelas serum, and, comparatively recently, perfected Equine Encephalomyelitis (Chick-Embryo Method) which stopped the nationwide epizootic of sleeping sickness among horses in 1938.

Residents of Charlevoix were somewhat alarmed and puzzled last Friday and again Saturday when the new fire siren on the court house sounded its banshee note. This performance will be repeated each day at twelve noon for a week or so until the fire department is assured it will work in good shape. The new whistle was purchased from a fund raised by firemen through dances and entertainments. It is not yet decided whether or not the use of the bell will be discontinued, but it will probably only be used when the siren is disabled.

The Telephone Minutes YOU SAVE Help War Production!

To get things done for war, a constant flow of telephone messages is necessary. Many lines are more crowded with war calls than ever before.

Perhaps your own telephone line never carries war messages. But every call you make passes through a central office switchboard, and the capacity of that switchboard is limited to just so many calls at a time. That's why your care in avoiding long telephone conversations is an important aid in maintaining fast, efficient service for war. When you save minutes, you clear the wires for war calls.

Because of material shortages, we can't install enough additional equipment to meet all of today's demands, as we would do in normal times. So we must make the most efficient use of the facilities we have—with the help of every telephone user.

THREE WAYS YOU CAN HELP

1. Keep all your telephone calls as brief as you can.
2. Make only the most essential Long Distance calls.
3. When possible, give the number of the distant telephone you are calling.

Before you make any call, plan your conversation to save minutes. Keep paper and pencil at hand, so you won't have to leave the telephone. And please don't call information for numbers that are listed in the directory. Remember—WAR CALLS MUST GO THROUGH!

Turn in your scrap—Uncle Sam needs it now!

They figure that if they're able to get up into the woods, they'll find a way to get back—and that's a lot better than some had previously anticipnted.

October I to 8 is being observed as National Newspaper Week. In this nation 1,500 daily and 4,000 weekly newspapers are joining in the observance—one aimed to impress upon their millions of readers the true significance of one of our greatest American heritages—freedom of the press. There was a time when we knew of this freedom more or less as theory. But today, with the press of foreign nations robbed of freedom and used for inere propaganda purposes, we see this privilege as a fact. It is the hope of this writer that you readers, too, are apprehensive of this privilege of a democratic people and that if the occasion ever arises to defend it you will do so with typical American thoroughness.

Why, do you suppose, the Almighty made a night to follow duy if it wasn't to give every poor human heing a chance to forget what had happened during the day, and start ugain fresh and clean.

There are two kinds of political talks many of us dislike—those made on a street corner, and those made in an auditorium.

War's grimness was brought close to home last week end when a fleet of invasion barges made port to escape heavy weather. Three lunded here and it is understood the two which joined them Friday had found shelter in Grand Traverse Bay. Casual observance would lead one to the opinion that while these flat-bottom barges may be alright for the purpose they are intended, they'd give a fellow a mighty rough ride during a Lake Michigan storm.

Most of us will soon be able to carry the inventory of our personal possessions in our head.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Order Making Restriction Effective Sept. 29 is Received

Fenton R. Bulow, chairman of the county war price und rationing board, has announced receipt of instructions for rationing of rubber boots and rubber work shoes beginning at mid-night September 29th.

A "freezing" order went into effect at that time, stopping all sale of rubber footwear to be rationed for a 5-day period during which dealers are required to file an inventory report with the rationing board. After the 5-day period types to be sold to persons issued rationing certificates include below knee helght heavy boots, same type light boots, pacs and bootees 10 inches or higher, above knee height storm boots, hip height boots and work shoes.

The following kinds of rubber footwear are not rationed: rubber boots and work shoes smaller than size six, lumbermen's overs, men's arctics, gaiters, work und dress rubbers, women's and children's boots, rubber work shoes, arctics, gaiters and rubbers.

Application includes two copies of Form R-603. Both copies must be filled out and returned to the ration board.

The retail dealer will he responsible for the turn-in of worn-out ruhber footwear by person given a rationing certificate. The person to whom these are turned in must sign Part 2 of the certificate which the persons keep for six months, as their proof of turn-in.

WHYTE-KIRBY WEDDING WAS EVENT OF SUNDAY AT DETROIT

Miss Margaret Whyte, daughter of Mr. nnd Mrs. Charles Whyte, of Detroit, became the bride of Robt. Winfield Kirby in a ceremony performed at the Redford Presbyterian church at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, September 27. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harker Kirby, of Mackinaw City, former Charlevoix residents.

Miss Betty Carey, of Detroit, was bridesmaid. The groom's brother, Ty Kirby, also of Detroit, served as best man. Keith Carey, of this city, and Lewis Fredericks, of Midland, were ushers.

Traditional music was played on the pipe organ, while a soloist sang "Because" preceding the ceremony and the Lord's Prayer after the vows were spoken.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a soldier blue velvet suit with delicate pink blouse, hat and veil. Her corsage of orchids was a matching pink. Miss Carey wore a velvet suit of deep red, with black accessories nnd corsage of pinks.

A reception for a large number of guests was given at the home of the bride's parents. The couple left that evening for Boston, Mass., where Mr. Kirby is employed in government service.

Mr. Kirby is a graduate of Charlevoix high school and Alma College.

Attending the wedding from out of town were the groom's parents and Mrs. Leo Carey and son, Keith of Charlevoix.

A fighting army uses maps and scouts every foot of ground. Members of the Junior Army will scout the same way for the pieces of junk. From map plans, each will be given a place to scout. So the Junior Army will scout all of America, each street and road, each city block and country farm, finding junk.

For, so long as the junk lies ungathered, it is pnrt of the starvation enemy of our steel mills, our war factories, and our fighting men. The boys and girls of Chnrlevoix and Chnrlevoix county are going to fiad and tnke prisoner all of that enemy in this part of our nation.

PETOSKEY, MICHIGAN

From where I sit . . .

by Joe Marsh

I MISSED getting my hair cut this morning on account of the scrap collection.

When I climbed into the barber chair, Ray says to me:

"Sorry, Joe, Ain't got time for you today. We're closing up this morning at ten."

And then I remembered. This was the day the town had agreed to drop everything—and I mean everything—and collect scrap for Uncle Sam.

Yes sir, the drugstore, the corner garage, Sam Abernethy's general store—every place in town except the post office—closed up tight today from 10 to 5.

And you ought to see the result piled up in front of the fire house. One hundred and fifty tons of metal that had been lying around in attics, cellars and back yards of our town since Charlie Jenkins' great-grandfather joined up with the Texas Rangers.

That's almost 200 lbs. of metal for every man, woman nnd child in our town. Just shows you—when American citizens go out to do a job for Uncle Sam they do it right.

Judge Cuaningham and I were talking about it this evening, sitting on the front porch and having a sociable beer together.

We agreed that the way this town went all out to collect scrap was a pretty good illustration of how Democracy works. No need to crack a whip . . . no need to pass a law . . . just self-determined folks working hand in hand to get a job done for their own people.

Because from where I sit, that's what we're fighting for—the right to work together—of our own accord. To do the job because we want to, not because somebody tells us to. And when the job's done, to relax as we see fit.

And the Judge agreed. He pointed out that one of the things that helps folks get together is just what we were doin' now.

It's great, after a good day's work, to be able to have a chat and a glass of beer if you want to.

LOCAL MERCHANTS SELL WAR STAMPS

STRESS CAMPAIGN AS WINTER APPROACHES

Local Stores, Along With Those of Natioo, Doing Their Part to Finaoce War Effort

With the summer season past and the CSO war bond and stamp booth moved indoors because of weuther conditions, more stress is being placed on the purchase of stamps by individuals from retail merchants.

Clarence Wood, chairman of the local merchants' war savings committee, has asked the Courier to call attention of local citizens to this fact.

Retailers were selected to do this job because they contact practically everyone in America. Almost every individual has to shop for something, from chewing gum to furniture, every day. Retailers can remind them more frequently than anyone else of the importance of investing regularly in war savings stamps and bonds.

When nny person in a retail store invites n customer to invest in war savings stamps and bonds, he is doing that customer a fuvor. There are, nfter all, only three reasons for a person to invest in war savings stamps and bonds. First, we need more and more money to get the things our boys need to win. Second, the more we put uway in war savings, the less the danger of inflation, which would be so disastrous. Third, the money we put uwny now really mnounts to advnnce payments on new cars, clothing, furniture and other things we will all need und wnnt when this war is over and business returns to normal. And remember, all of thnt money we put awny now earns interest, so that four dollars comes back for every three we lnvest today.

When you are usked by any person working in n retail store to invest part of your change in wnr savings stamps and bonds, remember thnt person is trying to help Uncle Sam, and that is what all of us must do in every way we can if we are going to win this war, and win it ns quickly as possible.

SITE AIRCRAFT SPOTTING STATION CHOSEN

Will Use Tower on Former Martha Ayres Building

Establishment of an aircrnft detector station in Charlevoix as requested recently by U. S. army officials is moving forward rapidly following selection of a site for the proposed tower Monday night.

Through the courtesy of the Charlevoix County Stnte Bank, the old Murthn Ayres building at the corner of Stnte street and Hurlbut avenue has been offered as location for the tower. Police Chief Clarence Heise, who has assumed the duties of chief observer for Charlevoix, stated only minor alterations, and provision for heating and telephone connection, are needed to make the tower ready for use. The city council Monday night authorized expenditures for these needs.

Formation of the organization of watchers required is now under way. Many have already volunteered their services nnd others willing tn do so nre requested to contact Police Chief Heise.

BUTTON COLLECTORS MET LAST THURSDAY

Study of Flower Buttons Is Project for Next Meeting

A meeting of the 6th district of Michigan Button Society was held Thursday, October 1.

Luncheon nt the Parkside Restaurant was followed by a meeting at the home of Mrs. C. R. Munyon. The project was circus buttons. Fenton R. Bulow, county war price and ration board chairman, maintains his office in the court house.

ENLISTMENTS IN NAVY HEAVY IN SEPTEMBER

More than 3,600 Michigan men joined the Navy during September to set a month's record, it was announced by Lieut. Byron E. Flechtner, officer in charge of navy recruiting in this area.

September Navy enlistments for the state exceeded those of August, the previous record month, by over 600. It marked the fourth consecutive month in which Michigan's Navy enlistments increased.

STATE PULLS DOWN OLD SPEED SIGNS

National 35 Mile Limit Now In Effect in Michigan

State Highway Commissioner C. Donald Kennedy this week ordered the removal of all signs indicating speed zones in excess of 35 miles per hour on state trunklines.

Kennedy said by the end of the week all 1,100 signs throughout the state will be replaced by new ones eliminating highway travel in "control zones" to 35 miles per hour in accordance with Governor Van Wagoner's proclamation regarding the new nation-wide speed limit to save rubber tires.

From materials stored in advance, the new signs are made of musonite.

GREAT LAKES NETTING BANS LISTED

PLANS TO COLLECT SPAWN ARE BEING MADE

Lake Michigan Closed Season on Lake Trout Oct. 10 to Nov. 10; Whitefish One Month

Lake trout, whitefish and chubs in Great Lakes waters are being completely protected as usual this fall during the closed seasons timed to cover their spawning period, the conservation department's fish division has announced.

The announcement specifically refutes rumors current in some commercial fishing ports that because of the wartime food situation the safeguards on the commercial fish supply would be relaxed. The food situation is far from critical, Fred A. Westerman, chief of the fish division, said, stating flatly that no permits will be issued to anyone to fish for spawn.

Lake trout are protected throughout the month of October in Lake Huron, from October 10 to November 4 in Lake Superior and from October 10 to November 10 in Lake Michigan. Whitefish may not be taken by commercial fishermen November 1 - December 1 in Lake Huron, November 1-November 26 in Lake Superior, November 5-December 10 in Lakes Michigan and Erie. Chubs, a fat, herring-like fish, are protected October 15- November 20 in Lakes Huron, Superior and Michigan.

Commercial fishermen who take any ripe fish after the season reopens are directed to deliver the eggs to state fish hatcheries to the limit of their capacity. Surpluses will be planted back on the spawning ground, where fry and fingerling lake trout hatched and reared in the state hatcheries will be released next season.

BOYNE WINNER OF SATURDAY'S GAME

DEFEATED CHARLEVOIX BY 25 TO 0 COUNT THERE

Rnydors Made Excellent Showing Against Heavier Team; Play Onaway Here Saturday

Charlevoix's Red Rayders dropped their first football contest of the season last Saturday at Boyne City, losing 25 to 0 to Coach Brotherston's powerful, undefeated class C outfit. The Rayders defeated Mancelona last week.

Boyne crossed Charlevoix's goal in the first and second periods and marked up two touchdowns in the third stanza. They out-played the Rayders throughout, making 16 first downs to Charlevoix's 7, and gaining 269 yards to 114 for Charlevoix.

Boyne took advantage of superior weight in line nnd backfield to gain on line bucks and end runs through Charlevoix's lighter team. End runs accounted for all touchdowns. Jannck, Middleton, Harper and Lockman shared their team's scoring, making a touchdown apiece.

Charlevoix invaded deeply into Boyne territory three times, but lacked scoring punch or lost the opportunity through error. Rowe's intercepted pass stopped an advance to Boyne's 20-yard line in the first period. A strong rally in the early moments of the second quarter after Boyne's first score carried the Rayders to Boyne's 4-yard strip, where Rowe fumbled. A series of good gains in the fourth period took Charlevoix to the winner's 8-yard line, but Boyne held to end the thrent.

Coach Kipke's Rayders make their first home appearance of the season next Saturday. They will take on Onaway's class C team at south side athletic field. Although defeated at Boyne, the Rayders showed marked improvement over performance in the initial game with Mancelona and may be expected to give a good account of themselves during the remainder of the season.

RATIONING OF RUBBER BOOTS BEGAN MONDAY

Purchaser Must Now Obtain Rationing Certificate

The Office of Price Administration began Monday rntioning rubber boots nnd rubber work shoes to workers using them "in jobs essential to the war effort or to the protection of public health and safety."

All sales of the six types of footwear covered by the rationing program, selected because of their high crude rubber content, had been prohibited for a five day period ending October 5.

Local rationing bonrds Monday began acceptnnce of applications for rntioning certificates.

Rubber footwear made largely of reclaimed rubber may be purchased as usual. These include rubbers and overshoes commonly used.

SHOT AT RANDOM

One advantage of the new wnr-time auto speed limit of 35 miles per hour is that the driver will be able to enjoy the scenery—providing he can keep awake.

"Whatever the Michigan hunter's luck this year," says a conservntion department writer, "the 1942 hunting season—the first of the war—will be a season to remember. The hunter's travel must be carefully planned to consume the least gas and use the least rubber possible, and when he succeeds in breaking uway from top-speed wnr work for u few days' relaxution, he will proceed to his destination at the novel speed of 35 miles an hour. Every time he fires his gun he will pick up the ejected shell, to save the brass. Though he pursues his game on remote wild lands, he still will keep an eye open for old scrap iron to be collected or reported. If he kills a duck or goose he is requested to save the feathers, to build a reserve against the growing scarcity of commercial eiderdown. If he kills a deer he is asked to save the hide for leather. The meanest of small game nnimals can be made to yield a pound or so of fat for explosive manufacture. And all the meat for the table the hunter can bring home will help relieve a fresh meat scarcity."

Petunia, in the Boyne Citizen, says: "Did you hear the story about the marine who thought he had a date with a hot WAAC but she turned out to be a cold WAVE?"

I'd never heard that one, but I did hear the one about the secretary that quit her job because the boss was so bow-legged she kept falling through his lap. Tsh. Tsh.

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Why doesn't the government do something nbout it?

There IS an answer.

Take it from Schuyler L. Marshall, weekly publisher at St. Johns, a community in Clinton county that has never been over enthusiastic in recent years about the way Washington does things. Clinton county regularly votes Republican, but there is no politics to this story.

Spare n minute or two if you have a question nbout the scrap metal drive. Listen to this country editor as he "talks" in his editorial column to his readers:

A tall, tired-looking man stood at the end of a hotel room. There were about twenty newspnper publishers there. The tall mnn, his face lined, turned his tired eyes toward a sharp-tongued critic. "Why don't you move the scrap we have piled up for you?" the critic demanded. "We've done our part. The people have done their part. You government follows are the ones who are falling down. No wonder tha people are fed up. . . etc., etc."

Tho nowspaper man quit talking and glared.

Pntiently, as if he had told it a thousand times, the government mnn started speaking quietly.

"You are right. . . und you are wrong. Listen. You have done your job. The people have done their job. I want you to believe that we are doing our job, just as fast and as well as we can. But there are a lot of things you don't know. I'll tell you about them if you will be patient and listen.

"You have done a good job, but you are going to do a better job. We need more scrap metal. We need it right now, before snow flies. If we don't get it now, we will not get it this winter. We are 5,000,000 tons short of our needs, and that's counting what you have already piled up. If we fail to get that 5,000,000 tons, we may lose this war. . . and I'm not trying to fool you or scare you.

THE HOME FRONT IN MICHIGAN

A recently captured Nazi document tells how Hitler plans to run his bloodstained "Greater Germnn Empire" by means of an army of secret police, always on the job. Japan's ambition to share a conquered world with Germany isn't any secret. It is symbolized on new Jnp postnge stamps.

Theso aspirations have had some rude shocks lately. The splendid stnnd of the Russians onco more threntens Nazi aggressors with stalemate and approaching winter; Nazi General Rommel still is stalled In the African desert; the far extended Jap flanks have been dealt blows by U. S. forces in the Solomons, Australia in New Guinea, Americans and Canadians at Kiska in the Aleutians.

Pleasing as these latter developments may be, listen to Army Services of Supply Commander Somervell. Speaking in St. Louis recently, he said the United Nations have "taken a terrific shellacking all around the globe" and it is time "we begin to be realistic."

He continued, without mincing words: "The Japsnese and Nazis hate us . . . snd it is just about time we start throwing some of that hate back in their faces. You esn't kill a man you don't hste or feor. And our number one job now is to kill Nszis and Japs . . . We've lost all our rubber, most of our tin, our hemp, our silk. We've lost ships by the hundreds, men by the thousands. We've lost the freedom of the seas. We've lost everything exccpt a smug sense of complacency. And that's one thing we've got to lose fast or we'll lose our indep ndence."

Munitions produced in the United Stotes In August were more than 3 1-2 times that of November, 1941 (the month before Pearl Harbor). But the fact remains that over-all production in August lagged about 14 per cent behind forecosts.

Our production will falter even more, if we don't build up thot huge reserve of scrap metal to carry our steel mills through the winter and early spring. Aroused to the danger, our nation and stote hove responded nobly to the intensive salvage compaign now under way. Great heaps of scrap metal are being dragged from nttics, basements, barns and farmyards. But there must be no lessening of effort. The flood must continue to grow and continue unabated.

War brings shortages. We're beginning to feel them. We're all at war, so all of us must share theso shortages. Share and shnre alike is an underlying principle of democracy.

Fuel oil is not scarce but the menns of transporting it are at a premium. There'll be only about two-thirds of the normal supply this winter for the thirty states in which rationing will become effective October 15.

Unless our coal supply is increased we'll be short of this fuel, too, next year—by 42 million tons. Gool production will be speeded through 91 new labor-management committees in the soft cool mines. Longer work hours in the mines are likely.

Nntionwide gasoline rationing probably will begin about November 22. But we shouldn't wait until then to impose upon ourselves a voluntary rationing by cutting out nll unnecessary driving. Surely, everyone recognizes by now the necessity of saving nll-important rubber. Trucks and busses nlone are wearing out tires at the rate of 35,000 a dny.

The same thing is true of meats. Because of the tremendous amount of meats needed by our nrmed forces and our nllies, meat rationing is forecast ahout February. In the meantime, we should limit our weekly diet to 2 1-2 pounds per person per week. Actually, this nllownnce is about as much ns we have nvernged for 10 years.

Yes, we can win this war. But everyone must do his share. Work, save, sacrifice, share, no honrding—there are hundreds of little things whlch 130,000,000 Americans can do every day to hasten the day of victory.

"Stop nnd think a minute. Thousands of tons of scrap is piled up all in a week or two in a thousand or more widely separnted points. The woven wire fencing coming from farms must be baled before it cnn be shipped or used. The old autu bodies have to be cut before they can be shipped or used. We are short of metal balers. We nre short of shears—cutting equipment. We cannot do that all at once in a thousand different spots in 83 counties in Michlgan."

The tired looking government mon went on.

"Scrap metal does not wolk to the steel mills. It has to he shipped. Thot takes freight cnrs. It takes trucks. It takes manpower. You know, without me telling you, thnt the railrosds are being rushed. You know ahout trucks and their tires. You know about men—how mnny of them nre already in service.

"Be ptient, mister, I hnve been working twenty hours a day . . . hard work without much sleep, nnd eating when and where I can. Have you been doing thot much? I'm asking you and all the people everywhere, in every county and every neighburhood, to take our word for it when wo say we need moro scrap metal. We want it now—before snow flies—or we won't get it this winter.

"Yes, I know. There have been mistakes. I've made 'em. Maybe you've made 'em. I know you are wrong when you think no effort is being made to move this scrap. It is moving right now, but we can't move it all at once. We will move it, all of it, in the next three or four months. It is now being dumped in huge quantities at the mills. We want enough to keep those mills going full blast—100 per cent capacity—all winter.

"Yes, I'm tired. I've been damned uphill nnd down. I don't hlame people who do not understand. That's why I'm here talking to you fellows today. I want you newspapermen to help them understand. I want you to help me. I want you to help your own boy in service. I want you to help lick Hitler and the Japs.

"If you dont . . ."

The tall, tired-looking government man's voice trailed away snd he just stood looking into the eyes of about twenty newspapermen who had become very quiet.

They believed him.

Don't you?

The GHOST PLANE by ARTHUR STRINGER

CHAPTER XIX

Lynn, following after him as he strode toward the lake-front, realized that he was already back in his man's world of violence and conflict. That realization grew even sharper when she saw him abruptly stop at the cliff edge and stare across the lake where the evening wild fowl were feeding in the shallows. At the same time that she saw him drop on one knee and take aim with his rifle she caught sight of two figures running down the opposing shore slope to where a plane of faded blue stood moored against a spruce-fringed bank.

Slade shot twice, but with no apparent effect on the running figures. Lynn could see them swarming about the pontoons and throwing off the mooring gear.

"It's Tumstead and Frayne," Slade cried. "They're getting away with your plane. They're doing what I—"

But Lynn's voice rose above the ether.

"There's Father," she cried, "running through the trees, down the bank. He knows they've tricked him."

"He's coming too late," said Slade, who could see the blue wings push off from the bank and veer about in the lake water. He could hear the roar of the motor that gave life to the waiting wings. He caught at Lynn's hand as the floats, gaining headway, threw a double furrow of white across the liquid blue of the lake where the last of the water fowl had scurried away.

"Come on," he cried, "we must head them off."

"How?" she asked, panting after him.

"With my plane," he said over his shoulder. "If they get away now they're gone for good."

She kept up with him as they rounded the lake arm and bore down on the Snow-Ball Baby.

"Keep your eye on 'em," Slade called out as he made adjustments to the tail-control over his head. She knew, by the feel of the pulsating structure enclosing her, that he was flying with a full-open throttle.

"What can the Padre's ship do?" he asked over his shoulder.

"I don't know," was her answer, "but we seem to be gaining on them."

She could see the sun dropping toward the horizon, a globe of gold that grew larger as it went lower. It would not be long, she knew, before it would disappear behind the shoulder of the world. But the twilight in that latitude, she also knew, was far from a brief one.

"What do we do," she demanded, "when we get up with them?"

Slade indicated the rifle that had been thrown into the cabin.

"Get it ready," he told her.

"Ready for what?" she asked.

"For me," cried Slade. "If they want a dogfight, I'll give it to them."

"We're getting closer," she called out to the pilot. But she said it with almost a note of regret. The sun, on the horizon, was now only half a globe, like a coin of gold cut in two.

"If they start to shoot," that man was calling back to her, "lie flat, flat on the floor."

She observed, a moment later, that Slade was climbing a little. She wondered as to the meaning of this maneuver. Then her eyes narrowed with a new wonder. For against the opal and gold of the northern sky she saw yet another pair of wings arrowing out of the distance. Her hope, at the moment, was that it might be the official plane from the Mountie headquarters at Coppermine, that it was help coming when help was most needed. But as she stared out through the paling light she saw that it wasn't a plane. It was a trumpeter swan, breasting the evening air lanes. Its snowy whiteness made it look unreal. Yet it was solid enough, with its forty pounds of sinew and muscle that turned it into an engined rhapsody of speed.

It was like a light going out when the duller blue wings of the plane in front of the watching girl veered a little and came between her and the arrowing white body.

That moment of obscured vision left her always in doubt as to how it happened. It might have been a split-second error in judgment. It might have been a final spit of venom on Tumstead's part, a final flowering of hate for what he could accept as the sign and symbol of his final defeat. But as the bird swerved, to avoid its bigger rival, the plane also swerved. They swerved in the same direction, at the same moment, and came together.

Lynn heard Slade's shout as the hurtling white body crashed against the wider body of faded blue. They came together almost head-on, with a splintering of propeller-blades and a shattering of windshield glass, followed by a flurry of feathers.

Slade banked sharply and turned, with a repeated shout as he saw the blue wings flounder and twist in their fall.

"They've lost control," he cried. "They're down."

He circled blindly, waiting for the crash. Then he dropped lower, marking the spot where the tangled mass of metal and fabric rested on its bed of broken limestone.

Lynn knew, at his quick glance about, that he was looking for open water on which to land. But she remained silent until the ship was set down and they were ashore.

"Is it the end?" she asked, disturbed by the stoniness of his eyes.

"That's what we've got to find out," he said.

He mounted the bank and started running through the scrub, without waiting for her. She followed him, as best she could. But it seemed a long way back. Her steps were a little uncertain and her ears were ringing. She remembered, as she raced on, that human bodies were not at their best without food and sleep. And, of late, she'd had little of either.

LETTERS from the ARMY CAMPS

Dear Ken:

I have been receiving the paper for the past three months and have always read it from cover to cover. The paper has always been on time, but my letter of thanks seems to have been delayed. I hope you will accept my apologies for not having written sooner. The Courier has given me a great deal of pleasure and helped me to keep in contact with the boys from home who are also in the service.

Washington is a very busy city and also very crowded, this is of course due to the migration of people from all parts of the United States coming here to work for the government.

Another thing that adds to the increase is the nearness to Washington of naval stations, army camps and marine bases. The men with liberty passes are well represented here over any week end.

Washington is a very beautiful city with its wide boulevards and stately government buildings. People living here or just passing through have an opportunity to visit various places of interest, such as the Mellon Art Gallery, Washington monument, Lincoln memorial and the Smithsonian Institute. Places such as these add to the city's popularity.

Well, Ken, this seems to be the extent of my ability and ambition for today. The navy keeps me pretty busy during office hours and trying to learn the contents of a Spanish book seems to take care of my free hours. Thanks again for the paper.

Yours truly,
Thad Pearl.

Dear Ken:

I guess I am settled for a while. We have been on the move for the last two weeks. We have been all over Great Lakes. We just get our gear settled in one barracks and we have to move to another. We were on K. P. four days.

I have been working out with the football team for the last two weeks, but there are a lot of good players here. Chuck Carey is playing. We are going to Ann Arbor to play Michigan on Saturday. Other than this we haven't done much work.

I expect to start school next week as a fire control man, which is a sixteen week course. Well, I hope to get paid this morning some time, so better get ready.

As ever,
Robert O. Bergmann.

Dear Ken:

One is apt to lose track of the people he has known previous to his entering into the service. This is only natural when we consider the fact that just such a situation as we face today necessitates the placing of troops all over the world.

However, this undesirable loss of contact is somewhat modified by the common receipt of the home-town newspaper by these same men, wherever they may be, in the camps within the Continental limits of the United States, or at one of the numerous fronts abroad.

Consequently, it is only natural that the service which you and the Courier is rendering to us be appreciated, probably to a much greater extent than can be expressed by us, or realized by you. Ken, I wish to thank you heartily for having supplied me with the Courier in the past, and for diligently endeavoring to make arrangements that it shall continue to appear every week in the future.

My work here, previously in Operations, is concerned with the Officer's Pay Section of the Finance Department. It is an interesting job, and needless to say, a very busy one.

One is always conscious of the powerful roar or immense planes racing down the run-ways and then nosing into the sky from the trembling earth. Every day finds us getting busier and busier. More and more does one realize that this is a huge task that we have undertaken. Day after day we find more planes lining the ramps. Proportionately, we notice, more and more men swarm to the maintenance of these giant birds. And likewise do we notice the widespread expansion of the camps, posts, and airbases. Obviously the Axis found us unprepared, but I believe that the day is not far hence when they will realize that we are capable of remedying an undesirable situation in a comparatively short time.

Well, Ken, it is pretty nearly time for "chow" and "believe it or not" the food that we get here is pretty hard to beat.

Yours for Victory,
Sgt. Harold B. Chew

Dear Ken:

I would like to tell all my friends in and around Charlevoix that I am leaving my camp at Chanute Field, Ill. I am going to Lincoln, Nebr.

I want to thank you for the home paper, and when I get settled at my new camp I will send you my new address in Nebraska. I would be more than pleased to get the Courier again, and receive all the news of my friends at home.

Pvt. Roy H. Peters
Chanute Field
Rantoul, Ill.

Dear Ken:

Just a few short lines to ask if you would mind holding up my paper for a few weeks till I find out what my new address is going to be.

We are completing our course in gunnery ahead of time and are being shipped out in the near future. Don't know just where, as there are so many rumors going around you can't tell which place they will send us. But I'll either stay here in Florida or out west.

So if you will wait and send me the paper to my new address I'll be much obliged. Don't want to miss the old home town paper because it's going to be a long time before I see it.

James Gilbert Powers,
AMM 3-c
Aviation Free Gunnery School
Hollywood, Fla.

Dear Sir:

Just a line to let you know that I am still receiving the Charlevoix Courier. Although I never gave you my change in address, I appreciate it very much. Sorry that I never wrote to you before. I have been in the army a little over seven months, and I like it very much. But I would like to be back in Charlevoix. Since I have been in this army I have traveled all through the states, and on foreign soil. I am now located in England and it is a very nice country, but not as nice as ours. Seeing that you send the paper to every boy in the service out of Charlevoix, I wonder if you could send me the address of some of the boys, for I have not met any of the boys, although I have been in quite a few different camps. I am assigned to the aviation engineers, and I think it is the best outfit of them all, for I have seen every branch of the service. Hoping this note finds you in the best of health.

Cpl. Edward Thorp
Co. A.

Mr. Usher:

I received last week's Courier today. I was moved over the week end to the central part of Texas. We are at Abilene, west of Fort Worth.

I enjoy the paper very much and look forward to it each week.

The country is level and one can see many miles. We are in a new camp and from all prospects it is to be a nice one in the near future. I am enjoying it a lot here as it is not so warm as the last camp. (Camp Robinson, Ark.)

Thanking you again for the paper I remain as ever,

Pvt. Walter J. McElroy
Co. C, 67th Med. Reg.
Camp Barkeley, Texas

Dear Ken:

Again my address has changed. On the 19th of September I was appointed aviation cadet, and was ordered to report to San Antonio, Texas. San Antonio is a lot different than any city I've seen yet, and I've seen a lot of cities in different parts of the country. The streets are narrower than the ones in Detroit. It is about a third Mexican.

Being a cadet is a lot different from the part of the army that I just left. From what I've seen so far, I wouldn't trade back for anything. There is a lot more discipline here. We get up at 5:15 a. m. They keep us busy just about every minutes and if we are lucky we get to bed about 10 p. m. Our training here will be a lot harder than any other branch in the service. If anyone wants to challenge that statement, let them join the army air corps as an aviation cadet. Our course in training will take eight or nine months to complete.

Today it took all day to take the tests which tell whether we are to become a bombardier, pilot or navigator. I prefer pilot.

Sincerely yours,
Av.C Edward R. Stinson.

Following is a letter received by Mr. and Mrs. A. Evers, Rt. 3, from their son, Staff Sgt. Stanley Evers, with the U. S. army air corps in Egypt:

Somewhere in Egypt
August 31, 1942

Dear Folks:

Received a letter from you today so I thought it was about time I was writing you another letter.

We are getting fairly well settled here by now and it's getting so that we don't mind sleeping in the sand with the ants, etc., and eating sand, drinking sand, and when we wash it feels like we are using lava soap. But we find on the whole the desert is not nearly as bad as we supposed it was going to be.

I went in to one of the towns around here yesterday and had a dinner. Instead of bringing the food and putting it on the table, the custom is to bring it on a tray and you take whatever you want off the tray and put it on your plate. We took the dishes off the tray and set them on the table and just sat there waiting for the main course. The waiter had to come and tell us to eat what we had first. They had tomatoes and boiled eggs in some kind of sauce, cucumbers, olives, and dates, and we just figured that those were side dishes to be left on the table. Well, anyway, down here you're supposed to eat that first. Then they brought us fried chicken and potatoes. It sure was good. The whole thing cost us about a dollar.

Sept. 11—This is honestly the first chance I've had to write since August. We were up in the blue, as they call it over here, which means we were at our landing ground up front.

It was pretty rough up there and I've got quite a few raids under my belt already and I guess we'll see some more action soon. You know how regular I used to write, now I guess I'll just write when I can find a few minutes. I'll be sure and mail this, this time.

Stan.

VETERANS—You men who fought the last War—make this your job. To see that no American boy shall fall because a lack of scrap deprived him of a fighting chance.

SCRAP SLACKERS CAN LOSE THIS WAR!

It's squarely up to you. The mills need scrap to make the steel to go across the sea as ships, and tanks, and guns. They need it now—and in the months to come. For all new steel must be 50% scrap—and the mills are running out. They haven't enough for even 30 days more production—then they'll be shutting down.

Unless you get to work. Unless you go into your basement and your attic and rout out the junk that's there. Talk about it to your friends and neighbors—you men who know what war is like. Tell them . . . "Don't be a scrap slacker. Get your scrap ready for the drive that starts next Monday!" Then get to work and help them do it.

We're out to fill the junk yards—to make every salvage depot a towering tribute to our fighting men. And don't think the job is done when the scrap starts piling up. Because the war must end before the need for scrap is over.

Do this to help make sure it ends our way!

WAYNE ASKS HER NEIGHBORS IN MICHIGAN FOR HELP

To Michigan voters of the other 82 counties:

This is an appeal addressed particularly to you. The matter dealt with is an old story to voters of our own County of Wayne.

We refer to Proposal No. 2 on the constitutional amendment ballot you will be handed at the polls November 3. No. 2 is the proposal authorizing Wayne to reorganize its form of government in a way outlined in the intended amendment.

Principally, it would give Wayne county a single administrative head and a small legislative body, where we now have a dozen elected "executives" and a board of supervisors, that, with 161 members, is bigger than most state legislatures. It also is provided the new government shall be nonpartisan and be restricted in the hiring of employes by a civil service system.

This being an appeal for your votes, you will want to know what business it is of yours. We hope to convince you that IT IS YOUR BUSINESS, because without your votes the amendment can not be adopted.

It could not be, even if Wayne voted solidly for it, and that won't happen. Here, as elsewhere in the state, it is being fought by machine politicians and machines, in both political parties, having their own shady reasons for wanting Wayne government left as it is.

So the upshot is that, unless we can win the support of respectable law-abiding citizens OUTSIDE Wayne county, AS WELL AS HERE, Wayne government WILL stay as it is.

Here in Wayne, citizens know why that would be bad, for Wayne and for Michigan. They have the best of reasons for knowing. The Ferguson grand jury only recently wound up its inquiry into the county government with two auditors, a sheriff and a prosecutor indicted for grafting, as well as a number of lesser officials and former officials.

The conditions leading to these indictments long had been known. Attempts have been made previously to remedy them. The basic trouble is too many officials and, for that reason, too little responsibility.

We venture to say there are not 500 people in Wayne county who can name three of the elected or appointed supervisors. We venture to say not many more can name both coroners or the auditors, let alone give an informed opinion of their conduct in office.

It may be that in YOUR county the present form of county government gives reasonable satisfaction. In Wayne, an urban community of over 2,000,000 souls, it simply does not work. The people will not take time, even if they could, to keep track of so many officials. And where public scrutiny is lacking, the right kind of government just will not flourish.

This amendment we are asking you to support is drafted to apply only to Wayne. Yet we think no elaborate argument will be needed to convince you that the conditions it seeks to correct are of concern to every Michigan voter. Wayne county government is part of the government of Michigan. The kind of government we have here affects government and politics throughout the state. If you doubt that, ask yourself why politicos elsewhere in the state are fighting reform in Wayne county!

The ordinary law-abiding citizen of Wayne is entitled as a citizen of Michigan to decently responsible government, and he can't get it without YOUR help. Will YOU help him?

GAME COLD STORAGE SPACE AT A PREMIUM

Sportsmen Look to Cold-Packing to Enjoy New Storage Law

Michigan hunters looking about for cold storage lockers in which to keep some of the game they hope to kill this season are reporting freezing facilities already jammed with food and waiting lists on the books of some lockers establishments.

The conservation department, which administers the recently liberalized game storage law, looks for a revival of cold-packing and other methods of canning among hunters who want to use their game throughout the winter and did not have a freezer locker rented when talk of meat rationing began. Permits are needed for canning also.

The new game storage law allows keeping of game under permit for six months beyond the time regularly allowed for keeping it without a permit—which is 30 days after the close of the season for small game and 60 days after the close of the season for deer and bear.

DRIVE FOR SCRAP METAL RENEWED

material for use of the government in supplying Michigan war plants so they may this winter continue uninterrupted production of more tanks, more airplanes and more war munitions of every kind.

Even if it appears to citizens that a delay exists in deliveries, and the scrap they have worked so hard to collect lies around untouched, collection into supply depots will make it available for the government to get at any time during the winter months, as and when and where it is needed.

Through the cooperation of city officials, the local collection campaign will follow the plan used during the annual spring clean-up drive. Citizens are asked to collect all scrap metal and rubber, place it at the curb in front of their homes. City trucks will be used to haul it to the local salvage depot located at the Charlevoix Lumber Co. yard. Metal deposited at the salvage depot is sold by the Charlevoix Service Organization and the proceeds used to finance its activities.

The present appeal is urgent. Failure of citizens to produce sufficient scrap metal may result in many steel furnaces and arms plants closing this winter for lack of material, thereby leaving our soldiers and sailors and our allies with insufficient weapons.

Act now, before snow flies.

FALLING PLANES

The crash of an army plane is tragic in any circumstances, and there seem to be a good many of such accidents lately. What is wrong? Nothing, perhaps, that calls for excitement or dismay. Unfortunate as these cases are, they must probably be accepted as part of the price of armament and victory.

It must be remembered that the American sky is full of planes, mostly aloft for training purposes, and that, while safety is sought, accidents are to be expected. The mishaps, however tragic in themselves, are part of the price that has to be paid for ultimate victory. And thus the men who fall to their death in these peaceful flights may serve a useful purpose. Every such tragedy is carefully studied, and lessons are learned that make flying safer for all others.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

By B. C. Mellencamp

The second annual 4-H Girls Conservation Camp was attended by approximately fifty delegates from Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Cheboygan counties. The delegates arrived at the camp late Friday afternoon, October 2nd and left for their respective homes Sunday afternoon following dinner.

The features of the week end were field trips under the direction of representatives from the State Department of Conservation and the 4-H Club Department, Michigan State College. A study was made of the various Conservation activities such as are commonly supervised by the conservation officers. Moving pictures were also enjoyed illustrating the varied activities of the conservation department. Thus the delegates had the opportunity to see exactly what conservation means and its importance to our general well being.

The following representatives attended from Charlevoix county: Bernadette Wojciechowski, Anne Tymor, Ardith DeNise, and Kathleen DeLoy of Boyne Falls; Mary Hooker, Clarion; Norma Goodwin, Walloon Lake; Katherine Blossie, Marie Anderson, Maida Kemp and Patricia Sinclair of East Jordan. Miss Edith Hansen, of East Jordan, went as a leader.

Another activity for the benefit of the Forestry club members are two demonstrations scheduled for Thursday, October 8th. W. Ira Ball, extension forestor, is spending a half day with each of the Boyne Falls and East Jordan clubs in showing the members how to estimate timber and scale logs. This will be of great interest to the conservation members and represents advanced instruction.

Dale Nichols, famous for his red barn paintings, is the artist of this year's Christmas Seal of the National Tuberculosis Association.

From where I sit....

by Joe Marsh

ED CAREY, our fire chief, came stompin' into the printin' office last week, madder'n a hornet.

"Say!" he yells. "If I could get my hands on that fellow Goebbels, I'd stick a fire hose in his mouth and turn on the pressure," Ed shouts, pounding' my desk. "Do you know what he's puttin' on the German short-wave propaganda to America NOW? He's tellin' folks that American army camps are full of drunkenness! Can you beat it?"

"Calm yourself, Ed," says I. "Nobody's going to believe what Goebbels tells 'em."

"But don't you see? He's puttin' this bare-faced lie on the air to stir up trouble."

"Pretty stupid propaganda, I'd say. Pretty silly, even for the Nazis," says I.

"How so?" says Ed. "There's people in this country that want beer taken out of the camps. That sure is going to hurt army morale. And this lie certainly is fuel for their fire."

"Not if I know Americans," I says. "And the Nazis don't know us. People realize that if Goebbels wants beer taken away from our soldiers—there must be a reason. The enemy won't stop anything that's hurting our army. They'll try to stop whatever's helping it."

"Say! That's true, ain't it?" Ed began to grin.

"Of course it's true—and reasonable people can't help but see it. So instead of makin' trouble—like they hope—they're just confirmin' what the Secretary of War and the other Army leaders believe—that among the other good wholesome things a fighting man can get at the canteen in camp—America should include beer."

From where I sit—I can guess why Goebbels wants beer out of the camps. The Nazis would a heap rather face an army that already lost its rights than one that was fighting for freedom it could touch and taste and feel every day... Wouldn't you?

MICHIGAN COUNCIL OF DEFENSE

Lansing,—Michigan newspapers are responsing whole-heartedly to the Federal Government appeal to lend another empaign in the war effort. Cooperating with the press of all other states, Michigan daily and weekly newspapers are giving editorial support and devoting columns of news space to the drive for vitally needed scrap metal.

The intensive newspaper drive for scrap begins Oct. 5 and will continue through Oct. 17. Every newspaper in Michigan is participating in the effort to get scrap metal reserves to the mills before cold weather slows collections and transportation.

Although newspapers have been assisting in previous scrap campaigns, the press agreed on the present all-out campaign following a conference at Washington, when Donald M. Nelson, WPB chief, outlined the critical situation of the war production effort because of the shortage of scrap metal. It was felt that previous efforts at collecting scrap failed to produce enough material, because the public lacked authentic information.

Newspapers have accepted the responsibility of the present campaign. In Grand Rapids recently members of the Michigan League of Home Dailies joined with metropolitan and larger city dailies in the campaign, after devoting an entire session to the subject. Michigan weekly publishers are already devoting editorial and news columns to the campaign.

Heading the special newspaper committee are W. S. Gilmore, editor of the Detroit News, and Schuyler Marshall, publisher of the Clinton county Republican-News, who represent the daily and weekly newspapers on the Committee on Public Information of the Michigan Council of Defense.

Working in close cooperation with the Michigan Council of Defense, state newspapers have formulated a campaign of information which will give the public the stark picture of the nation's crucial need for more and more war material. Through this organized and directed effort it is hoped that thousands of tons of previously overlooked material will go into the war.

To Organize Neighbors

Launching a state-wide program to offer opportunities for war service to every household and individual, the Michigan Council of Defense is distributing to all county councils a plan of organization for Neighborhood War Clubs.

The plan calls for the councils to sponsor war clubs in every neighborhood, with a leader chosen by election, and responsibility for specific problems assigned to individuals. Thus one person will be responsible for a continuing salvage program, another for nutrition information, another for consumer information, another for war stamp sales. These will not duplicate similar rural clubs formed by USDA War Boards.

"This plan will give every person in Michigan a chance to do a real job in winning the war," commented Lt. Col. Harold A. Furlong, administrator of the council. "No war program succeeds until the organization is carried down to every household and every individual. When this plan is in full operation, we will have the machinery to make every war program function at the neighborhood level, to enlist every home in the battle, and to give every individual a chance to serve."

KITCHEN ARTS SAVE VITAMINS

Usual kitchen methods waste an estimated 20 per cent of the vitamins known as B-1 in preparing vegetables, according to home economics extension specialists at Michigan State College. The kind of food cooked, the method of preparation for cooking, the temperature in cooking, the cooking time and other conditions determine vitamin use or abuse.

To avoid some of the common and unnecessary losses of the vitmins known as B-1, a few simple precautions are suggested:

Don't use soda in cooking vegetables. Soda destroys not only vitmin B-1, but also other vitamins. B-1 passes very readily into the cooking water from most vegetables—often more than 25 per cent is lost in this way, unless some use is made of the cooking water. Sometimes the water is used as a concentrate and served with the vegetable, made into a sauce and served over the vegetable, or added to the soup pot.

B-1 is destroyed to an even greater extent in cooked meats than in vegetables. That's because of the higher cooking temperature and longer cooking time. Very little B-1 is destroyed in frying meat such as chops or steaks, compared with the amount destroyed in roasting, which takes a longer time and higher temperature. In general, the loss of vitamin B-1 in cooking meats is roughly 40%.

MSC PRINTS PLAN OF FRUIT STORAGE

Michigan growers who lack storage or refrigeration space for fruits, vegetables or flowers as a wartime and permanent economy can obtain copies of a new and simple design for low-cost construction of an insulated storage building.

Plans and a description have been made available by the horticulture and agricultural engineering departments of Michigan State College. Copies can be obtained from the Michigan State College Experiment station, East Lansing.

In recent years many fruit growers have adopted the suggestion made by the college that retired refrigerator cars, purchased from railroad companies, could be converted into excellent storage. The supply of such refrigerator cars has been shut off until the wartime transportation difficulties have been overcome.

Design of the low-cost storage building is such that an ice bunker and fan duct may be used or if mechanical refrigeration is available the latter may be installed. Any lumber dealer or carpenter should be able to follow the plan for cutting materials or for adapting the plan to smaller or larger sized storages.

The plan provides space for about 2,000 bushels of apples or from 1,000 to 1,500 bushels of peaches. The storage room has dimensions of 13 by 16 by 32 feet.

Directions for loading, refrigerating and operating the storage unit are contained in mimeographed material which is available with drawings of the recommended construction.

AAA PROGRAM IN CHARLEVOIX COUNTY

The Triple-A program has distributed 14 cars of commercial fertilizer to farmers in Charlevoix county during 1942 and it is expected that several more shipments will be received for fall application.

October 1st marked the beginning of the 1943 program year and farmers may now place their orders with the AAA county office for fertilizer which will apply on their payment for the coming year.

Reports have been received to the effect that some fertilizer obtained under the 1942 program still remains in farm storage. Remember that failure to apply this fertilizer during the program year under which it was received, or other intentional misuse of material will result in a deduction being made from the farmer's AAA payment twice the cost of the material. Aside from this fact, there are other reasons why this fertilizer should be applied as soon as possible. First and foremost, we need this fertilizer on the land to stimulate production. Farmers are faced with the biggest job in the history of farming and the application of fertilizer will mean increasing yields per acre which will pave the way for still greater increases next year, and the next. If you do not order your fertilizer now, available material may be insufficient to meet the demand this coming year, so be on the safe side and order now. Farmers who apply their fertilizer this fall will not run the risk of loss or waste resulting from storage during the winter months.

Fire Prevention Week

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK PROCLAIMED

OBSERVANCE SET FOR PERIOD OF OCTOBER 4-10

Urge All Property Owners Inspect Premises, Remove Possible Causes of Fire

Charlevoix's annual Fire Prevention Week opened Sunday nnd continues through Saturday, it was announced Saturday by Mayor Robert Bridge.

Saturdny, Mayor Bridge issued a proclamation setting dates for the Fire Prevention Week and calling on all citizens to aid in the campaign to prevent fires.

Our president, by official proclamation has set October 4 to 10 this year as Fire Prevention Week. This proclamation comes through the U. S. office of Civilian Defense, Washington D. C. The first paragraph is quoted as follows: "Any loss of human life, any interference with production, any loss of critical materials hinders our war effort."

Stntes' governors along with city officials have made similar proclnmations for their respective nnits. There has been thousands of printed posters reading "Every Firo is Sabotage Today." It is every person's job to stop fire—save lives—protect property—maintain production, during 365 days of ench year. Wherever you aro along all walks of life, wo must all do a good job.

Michigan alone lnst year, had 50,000 lires costing 267 lives and destroying $12,000,000 in property. This was a great catastrophe and in this time of nnterial needs it must not happen agnin. Your organized firo departments together with the civilian organizations in all localities stand rendy to assist in this tremendous task of stamping out the fire losses 365 days of the year.

"You, Mr. Property-holder, owe it to yourself, your neighbor, state and nation, to inspect very thoroughly during this coming Fire Prevention Week, your property and remedy any hnzardous situation that looks to you dangerous and which might cause a fire.

Charlevoix itself in the past three years has mado a fine record. By care and enution every one of us can stop tho firo loss. Wo must have united vigilance, nnd guard agninst any sabotage or incendiary bombs which nro added dangors always in time of war. Mako it your job to do your utmost in preventing fires and the causes leading toward fires."

Akron, Ohio, recently held a "Give-a-Gun" campaign to aid the scrap metal drive, fixing a quota of 12 1-2 lbs. per person—the amount of metal in a .30 caliber machine gun. A parade featured two 10-ton steam rollers, a 7-ton concrete mixer, several hearses.

PROCLAMATION

In compliance with the proclamation of the Governor, designating the week of October 4th to 10th, inclusive, as Fire Prevention Week, I urge all citizens of Charlevoix to take the necessary precautions for the prevention of fires, by cleaning up and removing inflammable material and making needed repairs that will make fires impossible. Property will thereby be conserved and a contribution made to the war effort.

ROBERT BRIDGE, Mayor.

AAA PROGRAM IN CHARLEVOIX COUNTY

Important Notice to Farmers

Two new 1943 soil-building practices have recently been approved for payment which should be considered by farmers at once. The winter cover crop practice nnd the small grain green manure practice have been approved as follows:

1. Winter Cover Crop. Establishing or maintaining a cover crop through the winter by seeding winter legumes and fall seeded rye after a 1942 inter-tilled crop, a war crop, or one of tho green manure crops. The cover crop shall be seeded early enough to obtain a protective cover. Tho winter cover crop must not be pastured in the fall. Thls practice allows credit of $1.50 por acre. No credit will be given for this practico if credit is received under the green manuro or go-down practice.

2. Small Grain Green Manures. Disking or plowing under a good stnnd or a good growth of 1942 fall seedings of rye, winter barley, or wintor spelts provided such smnll grain nre not harvested for hay or grain. Tho payment for this practice is $3.00 per ncre. Tho county committee is endenvoring to givo widespread publicity to theso prnctices in order thnt farmers may havo tho opportunity to seed rye and wintor bnrley this fall for credit undor the 1943 program. See your AAA committeemen or contact tho AAA office for further detailed information.

The county committee, with the assistance of community committeemen, are now making all final inspections of farms where the quack grass control practice has been carried out. All work in connection with this practico must he completed by September 30, to qualify for payment nader the 1942 program. It hns been necessary to hold up mnny applications for payment due to nddditional soil-building practices. Any farmer who has cnrried out any prnctico qualifying for payment since the reporter visited his farm should notify the AAA office nt once, providing that he has not nlready informed them to date.

Every tanker sunk last spring in the Axis snbmarine drive along the Atlantic coast cost us enough gasoline to drive 15,000 cars from New York to San Francisco.

FARMS FACE FIRE AS COLD BEGINS

Michigan farmers face a season greatest of the year in fire hazards as heating plants are started up nnd forced to keep homes, barns, milk houses nnd wntering tnnks usnble in winter months.

Three fire preventive pointers and some advice on protecting against freezing those spray rig tanks kept filled to fight possible fires are offered by C. H. Jefferson of the agricultural engineering department of Michigan State College.

First of the fire preventers is to have good roofs so that if sparks fly out of chimneys they will be less apt to start blazes.

If sparks fly out of n chimney the chimney probably has an accnmnlntion of soot or cnrbon. The soot ought to be cleaned ont. Similnrly if smoke comes out of flues or cracks in a chimney, there is need for timely repairs, Jefferson points out.

Heating plnnts should ho kept in shape, clenned out around the grates and dampers kept under control to prevent overheating.

Recently the college recommended groater uso of the estimated 20,000 power potato and fruit spray rigs as firo fighting dovices. Water under high pressure can be used to smother a firo with fog and put out a blnze with a small quantity of water.

Two county fair programs rocently proved spectacular demonstrations of the idea. At Allegan a corn crib fire was extingnlsbed in 55 seconds with 30 gnllons of water. Simllnrly, at the Newaygo county community fair, a spray rig put out n fire in about ono minute, too soon to permit C. C. Mullett, county agriculturnl agent to obtnin photographs.

In zero weather the spray rig tanks need an anti-freezo solution, such as one made by adding 2.87 pounds of flake calcium chloride to each gallon of water. For 10 below zero weather, another three-fourths of n pound of the flako should bo added to a solution safe at zero. For 20 below, still another half pound is added to the 10 below zero solution.

these times when Congressional representatives are being accused—and sometimes rightfully—of jeopardizing public interests for personal selfishness—Sen. Brown did just the opposite. He put his chances for re-election this fall "on the line" by jolting the powerful farm lobbyists—telling the truth about their efforts to sacrifice national security for selfish interests—a stand which perhaps thousands of his former constituents who by their vote control his re-election this fall might now understand. Fighting desperately against what appeared to be certain defeat, Sen. Brown all but kissed away his political future to serve the people who elected him. We have heard a lot of talk lately about the Administration dodging highly controversial issues "until after election." Let us be proud that Michigan's Senator Prentiss M. Brown cannot be thusly accused.

An observant person has called my attention to over-lapping in the use of automobiles in our community. As an example, this individual cited the fact that Monday morning three Charlevoix car owners drove to Petoskey to take passengers to catch the Pennsylvania train. Two cars had one passenger besides the driver, the other two passengers. One car could easily have served all—had each known of the other's plans. This occurrence brought out the need for a "share-a-ride" plan to conserve autos, tires and fuel. As rationing regulations are clamped down, we'll be forced to such measures. Why not start now before it is necessary?

Perch are biting good now in Round lake, indicating, we hope, that the fall "run" is definitely underway. About two dozen boats were out Tuesday and I understand all made good catches. There are steelhead to be had, too, if you happen to be in the right place at the right time on Lake Charlevoix.

The lower peninsula small game season opens a week from tomorrow, Thursday, October 15. Hope to be down-state to open the season on pheasants and back for "pot" shooting the first Sunday. This hunting will provide a bright spot in an otherwise rather uncertain existence nowadays for most sportsmen.

If you haven't collected all the scrap metal around your place already, do so between the period of October 5-17. Pile it at the curb like you do rubbish during the annual spring clean-up campaign, and city trucks will haul it to the local salvage depot. Give your scrap to the Japs—in bumbs!

CIVILIAN UNIT COAST GUARD IS PLANNED

Revolutionary Idea Would Release Young Men for Combat

As part of a revolutionary new plan designed to release able young coast guard officers and men for combat duty at sea, many hundreds of residents of the Lake Michigan area may soon be serving as temporary members of the coast guard reserve.

Temporary membership in this reserve will enable civilians to assume voluntary military status, without pay, for special local coast guard duty ashore and afloat, without endangering business or family ties.

Although those who take part in this new plan will wear the official uniform or uniform marking of their rank or rate when on active duty, they will not be exempt from selective service nor will they receive special consideration from draft boards.

According to Capt. Thomas A. Shanley, district coast guard officer, the intention of the plan is to turn over the manning of patrol boats, life-boat stations and even light-house stations, wherever possible, to competent reservists not eligible for regular service by reason of age, dependencies or minor physical disabilities. By serving one day a week or more each, younger men will be relieved for more arduous duty in the coast guard's rapidly expanding fleet of sub-chasers or manning troop transports.

Temporary members of the reserve may be placed on full time duty if needed, but only by permission of the individual. In this case they will receive uniforms and the regular active duty pay of the coast guard rank or rating in which they serve.

Familiarity with the handling of boats or yachts is desirable for those planning to apply. In certain cases, for special duties, others will be accepted. The minimum age limit is 18.

Formal applications will be sent those desiring to enroll. Rank or rating will be granted according to the special abilities of the applicant. Inquiries and requests for applications are being received by the United States Coast Guard, 610 South Canal Street, Chicago.

TB SEALS AVAILABLE CHRISTMAS PACKAGES

Seals May Be Obtained from Assn. Office in Lansing

Do you want Christmas seals to decorate the package you are sending to a soldier or sailor? Seals may be purchased now from the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, Lansing, for packages going to members of the American armed forces serving overseas.

Owing to the great distance the mail must be transported, postal officials are urging October mailing of Christmas parcels to men in the service. Although the Christmas Seal sale does not open until November 23, requests for seals to be used on these holiday packages are being filled, according to Thos. J. Werle, executive secretary of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association.

He urged all families sending holiday packages to men overseas to "dress them up" with seals.

In decorating packages, postal officials stress that nothing save the address should go on the face of the package. All decorations should go on the back and sides.

AT THE MOVIES

"Desperate Journey"

"Desperate Journey," Warner Bros.' stirring new success, opens Saturday, October 10, at the Palace Theatre, Starring Errol Flynn and Ronald Reagan, the picture tells the story of how an R. A. F. bomber crew, forced down in the heart of Nazi-land, gunned, dynamited, fought their way to safety and England.

The only important feminine role in the film is played by Nancy Coleman, who scored such a success in "Kings Row" and "The Gay Sisters." She is cast as a member of the German Underground who comes to the aid of the embattled Englishman.

"A Yank on Burma Road"

Plenty of action, a new setting and an above-average supporting cast combine to make "A Yank on the Burma Road," which opens Tuesday, October 13, at the Palace Theatre, an outstanding picture.

More than just a story of China's efforts to keep supplies rolling over the famed Burma Road, it is a tale of China — of its fathers and its mothers and children, of the Chinese spirit which will not down.

In leading roles are Barry Nelson and Laraine Day.

REQUEST SPORTSMEN SAVE EMPTY SHELLS

Cut Off Cardboard and Solvage Metal Cartridge Bases

The half million small game and deer hunters invading Michigan's woods and fields this fall are asked by the department of conservation to cooperate with the Michigan Salvage Committee by saving all their shotgun and rifle shell casings.

The Michigan Retail Hardware Dealers' association has been enlisted in the drive, and all hardware stores in the state will serve as collection centers. They will cooperate with the various county salvage committees.

With use of several million shells likely during the small game and deers seasons in Michigan, it is believed that a huge quantity of valuable metal could be salvaged. The Michigan Salvage Committee has suggested that hunters cut off the cardboard and paper sections of their used shotgun shells and turn in just the metal bases. Sportmen's clubs, it was said, could perform a valuable service by salvaging what may in some cases be enormous quantities of brass now lying about rifle ranges and trap shooting grounds.

While it was announced a short time ago that sportsmen would have no difficulty this fall in obtaining shotgun shells, it was reported then that ammunition for the more popular caliber deer hunting rifles was practically off the market. The Michigan Salvage Committee, in asking sportsmen to save shell casings, said, "hunters should be convinced that if they salvage used shells, they may be able to hunt for a much longer time. It may be that we will be able to obtain ammunition loads but not shell casings, and in that situation, salvaging the brass shells is in order."

Bring Useful Article; Payment Made in War Savings Stamps

Charlevoix's first Victory Auction will be held at the grand opening of St. Mary's recreation center this Friday evening, October 9.

Sponsored jointly by the Charlevoix Service Organization and the local chapter of the National Council of Catholic Men, the auction is intended to promote sale of war stamps. Everyone attending is asked to bring some useful article, in good condition, which will be auctioned off to the highest bidder and payment made in savings stamps.

The public is invited to attend and inspect facilities of the recreation center, and enjoy the evening of dancing and cards which is planned.

THOMSON AND PORTER PROPERTY PURCHASED

R. W. Allen Acquires Boathouse; Porter Place on M-66

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Allen have purchased the Logan Thomson boathouse on Round lake and the John Porter property on M-66, near East Jordan, with the intention of making Charlevoix their permanent home.

Extensive improvements to the boathouse property are planned. Since their yacht "Wanderer," their home for several years, was turned over the navy in August, the Allens have resided in the living quarters of the boathouse.

ANNUAL MEETING OF HEALTH UNIT

The report of the past years activities carried on by the staff of the health department was gratifying to the board of health of the district. No outbreak of communicable disease occured in the district during the year. What might have been a serious situation caused by the presence of rabies among dogs and other domestic animals was controlled promptly by the action of the various communities involved which quarantined dogs until the danger was over.

According to a tabulation of activities made by the State Department of Health for the quarter ending June 30, many of the activities carried on by the staff of this health department exceeded those of any of the other 43 health departments in the state, and in one item at least—that of vaccination of infants—exceeded even the number reported by the health departments of all cities including Detroit and in the number of infants admitted to service by the staff of the Health Department only Detroit exceeded. The activities carried on by the staff of the Health Department compared favorably with all other health departments in the state. The director gave full credit to the nurses who he stated had borne the brunt of the hard work that was necessary to make such a report possible. He also paid a tribute to the officials of the various counties particularly the sheriffs and the police officers in the various communities "who have never failed" he said, "to cooperate in any way they could and had by such cooperation contributed no little to the success of the communicable disease program".

Dr. Chapman highly commended the work done by Leonard Pratt, sanitary engineer for the health department, who incidentally has enlisted in the Army Air Corps and is now awaiting call. Under Mr. Pratt the water and milk supplies of the district have been efficiently supervised and the sanitary facilities of resorts have improved greatly over any previous period.

TRANSPORTATION BOARD SELECTED

USDA GROUP TO AID FARM TRUCKERS REGISTER

Registration Oct. 22-24 Required All Farmer Truck Owners, Truckers Serving Farmers

The Charlevoix county farm transportation committee, recently appointed by the USDA War board, will be available to assist farmers who own trucks and truckers who haul farm products from farms and supplies to farms in executing applications for "Certificates of War Necessity" which all trucks are required to obtain before November 15, according to Walter H. Henley, chairman of the Charlevoix county USDA War Board.

The dates, October 22, 23, and 24, have been designated as national farm truck registration days and on one of these three days all farmers in Charlevoix county who own trucks and all truckers in Charlevoix county who service farmers should fill out the necessary application blank. Details regarding the location and arrangements for registration will be announced in the near future.

Under general order No. 21, issued on September 9 by the Office of Defense Transportation, all trucks must carry a "Certificate of War Necessity" in order to legally operate, and in order to obtain gasoline, tires or repair parts after November 15.

"Certificates of War Necessity" aim to confine truck operations to those which are necessary to the war effort or to essential domestic requirements, and to make the most possible use out of each truck. To this end, the certificates will set the maximum mileage and the minimum loads for each truck or vehicle for which a certificate is issued.

Melvin J. Somerville was appointed to serve as chairman of the county farm trapsportation committee. Four members of the committee were appointed as follows: Carl Prohaska and Theodore La Croix, representing the farmers; Bert Lumley as farm truckers; and William Stanek, representing the supply dealers.

REVIVAL MEETINGS ELLSWORTH CHURCH

RECREATION CENTER OPEN TO STUDENTS

Victory Auction Postponed Later Date; Will Aooounce Time

The 'victory auction' which was planned for the opening of St. Mary's recreation center last Friday evening, has been postponed to a later date.

Round and square dances were featured on the opening night. The door prize was won by Miss Peggy Fox. Mrs. Nellie McCafferty donated a cake which was auctioned off for $3.75 for the Courier subscription fund of the Charlevoix Service Organization.

The recreation hall is now open for Charlevoix high school students on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings.

Articles brought for the "victory auction" have been stored, marked with the owner's name. Everyone who expects to attend the auction should find some article to bring. Date of the event will be announced later.

SCHOOL CROPS EXHIBIT IS PLANNED

EVENT SCHEDULED NOVEMBER 3 AT EAST JORDAN

Agricultural and Home Economics Department All County Schools Invited to Participate

An agricultural school fair will be held during the afternoon and evening of Tuesday, November 3, at East Jordan. It will be held in the auditarium of the new high school.

The fair will in reality be extended to all Charlevoix county. The agricultural departments of East Jordan and Boyne City will be represented, also the home economics departments of all the high schools in the county. In addition there will be fruit, vegetable, and potato classes for all adult open class exhibitors. This includes corn, small grain, and alfalfa.

There will be premiums paid on exhibits, but the amount of exhibit money will not be announced until next week. The F. F. A. of East Jordan high school has charge of the fair plans. This organization will be directed by L. B. Karr, agricultural instructor, and B. C. Mellenamp, county agricultural agent.

It is hoped that exhibitors will select their best exhibits of apples, potatoes, corn, vegetables, home cooked dishes, etc., early so as to make the fair an outstanding contribution to the county's "Food for Victory" campaign.

Watch next week's paper for full particulars of classes and premium money paid.

SERVICE MEN'S ADDRESSES ARE WANTED

Kiwanis to Send Christmas Greetings Overseas and at Home

Names and addresses of all Charlevoix men in the services are wanted by the Kiwanis Club before November 1st, last date for sending Christmas mail overseas.

The club plans to extend Christmas greetings to each local man in the armed forces and needs the cooperation of everyone to fulfill its purpose. Names and addresses should be left at the Central Drug store, either in person, by phone or mail.

POWER SQUADRON OFFICERS WERE ELECTED

James H. Bellingor, J. N., Commandor of Local Unit

Officers of the Charlevoix Power Squadron were elected for the ensuing year at the annual meeting held Thursday evening, October 8.

James H. Bellinger, J. N., was chosen to succeed Bill Bellinger, J. N., as commander. Other officers named were: lieutenant commander, John Nordrum, A. P.; lieutenant, George Bergmann; secretary, Bill Bellinger; treasurer, Clair S. Webster.

New officers assumed their posts following election. Committees will be announced and plans outlined for winter courses in instruction at the next regular meeting in November.

RAYDERS BEAT ONAWAY OUTFIT

SCORED DECISIVE 34 TO 0 VICTORY SATURDAY

Rowe, Carey and Swanson Divided Scoring; Play Next Contest at East Jordan

Marking up their second victory of the season, Charlevoix high school's Red Rayders romped over Onaway's lighter team at south side athletic field Saturday afternoon by a 34 to 0 score.

Showing superior football in every department and with Rowe, Carey and Swanson leading the attack, the Rayders scored once in the first, second and third periods and crossed Onaway's goal twice in the fourth quarter.

Charlevoix scored first early in the opening quarter. A series of end runs and line smashes took the ball down to Onawny's 1-yard line. Swanson went off tackle for the score and Carey place-kicked for extra point.

Swanson scored again late in the second period after a lateral, Rowe to Carey, was good for 22 yards to Onaway's 9-yard line. A blocked punt, recovered by Charlevoix on Onawny's 3-yard strip, paved the way for the third touchdown in the third quarter, with Rowe scoring on an off-tackle play. A completed pass for extra point gave Charlevoix a 20 to 0 lead.

Carey scored on a lateral from Swanson to open the fourth period and place-kicked extra point for a 27 to 0 margin. Rowe scored the last touchdown in the final moments of the fourth period on a fluke play. He intercepted the ball only a yard from an Onawny passer's hand and romped untouched from mid-field over the goal. Swanson kicked extra point just before the whistle sounded.

INTENSIFYING SCRAP SEARCH

WAR CLUBS ORGANIZE IN RURAL DISTRICTS

School Children Canvassed City, Reminding Citizens Collect Metal for Truck Pick-Up

The intensive drive to get scrap metal to the steel mills is swinging into full stride in Charlevoix county this week.

The final drive to collect scrap from every farm in the county has been organized at meetings in Charlevoix, Boyne City and at the Boyne River grange this week. Responsibility of making the drive a success is being given to each one of the 69 local war clubs which consist of from 10 to 30 families each. All farmers will be contacted by local war club leaders during the two weeks of October 19 to 31. Collection is in charge of the salvage committee of the Charlevoix County Defense Council, acting through the U.S.D.A. War board and local clubs.

Charlevoix public school children of the first to seventh grades canvassed this city Monday afternoon, issuing reminders to citizens to turn in their scrap metal. Some metal was brought by the children to the scrap pile at the school, which has been rapidly built up by contributions brought from the children's homes. People who had not yet collected their metal were reminded to have it piled in front of their homes for pick-up by city trucks on Tuesday and Wednesday, or to take it to the city scrap depot themselves if they could.

The steadily increasing heap of metal at the scrap depot in the Charlevoix Lumber Company's yard shows the enthusiasm with which local citizens have cooperated in the effort to get metal to the mills before snow flies.

ORNAMENT FOR SCRAP

Contributed to the local scrap metal drive last week was an ornamental and weighty pewter lion, property of Dr. Eugene Talbot, of the Chicago Club. Standing—or rather sitting—almost four feet tall and weighing 203 pounds, the lion has been a familiar sight on the Club grounds for 60 years, as it was originally owned by S. M. Moore, first Club president. Leo now sits in front of the city scrap depot to guard the huge pile of metal.

CSO STAMP AND BOND SALES FOR LAST WEEK

Last week's CSO war stamp and bond sales at the Central Drug store amounted to $257.20. Doris Solomon sold $200, Robert Hamilton $25.

This week the sales booth will be situated at Schroeder & Hovey drug store. It is expected to locate the booth in various stores each week in connection with the retail merchants' campaign for stamp sales.

FLOYD SUPP NAMED KIWANIS OFFICER

Elected Lieutenant Governor 9th Dist. at State Meet in Saginaw

Floyd A. Supp, local attorney, was elected lieutenant governor of the 9th division of the Michigan Kiwanis organization, at the annual meeting of Kiwanis clubs in Saginaw last week.

Mr. Supp has been active in Kiwanis club work and is a past president of the Charlevoix club. He will have charge of this division, which includes Charlevoix, Petoskey, Rogers City, Cheboygan, and Sault Ste. Marie.

Nomination of Mr. Supp for the office was made by the Charlevoix club, which was represented by Harry E. Bingham and Fred W. Bancroft.

UPLAND GAME SEASON OPENS OCT. 15

HUNTING ALLOWED 22 DAYS IN LOWER PENINSULA

Shooting Starts at 8 in Morning Under New Rules; Bag Limits Same as Last Year

Michigan's most popular hunting season opens at 8 a. m. next Thursday morning, October 15, when the legal lid of protection is lifted from all common varieties of small upland game in the lower peninsula. The 8 a. m. start for shooting is a new ruling this year.

With the upland game season above the Straits open since October 1, and the duck season since September 26, the October 15 opening in the lower peninsula will complete the release of an anticipated half million hunters.

The species which becomes legal game October 15 are pheasants, partridge, woodcock, cottontail and snowshoe rabbits, fox squirrels, prairie chickens and sharp-tailed grouse. The latter two species are found only in the upper peninsula and northern section of the lower peninsula, and the lower peninsula area in which they may be hunted is defined as that lying north of the north line of T16N and west of Saginaw bay.

Fox and gray squirrel may be hunted in all the lower peninsula from October 15 to November 5, or as long as the bird season lasts.

Game laws, limits and seasons remain virtually the same as last year. All are simply explained in red print in the 1942-43 game law digests which are issued with the hunting licenses.

Unless frost or rain brings the leaves down, foliage will make most small game shooting more difficult, especially partridge hunting early in the season. Prospects this year, according to reports, are good.

HUNTERS ARE URGED TO SAVE DUCK FEATHERS

Government Needs Eiderdown for Vital War Equipment

When you skin or pluck your ducks this fall, save the feathers. The government needs them to replace the formerly imported eider down that is used to pad aviators' high-altitude garments, sleeping bags for troops in Alaska and other purposes important to our war effort.

Only the down and small breast feathers from ducks and geese are needed. The seasonal waterfowl bags in this country should provide enough padding for 300,000 aviators' pants or parkas, 150,000 sleeping bags or 500,000 sub-zero jackets.

All duck and goose body feathers less than two and a half inches long and plucked dry can be used. Shipments of feathers should be made to Ducks, Unlimited, 83 Columbia street, Seattle, Wash.

SUPERVISORS IN OCTOBER SESSION

REPORTS OCCUPY FIRST TWO DAYS OF MEETING

Major Portion of Work of Annual Fall Session Remains In Hands Committees

The 74th annual session of the Charlevoix county board of supervisors opened Monday morning at the court house here.

Activities up to the present time have centered around reading of correspondence, reports of county officers and department heads. Reports have been referred to committees for future action.

Reports of county officers have included those of Fenton R. Bulow, clerk; Lillis M. Flanders, county treasurer; Ervan A. Ruegsegger, judge of probate; Mrs. Floyd Ikens, matron of the county jail; Walter H. Henley, county AAA chairman. Miss Wittersheim appeared for the Michigan Childrens Aid Society, and Rolin T. White for the West Michigan Tourist & Resort association, seeking annual appropriations.

It is anticipated business of the session will be completed this week as the result of the board voting to continue without adjournment until all work is finished. Some rural members expressed a desire for adjournment from Wednesday, October 14, to Tuesday, October 20, allowing them to go home for farm harvest. The proposal was voted down by a 15 to 9 margin.

TOURIST ASSOCIATION ANNUAL MEET DATE SET

Secretary Hugh J. Gray announces that the annual meeting of the West Michigan Tourist and Resort Association will be held at the Pantlind Hotel, Grand Rapids, Thursday, November 5. Because of the unusual conditions this year, the executive committee decided to have a one day meeting, devoted to business, from ten in the morning until five in the afternoon, finishing up with a banquet in the evening.

PLANTING GAME FISH COMPLETED

AWAIT ODEN REPORT FOR RESULT YEAR'S PROGRAM

Trout Reared At Stover Creek Ponds Distributed at Adjacent Streams and Ponds

Officers of the Charlevoix Sportsman's Club are awaiting receipt of a report from Oden state hatchery to ascertain success of the 1942 fish propagation program at Stover creek rearing ponds.

Planting of the year's output of the rearing pond system was made recently under direction of the conservation department fish division men from Oden, assisted by Roy Ranger, to whose efforts the rearing program has been responsible. Fingerlings of each species were weighed and tabulated reports will be forthcoming.

Without the Oden report, club officials believe the 1942 program to be a great success from the standpoint of results obtained, even though the number of fish put into the ponds in spring was smaller than some previous years. Ideal water conditions prevailed throughout the summer, a factor of high importance to successful fish propagation.

It is estimated around 18,000 advanced fingerlings, fish ranging from 3 to 8 inches in length, were distributed from the ponds. Mr. Ranger estimated 6,000 brook trout were released in Horton creek, 7,000 German brown trout were placed in the Burns pond on McGeagh creek, and that 5,800 rainbow trout were released at Horton Bay in Lake Charlevoix. A large number of fish of all species were left in the ponds, providing a heavy stock for Stover creek, due to high water when the ponds were netted.

Mr. Ranger also reported a release of 50,000 mackinaw trout fingerlings in Lake Charlevoix from the local federal hatchery late in August, marking the fourth consecutive year such a release has been made.

"SHARE A RIDE" PLAN INSTITUTED BY CITY

Board of Commerce Office to be Information Center

Instituting what to our knowledge is the original municipal "share-a-ride" plan, the Charlevoix board of commerce has established an information center for the convenience of motorists and those who wish rides to other cities.

Persons expecting to make a motor trip to any city on a certain date are asked to call the Board of Commerce office, telephone 75, and give their destination, date and time of departure, and number of passengers which they can take. Those who want to go to other cities may follow the same plan, giving the date they desire a ride to any city. Requests will be filled as efficiently as possible.

Those who make regular trips to nearby towns are especially needed to co-operate in the plan, which should prove a great convenience to both drivers and travelers, as well as effecting a considerable saving on tires and gasoline.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By KEN USHER

Northern Michigan's Indian summer—a solid week of it—has erased memories of the two weeks of preceding rainy, cold weather. Cool nights, warm, bright days and frost-crowned scenery of unsurpassed beauty which defies word description, are ours. It is Nature at its best.

When you read a notice elsewhere in this issue warning against burning leaves on tarvia-topped streets, just remember that the city can't get surfacing materials until after the war is over, and if you burn a hole in the pavement now, it remains there for the duration.

Following a suggestion contained in this column a week ago, the Charlevoix board of commerce has instituted a share-a-ride movement for the benefit of you citizens. It should not be necessary to remind anyone that under present wartime restrictions and need for utmost economy, it is nothing short of unpatriotic, not to mention wasteful, for a car owner to drive to another city without a capacity load. So now all you have to do to be cooperative and show your patriotism, is to call the board of commerce office when you plan a trip, giving information regarding date of departure, destination and number of passengers you can accommodate. Those seeking transportation should call this same source of information. All the plan needs now for success is public cooperation.

The stinger of a bee is only 1-32 of an inch long, they say. The other foot and a half, then, must be imagination.

Ever since I read an advertisement in a Grand Rapids daily newspaper offering "fresh perch direct from Charlevoix" for 22c a pound, I've been trying to figure out why it is we get socked 35c for the same thing right at the source of supply.

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Three proposals will appear on the November ballots in Michigan.

The first proposal authorizes the holding of a state convention to draft a new constitution. The revised charter would be submitted to the people for approval or disapproval. When the same proposition appeared on ballots in November, 1926, it was defeated about two to one.

Proposal No. 2 is a constitutional amendment to permit home rule for Wayne county, substituting a 19-member county commission for the present board of supervisors which numbers well over 100. More about this later.

Proposal No. 3 is a referendum on the milk marketing act.

Last July this column quoted the views of Stanley M. Powell, executive of the Michigan Farm Bureau and a dairy farmer near Ionia, on proposed reform in government.

At that time we offered as interpretation, the following observation: "Home rule for Michigan's most metropolitan county and a state constitutional convention are two separate, distinct issues. Yet they will be inevitably linked together in the public mind because each seeks to accomplish the same thing: Reform of local government. The Wayne county amendment to the state constitution would effect governmental reforms for Wayne county, with the permission of the rest of the state. The constitutional convention would tackle the same need on a state basis."

This week, in a spirit of fair play, we present the viewpoint of the Citizens Committee on Home Rule for Wayne county as given to us by Clarence E. Wilcox, chairman. His statement follows:

"In one of your recent reviews of state affairs, you commented on the various questions to be submitted to the people in the November election, including Proposal No. 2—the Wayne County Home Rule Amendment.

"You expressed the thought that voters in the rural sections look with suspicion upon any measure

New Crop from the Northland

Milkweed floss from northern Michigan—300,000 pounds of it to be gathered this fall- will take the place of kapok formerly imported from southern Pacific countries, and for some uses, as in life-preserver jackets and upholstery, may prove superior. The picker popping a ripe pod into the bag was photographed near Petoskey, but thousands of acres of northern Michigan wildland support heavy stands of the weed. On state-owned lands milkweed pod picking is free.

AND HELP SPEED WAR CALLS!

It's a fact that by keeping your own telephone conversations short you can help the war effort. Central office equipment can handle only so many calls at a time. Some of them may be important war messages, and war calls must go through. By cutting down the length of your calls you help free the equipment for handling war calls speedily and efficiently.

Because the telephone is vital to all war activity, many local offices and long distance lines are crowded with calls. In normal times we would install enough new equipment to handle the added load. But we can't, now, because of material shortages. So it boils down to this: Every one of us has a duty to help keep the lines clear for war.

HOW YOU CAN HELP

1. Keep all your telephone calls as brief as you can.
2. Make only the most essential Long Distance calls.
3. On a Long Distance call, give the number of the telephone you are calling, if possible.

And please don't call Information for a number when it's listed in the directory. Help save the wires for war!

She found Slade waiting for her on one of the limestone ridges. He stood there, staring at the flare that lighted up the evening sky just over the next hill.

"You'd better stay here," he said, his eyes on the glow above the hilltop. He knew well enough what that glow meant.

"But they may need help," said Lynn.

He moved his head from side to side in dissent.

"Not now. That's their plane burning up."

"And they're in it?" cried Lynn as she sank down on the ground.

"What's left of them, I'm afraid," Slade said with an unexpected absence of emotion.

Lynn watched him as he went over the hill. It seemed a long time before he came back. He flung himself down beside her and sat there silent and dispirited.

"They didn't get away," he finally observed in a voice devoid of all triumph.

Lynn, who had taken her turn at gleaning about at their world of rock and water and gold-green twilight, turned back to her tired companion.

"What are we going to do?" she asked. She wanted to reach out for his hand, to win a little warmth back to his empty eyes. But that, she remembered, would have to wait.

"There's nothing to do," said Slade as he rose to his feet, "except to head back while there's still a little light left."

And Lynn, following him down to the plane, wondered if all life wasn't so effort to head back, to discern a course through the shadows, while there was still a little light left.

Slade, once more hightailing it homeward from Coppermine, glanced down at the mottled country crawling under his floats.

He did a little sum on a slide rule, to check his ground speed, looked at his watch, and reached for his earphones. He smiled at the newness of the 'phones and the newness of the compact little radio set. They made the rest of the Snow-Ball Baby look old and battered. But Stan Cruger had insisted on putting them there. He wanted no more weeks of silence from either of his bush planes. And in fifteen minutes, back at Waterways, Stan was to tune in and get his report.

Slade, while he waited, worked his dial and heard the silent ether become busy with its multitudinous voices. He caught a whiff of orchestra music from KNX, away off in Los Angeles. He caught a fragmentary message going out from Royal Canadian Signals at Yellowknife, and the air-gossip of pilots to ground-points along the Basin. He picked up scatches of weather reports and flying positions, of stock quotations, of messages that had little meaning to him.

Slade shut out the ghostly voices and once more consulted his watch. After a glance ahead and a second glance at his instrument panel he turned back to his radio.

"CF-KCB calling Norland Airways at Waterways. Slade calling Stan Cruger at Waterways. CF-KCB calling Norland at Waterways . . . Come in, Stan. What's my signal strength? . . . Yes, I hear you fine. I'm forty-three minutes out of Wall Lake Post heading southwest by south with a pay load of concentrates that ought to make up for that lost week. Yes, I'm feeling fit. But I want to swing in before nine. I've got to."

Slade's smile widened as the voice of his partner took the desolation out of the emptiness surrounding him.

"I'll be here at the port when you shuffle in," that voice was saying, "and I think there's going to be somebody else waiting. But I wanted to tell you the Kovalevka had been libeled and held off Echo Harbor . . . The Kovalevka, that Russian icebreaker . . . And our Lockheed lands at Yellowknife about five today . . . But wait a minute. Stay in, CF-KCB. Can you hear me, Lindy? There's a lady here waiting to speak to you."

The seconds seemed long as Slade waited.

"Can you hear me, Alan?" a bell-like voice was saying to him. It was only a voice, winging half a thousand miles over a water-spangled wilderness, but it brought a warming glow to his body.

"Yes, darling, I hear you," he answered.

He knew it was Cleavar, working VBK at Coppermine, who at that point cooed across the ether: "And the sugar-lanes will now be open."

"Are you all right?" the bell-like voice asked.

"I'll be better in six hours," Slade announced. "For then I'll be seeing you."

"It will be the longest six hours in my life," Lynn's voice complained. But her laugh was a happy one.

"What did the Padre say about Thursday?" he asked.

"He won't start east until Friday. He's more excited than I am, Alan. The old dear's wired to have orchids and orange-blossoms flown in from California."

"But why is he starting east?" questioned Slade.

"He's decided on a twelve-week course at McGill," was Lynn's answer. "He says it's to brush up on his surgery. But I'm hoping they'll hold him there through the winter."

"He's a grand man," Slade proclaimed.

"So is Lindy, lady," a remote and altogether unplaced voice cut in.

"Alan, are you there?" Lynn's softer voice inquired. "There seems to be interference."

"There is," said the unknown. "But take it from me, lady, he's all right. Congratulations!"

Lynn's laugh came clear.

"Who's your friend out there?" she inquired.

"I think it's Tony Frendall at Fort Smith. I'll reckon with that bird later on."

"We don't seem to have much privacy," said Lynn.

"You don't get it on the air, lady," announced a newer and deeper-throated intruder.

"Then this will have to be all, Alan," the bell-like voice was saying. "Good-by, darling," answered Slade.

He was about to remove his earphones, but a babel of words held his hand arrested.

"So you're going to marry the girl, Lindy!"

He interpreted that as from Cap Bickell on the Basin's mail plane heading north to Herschel.

"I'm telling the world." Slade found the courage to affirm. There was even a ring of defiant pride in his proclamation.

"Perhaps more than you imagine, big boy," an unknown and caustic voice observed through the aerial chatter.

They meant well, Slade remembered as he switched off and removed his earphones. But it made him think of rough high-tops trampling through a flower bed. And he wanted to be alone, under that lonely sky of robin's-egg blue, to think about his happiness.

4-H Club Council to Hold Fall Meeting

The County 4-H Club Council consisting of some twenty leaders and friends will meet Tuesday, October 20th for a little banquet and conference in the Extension office, Boyne City.

We anticipate changing some of our requirements to adapt the project activity to war needs and defense purposes. Already several new projects have been developed for the clothing program this winter. One entitled "Everyday Work Clothes" will be very popular with many members. Another one recently announced is "Restyling". Certainly with the conservation of clothing so necessary as a war necessity, projects of this type will be welcome. In regard to handicraft projects, again we expect to change the requirements so that our young carpenters can work on articles especially needed in our war effort.

The summer 4-H club program is rapidly drawing to a close. Report and story blanks have been distributed to all club leaders in the county. A summary of the program is not available as yet but a much larger enrollment has taken place than in other years. Well over 125 garden projects have been carried on by club members.

Miss Lois Corbett and Ralph May, assistant state club leaders, will be present to guide the discussion. A panel discussion will be held to discuss suggestions and recommendations that might be offered by council members. Our entire program, perhaps, will be changed to be in harmony with our war efforts. The problem of rationing, likewise, must be considered in our future activities. Invitations are being sent out to all club council members and a large attendance is anticipated. Full information relative to the time of this conference will be mailed out to each council member when the complete program is available.

Attacks On Our Congressman

The voters of the 11th Congressional District are by this time aware of the type of attack which the administration is making on our Congressman at this election.

The Present Administration, The New Dealers, the C. I. O., the Communists and others of their ilk have combined to defeat our Congressman at the November Election. It is the old Smear and Purge attack which has been tried out by the administration in other places—and which for the most part has failed.

"In this year of 1942 defeatist Bradley decried (denounced) promising our allies aid. Defeat this defeatist."

"Bradley voted against every single measure designed to get us set for war."

The above quotations from the first offensive are merely indicative of the type of attack which our Congressman must undergo. There will be more of them, quite likely more bitter and more personal.

The above is equivalent to calling our Congressman Pro-Nazi and Non-Patriotic.

WE CHALLENGE ANY DEROGATORY STATEMENTS CONCERNING BRADLEY'S PATRIOTISM

An administration which showed such lack of leadership prior to Pearl Harbor; an administration which permitted the sale to Japan of scrap iron, aviation gas and oil—even munitions of war—has little cause to attack his patriotic record.

We quote excerpts from the Detroit Free Press of September 13th:

"Although strong for National Defense, Bradley's opposition to war prior to Pearl Harbor marks him as one of the isolationists the administration would like to see voted out of office in November . . . .

"Despite his voting record on the war issue, Bradley has shown a keen interest in the military defense of the nation and has made constructive suggestions . . . .

"Bradley told the House of the vital importance of the Soo Locks which control the flow of 85% of the nations iron ore. He called the Locks 'America's No. 1 air target.' It was partly as a result of such public warnings that the War Department has taken such steps to protect the canal and to build the alternative Escanaba project for use if the Soo is temporarily put out of commission."

Prior to Pearl Harbor how many of the people of the 11th Congressional District favored the entry of this country in the war? NOT MANY.

Did you, Mr. Voter; did your friends and neighbors seek this war? YOU DID NOT. And Bradley as your representative in Congress in Congress, knowing that you did not want this war unless it was forced upon you, and KNOWING THAT THIS COUNTRY WAS NOT PREPARED FOR WAR, voted in accordance with your majority desire.

He has been accused of not supporting war measures. The Library of Congress, Legislative Reference Service, gives in substance the following:

Appropriations voted by the 76th and 77th Congresses for National Defense purposes, listed by our Federal Law Section, shows the total amounts appropriated for the Army, Navy, and Coast Guard from January, 1939 to date as $155,773,821,482.68 We have checked the Congressional Record very carefully and find that BRADLEY IS RECORDED as having voted AGAINST ONLY ONE-TENTH OF ONE PER CENT of the total.

Will You Help Us to Upset This Attempt to Purge Mr. Bradley, by voting for Him November 3rd?

STATE SPEED LIMIT ORDERS ARE SIGNED

Legal Steps to Enforce 35 Mile Limit Completed Friday

All legal formalities to permit the state police to enforce the 35-mile-an-hour federal speed limit beginning at 12:01 a. m. Monday had been completed last Friday.

State Police Commissioner Oscar G. Olander signed a state wide speed determination order and it was filed at the highway department along with similar orders which have dealt only with short stretches of congested state roads. The order had been signed previously by the highway comissioner and had the approval of the attorney general's office.

Capt. C. J. Scavarda said that state troopers would also arrest persons who weave in and out of traffic at more than 35 miles an hour under the reckless driving statute. They have been stopping and warning "fast" drivers since Oct. 1.

Meanwhile, reports reaching Lansing indicated that municipal judges had taken the lead in enforcing the 35-mile limit by handing out stiff penalties to violators in urban areas.

Scavarda said records of all traffic arrests would be made available to rationing authorities who might see fit to withhold gasoline rationing books when rationing begins next month.

FARMERS, TRUCKERS MUST FILE REPORTS

Certificate of War Necessity is Required by October 22

All farmers who own trucks and truckers who haul farm products and supplies will be required to fill out applications for "certificates of war necessity" Oct. 22-24, as required by the Office of Defense Transportation, Maurice A. Doan, chairman of the Michigan Farm War Board, has announced.

Doan said all county farm war boards, by direction of the secretary of agriculture, would set up "county farm transportation committees" to assist farmers and truckers in filling out the applications.

The committees were to include the county AAA chairman, two other farmers, one trucker and one farm supply dealer, the latter two appointed by the county farm war board, according to Doan.

The county transportation committees will probably have other jobs to do in regard to farm transportation problems as time goes on, according to Doan. He predicted they would probably be called upon to assist gasoline rationing authorities in determining how much gas individual farmers required to carry on essential farming and hauling operations.

OFFICERS ELECTED AT W.C.T.U. CONVENTION

Mrs. Gladys Palmer President for Fifth Consecutive Term

The 58th annual convention of the lower 11th district, Woman's Christian Temperance Union, was held Tuesday at the Baptist church in this city, with about 50 ladies from neighboring cities present.

Mrs. Gladys Palmer, this city, was elected for her fifth consecutive term as district president. Other officers, all of whom were re-elected, are: vice president, Mrs. Ruth Vance, East Jordan; corresponding secretary, Miss Agnes Porter, East Jordan; recording secretary, Mrs. Mynie Williams, Manceiona; treasurer, Mrs. Mattiebell Wright, Bellaire.

Directors chosen were: spiritual education, Mrs. Ira Dunlop, Kalkaska; alcohol education, Mrs. Marguerite Smith, Gaylord; character building, Mrs. Emma Besaw, Manceiona; press and publicity, Mrs. Cora Kirkpatrick, Bellaire; L. T. L., Mrs. Ruth Vance, East Jordan; Y. T. C., Mrs. Cora Seiler, East Jordan.

Mrs. Olla K. Marshall, state editor of the Michigan Union, was the speaker. Her address was titled, "Facing Realities."

Next year's convention will be held at Kalkaska.

OBSERVANCE NAVY DAY IS NOW BEING PLANNED

H. C. Wilson, Legion Commander, Named Local Chairman

Charlevoix will join in celebration of America's first war-time Navy Day October 27, according to plans announced by Hugh O'Brien, of Detroit, state chairman of Navy Day, and George Slocum, vice president of the Navy League for Michigan.

Herb Wilson, commander of of American Legion Post 226, has been appointed Navy Day chairman in Charlevoix. He will make local plans which will mark twin commemoration in Charlevoix of the birth of the Navy and the birth of President Theodore Roosevelt.

Throughout Michigan, American Legion posts are cooperating with civic organizations in Detroit in staging celebrations designed to make citizens "Navy conscious" and to make "The Navy—the First Line of Attack" a slogan in every Michigan home.

October 27 has been celebrated as Navy Day because is is the anniversary of the birth of President Theodore Roosevelt, so much of whose life was devoted to establishing a sound Naval policy for the United States.

U. S. MARITIME SERVICE DRIVE OPENED

Want 2,500 Men for Victory Fleet by Thanksgiving Day

Headquarters of the fifth regional district, United States Maritime Service in Cleveland, Ohio, announces a drive for 2500 men for the VICTORY FLEET by Thanksgiving Day, November 26th.

The fifth regional district includes the states of Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky, with enrolling offices in various cities. In charge of recruiting is Lieutenant Gerard W. Cross of the U. S. Maritime Service.

The new drive comes with the celebration of the now high in production of three Liberty ships a day. The Maritime Service recruits and trains men for vital jobs aboard these ships.

Men entering the Maritime Service must be American citizens of good character between the ages of 17 and 35 and must pass a physical examination. Accepted applicants are sworn into the Merchant Marine Reserve of the United States Navy. This exempts them from selective service.

Yes, you still can borrow

IN WAR as well as peace, people need money to meet special conditions. While borrowing for non-essential purposes is discouraged by the government, the various loan regulations recognize that people will always need funds for certain sound reasons. If you want a loan, see us. If your purpose is one for which loans may still be made, we will welcome your application. It costs nothing to get the facts, and this is the place to get them.

BOARD OF COMMERCE MEETING OCTOBER 21

Pancake Supper and Business Session at K. of P. Hall

Officers of the Charlevoix board of commerce have announced a general meeting to be held Wednesday evening, October 21, at the K. of P. hall.

A pancake supper is scheduled at 7 o'clock, to be followed by business meeting at 8.

An analysis of accomplishments of the past season will be presented through reports of committee chairmen, and preliminary plans for 1943 will be open for discussion.

Reports of 1942 activities will be made by Stewart E. Coleman, activities director; Arthur Bergeon, merchants committee; E. J. Edwards, hotels and clubs; Fred Bancroft, cabins and rooming houses; C. Y. Marshall, fall fishing festival; Earl A. Young, rentals and prospectus for 1943; report on director meetings by Clifford McKibbin, Jr., secretary.

In the line of entertainment, Kit Carson is scheduled to tell three stories and there will be selections by the Barbarshop Quartette.

Those who cannot attend the supper are urged to be present at the general meeting.

Are Women the Weaker Sex?

Well, they certainly were not in the instance of two comely housewives, who in finding time for body building gymnastics, found a helpful hobby. . . as well as a lot of fun. . . as described in words and pictures. . . in The American Weekly with this Sunday's (October 18) issue of The Detroit Sunday Times. Be sure to get Sunday's Detroit Times!

In 1885 Dr. Edward L. Trudeau built a little red cottage at Saranac Lake, N. Y. for two his tuberculosis patients. This was the beginning of sanatorium treatment in the United States. Today, there are more than 100,000 beds for the tuberculous in this country.

The X-ray is the most important diagnostic agent in discovering early tuberculosis.

Voters! Today it is everyone's patriotic duty to vote. Yet, September 24, 1942, your Congressman failed to vote on the vital Price Control Bill! Adams declared his stand on this issue last August. Elect a man to Congress you can depend on. Elect Adams.—Pol. Adv.

Notice!

DUE TO THE DAMAGE RESULTING FROM BURNING LEAVES ON TARVIA-SURFACED STREETS IN THE CITY, THIS PRACTICE IS STRICTLY FORBIDDEN.

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE THAT ORDERS OF THE CITY COUNCIL TO STOP THIS PRACTICE WILL BE CARRIED OUT TO THE FULLEST EXTENT.

LEO ALLARD,

Street Commissioner

MAIL SOLDIERS' XMAS GIFTS BEFORE NOVEMBER 1.

READ THE RULES—The following rules, issued by the Postoffice Department in cooperation with the Army Postal Service of the War Department, apply to the mailing of Christmas parcels for members of our Armed Forces serving outside the continental limits of the United States.

TIME OF MAILING—Christmas parcels and greeting cards should be mailed during the period beginning October 1 and ending November 1, 1942, the earlier the better. Each package should be endorsed "Christmas Parcel." Special effort will be made for delivery in time for Christmas.

SIZE AND WEIGHT—Christmas parcels shall not exceed 11 pounds in weight, or 15 inches in length or 42 inches in length and girth combined. However, the public has been urged to cooperate by voluntarily restricting parcels to the size of an ordinary shoe box and the weight to six pounds.

USE CARE IN PREPARATION—Remembering the great distance the mail will be transported and the necessary storage and frequent handling, it is absolutely necessary that articles be packed in substantial boxes or containers and be covered with wrappers of sufficient strength to resist pressure of other mail. Each parcel is subject to censorship and delay may be minimized by securing covering to permit ready inspection of contents.

PROHIBITED MATTER—Intoxicants, inflammable materials, poisons or compositions likely to damage mails are unmailable. No perishable matter should be included in parcels.

HOW TO ADDRESS PARCELS—Addresses must be legible. Parcels addressed to overseas Army personnel should show in addition to the full name and address of the sender, the name rank, Army serial number, branch of service, organization, A.P.O. number of the addressee and the postoffice through which parcels are to be routed. Units located within the continental United States may be addressed direct, using name, rank, organization and location.

POSTAGE MUST BE FULLY PREPAID—The rate on parcels of fourth-class matter (exceeding eight ounces) being the same rate applicable from the postoffice where mailed to the postoffice in the care of which parcels are addressed.

GREETING MESSAGES PERMISSIBLE—Inscriptions such as "Merry Christmas", "Don't open until Christmas" and the like may be placed on the covering of the parcel if it does not interfere with the address. Cards may be enclosed and books may bear a simple dedicatory inscription.

INSURANCE AND REGISTRY—Gifts of value should be insured. Articles of small size and considerable value should be sealed and sent as first-class registered mail.

MONEY ORDERS—The Army Postal Service recommends use of postal money orders to transmit gifts of money to members of Armed Forces outside the United States. These are cashed at A.P.O. in local foreign currency at rate of exchange on date of presentation.

Cooper, Johnson and Taylor, violinists; Messrs. Miller, Partridge, Campbell and Paddock, mandolinists; and Sam Levinson, flute. . . . Miss Maud Cross gave a supper Tuesday evening in honor of Lola's 19th birthday. Those present were Mayfred Stacks, Winnie Weaver, Merle Felts, Mabel Weed, Tate Pearson, Mildrad Johnson, Grace Barnett, and Mae Felts.

THE HOME FRONT IN MICHIGAN

Our armed forces have lopped off some 400 miles of bombing distance to Jap-held Kiska by erecting a base in the bleak and desolate Andreanof Islands. Thousands of miles southward, in the humid tropics, other U. S. fighting men hold outposts against the enemy.

These men, vanguards of greater forces to come, must have the best fighting tools it is within our power to provide them. They must have the right sort of food, clothing and equipment—adapted to the climate and the character of their hazardous enterprises.

Who would deny them this?

Some of what we send them comes from our surplus of goods. A great deal necessarily must come from the stock of things which we do not have in abundance. So, under our tight war economy, every single item, product and service must be examined: First, as to its primary war use; and, secondarily, as to its place in essential civilian needs.

Unity, Sacrifice, Action

This rigid test is disposing of countless assorted products and materials. All nickel must go to implements of war. The entire production of distilled spirits must be turned to war alcohol, an ingredient of explosives and synthetic rubber.

Except for what may now be left in stock, we'll get no more furniture made in whole or part of iron and steel, no refrigerated display cases, non-mechanic water coolers, mechanical refrigerators for freezing and storing farm products.

Articles in which no iron or steel may be used range from awning frames to voting machines and wardrobe trunks, including such various things as bathtubs, B-B shot, croquet sets, fireplace screens, pet cages, skates, and household tongs.

Judged by peacetime standards of a few months ago, the things we will do without can be numbered only by the hundreds. Judged by the victory standard of our war economy, we'll save tons of important metal and hasten delivery to our fighters of the things they need.

We're All at War

Some things we will do without. Other things, we will share a limited supply—share and share alike, the democratic way.

To stop manufacture of an article or to limit its production can be effected quickly by our government. But to distribute, or ration, a restricted stock among a nation of consumers is quite another story.

To set up gasoline rationing for 20 million additional motorists involves 60 million ration books and some 160 million copies of various forms and regulations.

Until this job is completed and the machinery for gasoline rationing is operative, patriotic drivers are expected to drive as little as possible, keep within the 35-mile maximum speed limit, be sure tires are properly inflated, share their cars with others.

Save for Victory

More and more commodities will be rationed. Some of them soon. The government will provide the machinery. It is up to the consumers to make it work equitably.

People using fuel oil for heating must determine how much fuel oil they bought last year and must measure the total square feet of floor space in order to have the information to determine the oil ration coupons to which they are entitled. Generally, they will receive two-thirds as much oil as last year, with an additional allowance for families with children under four years of age.

Rubber boots and work shoes now are being rationed to war workers and others who must have them. Certificates entitling eligible persons to purchase these restricted articles must be obtained from local rationing boards.

The "share-the-ment" ration of 2 1-2 pounds per person a week is still voluntary and will remain so probably until February but it is nonetheless essential. Those homes which have been averaging more than this allowance should eat larger quantities of foods with nourishment values similar to the "red meats"—fruits, cereals, dry beans, soybeans, peas, peanuts, milk and cheese, poultry, fish, eggs and the like.

Farmers who slaughter their own ments and butchers who handle them are obligated to keep the same rations as the rest of us.

All rationing will be comparatively simple, if we are honest with ourselves and with our country.

LETTERS from the ARMY CAMPS

Dear Ken,

Just a few lines to let you know how much I appreciate the Courier. I have been going to write for some time but just kept putting it off. It's really swell—the old home town news certainly seems good, more so than ever after a fellow gets out of the states.

There is not much to say about this part of the country, the weather seems to be the main topic of most of my letters. It's plenty hot, it seems to get hotter every day and there has been lots of rain ever since I've been here. Well, I guess that's the limit of my writing ability this time. Thanking you again for the Courier,

Sincerely,
P. F. C. John Curtis, Jr.
Trinidad, B. W. I.

Dear Ken,

Please hold my Courier for a while. We are leaving for New Orleans, La., so when I get there I will let you know my new address.

I think I was pretty lucky to get that furlough. Sure enjoyed being back in Charlevoix again. Had a nice trip.

Te all the Charlevoix boys in the service, I wish them luck, and lots of it.

Hope I may find some U. S. Power Squadron members in Louisiana.

Dear Ken,

I have been transferred from the ninth signal, of this base, to the 853rd signal service company, on the same base. I wish that you would record this so that I would still get my issue of the paper weekly.

The ninth signal grp., having pulled out last week made me miss this week's issue, and I did miss it. I do get most of the news from home, still in all there is no one that can write me the "shot at random" column. I am not the only one reading it. From it they get a pretty fair idea of what is going on up there.

From the news that they read in the paper they all want to pay my home town a visit. I may at times spread them a line about some of the things up there, but they believe it, so there is no harm in that. After all, you in your column, confirm some of the statements I have made.

Now that the football season is on I do not want to miss a single issue, so please record that change of address, I can assure you it will be appreciated.

THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON
From Your Congressman
Fred Bradley
11th District, Michigan

For some time I heve been receiving letters concerning the operation of the selectivo service eyetem in our district. The complaints nre net eimed at the members of the local draft boards, because I bellove everyono appreciatce that these gentlemen have a very difficult and thankless duty te perform. In the finel enalysis they heve little choice in the mettor. It is up to them to operete entirely under directives from State Selective Service headquerters in Lensing, which in turn operates under directives from Netional heedquerters in Washington.

These letters of complaint come from men in differont welks of life. I receive them from 3-A long merried men, without children, who have operated ferms for yeurs end who ero nearing the druft ago limit and were either being inducted or told that thoy will be in line for call shortly. Others come from men who, although possibly single or recently merried, have cultivated their parents' ferms for yeers end, with their aged peronts in most ceses uneble to farm, find it necessnry to euction off their livestock and mechinery prior to being inducted. Meny fermers in this category heve alrcady been inducted end the land now lying idle at a time when the increased farm production is so essentiel to our war effort.

Commercial fishermen are likewise confronted with the problem of keeping their equipment in operation. Many of our fishermen operate on a family basis whoreby father nnd sons with some additionnl experienced help operate their business. For instance, not so long ago I wns ncquninted with the situatian where three brothers hnd been operating a fnirly good sized business for yenrs—ull three have been inducted and the equipment stored. Another fisherman lns been in business for over 30 years and now becnnse all but one of his experienced men have been inducted he realizes he likewlse will have to discontinue operations.

Nationnl Selective Service Headquarters in Wash. has issued directives which should cope successfully with these situations. It has directed serious consideration be given the deferment of farm workers and trained commercinl fishermen ns essentinl to the war effort.

From reports which have come to my nttention, these directives are not being ndhered to for several reasons. For example, someone—either in the state or nationnl headquarters—hns decreed that farms north of Bay City are not in an agricultural area, nnd because of the relatively smnll size of the farms, no serious considerution need be given our agricultural workers. I do not believo in this line of rensoning. Every farm which in past years has produced normally nlust be kept in operetion in order thnt we may oven half-way realizo our Food for Victory program. Tho department of agriculture's various agencies have not decreased their activities in our district. They still consider us an essential agriculture section. Tho fishermen, too, appear to have a just compieint. Representatives of the Federal Bureau of Fisheries just recently circulated nmong our fishermon urging them to increase thoir catches and also include in them fish which we previously did not consider edible and this because fish must serve as e substitute for meat in deys ahead. The army has already taken over all but 20 per cent of our 1943 pack of canned fish and has indicated it will take a tremendous percentege of our normal fresh fish food supply.

Long ago the National Selective Service Headquerters in Washington directed thet all 1-A men be called up before men were called in classifications 2 and 3. There still remain a great meny young men in Cless 1-A who have not been called. These are to be found in many sections of the country, but particularly in tha large city districts. In most of our counties our 1-A classified men are practically exhausted. Nevertheless our quotas continue to mount and the local boards, not being specifically directed to tha contrary, have been filling these quotas out of classifications 2 and 3, which is not in accordance with the National directive. This matter is one of just complaint which should be corrected promptly.

All of these problems heve been a matter of grave concern to me as your Congressman. The National Selective Service has already made one investigetion in our district and some of the faults of the past have already been corrected. I have been assured thet another investigetion will be instigated immediately and it is to be hoped that the remaining discrepancies will be corrected before long.

All of us in our district want to do—and will do—our full share in winning this war. None of us have shirked our duty, as witnessed by the commendable records made in the various salvage and bond sales campaigns. Wo huve given—and will continue to give—our share of menpowor. All we ask is thnt wo be not unjustly imposed upon and thnt we be treated fairly and squarely nnd on n par with the Nation at large und with every other part of our State. I intend to see that this is done.

HARRY F. KELLY

BROUGHT BUSINESS EFFICIENCY INTO THE DEPARTMENT OF STATE

When Harry F. Kelly first took office as Secretary of State, January 1, 1939, the department was obsolete in its methods, dilatory in its service, hog-tied with red tapel Before his first term was over, Harry F. Kelly had streamlined the entire department, upped its efficiency month after month, and brought its economy to a high point.

Todsy, the department, doing an annual business in excess of $80,000,000, is a model of ably directed operation. Its 9 divisions and 170 odd branches function with the precision of a fine watch. It operates 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, in its Registration and Title Division to benefit the police and public alike.

To Harry F. Kelly, and to him alone, goes the entire credit for this amazing transformation! You can depend on his achieving the same high degree of efficiency, in all state departments, when he is elected Governor of Michigan on November 3rd.

Republican Candidate for Governor

emenating from Detroit or Wayne county.

"As chairman of the State Committee for Proposal No. 2, I am, of course, deeply concerned over the attitude of the voters outside Wayne county, because the amendment, although it applies to Wayne county alone, must be submitted to the voters of the entire state.

"Our long struggle for clean government in Wayne county, as contrasted to the ugly mess of bribery and inefficiency revealed by the county grand jury, may be won or lost in the areas beyond Wayne.

"Here is a clear issue, as we see it, between good government and bad government. Must we assume that the fair-minded and intelligent people living outside Wayne will vote on the side of bad government simply because of prejudices fixed by county lines?

"With all due respect to your seasoned judgment and wisdom in affairs pertaining to the State, we feel that the voters of the other counties of the state will favor this amendment when understood by them.

"We believe that the old prejudice between the dweller in rural area and the city dweller is a thing of the past. It has disappeared, under the influences of rapid communication, education, and other factors of progress. Counties are not just parts of a whole, but we are all one. The sons and daughters of farmers who attend our high schools and state institutions of higher learning, have the same ideals, the same outlook as do those of the big cities. They act alike, and think alike, and have similar aims.

"Place them in a situation where they must choose between good and bad, or right and wrong, and you will find them on the side of that which is good and right.

"If they feel they desire to help a neighbor in distress—and we people of Wayne believe we are in distress under present conditions of county government—their instinct will be to reach out a helping hand, as they would expect to be helped themselves by us under similar circumstances.

"We have enough confidence in our neighbors of other counties to believe implicitly that they will consider Proposal No. 2 on its merits as a measure designed to bring about better government, and that in so doing, they will join with the vast majority of the people of Wayne in voting 'Yes' on Proposal No. 2 in the November election."

More than 10,000 signed pledges of greater cooperation from war workers have been received by War Production Board chairmen Donald M. Nelson although no call for such pledges was issued in connection with the great national drive to increase war production by at least 25 per cent.

From where I sit . . .

by Joe Marsh

HAPPENED to me only yesterday. I step on the starter of my car. Engine turns over O. K. but she won't start.

So I look under the hood just as if I know what's the matter. Tap a few things with a wrench. While I'm standin' there, wondering what to do next, a young soldier steps alongside.

"Need some help?" he asks.

"Got her almost fixed," I says. "But still she won't start."

"Looks like your carburetor's flooded," he says. "Got a screw driver handy?"

That young soldier know what he was doin' all right. Went to work just like a professional.

"She'll be O.K. now," he says, straightenin' up and smilin'.

Boy's face looked sort of familiar. And darned if that soldier wasn't young Charlie Jenkins from Elm Street. Used to be a round-shouldered kid—one of those jitter bugs you hear about. Say! You wouldn't know him after six months in the Army. Fifteen pounds heavier—straight and tan and real sure of himself. The Army's done a lot for Charlie. Made a man out of him—and I guess that goes for lots of other young fellows, too.

The other day I read how some folks worry about the soldiers havin' a glass of beer now and then. Well, after seein' Charlie, I don't think there's much cause for people to fret.

Just like Charlie says—"If you can trust us with guns and ships and tanks, I guess you can trust us with a glass of beer once in a while, if we happen to want one."

And I know the beer industry is co-operating with the Army and the law-enforcement officers to see that beer is sold in good, clean, decent places.

From where I sit, this country's never seen a finer, cleaner, better-behaved lot of men than the ones in uniform today . . . I'm not worryin' about 'em!

A Philadelphia refining company recently junked old and idle equipment and obsolete plants, netting about 1,000 tons of steel for the scrap metal campaign—or enough to provide all the steel needed in manufacture of fifty Flying Fortresses.

Throw your scrap into the fight.

Stockpiles like this are needed all over the country so that our Government can plan our armament program—and our mills and plants can deliver the fighting tools!

Get in on the drive that starts today. Get the unused metal out of your cellar, your attic, your garage, your place of business. Without this scrap the Nation's steel mills must shut down, for all new steel is 50% scrap, and the mills have not enough for even 30 days more.

And one more thing. Help to stop the story — spread by innocents and ill-wishers alike — that there is lots of scrap already on hand. They point to junk yards, auto graveyards, and salvage depots that have not been cleaned out, as proof that there is no shortage. Kill this talk before it kills our boys!

In spite of the terrible lack of scrap, here is why you may still find full junk yards and scrap depots — and why they must be kept that way!

1. All scrap must be sorted, stripped, and broken up by scrap dealers before it can be used. Their yards are full because they are busy — preparing your scrap for the mills as fast as they possibly can!
2. Auto graveyards strip autos, keep the usable parts and junk the rest — turning out 450,000 tons of scrap in a typical month. Each must scrap within 60 days as many cars as he buys — that is the law!
3. Scrap collections sometimes have to stay around because the dealers can't handle them all immediately. Even if they could, the mills could not store it all. The local salvage depot is a stockpile — where your scrap is available for instant use as soon as it's needed. And it will be needed!

WHOSE BOY WILL DIE BECAUSE YOU FAILED?

Remember If these places become empty, the mills shut down — and we lose the war!

So get out your scrap and help your neighbors with theirs. It's the greatest single contribution you can make right now to win the war!

ban on spearing of fish in Susan lake for another three-year period.

We are downright proud of the way Charlevoix citizens are responding in the current scrap metal collection campaign. When Donald M. Nelson, War Production chief, requested newspapers of the nation to carry a message of appeal to their readers to support the country's war industry by providing vitally needed metal for steel production, 100% cooperation resulted, and now citizens are responding in like manner with true American spirit. Monday's house-to-house solicitation by the school children under direction of faculty members was a wonderful gesture, providing just the needed impetus to put the campaign across. Let it never be said that Charlevoix failed to do its part.

A popular song has a line stating that "every girl is beautiful now." To explain this, the next lines continued, "if she has a homely face, then she's good some other place, every girl is beautiful now." This meant, I suppose, that a smart girl puts her best foot forward. If her face isn't so good, she takes pains with her figure, or dyes her hair to attract attention, or wears a short skirt. She can scarcely be unattractive everywhere, especially if she understands the principals of advertising and salesmanship.

Yes, that little jitnoppy you've seen scurrying around town is a real, live jeep. Seeing it with a half-dozen coast guardsmen clinging to its midget frame, it's easy to imagine jeeps as the college boy's mode of transportation in future years.

Men in the armed forces always appreciate any mail from home, but especially so when they are hospitalized. The Charlevoix Service Organization would like to have reported the names and addresses of any service men who are ill or in the hospital for any reason. Bring names to the Courier office, or send us a postal card.

Charlevoix's prayers for an industrial payroll have been answered by the Foster Bont Co. Nearly a hundred dinner pails now and more in the future if plans materialize. Now that we have it—let's all boost and keep it.

And in closing—never marry a contortionist unless he promises to go straight.

FIRE LOSSES WOULD BUILD BOMBER FLEET

Local Engineer Urges Rules for Fire Prevention Work

Loss of life from fire in U. S. last year rivalled the bombing casualties of England's worst blitz period, and the dollar losses would have built a fleet of 1200 Flying Fortress bombers.

"Even though enemy bombers may never single out this town for a fire blitz, we should guard against fire this year as never before," warns F. E. Cartier, who represents Walter Kidde and Co., nationally-known fire protection engineers. "Homes and factories that burn today cannot be replaced because of building material shortages, and untold losses in our war output result from fires due to carelessness and lack of knowledge."

Fire experts believe that residents have done a remarkable job in preparing for air-raids, but that ordinary hazards should not be overlooked. Some of these hazards are—accumulations of rubbish in the attic or cellar, dirty chimneys, defective furnace and stove flues, home storage of gasoline and other highly flammable liquids, faulty electric wiring or wrong size fuzes, and of course, careless handling of cigarettes.

After eliminating these hazards, citizens anxious to aid the war effort should make it their business to learn basic principles of fire-fighting and correct methods of handling various types of extinguishers found in home or factory.

Here are twelve basic rules for fighting fire with portable extinguishers:

1. Aim discharge from any extinguisher at base of fire, not heterskelter.

2. Don't use water on electrical fires—water conducts electricity and you may get a shock.

3. Don't invert water type extinguishers until you reach the scene of the fire.

4. Compressed carbon dioxide—soda-pop gas—is best for running liquid fires occurring in factories and commercial establishments. In fighting such gasoline or oil fires, start at the bottom and work up.

5. Fires in wood, paper, rags, rubbish, etc., require cooling, and are best put out with water.

6. When water may seriously damage costly materials, the flames can first be extinguished with carbon dioxide gas and the embers then quenched with a small amount of water.

7. Always get as close to the seat of the actual fire as possible, and avoid splashing the extinguishing liquid.

8. When using foam extinguishers on fires in tanks or vats, aim the stream against the side of the tank, so that the sudsy foam blanket spreads over the surface.

9. Don't use carbon tetrachloride or squirt gun extinguishers in enclosed spaces as they can cause toxic fumes.

10. Don't use water on gasoline or oil fires; it may spread, rather than extinguish the flames.

11. Don't ever walk away from a fire until you're sure it's out and will not reignite.

12. If there are special hazards in your home or at your job, or if any of the above principles are not clear, consult the fire department or F. E. Cartier, Kidde representative, and do it now. If you wait until a fire breaks out, it may be too late.

AT THE MOVIES

"Across the Pacific"

"Across the Pacific," Warner Bros. adventure picture about a ruthless attempt by would-be Jap saboteurs to blow up the Gatun Locks of the Panama Canal, will be the Palace Theatre's next attraction.

The picture reunites the quartet which made "The Maltese Falcon" the hit it was—Humphrey Bogart, Mary Astor, Sydney Greenstreet and Director John Huston. "Across the Pacific" starts its engagement on Saturday, Oct. 17.

"In Old California"

"In Old California," a Republic release starring Binnie Barnes, is scheduled October 20-21 at the Palace Theatre.

"Night In New Orleans"

New Orleans, city of color and gayety — the Mardi Gras city —is the scene of murder, mystery and mirth in Paramount's "Night in New Orleans," which shows October 22-23 on the Palace Theatre screen.

The picture features Preston Foster, Patricia Morison, Albert Dekker, Charles Butterworth and Cecil Kellaway and is said to be jam-packed with thrills, chills and laughs.

"Sweater Girl"

Mystery, murder and music—plenty of the latter—are mingled merrily by Paramount in "Sweater Girl," the frolicsome college movie showing October 22-23 at the Palace Theatre with Eddie Bracken and Jane Preisser.

If one out of every 21 mechanics in a Buffalo, N. Y. airplane plant laid off one day a month, there'd be one less fighting plane that month from that plant.

Onaway made its only bid in the fourth quarter. With Charlevoix's line-up filled with substitute players, the visitors reeled off three successive first downs and brought play into Charlevoix territory for the first time in the uneven battle.

The Rayders play at Enst Jordan on Saturday of this week in their last game away from home. Contests with Harbor Springs and Grayling are scheduled at south side athletic field on successive Saturdays following the Enst Jordan contest.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Miss Ernestine Chew entertained the members of her sewing club Monday evening at the home of her mother, Mrs. Albert Holmes.

Mrs. Wyatt S. Wilson entertained last Wednesday afternoon at a party for the seventh birthday anniversary of her daughter, Sondra Jean. Fourteen little guests enjoyed games and birthday refreshments.

Honoring the third birthday anniversary of her daughter, Roberta, Mrs. Hugh Mayne gave a party on Friday afternoon at her home on Enst Garfield avenue. Guests were Dee Ann Genelt, John Bingham, Donna Durance, Paul LaBlanc, Marjorie Jean Soules and Susie and Carrie Duerr.

Complimenting Miss Jeanne Campbell, whose marriage to Charles Carey will take place October 25th, a kitchen shower was given by Miss Rosemary Cooper on Saturday evening at her Ainslie street home. Game prize winners were Mrs. Robert Ashdon, Mrs. Henry Partridge, Mrs. W. A. Cline, and the Misses Esther Lou Fochtman, Marjorie Miller and Anne Higman. The twenty-one guests present gave many beautiful and useful gifts to the bride-elect. Buffet refreshments were served from a table at which Mrs. Don Campbell and Mrs. Leo Carey presided.

Mrs. Robert Ashdon gave a party Saturday afternoon for the fourth birthday of her son, Tony, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Partridge. Fifteen guests enjoyed a pleasant afternoon, which was concluded by the serving of refreshments.

Mrs. Klaus Anderson, Mason street, entertained fourteen children Friday afternoon in honor of the ninth birthday of her daughter, Viola Mae. Games were played and refreshments served at a tables with a color scheme appropriate to Hallowe'en. Janet Bulow and the honoree's sister, LoAnne Anderson, assisted the hostess.

The Young Mother's Club met with Mrs. Carlton Ikens on Tuesday evening at the home of her mother, Mrs. Albert Holmes. The club's present project, redecoration of the kindergarten playhouse, was planned and discussed.

Mrs. J. C. McDonald gave a party honoring the fifth birthday of her son, Charles, on Thursday afternoon at her home on Prospect street. Games and refreshments were enjoyed by those present.

LETTERS from the ARMY CAMPS

Dear Sir,

I received my paper today and I want to thank you and your staff with my best appreciation. Hoping the papers you have sent to the other men in the armed forces of our United States of America has given them the feeling it has me. It gives those in armed forces their background and what they are fighting to gain, the power of our objective and what we must do and will do before we can return home.

Yours very truly,

If the U. S. could reduce its consumption of fuel oils ten per cent below last year's consumption, the resultant saving would equal the combined capacity of 566 ocean-going tankers—and we have no tankers to spare these days for the dangerous coastwise haul.

BRING ALL OLD KEYS TO COURIER OFFICE

National Paper Group Sponsors Key Kollection Kampaign

Turn your old keys into fighting power by bringing them to the Courier office, local headquarters for the national Key Kollection Kampaign currently being sponsored by the Paper and Twine club, a national organization of paper salesmen.

Newspapers all over the country are cooperating in the drive for 132,500,067 keys for scrap metal by displaying "Key Kans" prominently in their offices. Keys which are no longer useful may be found in every home. Householders are asked to turn in all such keys, which, though small in themselves, will make a formidable amount of scrap when added to the millions that are to be contributed to the drive.

The Paper and Twine club will sell its keys to regular junk dealers, the efficient clearing houses for Uncle Sam's scrap campaign, and proceeds will be donated to the United Service Organizations.

Men wanted with foresight—In 1939 your Congressman attacked the President for warning the country of war danger. In 1940 he accused the country's leaders of war hysteria. In 1941 he called the administration warmongers. Elect a man to Congress with the will to win! Send Adams to Washington.—Political Adv.

SCRAP CAMPAIGN RESULTS LISTED

NEARLY 19 TON COLLECTED IN TWO WEEKS

Drive Will Contieue Indefinitely As Long as Nation's War Needs Require

That Charlevoix's "scrap for victory" campaign is meeting with success is indicuted by n report issued this week hy Clifford McKibbin, Jr., chairman of the Charlevoix Service Orgaaization salvage committee.

Since the campaign was instituted Monday, October 5, up to and including Saturday, October 17, 36,390 pounds, or roughly 19 tons of scrap was taken hy WPA trucks from the salvage depot on the Charlevoix Lumber Co. property to a junk yard at Boyne City for sorting. Weight receipts for this nmount of scrap have been turned over to the CSO.

While the official drive, backed by weekly and daily newspapers throughout the nation was originaiiy set for the period of October 5:17, collection will continuo indefinitely. She scrap so far weighed and officials receipts issued for, represents oniy a portion of tbat collected in Charlevoix. Chnirman McKibbin pointed out that city trucks have not completed pick-up of scrap placed by individuals at street curbs, nor had the campaign participated in by school studenta been completed. Individual collection is continuing as well.

Pick-up service by city trucks will be continued as long as Individuals provido scrap metal to be colicted.

County-wide cifforts are being stepped up also. War ciubs have taken over collection in the rural districts, manogers of East Jordan, Boyne City nnd Charlevoix Co-Ops. have been appointed to organize volunteer trucks in their communities for collection.

Streamlining of the county snivage committee is also expected to unify effort and hasten collections. Edwin K. Reuling, chairman of the county defenso council, annouaces tho appointment of Robert W. Reis, of Boyne City, as committee chairman; Clifford McKibbin, Jr., of Charievoix, Oie K. Hegerberg,

DRAFTEES TO LEAVE MONDAY FOR CUSTER

CSO Plans Eighth Send-off Program of Past Six Moeths

Thirty-eight mon comprising the county's second October draft quota will leave Charlevoix Monday afternoon for Fort Custer.

Tho fire whistlo will sound at 3 p. m. to herald opening of tho send-off program at the city hall. Judge Parm C. Gilbert, of Traverse City, has been asked to give a short address to tho men.

This will be tho Charlevoix Service Organization's eighth send-off in it's six months of operation, during which time the group has presented gifts to a total of 246 men.

BILL OF SALE IS REQUIRED FOR YULETIDE TREES

So that all persons may be fully informed well in advance, the state department of agriculture bas issued a reminder that all persons or firms intending to cut, transport or handlo Christmas trees must have the trees accompanied by bills of sale.

Fire Moeday Afternoon

The fire department was called out Monday afternoon to extinguish a blaze in the basement of the Bluo Post inn on Bridge street. Believed to have been started by sparks from a burning-out chimney, escaping through the open door of the chimney clean-out, tho fire scorched ceiling beams and destroyed some cedar kindling before it was put out.

HELP IS NEEDED BY RED CROSS

MATERIALS FOR SURGICAL DRESSINGS RECEIVED

First Quota Is 9,000 Dressings; Room in City Hall Open Four Aftereoons and Evenings

Wanted—women to make 9,000 surgical dressings for the Charlevoix county Red Cross chapter, at the Red Cross room in the city iiall.

A shipment of material for the dressings was received last week, and work was begun. But many more volunteer workers will be needed before the quota can be completed. Speedy completion of the dressiags is necessary, as another shipment of goods is already on the way for this city's next assigament.

Tho Red Cross room on the second floor of the city hall will bo open every Monday, Tuesday, Wednesdny and Thursday from 2 to 5 p. m. and 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. Every woman who can possibly do so is urged to como help with tho work. It is not necessary to designate how much time can be given, or on what days; any amount of time on any day is acceptable. Instructers will be at the room to supervise the work.

Somo types of dressings are to bo folded, while one or two require somé sewing, but the work is easy, pleasant, and vitally necessary. Commercial bandage companies can niako only an estimated ten per cent of the millions of dressings needed.

Workers are to bring a clean cotton dress or smock, to be put on after arrival, as they cannot wear, while making dressings, any dress which has been worn in tbe street and under a coat. Hair nots or hoad scarfs must bo worn also, and nail polish must bo removed. A tiny speck of polish may start an irritation or infection in a wound.

Red Cross caps and uniforms may bo worn instead of ordinary drosses or head coverings. After completion of 100 hours of work within n year, a service pin may bo worn.

Tho Nazis have warned German civilians not to smuggle letters into parcels sent soldiers at tho front "containing detrimental utterances against high officials."

MAX WHITE, FORMER CHS ATHLETE, DIES

Succumbed in Muskegon After Long Period of Illness

Maxwell Eugene White, 21, former Charlevoix high school athlete, died Friday morning at Hackley Hospitnl in Muskegon. He hud been in ill health for many months, but as he apparently was recovering, his death camo as a shock to his family and friends.

Born in East Jordan, September 10, 1921, Max graduated from Charievoix high school in 1040 as an outstaading student and athlete. In the fall of 1940 he went to Muskegon, where ho wns employed in tho laborntory of the Continental Motor Works. Ho wns n member of Temple Methodist church, Muskegon.

Surviving are six brothers, Jake and Waiter of Charlevoix, Glenn and Cecil of Muskegon, William and Edwin of Flint; and a sister, Mrs. Sherman Hunn of Gaines, Michigan.

Funeral services were held at 2:30 Sunday afternoon, at the See Funeral Homo with Rev. L. H. Haglo officiating. Interment was at Sunset Hill cemetery, East Jordan.

NO CHANGES PLANNED FOR SUGAR RATIONING

Allotment Will Continue on Same Basis for December

Sugar consumers will continue to be limited to one-half pound a week from November 1 to December 15, the Office of Price Administration has announced.

War Ration Stamp No. 9 will bo good for purchnso of three pounds of sugar duriag that period. Stamp No. 8, which expires at midnight October 31, is good for fiva pounds over a 10-week period.

OPA also set the ration for institutional users in November and December at 60 per cent of normal with an 85 per cent nliotment for hospitals.

The industrial allotment for November-December was set at 70 per cent of normal. Tho saine quota was set in September-October, but there was an additional 10 per cent bonus then.

KEY KOLLECTION KAMPAIGN IS CONTINUED

Bring Old Keys to Courier Office for Scrap Metal

Old keys are beiag enlisted in the country's serviee during tbe national Key Kollection Kampaign for which the Courier office is local headquarters.

Judging from the large numbor of keys turned in by only a few people during the past week, a great many more keys must be available for the collection in this city. Koys contain a high grade of metal, extremely valuable for scrap which is so urgently needed. Bring old keys to the Courier office and turn them into fighting power.

WOMAN'S REPUBLICAN CLUB MEETS FRIDAY

Tho Woman'a Republican Club will meet Friday at 3 p. m. with Mrs. Floyd Ikens, 203 Antrim street. R. L. Lewis Republican county committee chairman, will be present to explain tbe amendments to be voted on at tho November 3rd general election. All women are invited to attend.

ADOPT A YANK FOR CHRISTMAS

CSO, KIWANIS WANT SERVICE MEN'S ADDRESSES

Central Drug Store Bulletin Board Gives List Charlevoix Men's Addresses and Birthdays

People who have no relatives or close friends in the country's armed forces will have a chance to "adopt a Yank" to send a Christmas gift, according to a plan presented by the Charlevoix Service Organiznfion.

A bulletin board placed in the Central Drug store lists names and addresses of Charlevoix men in the service, thumbtacked to the board on separate slips so that each person may make his choice simply by removing n name, or more than one if they so desire.

This list is being compiled by the Kiwanis Club and CSO, and will be availabie to any service group or individual for reference.

Names and address of soldiers to be put on the list should be left at the Central Drug store, either in person, by phone or mail. A card index file of this information is kept, to which birthdays of service men are also to be added for convenience of those who wish to send gifts or cards on those occasions. People who have already sent in addresses of soldiers are asked to supply the information about their birthdays at the earliest possible time, to complete the filed records.

Some people who are already preparing Christmas packages for soldiers or sailors will welcome this opportunity to do a bit more. As only about 175 names will be on the bulletin board, applicants are urged to pick their Yank at once, the earlier the better to insure that he gets the package. Overseas mail must be sent by November 1st, and mail within the continental United States should also be sent well in advance of the Christmas season.

Local Girl Gets War Job

MRS. WILLIAM CHATFIELD DIED SATURDAY

Was Resident of Charlevoix Since 1924; Funeral Tuesday

Mrs. William Chatfield, 58, died Saturday at her home, 307 West Upright nvenue, after several years of ill health.

Ida Mitchell was born in Duluth, Minn., December 16, 1883. She came to Michigan with her parents as a young girl, residing at Traverse City. In 1907 she married William Hoffmun at Atwood, and they resided in Antrim county until his death in 1922. In 1924 she was married to Wm. Chatfield, and has since made her home in Charlevoix.

Surviving are the husband, two sons, Bert Hoffman of Americnn Falls, Idaho, and Ralph Hoffmnn, this city; her mother, Mrs. Celesta Mitchell, this city; and three grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted nt 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon from the Seo Funeral Home by Williinm C. Palmer, acting clergyman of the Church of God. Interment at Brooksido cemetery.

GOVERNMENT IS BUYING ALL EXCESS TIRES

Five Tires Per Car Limit for Gas Rationing Eligibility

The federal government began October 15 purchasing civilian tires in excess of five for each automobile, a limit with which motorists must conform to be eligible for rations of gasoline.

Motorists were advised by the office of price administration to take excess tires to railway express agency offices. They will then be sent to 160 designated warehouses, inspected by government appraisers and the owners will be paid ceiling prices either in money or defense stamps.

Motorists registering for gasoline rationing November 9 must certify that they possess not more than five tires for each car. Falsification is punishable by fines up to $10,000 or 10 years in prison.

SIX NEW MEMBERS ON COUNTY RATION BOARD

Gas and Fuel Oil Rationing Makes Additions Necessary

Approaching rationing of gasoline and fuel oil has necessitated the appointment of six new members to the Charlevoix county rationing board to handle these commodities.

Selected to act as a committee on gasoline rationing are Charles Hamlin, Charlevoix; B. C. Mellencamp, Boyne City; William A. Shepard, East Jordan.

On the fuel oil rationing committee are Clarence Meggison, of Charlevoix; Lester Jersey, Boyne City; James Gidley, East Jordan.

The new member's duties will consist of taking charge of registration for gasoline ration books, and approving applications for fuel oil and extra gasoline rations. They will be available for consultation on consumers' problems.

CSO Contributions

Contributions to the CSO Courier subscription fund are acknowledged from Miss Minnie Payton, Mrs. Reuben Pearl and Mrs. Nels Tillotson. The coin collector at the Central Drug store yielded $1.63 last week for the fund.

Miss Betty Willis, Charievoix junior in the Home Economics department at Michigan State college, East Lansing, will serve as secretary of North Hall dormitory during the fall term. Officers in dormitories and cooperative houses at the college assist matrons and house mothers in carrying out the various duties of dormitory life.

NEW RULING MADE ON DEPARTURE OF BOATS

Must Get Permission from Captain of the Port at Charlevoix

All boats wishing to depart from Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Traverse City, Frankfort, or points in between, for other ports must receive the permission of the Captain of the Port at Charlevoix.

Requests should be addressed to the Captain of the Port, U. S. Const Guard, Charlevoix, in adequate time to receive an answer well before sailing date.

CHARLEVOIX AND JORDAN PLAY TIE

SATURDAY TILT ENDED IN 6 to 6 DEADLOCK

Second Tie Game Between Schools In Two Years; Play Harbor Springs Here Next

Charlevoix and East Jordan high school football teams battled to a 6 to 6 tie on East Jordan's gridiron last Saturday afternoon. It was the second successive year the two teams played on even terms, last year's contest ending in a scoreless tie.

The first two periods failed to produce a touchdown for either side, although whatever advantage there was, was East Jordan's. They out-played the local team, but never penetrated deep enough into Charlevoix territory to produce a scoring threat. Charlevoix was in possession of the ball on East Jordan's 17-yard strip once in the first half after recovering a blocked punt. A kick from placement was wide and they lost the ball on downs, however.

East Jordan scored in the third period after intercepting a Charlevoix pass on their own 50-yard line and romping untouched over the goal. An attempted pass for extra point was blocked.

Charlevoix evened the score in the fourth quarter. A 15-yard penalty and short East Jordan punt gave Charlevoix the ball on their own 35-yard line. Carey gained seven yards, a lateral, Carey to Swnnson, was good for eight yards to the 20, Swanson hit the line for three yards and Carey went 18 yards around end for the touchdown. A kick from placement for extra point failed and three minutes later the game ended in a 6 to 6 deadlock.

Coach Kipke used E. Bergmann and Gallagher at ends, Webster and Bellinger at tackles, Olach and Brown at guards, C. Bergmann at center, Rowe at quarterback, Carey and Chambers at halves and Swanson at fullback.

Charlevoix plays the first of two home games next Saturday, meeting the strong Harbor Spring team at south side athletic field. They play the undefeated Grayling team a week later here.

VICTORY HARVEST FAIR IS PLANNED

EVENT AT EAST JORDAN ON NOVEMBER 3RD

Competition for Several Classes, Entertainment Program Scheduled; Premiums Listed

Plans are rapidly nearing completion for a Charlevoix county "Victory Harvest" school fair to be held Tuesday evening, November 3, at the East Jordan high school gymnasium. The program opens at 7 o'clock and is free to the public.

Exhibits will include and premiums are provided for adult open class entries, agricultural students both in vocational agriculture and schools without federal subsidy, home economics students of federal subsidized and non-subsidized schools, also 4-H crops and potato growers.

An entertainment program will be presented at 8:30 o'clock consisting of home talent numbers by Future Farmers of American of East Jordan and Boyne City schools and home economics students of all county schools.

The fair is being directed by B. C. Mellencamp, county agricultural agent, L. B. Kair, East Jordan agricultural instructor, assisted by Lester Walcutt and Mrs. Leutha Larsen, East Jordan 4-H Club leaders.

Exhibitors are requested to have exhibits in place promptly at 6:30 p. m. All are asked to decorate exhibits in an original manner with suitable posters and descriptive material.

Following is the premium list:

Division A
Adult Open Class

Class 1—Russett Rural potatoes, 32 tuber exhibit: 1st, $1.25; 2nd, $1.00; 3rd, 75c; 4th, 50c; all others 25c.

Class 2—Chippewa and Katahdin potatoes: premiums same as class 1.

Class 3—Any other varieties potatoes: premiums same class 1.

Class 4—Field corn, exhibit of 10 ears mature corn: 1st, $1.00; 2nd, 75c; 3rd, 50c; all others 25c.

The proprietor of a dry cleaning establishment once told us that people could have money for themselves and headaches for the cleaners by confessing all when turning clothes into the cleaners' hands. Naptha, the principal cleaning ingredient, is perfect for dirt and grease, but no good for coffee, tea, beer, or blood stains. Such stains can be removed by other cleaning chemicals before the clothes are put into the naptha bath, but not after. So tell the cleaner whether it's soup, gravy, coffee, or blood on the sleeve of your suit—especially blood.

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Yes, the old Yankee spirit still lives.

This observation is prompted by the shortage of labor on Michigan farms. It is a serious situation.

The other week a newspapor in the Thumb carried an item as follows. "Four thousand acres of sugar beets in ..... county are without labor to harvest them. If means are not found at once to harvest this valuable crop, more than 12,000,000 pounds of sugar will be lost forever."

Here was a realistic crisis. Twelve million pounds of sugar! Not enough farm labor to harvest the crop!

"Well, what happened?" you ask.

No, the sugar isn't going to spoil in the ground.

American resourcefulness, plus the spirit of sacrifice to win this war, are getting in the crops. Here is a story which makes you proud you are an American. It could be duplicated in scores of smaller towns in Michigan today.

Next week's newspaper carried an answer to the challenge. The school principal telephoned the editor, and the news story went like this: "Any farmer who needs help may ask for a battalion of four or more boys. They will come out to his farm and work any day of the week. Payment is left to the discretion of the farmer. 'The idea of this isn't money, it's getting the crops in,' said the principal by the name of Alfred Zink. 'It's our boys' contribution to the great war effort.' "

In the present scrap metal drive, sponsored by the newspapers at the request of Donald Nelson, chairman of the War Production Board, entire towns have closed their stores; dismissed schools—all to get scrap!

Merchants man the trucks. School children canvass the homes. At night the whole town turns out for a community party. . . doughnuts and cider. . . music and dancing. . . and $25 war bond is awarded.

SCHOOL LUNCHES AID IN EDUCATION

School lunches have been made a major objective in the program of the Michigan Nutrition Defense committee, it is announced by Dr. Marie Dye, dean of home economics at Michigan State College and chairman of the state nutrition defense organization.

An appeal to local school officials and to community groups and individuals is being broadcast by the committee to stimulate action in schools throughout the state. Essential funds and equipment, locally, are to be matched with cooperative planning and other actual assistance from state and federal agencies.

Recent mass studies indicate diet deficiencea of approximately one in every three school children in the United States.

"Adequate school lunch programs, properly coordinated with instructional facilities have unlimited possibilities as an educational influence upon the child, the home and the community, in addition to the benefits to growing school children," Miss Dye and her committee explain.

Membership on the committee includes representatives from Michigan State and other colleges, the University of Michigan, the Kellogg Foundation, the Children's Fund of Michigan, Merrill-Palmer school in Detroit, the state departments of health, welfare, social security and public instruction, the federal Agricultural Marketing Administration, the Works Projects Administration, Farm Security Administration, and professional associations representing dieticians, dentistry, medicine, nursing, pediatrics, public health, home economics and education.

Attacks On Our Congressman

The Administration is trying to 'Purge' your congressman at this election. A strong combine is out to get rid of him and to set up a "rubber stamp congressman."

This is the type of statements that are being circulated against him:

"You know the importance of preparedness. Bradley voted against every single measure designed to get us set for war."

It has been stated time and time again that he voted against the fortification of Guam. Carl Vinson, Democratic Chairman of the House Naval Affairs Committee, said this about the bill. He said:

"I repeat again, nothing in this bill authorizes fortification of Guam."

Bradley voted against lease-lend: It was his opinion that we should not enter this war until we first prepared ourselves in case of invasion. Were we prepared? How many ships did we lose to Nazi submarines in the opening months of the war? Could we have used the 50 destroyers along our coast at that time, the destroyers that the President gave to England months ago? A loss of ships and a loss of lives.

"Bradley voted against conscription."

Conscription was voted upon before the last election. In line with his policy, which was in keeping with the DESIRES OF THE VOTERS, Bradley voted against conscription. The fact that at that time it was in line with the wishes of the voters is shown by the vote for Bradley both at the Primary and the General Election.

It is ironical to note that the same candidate who is so noisy about how Bradley voted before Pearl Harbor, back in August 1940 wrote his letters on "City of Sault Ste. Marie" letterheads. "Paul L. Adams, Mayor," which also bore the following:

"Beware of any propaganda intended to involve America in European War."

We did not want this war. The President told us that he "hated" war, yea, even that "we would not be involved in war." The "No" votes that Bradley cast in Congress were votes to keep us out of war. When he voted that way, that was the way YOU wanted HIM to vote, as every poll taken at the time demonstrated. Had they been "Yea" votes each would have been a vote for a step towards war.

He voted "always" to prepare our nation for war, as witness his vote for the four billion dollar national defense bill.

These Smear-and-Purge Artists would destroy our representative form of government by denying you the right to select your Congressman, by doing it for you through a "Purge" campaign. You as a voter of the 11th Congressional District, still have a right to say who your next Congressman shall be.

THE HOME FRONT IN MICHIGAN

The manpower pinch, which is being felt increasingly, is one of the growing pains of our steadily mounting war strength.

We have set an immense goal in the production of ships and war materials. Munitions already are being produced at the rate of 5 billion dollars worth a month—more than half-billion in the automotive industry alone. This output can not grow less. It must increase. There are 15 million workers now engaged in direct war work. More will be needed.

Our armed forces, now 4,250,000, will reach 7 1-2 million by the end of 1943. Many of these will be drained from industry and from farms. They will have to be replaced.

Thus the cry for men echos through expanded war plants, through the many branches of armed services, through farms and essential civilian industries—a cry not only for men but for women also.

One conclusion is inevitable:

Labor to do our staggering war job must be forthcoming—by voluntary means, if possible, but by whatever means that may be necessary.

Men Working Together

Maximum prices have been fixed over nearly all foods. Still it is up to every housewife to help keep down the cost of living by checking food prices carefully. Prices on poultry, mutton, butter, cheese, eggs, canned milk, onions, white potatoes, dry beans, corn meal, fresh and canned citrus fruits and juices should be no higher than the highest price charged between Sept. 28 and Oct. 2. Quality and quantity, as well as prices, should be checked.

We're All at War

The department of agriculture is calling on farmers to raise more vegetables for the winter and spring markets. Particularly, are they asked to increase their acreage and output of carrots, limn beans, snap beans, onions and similar vegetables. This increase may be accomplished through sharp reductions in crops less essential to our wartime diet, such as cantaloupes, cucumbers, cauliflower, eggplant, watermelons, blanched celery, head lettuce, green peppers, asparagus and artichokes.

Unity, Sacrifice, Action

We are entering a stage of war economy in which we will have much less choice of the things we eat and wear and use. . . After the first of the year, there will be even more drastic cuts in manufacture of civilian goods. . . Copper and other war metals now are more precious than gold, so gold mines are being shut down. . . We need the miners elsewhere. . . In order to save copper, Uncle Sam has cut the production of one-cent pieces in half. . . Small treasuries of pennies hiding in children's banks and other receptacles are needed in circulation.

Women are urged to save old and discarded silk and nylon hosiery. . . The materials are valuable in making smokeless powder bags. . . Hunters should collect for scrap all their discarded shotgun shells and rifle cartridge cases. . . And save the short down feathers of wild ducks and geese they shoot. . . The down goes into garments for airmen flying at high and cold altitudes. . . Top prices have been fixed for grates, ashpit doors and other furnace parts for those who change over from oil-burning to coal because of the fuel rationing.

Your present congressmen said, "There are those who insist that to be a neutral a nation must completely subjugate its sympathies and—mind its own business. I subscribe to that definition of neutrality." Elect a fighter to congress. Elect Paul Adams.

THE Secret OF THE MARSHBANKS

• BY KATHLEEN NORRIS •

©NORRIS W.N.U. RELEASE

CHAPTER 1

"That's the child—that's Cherry," Sister Seraphina said in her serene voice. Her hands were crossed and hidden within her wide sleeves, but a motion of her caped and coifed head indicated a certain girl among the milling masses, and the man who was her companion looked at the girl keenly.

The tableaux and the play were over, but many of the girls still wore their make-up and a theatrical excitement possessed the hot, crowded hall. It was not a large hall; just now it was filled with spectators, nuns and performers mixed indiscriminately.

Bright lights flooded auditorium and stage; groups formed and reformed. The man watched the girl he had identified for a few minutes and thought that she was a vital young creature, anyway; she was not a bad-looking young creature, anyway; she seemed popular enough, anyway. Obviously she was the center of everything that went on.

As the daughter of an Indian chief she had taken the leading part in the play that had concluded the program, and had appeared also in more than one of the tableaux that preceded it. Judson Marshbanks saw her questioned, kissed and congratulated; saw her drop her proudly feathered head more than once in a deprecating fashion, as if she were embarrassed by praise.

After some fifteen minutes of this post-performance bedlam when some of the audience were already drifting away a nun drew her quietly aside. The girl's laughing expression changed, as she glanced in his direction. She joined him immediately.

"Cherry, this is Judge Marshbanks," said Sister Seraphine, and the judge watched her dark eyes brighten suddenly, and felt the touch of her warm, young, quickly extended hand.

All she said was a somewhat shy bow-de-you-do, but her look added what she did not say: "I know your name! I know something about you."

"Well, so you led the pioneers out of danger?" Judson Marshbanks asked amiably. Color showed under her Indian brown and he thought with satisfaction that she was a handsome, glowing sort of girl who ought not to have too much trouble getting along.

"It was a silly sort of play," the girl said quickly. He remembered that she had written it, and smiled.

"Come over here and sit down, Cherry; I want to talk to you a minute," he said. "I'll not keep you long. I'm joining a friend who is flying his plane down to San Francisco tonight."

Cherry looked dazed with excitement and surprise. A man coming to see her, who had not averaged a caller a year in all her twenty years, and coming just now, when she was still flushed and breathless from the evening's thrills, created a situation that silenced her. She sat down and looked at her companion expectantly and could not speak.

"I thought it was a very good play," said the judge. "I understand that you wrote it? It was sort of allegory—a pageant, wasn't it?"

"Well, they all have to be pageants, because of having to get all the girls in," Cherry answered in a shy voice.

"Oh, you have to get all the girls in?" he asked aloud.

"Oh, yes. Last Halloween we had only fifteen girls, so that wasn't so hard. I could have used more!"

"I see. And do you always write the plays?"

"Well, usually. Yes, I guess always."

"And who wrote the song?"

"That Madeleine sang? Didn't she sing that beautifully? Sister Claude," Cherry went on, suddenly warming to confidence, "went to opera once. You know, real opera."

"I didn't think Sisters did."

"Oh, but this was before she entered!" the girl reassured him. And for the first time he heard her resonant joyous laugh.

"You wrote the words to the song, too?"

"Oh, well, yes," Cherry said carelessly. "And she said—Sister Claude did, that Madeleine sang like the prima donna—she said so, really."

"You acted the leading part, too," the man said.

"Yes, I had to! Miriam Foster was twenty and so she had to go home. We thought she'd be here until at least Christmas, but her mother sent for her. So I took her part."

"Some of the girls here have mothers then, Cherry?" His tone had changed. It had dropped to a personal note of something like pity, and tenderness, and he saw her flush brightly again as she faced him, realizing perhaps with a little fear that they reached their own affairs now.

"Yes; some have," she said almost inaudibly.

"And you know that you lost yours when you were very small, my dear?"

"Seven," she said unsteadily. "I remember her, and living in the country."

"You came here at seven. Thirteen years! But they haven't been unhappy years, have they, Cherry?"

"No. They've been — heavenly years!" she said loyally, after a moment. "But, of course—of course—I've wanted someone of my own—someone . . ."

Her head went suddenly down on the table, she covered her face with her hands. The judge cleared his throat.

"Of course you have, of course you have," he said a little thickly.

"I'm very sorry," she said composedly in the voice and manner of a much older woman. "I don't cry much. I don't know what started me. We've been decorating and rehearsing until I suppose I'm tired. But of course, they haven't been unhappy years," she said sensibly.

"Sister Seraphine said that you were the most influential girl in the school," the man put in.

"Oh, that couldn't have been Sister Seraphine; she never praises anyone!" Cherry smiled, with wet eyes.

"It was, though. She said they would be sorry to lose you. Sorrier than over losing almost any other girl."

"Did she say that?" Cherry had pushed off her headdress now and he saw that her hair was a warm tawny mixture of tan and brown. The significance of his last phrase came to her suddenly. "Sorry to lose me?" she repeated, the color leaving her face. "You mean I'm going out?"

"You're twenty, aren't you? Isn't that the age when girls are launched from Saint Dorothea's?"

"Yes, but—yes, but—" she whispered, and stopped.

"Don't you want to? Don't you want a look at something outside these four walls?" the judge questioned.

"Why, yes; the others have. But I never thought of it as my turn!" the girl said. "And I have been out, you know," she reminded him. "In the city, I mean. I taught the last three terms at the kindergarten."

Her face was streaked with soot as she spoke, her eyebrows had melted and her cheeks were pale. But she was giving no thought, he perceived, to her appearance; she was absorbed in the stunning news of the approaching change in her life.

"Would it be to go to San Francisco?" she asked eagerly, like a child.

"I don't suppose you would rather make it somewhere else?" he asked in return. "What I had to suggest was a secretarial position in San Francisco."

"A secretarial position?" she asked, flustered. "I don't think I could take a position. That is except in a kindergarten! I can typewrite, and I'm getting better at stenography, and I speak a little French and some Spanish. We have two sisters here from Belgium and two from Madrid. But—would that be enough?"

"Plenty, at first. Later, if you wanted to study anything specifically," the judge said, "anything like—well, library work or nursing or going on with kindergarten work, we could find out what the requirements are, and I don't think there'd be any trouble."

"But—" Her pale, tear-streaked and paint-streaked face reddened suddenly. "But have I any money?" she asked hesitatingly. And then, with a little trembling return to emotion, "You see, I don't know much about myself. I know my mother's dead, and I suppose my father. And some of the girls here have told me about themselves, and I've thought—I've suspected, that that was true of me, too—I mean that perhaps I haven't any right to my father's name. Perhaps you could tell me that?"

Her voice faltered, but she held it as firm as she could, and looked straight into his eyes.

"I can't tell you very much, Cherry," said the judge, with a straightforwardness as simple as her own, and with a great ache at his heart. I know that we had in our family for many years a fine housekeeper named Emma. She was a trained nurse, took care of my brother and me, when we were boys, and afterward of my father. She was a silent creature, but very capable and reliable. Some years ago—well, perhaps almost twenty—she gave up her job to live with a Mrs. Rawlings who was ill."

"Emma!" said Cherry, with a brightening face. "I remember her! She took care of my mother and me."

"Yes; that same Emma. After your mother's death quite a sum of money was left for you. Emma came to me about it. You were to be sent here, she said. Well, you were sent here! Your own mother chose the place."

"She would know about my mother—Emma," the girl said, "she could tell me."

"She mightn't tell you. She has another position now, housekeeper to a very lovely old lady. I don't see Emma often. But during these thirteen years, when you've been ill—you were ill once, weren't you?" the judge broke off to say, speaking comfortably, as if the subject presented no difficulties, and smiling with the question.

"I had scarlet fever, and then I broke my leg falling out of a tree," Cherry supplied.

"Well, about things like that she would consult me. Your mother made me your joint guardian with Emma."

"Guardian for what?" the girl asked quickly.

"A sum of money for all your expenses, for your education."

"But Emma," the girl said quickly and proudly, "wasn't paying that. She was—she was only my mother's nurse!"

"No; it had been left with her for you, and she put it into my hands. Through Emma that account had been taken care of you all these years. And even now I know there is enough left to help you into any profession you choose."

Cherry considered this, bright-eyed and thoughtful.

"Emma got in touch with me ten days ago," the man said, "to remind me that you would be twenty this week. She was the one to get you this position."

"You didn't know my mother?" the girl asked with a steady look.

"I never saw her."

"Emma never said anything of my father?"

"I know that he is dead."

"I think," Cherry said, "I've always thought that I was an unwanted baby, and that I caused my mother great trouble, and that Emma was a friend who came to stand by her at the end."

"Why mightn't you think that your mother had been widowed, and was as happy in having you as any other mother?"

Speaking of GAS RATIONING

CAR ENGINES PRODUCE ABOUT ½ GALS. WATER PER GAL. GAS BURNED.

WITH MINIMUM DRIVING, ANY MOTOR OIL CONTAMINATES FASTER, BECAUSE THE MOTOR DOESN'T RUN HOT ENOUGH TO EVAPORATE THE WATER THAT CONDENSES IN THE CRANKCASE.

EVEN WITH DRIVING LIMITED, UNDER SLOPPY WINTER CONDITIONS GREASE IS WASHED OFF LUBRICATION POINTS. PROTECT FROM RUST BY KEEPING POINTS GREASE-FILLED. LUBRICATE EVERY 2 MONTHS OR AT 1000 MILES WHICHEVER COMES FIRST.

Your car needs better care now!

● A little better care per mile is the safe car service program for gas rationing. Your Standard Oil Dealer offers expert help, now very important with winter coming up. See the list of vital services below. You'll want the complete protection they insure. And you'll also want to use top quality Iso-Vis, first choice of midwest motorists. High in protective qualities, Standard's Iso-Vis (10-W) is the fastest starting winter motor oil you can buy.

√ Radiator—drain and flush. √ Anti-freeze—get yours today. √ Battery—inspect and test. √ Battery Cables—clean and grease. √ Spark Plugs—clean and regap. √ Front Wheel Bearings—repack with grease. √ Body—polish and wax. √ Lights—check for safety. √ Air Cleaner—clean. √ Tires—inspect, switch. √ Transmission and Differential—drain, clean and refill. √ Chassis—lubrication. √ Crankcase—drain, flush and refill with Standard's Iso-Vis, Quaker State, Polarine or Stanolind. √ Oil Filter—check, replace if necessary.

MOTORISTS TO PAY FOR TIRE CHECKING

Inspection Plan Is Requirement of Gas Rationing

Motorists will be required, it is reported, to pay a nominal fee to government - appointed inspectors —filling station operators — to make periodic checks on their tires.

The charge will probably range from 25 cents to about $1.50, depending on whether the inspector finds it necessary to remove tires from the rims to determine their conditions.

The tire-check was decreed October 14 by Price Administrator Henderson as part of the program for nation-wide gasoline rationing which goes into effect November 22.

Men wanted with foresight—In 1939 your present Congressman attacked the President for warning the country of war danger. In 1940, he accused the country's leaders of war hysteria. In 1941, he called the administration warmongers. Elect a man to Congress with the will to win. Send Adams to Washington.

ARTHUR P. TAYLOR IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Summer Resident 20 Years Died Thursday in Cincinnati

Arthur P. Taylor, 68, of Cincinnati, Ohio, a Belvedere Club summer resident for 20 years, died last Thursday in Christ Hospital, Cincinnati. He had been a patient there for a week and submitted to an operation Monday, but his heart failed as a result of complications.

President, treasurer and chairman of the board of the Charles Taylor Sons Co., refractories manufacturers, a company founded by his father, he had been with the firm since 1890. He was a member of the board of the former Columbia Life Insurance Co., which was absorbed by the Ohio National Life Insurance Co., the Cincinnati Bank and Trust Co., the Cincinnati Country Club and the Queen City Club.

During the Spanish - American war he served as a cavalry officer.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Norma Knox Taylor; a sister, Mrs. John Murdock; a son, John Knox Taylor; a daughter, Mrs. Jac Carpenter; and four grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted in Cincinnati at 11 o'clock Saturday morning at the W. Mack Johnson funeral home by Rev. John F. Moore, with cremation following.

Adventure Comedy Film Due

Brenda Marshall and George Brent are the stars of Warner Bros. latest adventure comedy film "You Can't Escape Forever," which opens next Saturday, Oct. 24, at the Palace theatre. Brent plays the role of a newspaper editor who has to take over the lovelorn column when he allows his suspicions to get the better of his common sense.

Brenda is cast as a sob sister who had to undergo a similar experience when she muffed a perfect story by fainting during a supposed execution. The condemned man had been given a last minute pardon, but she never found out. Recovering from her faint, she phones in the story of the execution just as if it had taken place. Hence she was assigned to the "Bewildered Henrts" column.

AUTOMOBILES NEED BETTER CARE UNDER GASOLINE RATIONING

Automobiles will need better care under nationwide gasoline rationing, according to President Edward G. Seubert of Standard Oil Company of Indiana, who announced an extensive newspaper advertising campaign by his company to aid motorists to adjust themselves to conditions of minimum driving.

Standard of Indiana made a survey to find out whether motorists would change the mileage interval between crankcase drains, grease jobs and tire switches under gas rationing. More than 78 per cent of them said they would make changes at the same interval as now or would lengthen the interval. They thought that with minimum driving their cars would need less care.

"To the contrary," Mr. Seubert declared, "automotive technicians tell us that cars will need better care. Standard Oil is therefore advertising in newspapers to help motorists understand what to do."

Featured in the campaign are illustrations dramatizing things to do under gasoline rationing. The fourteen points on a car which need better care under rationing and with cold weather just ahead are depicted. The advertising also shows motorists how to get ready for rationing by driving under 35 miles per hour, computing their mileage per gallon and determining their mileage covered in necessary driving.

The newspaper campaign will appear in approximately 1,800 newspapers with a combined circulation of more than 14,000,000 in the thirteen states in the midwest in which the company markets.

In addition to newspapers, which will receive most of the educational campaign, other advertising media will be used, including curb signs and window streamers at Standard Oil dealer service stations and cards for dealers to hand or mail to motorists.

SUPERVISORS CONCLUDE ACTIVITIES

ADJOURNED OCTOBER SESSION SATURDAY

Granted Customary Appropriations; Passed Budget of $80,662.73 for Year

Completing their annual October session in a week for the first time in many years, the county board of supervisors adjourned last Saturday afternoon.

Reports were heard and adopted on a wholesale scale the closing day after committees had completed conferences.

A budget of $80,062.73, requiring 9 mills tax for county purposes was adopted. The budget figure compares with $79,041.09 last year.

Roy Scott, of Boyne City, was named to succeed the late N. J. Rovick, also of Boyne City, as member of the county welfare commission. The board voted approval of the appointment of Sylvester Vaughn as director of social welfare. Mr. Vaughn some time ago succeeded William B. Lindsay.

Officers salaries were left unchanged from present figures with two exceptions. A raise from $1,500 to $1,800 was granted Wm. C. Palmer, county school commissioner. The state, however, pays one-third of this amount, providing in reality an annual saving of $300 to the county. Janitor Bert Helms was given a salary increase of $100 a year.

Appropriations other than amounts fixed for county departments were as follows: Whiting county park, $750.00; Salvation Army, $50; Supervisors' Association, $10; county rationing board, $400; county defense council, $400; Charlevoix Hospital, $750; Michigan Childrens Aid Society, $50; annual county picnic, $150 (including $75 for 1942 deficit and $75 for 1943); advertising fund, $1,000 (with $400 earmarked for West Michigan Tourist & Resort Association); bee inspection, $90; grasshopper control, $76.90; County Fair Association, $450 (to meet old deficit); fish and game fund, $1,000 (divided $300 each for Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan, $100 for Beaver Island); Soldiers' and Sailors' relief, $250; District Health Unit, $2,100; county court house fund, $1,000.

Claims aggregating $212.80 for damage by dogs to sheep were allowed.

of East Jordan, and Howard Bedell, of Boyne City, as city chairmen, and Walter H. Henley, of the USDA war board, to represent rural districts.

In Charlevoix, a permanent salvage depot is to be located on city property near the municipal light plant adjacent to the railroad siding. A weighing station will be established at the Charlevoix Co-Ops. Co. Persons desiring to sell scrap metal are asked to notify chairmen of their area so that trucks may be sent to pick up, weigh the metal and issue receipts.

It is pointed out that as long as this nation is at war, scrap metal will form a vital requiremen in furnishing our armed forces with armament. The efforts of citizens to provide scrap metal can no more decline than do we expect the efforts of our armed forces to bring victory for our protection will diminish. We, at home, are asked to give only of our time and effort—those at the fighting front risk their lives.

Let's keep the "scrap for victory" drive in full swing!

KIWANIS HALLOWEEN PARTY ON OCTOBER 30

Free Movies for All Students Afternoon and Eveniog

The Charlevoix Kiwanis Club has formulated plans for its sixth annual Halloween party for children, a plan instituted five years ago to provide entertainment in place of the customary seasonal pranks.

Friday afternoon, October 30, a free movie will be given at the Palace Theatre at 3 o'clock thru the cooperation of Mrs. Elizabeth Moon, for children of Charlevoix and adjacent rural schools up to and including the sixth grade. In the evening at 7:15 o'clock the movie will be presented free to students of upper grades.

A Kiwanis committee composed of Frank F. Bird, Clarence Meggison, Meyer Levinson, Robert Bridgo and O. P. North is in charge of the event. Instead of pledge cards signed by students in former years, signatures of students are obtained on pledge sheets in individual school rooms, and tickets will be issued preceding the free movie.

FUEL OIL, KEROSENE CONSUMERS TO APPLY

Application for Ration Book Must Be Made by October 27

All users of fuel oil and kerosene in the county are requested to file applications for ration books with the Charlevoix county rationing board before next Tuesday, October 27.

Application blanks are obtainable from fuel oil dealers or from the ration board office in Charlevoix.

After application blanks are completed, they should be returned to the office of the rationing board in Charlevoix, in person or by mail.

ELLEN KOSKELA AND LOUIS C. HAMLIN MARRIED WEDNESDAY

Miss Ellen E. Koskela and Louis C. Hamlin, both of this city, were married Wednesday evening, October 14, at 8:30 o'clock. Rev. Donald R. Evans read the ceremony before a candlelit altar in the Congregational church chapel.

Attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Hamlin, brother and sister-in-law of the groom.

The bride chose a sheer wool dress of light blue, with which she wore a corsage of palo pink gladioli. Her attendant's dress was sheer wool in cadet blue, with corsage of deepor pink gladioli.

A reception for the couple's close friends was held after the ceremony at the home of Dr. and Mrs. D. C. Nettleton. Refreshments were served from a candlelit table, centered by a large wedding cake.

The couple left for a trip to Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and the upper peninsula, where they will visit Mrs. Hamlin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Koskela in Marquette. After November 1st they will make their home at 212 East Hurlbut avenue.

Mrs. Hamlin, a graduate of St. Luke's Hospital school of nursing at Marquette, has been superintendent of Charlevoix Hospital since 1931.

LOCAL YOUTH STAR ARMY BOXING BOUTS

Pvt. Oliver Duplessis Scores Two K. O.'s In Successive Weeks

Pvt. Oliver Duplessis, Charlevoix, northern Michigan Golden Gloves champion in 1940, starred in the regular weekly boxing bout at the army air base gymnasium at Savannah, Ga., two weeks ago.

Duplessis, who is in a bomb group at the Savannah air base, met Pvt. Rudy Radick from the quartermaster division, floored him in the second round with a left to the jaw, and was adjudged winner by a technical knockout. In the previous week's bout he had scored a complete knockout over an opponent.

Making his Golden Gloves championship in the lightweight class, Duplessis now meets fighters in the light heavyweight division.

Medical research in tuberculosis, financed by the Christmas seal campaign, is going on in 11 universities throughout the country.

August 20, 1942, your congressman said, "If aircraft in the form of cargo planes is to be the answer to the submarine menace, we must remember that the bottleneck in any such program may well be found first in a possible aluminum shortage." Yet he failed to vote in March, 1942, on a bill for power for aluminum. Elect Paul Adams to congress.

HELEN SHAPTON AND WILLIAM BOGART ARE MARRIED IN DETROIT

At a ceremony solemnized Saturday evening in the First Methodist church of Highland Park, Miss Helen Dorothy Shapton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Shapton of Charlevoix and Detroit, became the bride of William Keith Bogart, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Bogart of Charlevoix. Rev George Olmstead read the double ring service at 7 o'clock in the church parlor, before a fireplace banked with rust and yellow mums, and ferns. Immediate families and close friends of the couple were present.

Miss Evelyn Shapton, of Detroit, sister of the bride, and Al Farmer, of Lansing, the groom's brother-in-law, were their attendants. Miss Mnriello VanAllsburg, at the piano, played "Because" and the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a powder blue wool jersey suit with silver trim, a small veiled brown hat, and accessories of brown and tan. Her corsage was a single white orchid. Her sister wore a dress of deep brown and pale blue, with harmonizing accessories and a corsage of yellow daisies, rust and yellow mums.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 19372 Danbury street. The twent-one guests were seated at a long table, lit by candles and decorated with fall flowers, and boaring a large white wedding cake. Topping the cake was a miniature pair of doves beneath a wedding bell, surroundod by orange blossoms.

Mr. and Mrs. Bogart left for a short trip, and are making their home at 3030 Clairmount, Detroit.

The groom is a graduate of Charlevoix high school, class of 1939, and is employed in Detroit. The bride also graduated here in 1941, and from Del-Mar beauty school in Detroit.

Out of town guests at the wedding were the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Bogart, Mrs. Charles Vincent and children, Charles and Dorothy Jane, Mrs. William Shapton, Miss Roberta Seymour, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Cross and daughter, Marion, of this city; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Shapton and son, William, and Mr. and Mrs. Al Farmer, of Lansing.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Mrs. James Hiller entertained members of her sewing club Monday evening at her residence in the See apartments.

Miss Jeanne Campbell was guest of honor at a bridal shower given Friday evening by Miss Marguerite Young at her Park avenue home. Card games formed the evening's entertainment, with table prizes going to Mrs. Clinton Cooper, Miss Rosemary Cooper and Mrs. Stewart Coleman. Miss Campbell received many lovely gifts from the fourteen guests, presented in an ingeniously contrived sailboat. Miniature anchors formed place cards at the dining table.

ANNUAL MEETING OF MARINE CLUB FRIDAY

Annual meeting of the Charlevoix Marine Club has been postponed until Friday, October 23rd, at 8 p. m. in the city hall, instead of Wednesday, October 21, as originally scheduled.

Businessmen—Let's talk about death! Let's not dodge the issue—let's face facts. A lot of good American fighting men may soon have to die for want of scrap!

IF YOU FAIL SOME BOY WILL DIE!

WE'RE talking facts, remember! Such as the fact that steel for every tank, ship, and gun must be made of 50% scrap. And the terrible fact that America's mills are starving for this scrap—without enough on hand for even 30 days more production!

Which puts it up to you!

Monday starts the big scrap metal drive. And you, as a businessman, have a double job to do. Clean out your home—and scour your place of business, factory, office or store . . . for every single bit of scrap.

And when you see the stockpile grow—for the mills to take when it's needed — be glad that you've done your part...that your work may have saved some boy from a needless death!

RED CROSS NEWS

One of the attractions at the American Red Cross operated Washington Club in London, England, is a large map of the United States labelled, "Is There Someone Here From Your Home Town?" The map is dotted with tiny flags bearing the names and home addresses of men in the club at the time. Many reunions are thus effected and "strangers" from the same towns get acquainted.

Instructions in one phase of Red Cross first aid given via telephone, by a doctor in Hatfield, Ark., to a frantic mother in Mena, Ark., are credited with the saving of the life of an eight-month-old baby. The child had fallen head downward into a bucket of water and when found by its mother was apparently drowned. Artificial respiration, as prescribed by phone, revived the child.

An appropriation has been set up by the American Red Cross for the purchase of 17,000 emergency seamen's kits of which 12,000 are now being distributed to inshore patrols, convoy, escort and other vessels now used in rescuing seamen. These kits are being supplied at the request of naval authorities.

The kit used for distribution in northern waters contain a suit of long underwear, a pair of slacks, a pair of heavy socks, a sweat shirt, a pair of slippers, tooth brush, tooth paste, razor, handkerchief and comb. Those used in southern waters substitute a pair of sweat pants and a bathrobe for the long underwear and slacks.

Rats in Tests Eager Workers

Joy of Learning Seems to Be Adequate Pay for Their Efforts.

NEW ORLEANS.—The better nature of a white rat has been disclosed. It will work for nothing.

Dr. S. Raine Wallace of Tulane university revealed that not only is the profit motive of secondary concern to a rat, but it will learn quickly if not rewarded, has a good memory and probably enjoys continuous labor. It appeared, however, that a rat has little use except in chasing through mazes—a wholly noncommercial endeavor—and outside of that is just a rat.

"Most previous experiments have been based on the assumption that an animal learns much faster when he is rewarded for his success," said Dr. Wallace, who has been putting rats in mazes for three years.

Rats Enjoy Learning.

He found that the pure joy of learning itself tended to furnish ample compensation. The rat also probably finds added reward in long periods of running instead of pausing now and then to rest.

"Such an idea," Dr. Wallace said, "has not been seriously regarded before."

Removal from the maze is considered as a form of punishment by the rat and he tends to slow down a bit and make mistakes when he realizes he is about to be forced to knock off work awhile. Dr. Wallace plans to make more investigations along this line.

If not rewarded at the start of experiments, rats may learn more quickly. This, Dr. Wallace said, may be "because the reward makes the rat too emotional to concentrate."

The ability of rats to remember the intricate maze was considered remarkable. Many rats kept out of the maze for three months made only one error when they were returned. Practically, it was possible to make seven errors. Dr. Wallace thought this retention of memory was due to the "restricted social life" of the rats in the laboratory.

No Human Link Seen.

He didn't care to discuss the possible application of his findings to human beings.

"All I can say is that we have found a number of things about learning in rats which are not in accord with most modern theories," he said. "If they are applicable to human behaviors, they should upset many of the notions upon which our thinking is based."

Regardless of the application, it was conceded that no human would find pleasure in working for nothing as does a rat.

Two weeks before the test the rats become acquainted with laboratory technicians through handling. Despite all precautions, however, some rats can't take it and have to be discarded. Dr. Wallace recalled the case of a female rat, known only as B-10, who insisted on jumping out of the maze and otherwise getting off the beam.

"We couldn't get her to follow the maze," he said with a note of regret. "She had to be retired."

On reading and filing the bill of complaint in said cause and the affidavit of R. L. Lewis attached thereto, from which it satisfactorily appears to the court that the defendants above named, or their unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns, are proper and necessary parties defendant in the above entitled cause, and,

It further appearing that after diligent search and inquiry it has been ascertained that the defendant, Niles Anderson, is dead, but it is not known whether he has personal representatives or heirs living or where they or any of them may reside, and that the names of the persons who are included therein as defendants without being named, but who are embraced therein under the title of unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns, cannot be ascertained after diligent search and inquiry.

On motion of R. L. Lewis, attorney for plaintiffs, it is ordered that said defendants and their unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns, cause their appearance to be entered in this cause within three months from the date of this order, and in default thereof that said bill of complaint be taken as confessed by the said defendants, their unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns.

It is further ordered that within forty days plaintiffs cause a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Courier, a newspaper printed, published and circulated in said county, such publication to be continued therein once in each week for six weeks in succession.

Parm C. Gilbert,
Circuit Judge.

Countersigned:

DESCENDANT OF COMMODORE PERRY--Here is one descendant of Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry, hero of the Battle of Lake Erie in the War of 1812, who believes ships of the air will be the deciding factor in America's victory in this war. He is Private Leslie Burton Perry, of Barton, N. Y., recently graduated as an airplane mechanic at Keesler Field Army Air Forces School, Biloxi, Miss.

"I am 29 years old," said Private Perry, "the same age as the Commodore when he won the Battle of Lake Erie September 10, 1813, but I like the planes and can contribute most as an air mechanic. OF INTEREST TO FARMERS
By B. C. Mellencamp

* * * * * * * * * *

Takes 25 Cords for Farm Heat

Average farm homes in Michigan will need 25 short cords of wood if they burn wood for cooking and heating this winter, according to estimates from the forestry department at Michigan State College.

Farmers are being encouraged to change to wood for fuel, if possible, to save on coal and transportation. A standard cord equals two and one-half short cords of 16 inch wood.

For hickory, oak, birch or maple the standard cord is rated equal in heat value to $10 worth of coal. A short cord is worth $4 for heating. The winter's supply, cut from the woods, can be worth as much as $100 to the average farm family.

A leaflet, "Use of Home Grown Timber on the Farm", offers information on wood for fuel, for posts and lumber for building materials. Copies can be obtained from the office of the county agricultural agent.

Kinds of wood that will burn well dry or green should be selected if the wood cutting has been delayed. Most farm woodlots offer beech, hickory, tamarack or red pine which have good heat value even if burned green. Drying two or three months before burning is recommended for elm, maple, oak and poplar. The use of dry wood for burning helps prevent tar from collecting in stove pipes or chimneys.

Home Economics Extension Project Starts October 28th

Geared to war time needs the Home Economics extension program will again be presented to local leaders selected by the various communities throughout the county. The first lesson will be given on October 28th in the Boyne City library from 10:00 to 4:00. This year the leaders will receive their lessons from Miss Leona MacLeod.

This will be the first time that Miss MacLeod has worked in Charlevoix county. The project will cover several different subjects as the farm women have indicated a wish to have the subject matter include different projects. Already the groups have organized and selected their local leaders. It is expected the following groups will be represented: Peninsula, Burgess, South Arm, East Jordan (No. 1 and No. 2) Evangeline, Clarion, Charlevoix, Deer Lake, Marion Center and two groups from Boyne City.

LETTERS from the ARMY CAMPS

Dear Ken,

Just a few lines tonight to let you know I have finally got settled at my new station and it's really great. We will do a lot of flying as we are in a squadron now, and besides it brings in our flight pay, which really helps a lot.

I'll say this much for the Navy's recruiting posters, where it used to say if you want to travel, join the Navy. It's right, because so far I have traveled from Michigan to the east coast and out to the west, not bad for a start is it?

Our trip out was really great and when we came through the mountains, well, it would take all night for me to tell you of the great sights I saw.

One of the greatest things I think I have ever seen was the tunnels, which were cut out of solid rock, some over a half mile long, and the bridges they had built over the gorges.

From the bridge to the bottom of one, it was fourteen hundred feet down.

Thanks a million for the paper, because it helps to take the place of the old home town.

James Gilbert Powers,

Dear Ken,

Having a little time on my hands, I decided to utilize a little of it and write you a letter. There is nothing that helps one's state of mind as much as writing to the folks back home.

Nothing has happened to me of any importance since the last time I wrote, except perhaps a little shift in responsibility here at the station. I am still at the same station and I am still as uncertain as to just how long I will stay here.

Last week, upon taking an examination, I received the rating of third class petty officer. I am now a third class radioman, which as I said before shifted the burden of responsibility here at the station, to a large extent, to me. I am now second in charge here, and if you know how things like that are, it is usually the person who is second in charge who manages to have all the work in the line of administration to take care of. I don't mind the added responsibility however, except that it makes it so I have to be at the station at least half of the time. We have enough men here to enable us to choose our watches to a large extent.

Well, I suppose the fall of the year has passed you and you are now ready to settle down to a cold winter. I wish I was where I could enjoy a winter where there would be lots of snow, instead of all the rain I encounter out here, we have started in on our rainy season here now, and my liking for so much rain, is extremely limited. It has turned much colder here now, and it looks as though we will keep on having lots of rain.

This letter may be my last for some time, due to the extremely close proximity of a transfer to sea duty. I really won't mind having sea duty for a change, but this duty I have now, is probably the best type of duty I will ever have.

It is getting time to go to work so I think that I had better close thanking you for every copy of the "Courier" you have sent me, I wish that I only had the opportunity to thank you personally, knowing that thanks conveyed by mail never give the fullness of thought that I would like to express to you. I have enjoyed every copy of the paper, and hope to continue to do so. So, "until next time", I remain,

Sincerely your friend,

Dear Ken,

Just a few lines this evening to let you know I have been receiving the Courier every week and it is appreciated very much.

There are 500 of us fellow shipmates quarantined in with the measles. We have it all figured out, if every one gets them we'll be here for over nine years. After every case that comes up, we are in quarantine 10 days from that day, and they're taking them out about every other day so will probably be here longer.

I'm in diesel school here. It is very interesting and educational though it is rather tough for the first few days.

Was glad to hear the whereabouts of Albert (Tubby) Gill, for I often wondered about him.

Well, it's about time to roll in, so will close.

Sincerely yours,
Bert Pearl.

ed to some lucky donor of scrap metal.

This isn't fiction. It happened in Tekonsha the other day. Where is the publisher? Meredith Clark is an officer in the United States army; his wife is running the paper, the Tekonsha Patriot, and getting scrap to boot. No wonder the town turned out to help her!

Some communities are using their human resources to help win the war. Others are not.

It's a question of utilizing manpower, a general word for the work-power of men and women and even children. This manpower is put to work WHEN individuals are inspired to self-sacrifice.

When a farmer's wife goes into the field to pitch hay, that's the best proof in the world to us that she is doing her part to help win the war.

We wish we could honestly say the same thing about some industrial workers who quit work because they can't smoke. The smoke of a cigarette, enjoyed in comparative safety and at high pay, is a sordid contrast to the smoke of battle at Bataan where it was a matter of "too little and too late".

A Detroit C. I. O. Union the other day got out a little bulletin to its new members.

The news-letter went on to say: "The new employees should be told that the union stands for a fair day's work for a fair day's pay and that in the present crisis we expect to cooperate for all-out production for victory, BUT we don't want any single individual trying to produce all the implements of war all by themselves."

This C. I. O. bulletin accused new workers of "working all out of proportion to what we consider a fair day's work."

You can write the finish to this. We're too downright disgusted to do it.

High school boys leave their classes to harvest crops for farmers.

And the school principal says, "The idea of this isn't money, it's getting the crops in."

Merchants lock the doors to their stores and man trucks to collect scrap. School is dismissed; children canvass the homes.

A woman carries on as publisher of a country newspaper when her husband goes to war.

This is the real spirit of America.

Some industrial workers will have much to answer when the prisoners of Bataan return, if they do. And a hearty shout of approval will go up from the throats of the Michigan veterans when they hear the astounding news of this Michigan revival of Yankee resourcefulness, courage and sacrifice.

Your present congressman when he voted against sending aid to England by the lend-lease, said, "For my part, I prefer to go along with Col. Lindbergh." Elect a fighter. Elect Paul Adams to Congress.

From where I sit . . .

by Joe Marsh

DON'T ever argue with Grandma Hoskins about American history unless you know what you're talking about. Because when Grandma states a fact, it really is a fact.

The other day we got to talking about George Washington — who besides being a great general, was a public surveyor, a successful farmer, and a wise statesman.

"And he made mighty good beer, too," says Grandma.

That was news to most of us.

"You can see his private recipe for beer right in the New York Public Library," Grandma Hoskins tells us. "In his own handwriting, at that."

And then she opened up on how Washington and those others who founded America believed in beer and moderation. Told us about William Penn who had his own brewery down in Pennsylvania, and Israel Putnam . . . Samuel Adams of Massachusetts and James Oglethorpe of Georgia.

"Beer," Grandma goes on, "has grown up with the country because it's a symbol of good fellowship and moderation."

Way back in 1789, she told us, James Madison stood up in the House of Representatives and made the motion urging "the manufacture of beer in every State of the Union." And that same year Massachusetts passed an act stating that "the wholesome qualities of malt liquors greatly recommend them to general use."

From there on — until early in 1918, the brewing industry kept growing and beer and ale kept getting better and better.

Then came prohibition . . . thirteen dark years that bred vice and crime. Grandma says it taught us something though — something that George Washington and all those other early American statesmen knew all along . . . that no law ever takes the place of self-restraint and moderation.

That's why they were friends of beer and made moderation a cornerstone of American freedom. They were right about a lot of things — Washington and Adams and Penn. And from where I sit, they certainly were right about moderation, too.

tion. Plan now to vote at the general election November 3.

And while speaking of the election, there's Proposal No. 2 on the amendment ballot which demands the attention of everyone. Stated as briefly as possible, decent, law-abiding citizens of Wayne county are seeking to erase waste, corruption and inefficiency through adoption of home rule. Since the only way Wayne can bring about this change is by means of an amendment to the state constitution, all the counties must vote on the proposal, even though it applies only to Wayne county. No matter what may be said by certain politicians, interested mainly in preserving jobs on the public payroll and their special privileges, a vote YES on this proposal will be for the cause of good government. This county could use a smaller governing body, too. While some members of the board of supervisors would like to clean up business as quickly as possible when the board convenes, there are others who make the session a vacation at county expense and would hang around for two or three weeks if they could.

Partridge hunters aren't doing so good, I understand. While birds seem plentiful, they are exceedingly wild, probably because the woods are noisy from extended dry weather. As for myself, if I don't get many "pats" this fall, I will have the pleasant memory of a successful pheasant hunt in southern Michigan. After searching practically a whole morning for un-posted ground to hunt on near Muskegon, ran into a Williamston plan hunting club near Eastmanville that welcomed all strangers. Dozens of other farmers we visited had leased the hunting rights on their farms to city sportsmen, but at Eastmanville there was an area probably three miles square where the privilege of hunting was denied only when all tickets, limited to so many to a farm, had been passed out. No fees were accepted, but you could make a contribution to the game feeding fund, which we gladly did in return for the hospitality shown us. Only restrictions were that you leave your car at the farmhouse which issued the permit, and allow inspection of your game when you returned. Rabbits were scarce on the club and you were asked not to shoot them, showing how conservation-minded these property owners were. I noted also that on every farm with corn fields the outside six or seven rows were cut and allowed to lie on the ground to provide feed for pheasants. When you stop to consider that these farmers ask no compensation for hunting privileges other than that you observe the rules and help them feed the game, you come to the conclusion they are mighty public-spirited and any praise you give them is inadequate.

MOTORISTS URGED TO KEEP MILEAGE DATA

Information Needed to Determine Gasoline Rationing

Automobile drivers, particularly war production workers, were urged today by Arthur H. Sarvis, state director of the Office of Price Administration to keep a record of their mileage and gasoline consumption in driving between home and work.

If the regulations now governing the gasoline rationing program in the seventeen Eastern states are applied nationwide, Sarvis said, it will be of great importance that persons who can otherwise qualify for supplemental rations have an accurate check on their travel needs. "We stress this importance to war production workers so that those who may be eligible for supplemental rations," Sarvis said, "will not have their applications held up, thus possibly causing the loss of valuable man-hours in our war plants.

"It will be much easier for the local boards to 'tailor' the supplemental book when the applicant has a specific record of his mileage requirements. It will also enable the board to act more promptly in processing the application. The greatest advantage is that no war worker will have to stay away from his place of work because of insufficient gasoline."

GAS RATIONING WILL AFFECT DEER HUNTER

Expect Concentration Nimrods Below the Straits.

Looking ahead to deer hunting season and its probable coincidence with the beginning of gasoline rationing, the conservation department checked records of its farthest north counties and found more than half the hunters in the upper peninsula in recent years were lower Michigan residents.

Of 53,410 deer hunters in the upper peninsula last year, 30,500 or 57 per cent came from the lower peninsula. In 1940 the percentage of lower Michigan men among hunters above the straits was 51 per cent, and in the previous nine years this figure fluctuated between 44 and 52 per cent. In large but lightly populated Luce county 89% of the hunters last year were from the southern peninsula. How many of these hunters will switch to train or bus transportation is a matter for speculation.

Opening of the deer season on a Sunday, November 15, a week before the tentatively announced date for rationing to begin, is expected to result in a high concentration of early-season hunters in northern lower Michigan.

The Charlevoix Public Health Committee, auxiliary to the local health unit, met Tuesday evening with Miss Anne Lawrence, R. N., at the Seo apartments. Eleven members were present for an informal social meeting.

Strange case of a "Hopeless" cripple. For months she prayed at a shrine with the Mother Superior, hoping for a miracle — then five days after the Nun's death, the paralyzed woman saw her in a vision and left the chapel completely cured. Read of her remarkable recovery as told in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next week's Sunday Chicago Herald-American.

AGED RESIDENT OF CITY DIED FRIDAY

Funeral Services Held Monday for Mrs. L. L. Peper

Mrs. L. L. Peper, 86, died Friday at her home on Carpenter avenue. She had been in ill health for a number of years.

Rosantha Furgeson was born October 31, 1855, in Vermont. She married Harvey James Cook 68 years ago, and they came to Michigan in 1876, residing in Ionia county and later in Hayes township. Mr. Cook died in November, 1893. She was married June 10, 1905, to L. L. Peper, who survives.

Also surviving are five sons, Orson Cook, Hayes township, William A. Cook, of Morley, Mich., George Cook, of Charlevoix, Harvey Cook, of Chillicothe, Ill., and Frank Cook, of Grand Rapids; three daughters, Mrs. Frank Bonner, of Vanderbilt, Mrs. Henry Walker, of Jackson, and Mrs. Edward Probst, of Highland Park, Mich.; 12 grandchildren and 23 great-grandchildren. Two daughters, Maude Parker and Nellie Walker, preceded her in death.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon from the See Funeral Home, with Rev. H. C. Ringenoldus presiding. Interment was at Brooksido cemetery.

TWO DENS ARE ADDED TO CUB SCOUT PACK

More Den Mothers Are Needed As Pack Continues to Increase

With Mrs. Ronald Fairbanks and Mrs. Gerald Fisher assuming the duties of den mothers, the appointment of Bill Cruthers and Bill Carey as den chiefs and the registration of 15 more Cubs, Cub Scout Pack 111 of Charlevoix last week grew from two dens to four.

There are still boys wanting to join who must be denied because each den has its quota of members and no other den mothers have volunteered.

Cubbing offers the 9 to 12 year old youngster a fine program of education, development and recreation. A den mother gives her home as a meeting place for one hour each week, and stands by to give support and advice to the Boy Scout, who, as den chief, has charge of the program.

Mothers of boys and anyone else interested in boys are urged to volunteer their services so that all youngsters desiring to become Cubs may be given the opportunity.

OCTOBER TERM CIRCUIT COURT MONDAY

No Jury Drawn for Current or Subsequent Sessions

A light docket is listed for the October term of circuit court convening next Monday before Judge Parm C. Gilbert, of Traverse City.

Cases listed include one criminal five issues of fact and law, two divorce actions and two non-progress cases.

No jury has been drawn for the present term and, according to Fenton R. Bulow, county clerk, juries will not be empaneled in the future only in case of necessity where cases cannot be disposed of without a jury. This action is being taken as an economy measure as well as to conserve tires and automobile fuel.

DISTRICT W. S. C. S. MEETING ON MONDAY

Three District Officers Elected from Charlevoix Delegation

The second annual meeting of the Grand Traverse district of the Woman's Society of Christian Service was held Monday at the First Methodist church of Cadillac.

Attending from Charlevoix were Rev. and Mrs. L. H. Hagle, Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Bancroft, Mrs. A. C. Belding, Mrs. Arthur Edwards, Mrs. A. C. Hansen and Miss Susannah Metcalf.

Mrs. Hagle was elected district vice president, Mrs. Belding received the office of secretary of social relations and local church service, and Miss Metcalf was re-elected to the post of secretary of literature for the district.

EDWARD VRATANINA IS STAFF SERGEANT

With Army Air Forces "Somewhere in the Caribbean"

Edward J. Vratanina, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Vratanina of this city, has been promoted to the rank of staff sergeant in the army air forces.

Graduating in 1935 from Charlevoix high school, Vratanina volunteered for service in September, 1940. In March, 1941, he graduated from the air corps technical school at Chanute Field, Ill., and three months later was transferred to his present unit. His station is "somewhere in the Caribbean."

USO CENTER TO BE OPENED HERE

FORMER DAHLQUIST STORE IS SELECTED

CSO Will Act As Committee for USO; Ask Donations of Furniture for Service Men's Club

Charlevoix will have a USO service men's center in the Birnkrant building at the corner of Bridge street and Park avenue, the former Dahlquist store building, according to announcement by Ralph Hamilton, chairman of the Charlevoix Service Organization committee.

The center will open early in November, date to be announced when plans and decorating are completed. All service men will be welcome at any time the room is open during the afternoon and evening. The local CSO committee will form the United Service Organization committee in charge, and will be chartered under the national organization. Fr. John W. Collins will be chairman of this committee, having jurisdiction over the center.

Matrons selected from women's clubs of the city will be in attendance at all times. Entertainment facilities will include a pool table, ping pong table, soft drinks, card tables, reading corner and writing desk.

Here also the photographs of service men will have a permanent and appropriate home.

Desks, lamps, tables, chairs and other furniture are needed to furnish the center, and donations of usable articles will be welcome. Those who have extra pieces of furniture to give to the project should contact Fr. Collins, phone 517.

The center will fill a long-felt need of service men located in this city, home on furlough or passing through here on their way to other points. Hearty cooperation from all local citizens is needed to make this worthwhile project a complete success.

PRANKLESS HALLOWEEN AIM OF KIWANIS CLUB

Free Movie For All Students Scheduled For Friday

Continuing a policy established several years ago, the Kiwanis Club is providing free entertainment Friday afternoon and evening for all students who sign pledges to refrain from Halloween pranks.

A Kiwanis committee composed of Frank F. Bird, Clarence Meggison, Meyer Levinson, Robert Bridge and O. P. North distributed pledges among students. Their signature is a promise to respect private property and keep out of Halloween trouble.

As a reward, youngsters up to and including the sixth grade will be entertained at a movie at the Palace Theater, at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon. Upper grades will be guests at the movie in the evening.

The plan was proven a very successful one in the past five years and this year should be no exception.

RURAL SCRAP METAL DRIVE IS UNDER WAY

Period October 29-31 Designated for County Clean-Up

The three-day period of October 29-31 will bring a climax to the rural scrap metal collection drive in Charlevoix county, according to Robert W. Ries, chairman of the county salvage committee.

All local war club leaders are to contact their community chairman to make arrangements to get trucks to move their scrap piles. Everyone having scrap to sell is urged to move it to one of the scrap depots in October to help Charlevoix county meet its quota.

It is hoped that the heavy snowfall will not interfere with efforts during the three-day period designated for the scrap metal cleanup.

ADOPT A YANK BY NOVEMBER 1

BULLETIN BOARD IN CENTRAL DRUG GIVES NAMES

Poll of Service Men by USO Reveals Preference for Xmas Gifts; Choose Early

Everyone who wishes to "adopt a Yank" before Christmas must do so this week, as the bulletin board of service men's names and addresses in the Central Drug store will be removed Saturday. Last date for Christmas mailing to soldiers overseas is November 1, which means packages must be mailed Saturday morning in order to beat the deadline.

Although many names have been removed from the board, a large number remains for "adaptation." Even though Christmas packages to be sent to service men within the continental United States need not be sent by November 1, it is well to make a choice and prepare packages for early mailing.

Gifts need not be elaborate or costly, it is the friendly thought behind them, and the care with which they are chosen that is appreciated by the "Yank" who receives them.

Cigarettes rank highest on the list of the service men's own preferences as to gifts, with small portable radios running a close second. Homemade cookies, cakes and jams are always welcome. Other suggestions from a poll made by the New York headquarters of the USO of service men's likes, include leather wallet, waterproof wrist watch, good regulation shirts and socks, magazine subscriptions, wind-proof cigarette lighter, pen and pencil set with clips at top, overnight bag with place to keep papers flat, photographs of family or friends, pocket size Bible, small sewing kit completely tied.

WOMAN'S REPUBLICAN CLUB HELD MEETING

The Woman's Republican Club met Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Floyd Ikens. Amendments to be voted on at next Tuesday's election were outlined and clarified by R. L. Lewis, chairman of the Charlevoix county Republican committee.

PANCAKE SUPPER FOR BOARD OF COMMERCE

Resort Season Is Summarized In Reports of Members

Summer activities of the board of commerce were reported at a general meeting last Wednesday evening at the K. of P. hall. About 35 were present at the meeting.

A pancake supper, which was in charge of Ron Fairbanks, was followed by the business session. O. P. North, board of commerce president, presided.

Three songs were sung by the Ballad Benders, barbershop quartet. Stewart Coleman told of his summer experience as activities director. Clifford McKibbin, Jr., secretary, briefly outlined work accomplished by meetings of the board of directors since the last general meeting.

From the remarks of E. J. Edwards and Fred Bancroft, it was evident that this summer averaged better than 1941 for the hotels, resorts, cabins and rooming houses even though there were 40 per cent less cars on the highways. This result bore out predictions at the beginning of the year that people would come and stay here once they arrived.

Kit Carson enlivened the meeting with humorous stories. Rollin White, of the West Michigan Tourist & Resort Association, urged every member to sell Charlevoix as much as possible, since tourists easily forget a location unless they are constantly reminded of it. C. Y. Marshall outlined the work of the Sportman's Club in promoting the fall fishing festival and tried to show that Charlevoix's resort season might be lengthened by another month by promotion of fishing.

JUDGE GILBERT SPOKE AT SEND-OFF PROGRAM

Next Draft Examination at Kalamazoo Is November 3rd

Thirty-eight men comprising the county's second October draft quota left Monday on the 4:03 train for Fort Custar.

Because of inclement weather, the send-off program was held at the gymnasium instead of the city hall. R. L. Lewis, acting as master of ceremonies, introduced Judge Parm C. Gilbert, of Traverse City, who gave an inspirational talk. Rev. W. L. Cruthers gave the benediction. Several numbers were played by the high school band under direction of Max Smith.

Monday's send-off was the eighth such program directed by the Charlevoix Service Organization in its six months of operation. The draftees were furnished with cigarettes by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and magazines by the CSO.

Examination of the next county draft group at Kalamazoo has been set for next Tuesday, November 3rd.

GENERAL ELECTION ON NOV. 3

THREE PARTIES HAVE CANDIDATES ON BALLOT

Voters Get Three Ballots—General, Non-Partisan, Amendment; Polls Open 7 a. m. to 8 p. m.

Michigan's first World War II general election is scheduled for Tuesday, November 3.

Voters will be presented three ballots when they go to the polls. Three parties, Republican, Democratic and Prohibition, have candidates on the blanket ballot; the non-partisan ballot provides for the selection of Justice of the Supreme Court to fill vacancy and circuit court commissioner for the county; the amendment ballot has three proposals.

The election will climax a most intensive campaign between Republican and Democratic candidates. In the contests for Congressional seats, support of the Administration's policies in conduct of the war have been made an uppermost issue. U. S. Senator Prentiss M. Brown, Dem., is opposed by the Republican nominee, Judge Homer Ferguson, of Detroit, and Fred Bradley, Republican 11th district congressional representative, is opposed by Paul L. Adams, of Sault Ste. Marie. Heading the state political battle is the contest between Murray D. Van Wagoner, the Democratic incumbent for governor, and Harry F. Kelly, present secretary of state and unopposed Republican gubernatorial nominee at the September primary.

With only about 25 per cent of the registered electors of Michigan voting at the primary election, especial stress is being put forth to bring voters out for the November election.

Following are the candidates of the major parties:

State

For governor—Rep., Harry F. Kelly; Dem., Murray D. Van Wagoner; Prob., Federic S. Goodrich.

Lieut. governor—Rep., Eugene C. Keyes; Dem., Frank Murphy; Prob., E. Harold Munn.

Secretary of state—Rep., Herman H. Dignan; Dem., Maurice Eveland; Prob., Olin K. Marshall.

Attorney general—Rep., Herbert J. Rushton; Dem., John W. Babcock; Prob., Frederick Platt.

State treasurer—Rep., D. Hale Brake; Dem., Theodore I. Fry; J. Lawrence Ward.

Auditor general—Rep., Vernon J. Brown; Dem., Carl R. Brandenburg; Prob., O. Lon Chaney.

Prob., O. Lon Chaney.

Fewer Hunters This Fall

For each of five hunters in the field in the last peace-time season a year ago, only four were counted this year in checks of hunting pressure made by conservation department game men on seven southern Michigan hunting grounds.

Not since 1887 has a smaller acreage been planted to potatoes in Michigan than in 1941.

OLD AGE ASSISTANCE ALLOWANCE INCREASED

Twenty-Five Percent Boost Between December and February

A 25 per cent increase in food allowances for old age assistance, ubi to dependent children and aid to the blind clients has been approved by the state welfare commission and will go into effect between December and February, 1943, F. F. Fauri, state social security supervisor, has announced.

Fauri said the increase was made possible by the decreasing number of persons receiving relief, and would still leave a balance in the OAA and ADC funds at the end of the fiscal year next June. The aid to the blind fund will incur a $28,804 deficit by June, 1943, but he said it could be absorbed by other funds.

Old age assistance clients, now receiving an average grant of $20, will be increased to $23 by February, 1943; aid to the blind will increase from an average of $26.60 to $29.60 and aid to dependent children will jump from $43 to $49, Fauri estimated.

Aid to dependent children ceiling grants were raised from $28 to $34 for one child; $34 to $40 for two children; $45 to $50 for three; $55 to $60 for four, and $66 to $70 for five.

KIWANIS PREPARE FOR 'WHITE ELEPHANT' SALE

Event Opens Friday, October 30, In Former Dahlquist Building

The coming weekend brings the annual Kiwanis "White Elephant" sale, conducted to raise funds for the organization's under-privileged childrens' activity.

The sale will be held Friday and Saturday, October 30 and 31, in the former Dahlquist store building. A large quantity of valuable merchandise, some nearly new, will be offered.

Donations of articles which may be sold will be accepted up to the day of the event. A call to any Kiwanis member will bring someone to gather them up.

COFFEE RATIONING IS ORDERED NOVEMBER 29

Limit One Pound Per Person for Five Weeks Scheduled

Price Administrator Leon Henderson Monday ordered nation-wide rationing of coffee, effective at midnight on November 28, on the basis of one pound each five weeks—about a cup a day—for all persons who were 15 years of age or over when they registered for sugar rationing on May 4-5.

All retail sales of coffee will be frozen at midnight, November 31, for the week before rationing begins to permit merchants to stock their shelves.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY MARINE CLUB FRIDAY

Harold Millar Succeeds Retiring Commodore Art Wexstaff

Officers were elected at the Charlevoix Marine Club's annual meeting last Friday evening at the city hall.

Chosen for the ensuing year were: Commodore, Harold Miller; vice commodore, Capt. Alfred Brow; rear commodore, Clarence Wood; secretary, Charles Duerr; treasurer, Harry Ladd.

Mr. Miller succeeds Art Wexstaff as commodore.

BASKETBALL TOURNAMENTS ARE CANCELLED

Transportation Difficulties Reason for Action

The annual state high school basketball tournaments, usually held in March and participated in by about 11,000 boys, last Thursday were declared a casualty of gasoline rationing and federal transportation conservation.

Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction said that under present rules and regulations the annual tournaments "are out with the possible exception of the area games in Detroit."

Before gasoline rationing and the ODT has regulations were announced the department had requested high schools to cut athletic travel one-third and to request fans to attend "home games" only.

PRICES SET ON MORE ARTICLES

COMMODITIES HELD TO LEVEL OF SEPT. 28-OCT. 2

Milk Products, Eggs, Poultry, and Flour Affected by OPA Ruling on Swiftly Rising Costs

Ceiling price regulations have been clamped on a number of articles this month by the Office of Price Administration, bringing to a standstill the skyrocketing costs of many previously uncontrolled items.

Commodities held to the level of their price between September 28 and October 2 are milk products, including all butter, cheese, condensed and evaporated milk, casein, malted milk, powder, etc., (except fluid milk, cream and ice cream, which have been controlled since March); eggs, poultry, mutton, white potatoes, canned and fresh citrus fruits, juices, and other citrus products, including but not limited to oranges, grapefruit, lemons and limes; flour, cake mixes and flour mixes, in bulk and packaged in quantities greater than 3 pounds; onions, dry edible beans, dried peas and lentels, corn meal, hominy and hominy grits in bulk and packaged in quantities greater than 3 pounds.

Prices have been set by special OPA food mark-up formula, effective October 15, on the following: breakfast cereals, canned fish, cooking salad oils, sugar, canned vegetables, coffee, rice, hydrogenated and other shortening, dried fruits, lard.

VICTORY AUCTION IS SET FOR WEDNESDAY

Payment Will Be Made in War Stamps or Donated to CSO

Wednesday evening, November 4, is the date set for the victory auction at St. Mary's recreation center.

Everyone who attends should bring some article which is to be auctioned off to the highest bidder, with payment made in war stamps. If the person who brings the article does not wish to accept payment, the money will be turned over to the Charlevoix Service Organization to carry on its activities.

An enjoyable evening's entertainment is promised.

Throw your scrap into the fight.

HARBOR IS VICTOR OVER CHARLEVOIX

SCORED 12 TO 0 VICTORY SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Charlevoix Plays Grayling, Conference Leaders, in Final Game of Season Next Saturday

Presenting a heavier and speedier organization, Harbor Springs defeated Charlevoix's Red Ryder football team by a 12 to 0 score at south side athletic field Saturday afternoon. Harbor won last year by a 14 to 6 count.

Employing straight football almost entirely, Harbor punched across touchdowns in the second and third periods.

With less than three minutes remaining in the second quarter, Harbor started a touchdown march from Charlevoix's 45. Line bucks and off-tackle smashes advanced to the 30-yard strip and L. Kosequat skirted Charlevoix's end on a 30-yard dash for the score. A pass for extra point was blocked.

Herrick, Harbor quarterback, scored the third period touchdown. Two plays, one a 30-yard slash through the line from Charlevoix's 35-yard strip, and Herrick's run around end netted the score. Try for extra point failed and the game ended after a scoreless fourth period.

Charlevoix was out-classed all the way. Their nearest approach to Harbor's goal was an advance to the 30-yard line in the first quarter.

Charlevoix's Raylers close their 1942 season at south side athletic field next Saturday afternoon when they meet the undefeated Grayling team. Grayling won the conference title last year and with a veteran team, is expected to repeat.

CEILING IS FIXED ON KEROSENE, FUEL OIL

Office of Price Administration Order Effective Oct. 28

Tempory price ceilings for kerosene and distillate fuel oils produced in Michigan or shipped into the state from outside sources were established Friday by the office of price administration.

OPA announced its action due to difficulty and confusion in determining maximum prices for shipments from Michigan to the eastern seaboard.

The new specific prices, effective Oct. 28, are:

For shipments destined to points within 35 miles of the refinery or or terminal—47-49 gravity W.W. (kerosene), 6 cents per gallon; P. W. distillate (high grade fuel oil), 5 1-2; No. 3 gas oil, straw, 5; U.C. I. gas oil, 4 1-2.

For shipments destined to points beyond the 35 mile radius—47-49 gravity W.W. (kerosene), 5 1-2 cents per gallon; P.W. distillate (high grade fuel oil), 5; No. 3 gas oil, straw, 4 1-2; U.G.I. gas oil, 4 1-2.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By KEN USHER

"Just fancy that," exclaimed the proud mother. "They've promoted our Herbert for hitting the petty officer. He's now a court martial."

Guess I'll have to get a crotched stick to hold my gun steady while hunting. Connected with four "pats" out of 25 shots last Sunday, which is a mighty poor average. It was a lot of fun banging away at them, though, and fun, incidentally, is what a fellow goes out for. I did save the brass part of the cartridges, too, and hope other hunters are doing the same thing. I found out it's mighty hard to keep your mind on saving them during the excitement of hunting, though.

And while on the subject of hunting—it's mighty hard to believe the deer season has crept up so close so quickly. Just 21 more days to wait, and even while the edge has been taken off the fun of anticipating by apprehension over gasoline rationing and whether or not the old tires are going to stand the trip to the big woods and back, a lot of fellows will make an extra effort to go this year if for no other reason than the belief that this year will be their last deer hunt for the duration.

Winter made us a premature visit Monday and Tuesday. We got up with the ground covered with snow Monday morning and it has been that way since. It was probably the heaviest October snowfall in many years and, incidentally, the second so far this month. Quite some contrast, considering it followed two weeks of perfect Indian Summer weather. Let's hope these "spells of weather" aren't the forerunner of an earlier than usual winter.

OPA officials tell housewives not to be alarmed if the price of canned soups go up several cents. They say the raise will be the result of improved grades rather than violation of price orders. Between you and me, the "improved

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Quick an aspirin! Gasoline rationing will start in three weeks.

Sunday, Nov. 22, is the big day.

If you drive an automobile, you must register it beginning Monday, Nov. 9. You'll be limited to five tires, numbers of which you must declare. A fine of $10,000 and imprisonment for 10 years are provided if you falsify your tire statement.

You will explain why you need your car and how much you drive it in a month. Then the sad news will follow. It's just like that.

For most Americans, transportation rationing means four gallons of gasoline a week, or enough according to OPA reckoning, to take you 2,800 miles a year. This is the "A" card, in effect.

If the local rationing board approves your plea for more mileage and more gasoline, you will get a "B" card which permits you to purchase additional gasoline in the rationing time period.

If you have more than five automobile tires, you must sell or give them to the government through the Defense Supplies Corporation which has $150,000,000 available to buy idle tires at ceiling prices. The Railway Express agency will collect the tires and transport them to a nearby warehouse.

After the tire has been inspected at the warehouse to determine its value, the government will mail you a check, or war bonds and stamps if you prefer. No deductions will be made for services performed by the Railway Express.

Will this gasoline rationing work in the Middle West?" you ask. A lot of people don't believe it will, and they are not hesitant to say so.

In the East, where this type of rationing was first introduced, distances between homes and factory are comparatively small. Highway transportation is secondary to railroads, buses and street cars.

In one day you can drive through three or four states in New England.

And then slow down the driving speed to 35 miles an hour, and you get the next best thing to a head-

FARMERS' SIDE BIG INFLATION ARGUMENT IS SELDOM STRESSED

Since President Roosevelt made his notable Labor Dny talk we have read and heard much about the farmer and the food price situation. This especially the case during the time that Congress was debuting and enacting the anti-inflation bill that the President had requested. At the outset, the farmers through their leaders warned the President, tha Congress and the nation of certain threntening conditions, and requested fair consideration, if they were to be able to continue to produce as needed. All that the farmers wanted was to have the cost of hired labor and the farm owner's family labor included in the calculation of parity for farm prices. They knew that this was necessary if farmers were to be able to compete with industry to hold labor on the farms and produce the food that Serretary Wickard said would win the war.

Idea Assailed

When the farmers made their request the administration, the metropolitan press, and radio news service commentators rase as one to assail the idea as one that would wreck the anti-inflation bill. Farmers were called selfish and unpatriotic for asking for this consideration and wiring and writing their congressmen for support. This was not supposed to be fair even though labor and other groups had been using it for a lang time.

Many uncomplimentary things were said and written about the farm leadors: O'Neal of the Farm Bureau, Goss of the Grange, Babcock of the National Council of Farm Cooperatives, and Holman of the National Milk Producers' Federation. In the face of this unfair treatment these great farm leadors stood firmly side by side, knowing that their members were backing them up, and that they were right. The members of these four arganizations produce two-thirds of the nation's food. Tha truth and the farmers' side of things were not told. It was the most unfair one-sided treatment any group ever received in democratic America. In spite af this, the furmers will go on and produce in a patriotic mannor as they always have. The country has never heen let down by the people of the land. Secretary Wickard said foad would win the war. Donald Nelsun said the farmers lead all groups in their war production efforts.

Labor Ceiling

What are the facts? Were the requests the farmers made trumped up all at once? No. The delegates at the American Farm Bureau annual meeting in Chicago in December, 1941, passed a resolution requesting the President and Congress to put ceilings an wages and prices then to prevent inflation. Spaco will not permit the stating of all the facts, but following aro a few that should cause the readers to realize that some clever, one-sided things were written. September 7 the President in his message said that calculation of parity should include all production costs, including labor. Naturnlly all took that to mean farm labor. Congressman Crawford said that on Septemher 16 in a letter to Chairman Steagall he, the President, repudiated the language. In Merry-Go-Round in the September issue of the Detroit Free Press, Drew Pearson quotes the President as saying that what he meunt was labor and production costs in what the farmer buys and not what he sells. Is that fair or logical?

Would the inclusion of labor costs in the farm produce prices cause inflation? Farm price ceilings are placed on gross farm prices. Labor increases are not. Nearly 70 per cent of the cost of manufactured goods is labor costs. Professor R. V. Cunn, of Michigan State College, said recently that if farmers were to get what they were asking for it would not increase the cost of food more than 2 per cent. When the retail prices of food ga up the increase is often explained as due to a higher price paid to the farmer, where as a matter of fact, it is largely due to increases in processing, manufacturing, transportation nnd distribution charges.

Small Percent

If the farmer gave milk away, city consumers would still pay about 9c per quart, since the farmer averages ahout 4 1-2 cents at the farm, gross. If the farmer gave wheat away, brend would sell at 9 1-2 cents a loaf instead of 11c. A loaf contains 1 1-2 cents worth of wheat. There's about 3c worth of raw cotton in a $2.25 dress shirt.

A 15c can of beans contnins about 1c worth of dry beans. This leaves 14c a can for labor and distribution charges. If the cost of canned beans went up 15 per cent, to blame the farmer for the increase is like saying a 4-inch tail can wag an 8-foot dog.

How can the farmers, comprising 25 per cent of the population and receiving less than 10 per cent of the national income, be responsible for inflation.

The farmers and their leaders appealed to the President nnd to the Congress, not selfishly or as a self-interested group, but to put forth the true facts. They knew the problems agriculture was facing better than the Administration, the metropolitan press and radio news service commentators. They asked for only such consideration as would make it possible for them to produce all the food and fiber necessary to win the war. The opposition chose to confuse the issue. But time and the pages of history will bring out and record truth.

DISTRICT HEALTH DEPT.

Resort Sanitation for 1942

Carrying on its usual summer resort sanitation program this department was pleased to learn that considerable progress had been made in following the improvements recommended at the time of the inspection last summer.

This was the second consocutive summer that a really concerted effort has been made to inspect all resarts in the district. Thanks to the work done by assistants sent to this district for the resort season by the State Health Department, we have been able the past two years to attain our goal.

During the 1942 resort season, 238 resorts were inspected. Of those 41 were approved for sanitation. This compares with only 24 approved in 1941. All resorts are inspected on the following items of sanitation: water supply, sewage disposal, food handling and storage, bathing facilities, toilet facilities, general cleanliness and maintenance. A water sample is also taken at each resort having its own water supply and analyzed at the state health department laboratory.

In a resort area as highly developed as northern Michigan it is important to furnish our summer guests with sanitary accommodations. Any epidemic trouble due ta lack of such accommodations could very easily cause the loss of thousands of dollars in tourist trade. For this reason, those resort owners who have been approved for sanitation are to be congratulated for their foresight in improving their facilities.

KELLY PLEDGES AID FARMERS, BUSINESS

GOP Candidate for Governor Says Workers' to be Provided

Harry F. Kelly swung into the final 10 days of his campsign for the governorship with a definite pledge of aid to farmers and small business men.

"We can't win the war without the farmers, we can't win the peace without aid to small business," he has told crowds in rallies throughout the lower part of the state in the past few days. "There are state agencies which can help—and I will use those agencies."

One af the great burdens of both farmers and small business men that Kelly promised to remove is the duplication of inspection by innumerable state departments.

"We have an inspector for eggs, another for fruit, another for licenses, another for soft drinks," he said. "An intelligent state representative could do all those jobs in one call, and save annoyance and expenses to farmers and business men." I will merge the inspection activities, for economy and efficiency."

Another of Mr. Kelly's pledges is to make appointments of men and women "of proven ability" and not for political patronage. Further, he says that he will provide adequate civilian defense by removing petty squabbling and political maneuvering.

Mr. Kelly, in two terms as Secretary of State, has proven he can streamline a whole department, and with business of the state department rising to a new high of $75,000,000 a year, costs of operation of that department have gone down, Kelly maintains.

Harry F. Kelly has made his position clear on three more important issues:

ON EFFICIENCY:

"If I am elected Governor, I shall see that no unnecessary manpower is wasted in government while Michigan pleads for manpower to industry and on farms duriog these critical days."

ON SMALL BUSINESS:

"I shall seek to remove the yoke gradually crushing small business, hy eliminating the oeedless State governmental interfereoces now imposed upoo it. I shall enlist the good judgment of small business represeotatives in the administration of State affairs."

ON GOVERNMENT:

"I contend that the Governor owes a very definite duty to every political subdivision of his State; that every one of Michigan's 83 counties deserves from its Governor an awareness of its individual problems and a willlngness to help in their successful solution."

Attacks On Our Congressman

We Need Fighters,

Not Only On The Front, But In Congress.

The people of the 11th Congressional District should know by this time that Fred Bradley has been fighting for them, from the very time he was first elected to Congress, through four difficult years. He has taken his job seriously and worked harder than he ever worked in his life. That is why we want you, as a voter, to fight for him in this "Smear-Purge" campaign now being waged against him.

His record, either before or after Pearl Harbor, is an open book. What happened before Pearl Harbor you are well aware of. His enemies, within and without his party, have dragged a fine-tooth comb through the record for many months. It has been discussed and cussed, by first-class debaters, and others. There is nothing new about it.

He was anti-war before Pearl Harbor. He was isolationist in so far as he desired to keep his country out of the furnace of the world conflagration as long as possible. And so were you, if you were a good American.

The district knows that he is Anti-New Deal; that he is opposed to racketeering labor practices and that he does not believe that the government of the United States should force any man who wants a job to join a union against his will.

He has fought your battle at Washington.

He has fought the battle of the man who desires to earn a livelihood without paying tribute.

He has fought the battle of the Union man who claims the right to bargain collectively, to join or not to join the union of his choice.

He has the written endorsement of unions which are affiliated with the CIO, the AFL and independent unions.

He has the opposition of racketeers, of profiteers, of men who would charge for the exercise of the right to work on defense projects.

He has the opposition of the New Dealers who would change this government of ours, who would scrap the Constitution as a relic of "horse and buggy days."

We strongly believe that this district prefers Bradley to somebody who has nothing more to offer than a promise to "go along with the President." Go along where? In a losing war effort? "We are losing this war"—Asst. Secy. of Navy Bard. "We are losing this war"—Gen. Brehon Somervell, Chief of Supply, A. V. S. "We can lose this war"—Elmer Davis, Director, Office of War Information.

"Let Us Start To Win The War" is Bradley's Slogan

Congress is full of similar "go alongs." We need fewer "yea" men in Washington and more forthright helpers and leaders who have something more to contribute to the war effort than spineless compliance with every suggestion that emanates from the administration high command. Fighters, not yessers, will win this war.

This district, as a rebuke to these outsiders, these smear-and-purge artists who would destroy our representative government by denying you the right to select your Congressman, and would do it for you, should for these very reasons give Bradley an overwhelming vote on November 3rd.

THE Secret OF THE MARSHBANKS

• BY KATHLEEN NORRIS •

©NORRIS W.N.U. RELEASE

THE STORY SO FAR: Charlotte (Cherry) Rawlings, an orphan since she was seven years old, has been at Saint Dorothea's school for girls. She knows almost nothing about her early history, but has gradually come to realize that like the other girls at the school she has no family, and she questions whether she has the right to her father's name. She develops into a very attractive girl, and has a flair for writing the school's plays and arranging their tableaux. She is in the costume of an Indian chief's daughter, having appeared in one of her own plays, when Judge Judson Marshbanks, her co-guardian with Emma Haskell, a trained nurse, appears to arrange for her to leave the school. She remembers that Emma nursed her mother before her death, and Judge Marshbanks tells her that Emma has gotten her a secretarial position with the very wealthy Mrs. Porteous Porter of San Francisco, where Emma is now housekeeper.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER II

"Because," the girl offered slowly and doubtfully, "it wasn't that way. I was only seven, but I knew that something was wrong. Nothing was left for me, no pictures of anyone, no letters or names. This school, you know, isn't like an ordinary school. We know we aren't like other girls. Everyone here has some strange history—no letters, no going home for holidays, no presents and surprises."

"No; this isn't a regular school," he conceded. "But according to Emma it was the best thing to do. And you seem to have flourished," he added with a smile. "You've gone along here more as if it were a home . . ."

"With a capital letter!" she put in as he paused.

He looked at her in his kindly way and smiled.

"A place where girls are protected and safe, and well fed . . ." He raised questioning eyes. "Well fed?" he asked.

"Not so—oh, yes, all right," she conceded, not interested. An impatient jerk of her head took him back to the point where he had interrupted himself.

"And are taught good professions," he finished.

"Dressmaking, bookkeeping, stenography, beauty-parlor work," she supplied. "But," she added, "those aren't what they teach girls in other schools. But that won't keep me from trying terribly hard to make good. You said something about a position. What am I to do?"

"You are not to do anything until you find just what you want to do," he said, his graying hair and his fifty years making it possible for him to use a father's kindly tone. "But for the time being it is a secretarial position with the same old lady—a very rich old woman named Mrs. Porter—Mrs. Porteous Porter, for whom Emma works. Answering the telephone, and correspondence, and reading—that sort of thing."

"Oh, that?" the girl said with a brightening face. "That I think I could do!"

"I'm sure you could. And you would be paid seventy-five dollars a month."

"Seventy-five dollars a month! Oh, she is kind!"

"When—when would I go?" she asked.

"This is—let's see, the third," he said. "Suppose you come down on Monday? Monday's a good day to start. You take a train at half past five in the afternoon, and at seven the next night someone will meet you at the Oakland Mole."

"Sunday wouldn't do?" she asked.

"Why not?"

"I was thinking, when you said Oakland, that two Sisters are going down to the Oakland house on Sunday; we're having a jubilee for them Sunday afternoon; they would take me."

"That would be an excellent arrangement. You come first to my house, you understand, and we can go over and see Emma when you've some clothes and have had time to look about a little. I must see Mother Superior before I go and make the arrangements for you."

And then they were walking back toward the convent's main building, through wide, orderly, dimly lighted corridors.

"I must tell you about my family, Cherry," the man said. "My mother lives with us—Mrs. Clay Judson Marshbanks; she sounds a little formidable and she is a little formidable! Then there's my pretty wife—I lost my first wife," he interrupted himself to explain, "and Fran is almost young enough to be my daughter. I've a son Greg—he's twenty-four, off at college in the East, and also with us is my brother's daughter, Amy. Amy's mother died when she was a little girl; her father was killed in an accident a few years after that, and my mother has had her since—making her bow in society now and quite grown up.

She was going away from the only world she knew; the air was full of farewells and heartaches, and strange excited happiness of anticipation.

It had once been a sufficiently stark and comfortless regime. But times were changed now. Mother Superior was noted for the modernity of her views. Her girls, she said, must presently face the world as it was—with all its hurry of planes and cars, its noise and progress.

"Old girls" were twenty, found employment under "responsible custody" in the unknown world, and disappeared; new girls came in, small and frightened and homesick even from the most unfit and wretched of homes, or rebellious and angry and full of muttered threats of escape.

So Cherry, formally discharged from the books as "Charlotte Rawlings," with due details of her admission and her thirteen years' residence at the convent entered upon a formidable-looking graph, was not as entirely unprepared for entrance into the world as her custodians might have fancied her to be.

At leaving, Cherry wore the convent uniform of black serge and white collar, and a round hat like a small black basket turned upside down. The hat dated back some ten years, but it was a hat, and that was all that girls from Saint Dorothea's expected of headgear.

Mother Superior had given her the ten dollars with a parting word of instruction. This money was for any emergency; her tickets and meals on the train would be paid for by the Sisters in whose care she was traveling.

"This wouldn't have been my choice of a school for you, Cherry," the nun had said. "I've been considering in my own mind whether I ought to say this much to you," she added, "and I've asked for guidance in the matter. But there seems to be no harm in telling you that I felt—and dear Mother Bertrand felt, thirteen years ago—that you should have been one of the Victor street girls. Our school here is for cases that are underprivileged—for girls who are definitely unfortunate, perhaps through no fault of their own. However, the servant—your mother's servant, who brought you here—was very definite that it had been her wish to put you with us. Mrs. Haskell — Emma — you remember her? you will see her now—had known a fine woman who became one of Saint Dorothea's Sisters, and through her she knew exactly the character of our work."

"I remember Emma," Cherry had stammered, almost faint with this final excitement. There had not been any especial stigma attached to her name then; she might have been one of the Victor street girls!

Sister Fabian and Sister Gervase were both indisposed on the train. They did not want any supper; they had the three berths made up immediately, and Cherry left them to the little room, found a window seat in the empty length of the car and sat, fascinated, watching the landscape flying by.

She jumped when old Dr. O'Conner touched her arm, realized that she was hungry, went with him through the swaying train to the dining car.

—and was so rapt over its light and warmth and the bewildering obligation of ordering something from a menu for the first time in her life that tea and biscuits and honey were all she could murmur when her companion poised his pencil over the order blank.

Both little nuns were tucked up in bed when she cautiously entered the drawing room. Cherry had the lounge, and slept the sleep of youth and fatigue within its narrow boundaries. Breakfast was another adventure—such smoking coffee, such buttered toast!—and the long day that dragged for almost everyone else on board was too short for her.

But at a quarter past seven o'clock—for the train was late—when they descended somewhat grimy and jaded at the Oakland Mole, sheer nervous excitement and expectation had exhausted her. She was pale, too much absorbed in her own emotions to notice the effect of her chauffeur. He was quickly identified by the wearied Sisters, and Cherry in her turn identified the nice middle-aged maid who had accompanied him.

May, the housemaid, who had been sent to meet her, was really, Cherry discovered, a Mrs. Mott who had two almost grown boys. But she was "May" to the whole household, she said goodhumoredly, and Miss Cherry had better call her so.

"I'm not going to live at the Marshbanks'," Cherry told her. "I'm going to take a position."

"The judge said you'd be with us only a few days. He is going to play bridge somewhere tonight, and he's having his dinner at seven. Mrs. Marshbanks and Miss Amy are going out to dinner before a party, and he's to bring them home dear knows when. It's a coming-out party for Miss Patsy Randall."

"I didn't mind that, my dear," she said. "Here we are," May added, as the car stopped at the foot of an imposing flight of stone steps. "I'm going to slip upstairs, and I'll not see you again unless you need me. Molly'll show you your room. I'm usually with the old lady after dinner, but she's away and I'm going to a movie tonight. You ask Molly for anything you want."

Cherry and her patent-leather bag were abandoned for just a few moments in the big entrance hall. She had time only for a breath-taking impression of such spaciousness and beauty and color as she had never seen before, of soft rugs beneath her feet and dimly lighted arches leading to great dimly lighted rooms on all sides, of potted palms and bursts of winter flowers, before Judge Marshbanks came forward to take possession of her, and confide her to the care of Molly, a pretty maid with very black eyes and a very white skin.

By this time the girl was too much dazed to believe her senses. She followed Molly upstairs to an incredibly luxurious big room with an unbelievably complete bathroom next to it, brushed her hair and washed her face in a condition of complete bewilderment, and descended again, still under Molly's escort, to the dining room where it appeared that she and her host were to be the only persons at dinner.

He was halfway through his meal; hers was served to her fresh and hot. But she was unable to eat. The quality of the Italian lace that was spread on the polished wood, the beauty of china and crystal, the soft light of candles were such as Cherry had never seen in her life before, nor ever dreamed could exist, and the numbing sense of being only in a dream made it impossible for her to taste or swallow anything. Even the food was beyond what had been her most fantastic imaginings.

"Don't you like that?" the judge asked, looking over his paper.

"It's wonderful. She made a valiant attack upon it.

"Know what it is?"

"No, sir. Chicken, I guess."

"That's partridge. If you don't like it Martin will get you an omelette."

"Oh, no, please! It's delicious." To her own disgust and surprise, her voice thickened. But he did not seem to notice it, and when he returned to his paper she made herself finish her dinner, and felt her nerves more steady.

A sudden sense that she did not belong in this scene, that it had

NAVY IS SEEKING 'TEEN AGE YOUTHS

Men 18 and 19 Told to Investigate Opportunities

Men, 18 and 19 years old, who are likely to become subject to call for military service, should investigate the vast opportunities which the Navy offers them now while they are still free to choose the service they want.

This advice was given by Lieut. Byron E. Fletchner, officer in charge of Navy Recruiting in Michigan.

"It appears likely", said Lieutenant Fletchner, "that these men soon will be subject to draft. They should investigate the Navy's opportunities as far in advance as possible of the time when they will be called.

"The Navy is an organization of specialists—men who are skilled and receive good pay because of the trades and specialties which they have learned. There are 49 trades and specialties in which the Navy trains its men.

"Men who receive this training are qualified to fill high-paying positions in private industry after they leave the Navy. Thus, Navy men are serving, not only their country at war, but themselves as well."

Navy trades include all phases of aviation and radio, electricity, machinist work, carpentry, printing, seamanship, photography and scores of other subjects.

Men seeking information about the Navy, or desiring to enlist, should visit their nearest Navy Recruiting Station.

FUEL OIL, KEROSENE USERS MUST APPLY

Rationing in Effect Since Octnber 1; All Have Not Registered

Users of fuel and kerosene must apply for ration books before the end of this week, as rationing of these commodities has already gone into effect.

Application may be made at the rationing board office at the Charlevoix city hall community room or from any fuel oil dealer or ration board member. Application blanks should be returned to the Charlevoix office after they are completed.

Rationing of fuel oil and kerosene went into effect the first of October. After the books are issued, coupons will be removed from them by dealers to the amount purchased since that date.

CSO CONTRIBUTION IN MEMORY OLIVE ALLEN

Tribute Is Paid to Her By An Unnamed Friend

In memory of Olive Allen, an unnamed friend has contributed $6.00 to the CSO fund for Courier subscriptions to service men.

Miss Allen's friendship and correspondence meant much to various local men in the service, and it was felt that this would be a fitting means of paying tribute to her.

Other givers to the fund this week were Mrs. Ray Shearer and George Jardine. The coin box at the Central Drug store yielded $3.66.

"VICTORY HARVEST" FAIR NOVEMBER 3RD

Plans Ready for County-Wide Event at East Jordan

Plans have been completed for the Charlevoix county "Victory Harvest" fair to be held November 3 at East Jordan.

Program details and premium list was announced last week. L. H. Karr, in charge of the exhibit, has asked that it be announced that women exhibitors will be allowed to display either three or six quarts of fruit or vegetables, also that a prize will be given for the best sugar-saving recipe.

BARNARD YOUNG PEOPLE HAVE HALLOWEEN PARTY

A Hallowe'en party sponsored by the Barnard Epworth League was held Saturday evening at the Frank Matchett farm, with approximately 50 young people attending from Charlevoix, East Jordan, Ellsworth and Central Lake. Overalls or slacks, with plaid shirts, were the costumes, and the hayloft was lighted by electrified jack-o-lanterns. Relay races and a corn husking race were followed by an "air-raid alarm" sounded by a foghorn, when a picked leader led the group in single file to safety, through a secret passage which traversed a chamber of horrors. Cider and doughnuts were served.

POPULARITY CONTEST FOR MEN IN SERVICE

Popularity contests for service men are being conducted at the regular Wednesday night parties at St. Mary's recreation center. Each contest runs for a period of five weeks. A $10 first prize is awarded to the man who receives the most votes during that time, with a $5 prize to the next highest. Names of winners are eliminated from future contests. More than $135 has been awarded since the contests began.

IRONTON

The Ladies Aid will meet on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Lewis Brown.

George Wood, of Pontiac, spent the past week end with Mrs. Wood and mother.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Barnam, of Lake City, spent Sunday of last week at the Alexander home.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Jackson are moving from the Breezy Point Farm. The Jackson family have lived here for twenty years and we are sorry to lose them from our community.

It is hard to believe that winter is here, but the snowfall of several inches the past few days makes one harry to finish the fall work.

Fishing for perch has been very good the past two weeks.

Capt. Robert A. Barnam, grandson of Sam Alexander, is now stationed with his squadron somewhere near Cairo, Egypt.

PROTEIN HELPS PIGS TO BE HOGS

How to help a porker make a hog of himself and how to help a steer or a lamb become meat needed in these wartimes involve the scientific and yet fairly simple process of providing proper protein supplements, say Michigan State College specialists.

Amounts of protein-rich feeds available this year are larger than ever before and prices have been frozen so that they cost less than the feed saved by their use. Protein supplements have not risen in price as rapidly as grain feeds. Just enough of them should be used with grains to step up their efficiency for gains.

If orders can be pooled through the dealer to unload a quantity directly from the car, a much better price is possible than when bought in small amounts. Bringing feeds in by rail cars also conserves rubber tires.

"One or two pounds daily of cottonseed, linseed or soybean oilmeal or other high-protein feed to each fattening steer is usually sufficient", says G. A. Brannaman of the college animal husbandry department. "Larger amounts may be fed toward the close of the fattening period, especially if four pounds or more of good-quality legume hay are not included in the daily ration. Another method of feeding steers and lambs is one pound to each six or eight pounds of grain."

"Full pigs must have protein-rich feeds to make the most efficient use of grains, says V. A. Freeman. "Buttermilk and skim milk are excellent feeds when fed at the rate of three pounds to each pound of grain until the pigs weigh 100 pounds. Six to eight pounds (3 to 4 quarts) daily per pig with a full feed of corn mixed with the grains, plus access to green, leafy legume hay make pigs gain rapidly and on much less feed than when fed sparingly on protein."

A good protein supplemental mixture may be self-fed with grain, letting the pigs choose the proportion they need. Such a mixture may be purchased or made up by mixing one part of tankage or meat and bone scrap, two parts soy bean oilmeal and one part ground high-quality alfalfa. One-half pound hand-fed daily with a full feed of grain gives good results. Soybean oilmeal that has been heated during or after the oil extraction process is the best of the vegetable supplements for pigs and frequently proves equal to tankage when supplemented with minerals. County agricultural agents and members of the college staff are available for consultation on details of a feeding program.

Apple peel is good for you. Nutritionists recommend paring apples as seldom as possible due to the health value of the skin. Even apple sauce should be prepared without peeling the apples—the skin is easily separated when the apples are forced through the sieve.

CAMPBELL-CAREY WEDDING WAS EVENT OF SUNDAY AFTERNOON

At a ceremony solemnized Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Congregational church, Margaret Jeannette Campbell became the bride of Charles L. Carey, boatswain's mate second class, U. S. navy. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Campbell, the groom the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Carey.

Rev. Donald R. Evans read the ceremony before an altar lit by tall candelnbra, in the presence of one hundred fifty friends and relatives.

Attending the bride were her sister, Miss Ann Campbell, ns bridesmaid, and Miss Rosemary Cooper as maid of honor. The groom was attended by his brothers, Keith, as best man, and Donald Carey, as groomsman. Robert McCall, of Detroit, and Robert Emrey served as ushers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street-length gown of powder blue silk crepe trimmed by dainty ruffling about the neck and bodice. Her small veiled feather hat of powder blue bore two slender quills of loganberry red, matching her shoes. She carried a houquet of white chrysanthemums, tied with white ribbon.

Both bridesmaid and maid of honor wore beige crepe, with brown accessories. Miss Campbell carried yellow mums, while Miss Cooper's flowers were rust mums, both tied with yellow ribbon.

The groom wore the dress uniform denoting his naval rank. Mrs. A. J. Stelter, at the pipe organ, played the traditional wedding music.

A reception was given at 4:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents for about seventy guests. The five-tiered wedding cake, trimmed with white and pastel colors, topped by a white bell, centered the table from which buffet refreshments were served. Mrs. D. H. Wood and Mrs. Bert Beaudoin presided.

Mr. and Mrs. Carey left after the reception for Chicago, where they will make their home at 1052 Sheridan road. Mr. Carey is stationed at Great Lakes naval training station.

Both the bride and groom are graduates of Charlevoix high school. The bride graduated in September from the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, where she was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, while the groom graduated in 1941 from Michigan State College, East Lansing.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. G. Harold Thompson, of Mullett Lake; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Scott, of Indian River; Mr. and Mrs. Dan Corlett and Mr. and Mrs. William F. Ripley, of Cheboygan; Mr. and Mrs. Harker Kirby, of Mackinaw City; Rev. and Mrs. G. R. Parker and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Alexander, of Northport; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Preston, of Petoskey, and daughter, Miss Betty Preston, of Wyandotte; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Ellis, of Petoskey; Mrs. Laura Zipp, of Traverse City; Robert McCall, of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. David Griswold, of Grand Rapids; Mrs. F. J. Fessenden, of Muskegon; Miss Marie Morrison, of Boyne City.

Judge For Yourself

The Merits of Ballot Proposals

Proposal No. 1
For

The present Constitution of the State of Michigan was written in 1908. It has been amended 36 times in 34 years and yet it is basically unchenged. It was drafted for a farming and lumbering state with a population of 2,650,000, and is thought by many to be inadequate for our present highly industrialized state of nearly 6,000,000 people.

Thomas Jefferson, who was perhaps the greatest American apostle of democracy, observed that "no society can make a perpetual constitution or even a perpetual law." Jefferson believed that each generation possesses the right to express itself with respect to law and government, and said "every constitution then and every law naturally expires at the end of 34 years. If it can be enforced longer, it is an act of force and not of right."

The framers of our preseat Constitution wisely provided in 1908 that:

"At the general election to be held in the year nineteen hundred twenty-six, in each sixteenth year thereafter and at such other times as may be provided by law, the question of a general revision of the Constitution shall be submitted to the electors qualified to vote for members of the legislature."

Because of this constitutional provision and in order that some light be thrown on the mutter the Governor appointed a study commission consisting of 32 members representing a cross-section of the activities of the State. When these commissioners began their work they were generally opposed to any revision at this time. After they found that, in at least 68 respects some change was desirable in the present Constitution, the majority of them concluded that revision this time was necessary.

A vote in favor of calling a constitutional convention does not mean the adoption of wholesale changes. Such a convention of well qualified members who must be selected at a subsequent election should result in only those changes that are deemed advisable and necessary. These constitutional changes cannot be imposed on the people without their consent at a subsequent election.

It cannot be denied that nothing else really matters today except "victory" in this war. But it will be futile to win a war to preserve our way of life unless our basic law adequately expresses and protects that way of life. We have an informed people and, unless we act now, we may not have another opportunity to act for sixteen more years.

Vote YES on Proposal No. 1

Proposal No. 1
Against

Proposal No. 1 on the November ballot will be the question as to whether or not the citizens of Michigan desire to have a constitutional convention called for the purpose of drafting a new state constitution, which would then be submitted to the voters for adoption or rejection.

This proposal comes on the ballot automatically in accordance with a provision of our state constitution which requires the submission of this question once in each 16 years. When Michigan citizens voted on this issue in 1926 it was rejected by the following vote: For, 119,491; against, 285,252.

No worse time could be imagined for undertaking the general revision of our state constitution. Approximately 300,000 Michigan citizens have already left for the armed services. More are being called daily. It isn't fair to this large group for those who remain behind to make sweeping changes in the form of government under which these service men will live after the war.

The best citizens in all groups of our society are or should be giving their full time and energy to the supremely important task of winning the war. If general constitutional revision were undertaken now, it would not receive the careful thought that it deserves and such consideration as might be given it would be at the expense of the war effort.

The item of expense for the various elections which would be involved and payment of compensation to the 96 members of a constitutional convention and the retinue of clerks and employees which would be required would run into a very substantial amount, which would be a burden on the tax payers of the state, cities, and townships.

If the voters turned down the idea of a constitutional convention at this time, it will not of necessity be 16 years before the issue would appear on the ballot again. The legislature may, at any time, order this question to be submitted to the voters.

At present, each of us should do his own work the best he knows how. Every effort should be made to produce harmony and unity. It would be a sad mistake to place emphasize upon issues which cause diversion, friction, misunderstanding, and ill-will. Let us lay aside all such considerations and join together in the common effort to win the war.

Proposal No. 2
For

Wayne county urges a "Yes" vote on Proposal No. 2 because it cannot clean up the mess revealed by recent grand jury actions without constitutional change, and in making such change the people of Michigan as a whole make the decision. All efforts to get relief by statute law have proved unavailing—present provisions of the county system, satisfactory to rural area have proved a burden and counties, in the great industrial hopeless cause of waste.

In its massive growth Wayne county, with its 101 supervisors, has no real head of responsible government. Authority is diffused among four seperate jurisdictions; supervisors, ways and means committee, auditors, and constitutional officers. Thus the game of passing the buck politically is promoted by this encouragement to evasion of responsibility. The chronic evils disclosed constitute a dictatorship by politicians, with only indirect, partial and ineffective control by the taxpayers and voters.

The bedsheet ballot in Wayne county is so large, no voting machine ever made is big enough to carry it. Some elective offices should be abolished, others merged in unified departments. Responsible authority for government, centering in a board of 21 supervisors, is one of many provisions of the proposed plan. The elected charter commission of nineteen members, chosen according to fair methods, will draft a modern, responsible form of government, then subject to approval by a majority of the people of the county.

While America fights to preserve democracy, we in Michigan should practice the principle of democracy here at home, by approval of this proposal Nov. 3.

Vote YES on Proposal No. 2

Proposal No. 2
Against

Proposal No. 2, the so-called "Home Rule" amendment, should receive a "No" vote on November 3, for the following reasons:

It will result in irreparable damage to our war effort. Thousands of man hours will be required to frame a charter. Millions of man hours of Wayne county voters will be diverted from war activities to consider the charter.

It is grossly unfair to submit such a vital constitutional question when 300,000 electors are away in the armed forces.

It is not home rule. By it, the whole state fixes all the basic terms of Wayne county's charter which can be changed only by a state-wide vote.

It is not constitutional matter. It consists of 652 words of pure legislation. Recently, a Supreme Court Justice stated that excess legislation is the worst feature of our Constitution.

It is undemocratic. It provides a two-thirds majority for Detroit as a unit and denies representation to all other county governmental units as such. The cities of Highland Park and Dearboro, with populations of 50,000 and 64,000 would have no representation as municipalities.

It violates the basic principles of constitutional government by providing that the charter supersede the State Constitution when in conflict. Thereby, 380,000 out-county citizens can be ruled by Detroit without constitutional protection. The fundamental purpose of American constitutional government is to guarantee basic rights to minorities in every community.

It is necessary all essential reforms in Wayne county can be accomplished by statute under the present Constitution.

It will not guarantee against waste or corruption. Detroit government was stream-lined in 1918 along similar lines by the same sponsors. Recently a grand jury indicted nearly twice as many from Detroit's stream-lined government as from county offices. Under its government, Detroit has topped its legal debt limit with a total of over $385,000,000, while Wayne county has a debt of $700,000—less than 1 per cent of its limit of $67,000,000.

Michigan voters should put the Milk Marketing Act into effect by voting "Yes" on referendum No. 3, for the following reasons:

1.—It provides an impartial tribunal where producers, consumers and dealers can appear and air their grievances regarding producing and marketing milk.

2.—The Act does not affect the production and marketing of milk used for manufacturing purposes, but only milk sold in fluid form, and the law is designed to operate only in major milk markets of the state. The expense of coforcement of the Act is borne entirely by the producers and distributors in the area in which the law functions, without expense or trouble to the other producers and distributors in the state.

3.—It eliminates the only errors found in the former milk marketing law by the Michigan Supreme Court.

4.—Milk represents approximately one-third of the total agricultural income of the state, and unless this law is approved by voters, there will be neither state nor federal regulation due to the fact that there is not sufficient milk shipped in interstate commerce to permit federal control under the Agricultural Administration Act. Some twenty states have repeatedly re-enacted similar milk laws. Detroit is the only large city in the United States marketing fluid milk without state or federal regulation.

5—It prevents price wars which force producers to accept low prices for their products, resulting in bankruptcy of local dealers who do not do business on a nation-wide scale, and are unable to successfully resist unfair competition for long periods. Such a price war occurred in Detroit in 1030, resulting in sixteen dealers being forced out of business with a loss of thousands of dollars to milk producers.

Vote YES on Proposal No. 3

Proposal No. 3
AGAINST

The proposed law, if the voters approve it, will create another bureau, consisting of innumerable community marketing committees, well salaried out of charges levied against the poundage of milk, made up of local dairy representatives interested in killing off new competition and empowered to make the recommendations upon the basis of which the marketing board heading the organization will adopt rules fixing the prices of milk and regulating the activities of every person who has anything to do with the business, from milking the cow to handling the milk across the counter or setting it on the doorstep.

This power to fix prices and make rules having force of law for the various communities obviously means a power to so word the rules that geographical limitations, or financial requirements, or other requirements, or other notional restrictions; can be used in the name of "health" to kill competition.

But the increased burdens upon farmers, the added army of political appointees to be supported, the higher prices that will be charged consumers, the smaller sales of bottled milk for children of the cities, and the resulting fall in total income to dairy communities for purchase of supplies from local merchants—all of them good reasons for voting NO, are yet none of them the most important reason.

The principal reason for voting NO on the Milk Market Referendum is the fact that, if approved, this law would become, by consent of the voters themselves, the opening wedge by which the American system of equal opportunity would soon be entirely destroyed. A few great national monopolies, each invited in some field of economic empire to use political intrigue for controlling through local boards in the several states all competition throughout the nation, would soon take from all persons their liberty to choose their own means of livelihood.

LAST Saturday night we were settin' around Jeb Crowell's house, and from upstairs we hear the squawks those Crowell youngsters pat up while their Ma was dunkin' 'em in soap and water. Causes Jeb to somment:

"Jast shows how times change. Used to be a law here in America that nobody could take a bath without a doctor's prescription!"

Then we got talking about the funny laws some people have put through in this country—like the state where they made it against the law to wake a man up if he's sleeping on the railroad tracks.

"Railroad law I once heard about," says Basil Strube, the stationmaster, "said when two trains meet at an intersection, neither can proceed until the other one has gone ahead."

"How could that be a law?" asks Pete Swanson. "That just don't make sense."

"Lots of laws don't make sense," says Jeb. "Why just think! We're livin' in a land where most folks hold for tolerance and understandIng. And yet it wasn't so long ago we had a law of Prohibition. Account for that, if you can."

Well, he had us there. Here's America—where we set so much store on seein' the other fellow's point of view—havin' such a law. Now that it's all over, it's hard to realize how people put up with a law like that, even as long as they did.

• • •

From where I sit, a man's got every right to enjoy a satisfyin' glass of beer when he wants to quench his thirst. Beer's a friendly drink. It's a drink of moderation, too. And most folks—even the ones that don't drink beer themselves—are tolerant enough, nowadays, to respect the rights of folks who do.

I reckon Jeb was right—we've had some mighty strange laws in this country.

With the blinding force of a revelation she knew that her rumpled childish dress was absurd, that the dowdy hat she had left upstairs, the bulging shabby patent-leather bag, the ugly school shoes and cotton gloves and stockings had no place in this house, and were like nothing that had ever been here before. She knew, inexperienced as she was—she had read it in her host's first look—that her shabbiness and homeliness had shocked him. He had seen her only once before, flushed with triumph after the school play, made up into her handsomest self as a brown-skinned Indian girl gay in feathers and fringes.

The knowledge that came to her in this flesh of shame and pain made the big dining-room chair in which she sat a seat of torture to her.

But she did her best to conquer the feeling, and was quite calm when a young man came in, unannounced, and drew a chair to Judge Marshbank's side.

The judge, after a casual friendly greeting, glanced over at her and said, "Mr. Coates, Cherry," and then, "This is Miss Rawlings, Kelly."

ache itself. Detroit, for example, has been an automobile town in more ways than one. Thousands of workers drive to work daily.

"Share-the-ride" is being promoted as one feasible solution for defense workers, but even this scheme has its limitations.

Hundreds of Michigan resorts in northern Michigan and Upper Peninsula are accessible only by automobile. A "ghost" season is feared in 1943.

That the Middle-West is more dependent upon automobile transportation than is the East and consequently is going to require plenty of "education" before they accept it, is a possible deduction which could be made from appeal sent by Governor Murray D. Van-Wagoner and Senator Prentiss Brown to Leon Henderson, the OPA czar at Washington.

Van Wagoner and Brown, democratic nominees for re-election, reflected the popular attitude in Michigan with respect to gasoline rationing when they urged Henderson to reconsider the stringent restrictions.

Obviously there was a political reason for such action, but it was an admission that the average Michigan voter doesn't like what is in store for him, and he is saying so.

Even President Roosevelt gave weight to this conclusion when he returned to Washington from his coast-to-coast tour and said that the nation's capital was out of step with the rest of us.

Dissatisfaction with the conduct of the war is rampant. Here are some examples:

1. Local selective service and rationing boards are confused. Orders sent from Washington and state headquarters are not clearly understood. Washington announces that such-and-such industries are "essential" to the war. Then local boards refuse to consider deferments; they inform petitioners that rules do not permit such action.

2. Fabulous wages are being paid to city workers in war industries on a 40-hour basis. Farmers cannot compete either in pay or in hours. Then the draft takes farm labor, while the government urges the farmer to grow more food.

3. Small business is being slowly strangled to death economically. The parallel freeze of wholesale and retail prices as of last March was the first blow. Certain retail operators have large inventories; others have few goods on hand. You can't stay in business without goods to sell.

4. Disruption of homes due to drafting of married men and 18 and 19 years old. The December quota for Michigan cannot be filled without the calling of 5,000 to 10,000 married men.

The spirit of sacrifice is still strong, of course. People are patriotic. But this upsetting of normal lives can not be effected without upsetting of emotions. Like the soldiers at camp who "beef" about army life, civilians are only human.

5. High prices of staple commodities such as butter, eggs and meat. We're right in the middle of inflation, and some of us don't know it!

6. The government is withholding information from the people. "Off the record" talks by government officials clinches this point. Their excuse: Military reasons.

Illustrations: Three American cruisers — the Quincy, Vincennes and Astoria—were sunk on Aug. 9. The Japanese said the next day that they had sunk "two heavy cruisers of the Astoria class". On Aug. 19 Prime Minister Curtis announced the loss of the Australian cruiser Canberra sunk in the same engagement. The American navy department withheld news of our losses until sixty days after the event of Aug. 9.

The aircraft carrier "Yorktown" was sunk on June 6. Three months afterwards the government revealed its loss to the public.

Inevitably this policy of withholding news of major disasters for months will injure American morale. It will lead us to discount announcements of success.

These are only a few of the reasons why the average American is disturbed at the headlong trend of our war economy. Right or wrong, he is inclined to blame what he calls "Washington bureaucracy."

That's why the next regimentation hurdle on Nov. 22 is not being enthusiastically heralded in Michigan by a democratic governor and a democratic United States senator. We'll probably do what we're told, but we still are not happy about it.

LETTERS from the ARMY CAMPS

Dear Ken,

Today is a red letter day in my life. I just received ten back copies of your weekly blab. It sure seems good to get some news from the old home town even if it is about things that happened quite a while ago. I read that eight page sheet from cover to cover and then go back over it to see if I missed anything.

I see the folks are still fishing around there. Out here the fishing is limited and so far I don't know of anyone in camp bringing home any fish except some canned ones from the Q. M. I sure wish I could wet a line just for a few hours. Most of the time I am too busy to fish but I do get some recreation playing baseball. Right now my biggest pastime is writing letters and sleeping. It's incredible how much time a guy can put in on a good C. I. hunk.

You mention in your column that there seems to be a scarcity of hair on your head. I don't know how you stand but mine sure is disappearing fast. To make up for the loss on top I have grown a nice mustache. The less hair on my head, the more on my face. It's crazy but it sure helps to pass the time away.

So far I have not been involved in actual combat and by the looks of things around here it will be a long time before I even see a Jap. The last time I saw one was in Frisco on the way over and the way things are going now I suppose I won't see another one until I get back to the States.

I wrote you a short time ago and thanked you for the paper but I don't know if the letter got through or not so I will repeat my thanks now. Without this paper I sure would miss a lot of things going on in the home town. The only thing that hurts me up is when I read of some guy in the States getting a furlough and here I sit with fifty five days accumulated furlough time and I can't even get ten of them. Oh well, the longer I have to wait the better it will seem when I do get it, if ever.

From, not a draftee, selectee, or drudgee, just a member of the regular Army.

P. S. How did you get the correct answer in the editor's note on my letter to my folks that was published July 29th?

FACTS ABOUT

Proposal No. 2

Home Rule and Clean Government for Wayne County

Proposal No. 2 . . . the Wayne County Home Rule Amendment on the Nov. 3 ballot . . . applies to Wayne County only. It does not affect the government of any other county.

Proposal No. 2 is not connected in any way with legislative reapportionment.

Proposal No. 2 has nothing to do with the calling of a Constitutional convention or any other proposal.

Proposal No. 2 is purely an enabling act permitting the people of Wayne County, with your help, to clean up their government.

Will you give us a lift, neighbor?

QUESTION AND AN ANSWER

Q: If Proposal No. 2 applies to Wayne County alone, why is it necessary for citizens of other counties to vote upon it?

A: Because it is a proposed amendment to the State Constitution, which calls for a statewide vote, even though the proposal affects Wayne County alone.

Managing Your State Government Is a BIG Job

'EVEN IN ORDINARY TIMES the Governorship calls for competent leadership. Now with the Nation at war and with Michigan's important role in the war effort, the responsibilities of the Governorship can only be met by a man who has the vigor to get things done.

Governor Van Wagoner's experience as Governor and as State Highway Commissioner for eight years assures you that he will get things done—and RIGHT!

Here's What It Means to You

1. Ability to pay off the State's $27,000,000 debt means value received for your tax dollars.

2. Well directed Civilian Defense means protection for you, your home and your family—no matter what comes.

3. Close co-ordination of Michigan's all-out war effort means all-out delivery of war tools to our men on the fighting fronts.

PERFORMANCE PROVES HE GETS THINGS DONE!

If you're a heartsick wife—mother—or sweetheart . . . you'd do a lot to give that boy a better chance to get back safe. Well then . . . do it!

SOMEONE'S LIFE IS IN YOUR HANDS!

ROUND up your scrap metal—it's needed to make steel. Steel for armor plate to protect him from bombs and bullets. Steel for weapons to help him do the job that must be done before he can come home again.

You don't want production figures. It's enough to know that 50% of all new steel is made of scrap—that our steel mills now have only enough scrap in sight to last another 30 days at the most!

What happens after that depends on all of us. If production falls and you've not done your part, will you rest easy?

Next week we're starting a collection drive—to build the biggest stockpile of scrap metal you've ever seen. Then when the mills need it, we'll have it—because you came through . . . for his sake!

grades" probably mean three instead of two pieces of meat in chicken soup, a half dozen more noodles in noodle soup—in other words, just taking advantage of the loop-holes left in the price control legislation. Plainly speaking, this price control stuff is just another piece of sloppy "New Deal" law-making, and the consumer, as always, is the goat.

Expressing personal opinion regarding the three proposed amendments at the November 3 election, an opinion which most can, and probably will, disregard, I would say vote "YES" on 1 and 2, "NO" on 3. Regarding No. 2, Wayne county, worried of graft and corruption resulting from a type of government too unwieldy to bring under close scrutiny and control, is asking Michigan voters to give them a lift toward clean government. Wayne needs cleaner government and our help to get it. Proposal No. 1 would provide for a constitutional convention to renovate Michigan's laws of antiquated provisions and bring them in line with the times. It is hard for the majority of us to understand such issues but were you to talk with a person qualified to express opinion on the subject, they would give you hundreds of sound, logical reasons why the constitution should be revised. Proposal No. 3 is not aimed to aid public interests. That milk law would make the consumer, the milk producers, big and small, pay tribute to fixers and fiodors, snoops and bosses—all for the benefit of organized dealers.

A USO service men's center is to be established in Charlevoix, thanks to the efforts of the Charlevoix Service Organization. So here's another chance to help. In order to make the recreation center comfortable, provide it with entertainment facilities and make it attractive and useful to service men, a whole lot of equipment is going to have to be donated. So if you have any odd pieces of unused furniture, games, entertainment facilities, etc., just get in touch with Fr. John Collins and he'll see that they are collected.

Lloyd A. Ashe, of Lansing, editor of "Lloyds Lines," says, in part: "Van Wagoner to Kennedy to Wendell Lund to Paul McNutt is the triple play which will end the game for many fathers, husbands, sons and brothers in Michigan and in the United States. It is the most dangerous and destructive play to come out of the 'New Deal bloc.' Congress expects to have legislation dumped in its lap, very soon, under which men can be picked up from their homes, segregated from their families, and taken to concentration centers for war workers. You have been thinking that this could not happen here, but only in the down-trodden countries of Europe. But even now, managers of the Michigan offices of the United States Employment Service are being coached at Cleveland, Ohio, for the job of handling you like guinea pigs. The United States Employment Service and the Michigan State Employment Service have been under the absolute control of the 'New Deal bloc' thru appointment of managers. They know whether you are Catholic, Jew or Protestant and union or non-union. They have the large yellow draft questionnaires that you filled out. The highly efficient precinct organization of Kennedy and Van Wagoner knows whether you are a Republican or Democrat. The plans of Kennedy and Van Wagoner make the plans of Adolph Hitler look like nursery jingles. Who do you think would get the worst of the deal in this 'political shuffling of manpower' a Democrat or Republican. This is one time you can write your congressman and put your life in his hands. Tell him to see that Universal Conscription, if it must come, is placed in the control of a non-partisan selective service draft board, such as your local board." Here's something to think about, folks.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS
By B. C. Mellencamp

Fire Control Survey in Charlevoix County Completed

Strictly as a wartime project, a rural fire protection program has been developed throughout the county. It will be recalled that some time ago an educational program was conducted through all of the schools, which really contacted every rural family. Since that time the County Rural Fire committee consisting of Edward Starback, chairman, representative of the Conservation Department, Edwin K. Reuling, representative of the County Defense Council, and B. C. Mellencamp, representative of the county war board, has been busily engaged in taking on inventory of equipment owned by farmers that can be used in time of need and in making recommendations.

This county has been divided into 12 communities and the local war club leaders in each community have submitted inventories of fire fighting equipment and machinery on the various farms included in the local war club. We find that farmers fortunately have quite a large number of power sprayers which are most desirable in case of fire emergency. In fact, our survey indicates that there are 92 power sprayers. Demonstrations staged in many counties using a power sprayer to put out a fire show clearly that they are most desirable and will put out a fire in two minutes' time.

The committee urges each owner of a power sprayer to purchase additional hose and a proper gun which will make the outfit useful in time of need. Plans are being developed to have a demonstration in Charlevoix county on November 5. We expect to select a small building which the owner does not want. We will set the building on fire and then will put it out by means of a power sprayer.

Also the committee is recommending that townships within the county who do not have any working agreements with the nearest city fire department to immediately make plans to work out some arrangement whereby they may be afforded protection in time of fire. We find that in the Charlevoix area that the townships of Marion, Eveline and Hayes have agreements with the Charlevoix fire department whereby farm calls will be made at a certain guaranteed cost. In the East Jordan area the townships of South Arm, Wilson and Evoline have helped purchase the East Jordan fire department equipment and thus have protection. In all of the other townships the farmers are handicapped. It would only seem logical and proper for all townships in the county to make a closer study of fire protection needs and work out some type of program that will adequately safeguard the farms. Today it is not only the loss from fire, but the inability to replace buildings that have been burned.

The committee further recommends that a larger number of extension ladders be purchased. Very few farmers have ladders tall enough to reach the roof of their house or barn. More fire extinguishers should be purchased. Do you have any water in a barrel or water tank close by? Do you have enough pails?

WILL REQUEST DEER HUNTERS SAVE FATS

Conservation Department Plans Pick-Up Service During Season

Michigan deer hunters could contribute 150 tons of fats for the manufacture of explosives if six pounds of fat from each of 50,000 deer was salvaged, and the Michigan Salvage Committee is already preparing to set up collection facilities.

As tentatively proposed, the collection system would begin with the individual hunter, who would be urged to save kidney and other fat ordinarily discarded when deer are dressed out, and put it in a paper sack. More raw fat from the carcass is cut up. These raw fats may be collected by sportsmen's clubs and deposited in fats depots established by county salvage committees in cold storage plants. From these depots it would be collected and taken to rendering plants in Detroit, Coldwater, Kalamazoo, Mt. Pleasant, Holland, Marshall, Green Bay and Chicago.

The state conservation department has found there is no legal impediment to disposing of deer fat in this fashion, and is planning to advise trappers to turn in ordinarily discarded carcasses of fur bearers, for rendering in the same fashion.

Cooked fats from game may be sold along with other kitchen greases to the local meat dealers, department officials say.

Joseph von Sternberg has his own way of directing pictures. A lecture — or soliloquy—by von Sternberg, squatting precariously behind his camera on a boom 30 feet above a set of "The Shanghai Gesture," coming November 3-4, to the Palace Theatre, is illustrative.

"The Shangbai Gesture" is a United Artists release, starring Gene Tierney as Poppy, Victor Mature as Dr. Omar, Walter Huston as Sir Guy Charteris. Miss Munson is seen in the difficult and much talked about role of Mother Gin Sling, wha is out for dire revenge.

"The Saint's Vacation"

Glamorous adventures of the "Saint," one of mystery fiction's most colorful characters, are vividly disclosed in "The Saint's Vacation," the seventh in the series of Leslie Charteris's "Saint" stories to be brought to the Palace Theatre screen by RKO Radio, November 5-6.

Hugh Sinclair enacts the "Saint," while Sally Gray plays the feminine lead. Others in the cast include Leueen McGruth, Cecil Parker, Arthur Macrae, Manning Whiley, and John Warwick.

FARM LABOR IS TO BE DEFERRED

DRAFT BOARDS IN STATE GET NEW INSTRUCTIONS

Michigan to Follow Policy Adopted by War Man Power Commission on October 27

A freeze order on the induction of farm labor in Michigan has been sent by State Selective Service headquarters to all local draftboards in accordance with the new policy announced October 27 by the War Manpower Commission.

The order in effect will create a pool of farm labor with trained farm workers who are not now in essential farm jobs being shifted to more essential jobs.

Col. E. M. Rosecrans, State Selective Service Director, said the action would "counteract to a considerable extent the migration of farm labor to industrial centers."

He said complete instructions would be sent local boards and appeal boards as soon as they were received from Washington. The telegraphic freeze order was as follows:

"In accordance with War Manpower Commission program and pursuant to directive from national director, Selective Service, local boards will promptly classify in class 3-B all dairy, livestock and poultry farm workers or producers who are already deferred on account of dependents.

"Local boards will also classify in class 2-A all such farm workers and producers without dependents but whom they consider essential to continued production of dairy, livestock and poultry farm products. Pending further information from Department of Agriculture, local boards will make their own decisions whether farm worker or producer is essential. All such

HARRY F. KELLY NAMED GOVERNOR

GOP CANDIDATE UPSETS VAN WAGONER MACHINE

Ferguson Beats Brown for U. S. Senate; Republicans Register National Victories

Based on incomplete returns from Tuesday's general election, Michigan set the pace for substantial gains by the Republican party in the nntionnl political picture.

That this state hit the New Deal a resounding slap is shown by defeat of Murray D. Van Wagoner, Democratic governor, by Herry F. Kelly, Republican, nnd the unseating of U. S. Senntor Prentiss M. Brown, powerful Democratic senate member, by Judge Homer Ferguson, of Detroit, Republican. Brown, in conceding victory to Ferguson, blamed his defeat to voter dissention because of wartime restrictions imposed in recent weeks.

United Press returns provided through courtesy of the Petoskey Evening News, indicated Republicans had won governorships in the states of Michigan, New York, California and Connecticut; victories in five nnd leads in five other contests for the U. S. Senate, and had gained 39 seats in the House of Representatives against an anticipated 35.

Harry F. Kelly, secretary of state, led the Michigan return to Republican ranks by toppling the powerful Van Wagoner Democratic machine. Tabulation of 3,358 of the state's 3,751 precincts, gave Kelly 560,220 votes to 516,212 for Van Wagoner, with out-state precincts, largely Republican, to bear from.

With results from 3,336 precincts in, Judge Ferguson was leading Brown 515,398 votes to 505,316.

All Republican nominees for state office carried by comfortable margins with Eugene C. Keyes victor over Frank Murphy for lieutenant governor, Hermen H. Dignan winner over Maurice Eveland for secretary of state, Herbert J. Rushton over John W. Babcock for attorney general, D. Hale Brake over Theodore Fry for state treasurer, Vernon J. Brown over Carl B. Brandenberg for auditor general.

MICHIGAN BELL PAYS HEAVY SCHOOL TAXES

Primry School Fund Receives $1,691,371.65 From Company

The primary school fund was boosted by another $1,691,371.65 on October 31, as the Michigan Bell Telephone Company made the second-half payment on its state property tax for the year 1941.

A check for the first-half payment of the $3,382,743 tax was turned over to the state June 30. The total is the largest payment into the primary school fund, which is allocated to Michigan's public schools on the basis of their last school census.

GRAYLING COPS FOOTBALL TITLE

DEFEATED RAYDERS 18 TO 14 HERE SATURDAY

Victory Gave Grayling Outfit Class C Championship Second Successive Year

Grayling high school, defending champions in the northern Michigan class C football conference, clinched the title for the second year with an 18 to 14 victory Saturday over Charlevoix's Red Rayders at south side athletic field.

Undefeated and untied this season, the veteran Grayling outfit was the better team, but the Rayders gave them an interesting afternoon as the one-touchdown margin indicates.

Grayling tallied in each of the first three periods. Carey's fumble on Charlevoix's 20-yard line provided the first break in the opening minutes of the game. Three plays were necessary, with Clark, quarterback, scoring. The try for extra point failed; as did two subsequent tries. The second quarter touchdown, starting from Charlevoix's 22-yard line when the visitors intercepted a pass, culminated an 88-yard advance with R. Thompson, Grayling halfback, scoring.

Carey scored for Charlevoix before the half, ending a 55-yard march in which Swanson and Carey alternated for steady gains. Rowa place-kicked extra point and the half ended with Grayling leading 12 to 7.

The visitors scored their third and final touchdown midway in the third period. A pass, Thompson to Smock, who stood behind Charlevoix's goal, gave them an 18 to 7 margin.

NAVY DRIVE FOR RECRUITS READY

STATE-WIDE CAMPAIGN TO OPEN NOVEMBER 7

Want 4,000 Michigan Men by December 7, Anniversary of Jap Pearl Harbor Attack

Enlistment of at least 4,000 Michigan men in the Navy is the goal of a campaign which opens here and throughout the state next Saturday, November 7, and lasts until December 7, the first anniversary of the Jap attack on Pearl Harbor.

This was announced today by Chief Turret Captain Albert J. Resler, recruiter in charge of the navy recruiting station, American Legion hall, Traverse City.

The period has been proclaimed officially as Navy Recruiting Month by Mayor Robert Bridge. Mayor Bridge's proclamation states:

Whereas: The United States Navy has done a heroic job of fighting an offensive war in all parts of the world, and is continuing to maintain the offense in our war against the Axis, and

Whereas: The current production of warships and merchant vessels, so vitally needed to win this war, is at the highest peak of any time in history, and;

Whereas: Hundreds of thousands more patriotic men are needed by the Navy to man these ships so that we may be assured of a complete and all-out victory over our Axis enemies;

Therefore: I, Robert Bridge, Mayor of the City of Charlevoix, Michigan, do hereby proclaim that the period from November 7 to December 7, 1942, be officially designated as Navy Recruiting Month here and urge all citizens living in this area to assist members of the Navy recruiting service in their efforts to help enlist at least 4,000 Michigan men in the Navy during this period; and I do further urge all men from 17 to 50 years old, inclusive, to investigate now the opportunities which the Navy offers them."

Robert Bridge,
Mayor of Charlevoix.

The 4,000 goal has been set as enough men to provide crews for a battleship, cruiser, destroyer,

SHOT AT RANDOM

By KEN USHER

When Hitler loses the war the first thing to happen in Europe will be the re-establishment of free newspapers.

I came to the conclusion Saturday, after watching the Charlevoix-Grayling football game, that if Coach Kipke had a few more fellows like Johnny Swanson to do the tackling, Grayling wouldn't have been the class C conference champion.

Thursday brings a close to the bird season in lower Michigan; you can hunt ducks until December 4, rabbits until January 31. And that long awaited event of events—the deer season—is just 10 days distant. In spite of wartime conditions and pending gasoline rationing, there's going to be a heavy exodus of hunters out of Charlevoix.

Bricklayer: "Well, I see you brought your tools with you."

Plumber: "Yeah. I'm getting more absent-minded every day."

The Kiwanis plan of providing the youngsters entertainment in exchange for a prankless Hallowe'en clicked again this year. Seasonal tricks were absent, windows went soapless and property damage was non-existent. Again this year, as in the past, orchids to the Kiwanians.

There isn't going to be any "New Deal" Thanksgiving this year. Tradition was too strong to overcome, so we're reverting back to the old-fashioned last-Thursday-in-November event on the 26th.

First wife: "So your husband is a letter carrier?"

Second wife: "Yes, he carries it for a week before he mails it."

Selection of the tower on the old Martha Ayres building for an airplane spotting station was a wise choice, indeed. You certainly get a bird's eye view of Charlevoix and surrounding territory from this lofty point, and between you and me, there is nothing in the way to stop the wind when it's blowing a gale.

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

This is a true story in fable.

Once upon a time a city man, thinking about his country cousins, said to himself in smug self-satisfaction:

"My poor country relations! They live on a farm many miles from town. Roads are bad. They get to stores with difficulty. They eat mostly meat and potatoes, have few luxuries, enjoy little entertainment, have scant money to spend, are usually in debt—well, it's very sad. I am truly sorry for my country cousins."

That was before 1942, mister. Times have changed!

Don't pity the poor cousins today.

There's a good reason, too.

Your country cousins by now, this eventful November of 1942, are probably feeling downright sorry for you!

In only a few days your automobile will be rationed for limited use of gasoline. And if you're the average American citizens, you'll be given the exciting privilege of burning up four gallons of gasoline every seven days. In a few more weeks, perhaps around Christmas, Uncle Sam will give you a fist-full of ration coupons for just about every important commodity you will need. Meat, for example. And then the incidental matter of milk. That's going to be rationed too.

Your country cousins can have a milk-shake by merely going to the dairy barn. Eggs, butter, chickens, meat, fresh vegetables—yes, your farm relations probably will have all they need. Incidentally, the electric freezing chamber keeps meat and fruit and vegetables fresh all winter.

You have forgotten that the highway is now paved with concrete. The rural route carrier brings the newspaper and periodicals right to the front gate. The radio brings Toscanini right into the living room. "Molly and Fibber" are there, too.

Electricity has replaced the oil lamp. The old windmill doesn't clatter like it used to, because an electric motor runs the pump now.

From where I sit . . .

by Joe Marsh

THAD PHIBBS' house got atruck by lightnin' a couple af nights ago. The kitchen chimney was knocked aff and the roof set an fire, and Thad found things pretty lively and excitin' for a spell.

The fire was soon out though, thanks to the prompt and efficient work of the local fire department, as the paper says . . . and I naver seen a man so grateful as Thad.

Chief Ed Carey was sort af embarrassed, I guess, by the thanks that was beln' heaped on him.

"That's all right, Mr. Phibbs," he says. "That's all right, sir—that's what you pay taxes for."

From where I sit, I'd say Chief Ed's remark seems to have a lesson in it . . . a lesson on the way that taxes come back in mighty real benefits to the people.

Take the taxes on beer, f'instance—more than 2½ billion dollars, I hear, figurin' federal, state and local, in the nine years since beer's been back.

There was a time—remember—when a lot of that money went into the pockets of bootlegger and blind pigs. But today it's coming right back to the treasuries af the nation, the states and the local communities . . . for the benefit of everybody.

Some goes, for example, to pay for the things Uncle Sam needs to fight the war with . . . for tanks and ships and bombers.

Quite a lot goes for things like public health, and education, and good roads and the like.

And some af it, I surmise, has gone ta support the fire company that gave Thad such good service the ather night.

To moderate folks, who like a friendly glass of beer now and then, there's a sort of satisfaction in knowing that right now this beverage of moderation is furnishin' the public treasuries well over a million dollars every single day.

That's quite a lot of money—especially nowadays when Uncle Sam needs every cent he can get hold of.

AT THE MOVIES

"The Wife Takes a Flyer"

Joan Bennett and Franchot Tone, comedy co-stars of tha love-und-laugh hit, "She Knew All the Answers," again join forces with director Richard Wallace in Columbin's hectic new funfest, "The Wife Takes n Flyer," which shows Saturday and Sundny, November 7-8, at the Pnlace Theatre. Miss Bennett is the "wife" of the title; Tone the flyer.

"The Wife Takes a Flyer" is reported in Hollywood to he an intrique-laden, nction-filled romantic comedy, with emphnsis upon the latter. Comedy and romnnce are said to dominnte this story of the Yankee daredevil in the R. A. F. who lands in Holland . . . it is occupied territory and so are the nrms of the little Dutch girl with whom he falls in love!

Canine Highball

Two huge St. Bernard dogs provide one of the big laughs in the Hal Roach comedy, "Brooklyn Orchid," which comes on Tuesday and Wednesday, November 10-11, to the Palace Theatre. Skeets Gallagher approaches the dogs and from the traditional casks hung around their necks, draws a whiskey from one and a strenm of soda from tho other. By whnt appears to be amazing forethought, the dogs' owner two years ago had named the twin cnnines — you guessed it—Whiskey and Soda!

AAA PROGRAM IN CHARLEVOIX COUNTY

New provisions regarding the nppllcation of commercial fertilizers havo been approved for the 1043 AAA program. The noed for increased feed production has mado it necessary to revise the rulings regarding the uses of commercial fertilizer to assist in obtaining sufficient foed supplies for the coming year.

Under tho new provisions, commercial fertilizer, either purchased from a denler or obtained under the AAA consarvation matorials program, may be applied to small grain crops providing that the grain crop is seeded with a legume or grass in the same operation or later in the growing season. Paymant will ho earned at tha rato of 85 per cent of the cost of tha fertilizer whan applied in this manner. We wish to make special mention of tha fact that this practico applies to all grain crops with tha axception of wheat for tho reason that an increase in tho production of wheat is not needed at this tima.

No shipments of AAA fertilizer are being received in tho county this month and we are urging every farmer who has not placed his order for fertilizer for the coming year to do sa at once. Either write or call at tho AAA office in Boyna City for furthor details regarding the amount you are eligible to rereive and tha analysis available.

THE Secret OF THE MARSHBANKS

• BY KATHLEEN NORRIS •

©NORRIS W.N.U. RELEASE

THE STORY SO FAR: Charlotte (Cherry) Rawlings, an orphan since she was seven years old, has been at Saint Dorothea's school for girls. She knows almost nothing about her early history, and has gradually come to realize that like other girls at the school she has no family. Judge Judson Marshbanks, her co-guardian with Emma Haskell, a trained nurse, arranges for her to leave school. Judge Marshbanks tells her that Emma has gotten her a secretarial position with the very wealthy Mrs. Porteous Porter, of San Francisco, where Emma is now housekeeper. The judge tells Cherry that money was left with Emma for Cherry's school expenses. She is to first go to the Marshbanks home where she will meet the Judge's mother, his brother Fred's debutante daughter, Amy, and Marshbanks' young second wife, Fran. When she arrives the judge tells her Amy and Fran are going out to dinner and he dines alone with Cherry. She feels ill at ease in her convent clothes. As they eat a young man enters and Marshbanks introduces him as Kelly Coates.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER III

Judge Marshbanks' visitor, twisting a little to look at Cherry, acknowledged the introduction only with a nod and with a level, curious half-smile, and went on talking in a low tone.

"You're not going to this jamboree tonight, Jud?" he said.

"Good heavens, no! But I may pick the girls up there if we play late enough. I'm going to the club. I ought to look in at the Randall party, I suppose. You dressing later?"

"Oh, I don't think I'll go at all! I think I'll go home," the visitor observed. "But, of course, I had to see what our deb looked like tonight. Isn't this the first big affair for her?"

"She was down here a few minutes ago, sure that she was going to look awful and that something was growing on the tip of her nose," the older man said in tolerant amusement. "She's dining at the Rogerses' in Burlingame, going down with Fran, and will come back to the party."

"Dining?" said Kelly Coates, flinging up his wrists to see the time. "What time do these budlets dine? It's eight now."

"The dinner is supposed to be at eight — seventeen miles away," Judge Marshbanks said. "But they have to kill time until midnight, so they're not worrying!"

They talked on of places and personalities unknown to Cherry, and Cherry had a chance, over a foamy souffle of chocolate and creamy stripes, to study the newcomer. The judge was tall and lean; Kelly Coates was rather more squarely built, with big, hard, nervous hands, fair hair combed back from his square, fine face, keen eyes and mouth that Cherry found a certain fascination in watching.

To her he seemed old, but not an old, certainly, as the judge. Thirty, perhaps. She learned from what she could not help overhearing that he was an artist, that he lived in some place across the bay called Sausalito.

Two women came downstairs. One was a girl of Cherry's age, as fresh as a spray of acacia bloom in a fluffy frock of palest yellow, with spidery yellow orchids pinned at her shoulder. An innocent-eyed girl, with a lovely heart-shaped little face framed in soft curls, a delicately poised little body and discontented blue eyes.

The other woman was dark too, but of an entirely different type. Cherry's first impression was that she was ugly. She was tall and thin, with a long face, deep-set dark eyes, and silky straight black hair that was cut in a deep bang. Her skin was clear and pale, her lips startling in contrast, for her mouth—wide, soft and full—was colored the flame red of a poppy.

"Skunks," she said simply. Her voice, hoarse and deep, thrilled suddenly in the silence.

Both men were on their feet as she came languidly to the table. "Of course you both know you're polecats!" she said.

The girl, after having said, "Sam's here, he won't come in," had vanished back in the direction of the hall again. Judson Marshbanks introduced Cherry to his wife, who acknowledged the little ceremony with an absent glance in Cherry's direction.

"You let me do all the dirty work," said Fran Marshbanks, in a lazily annoyed tone. And again her voice shocked Cherry with its very beauty; it was a rich, low voice that seemed always about to be broken with laughter or tears or both, a shattering, trembling voice that yet clearly indicated its owner's boredom and indifference and pride.

"Jud, you are running out on this party," his wife accused him.

"Well, my dear, a debutante party—" he pleaded.

"I know. But you owe it to Amy." But she did not care very much, either way. "As for Mr. Coates," she went on, carelessly reproachful; "he is apparently entirely without soul; he ought to be cultivating rich, homely girls who want their portraits painted, and here is an occasion when he could meet, not one of them, but all of them! Not even dressed!"

"My dress clothes are circa President Harrison, Mrs. Marshbanks," the painter said. "If I painted anyone it would be yourself, and you say you won't sit for me."

"Because I won't go to Sausalito and dress in a transformed barn," Fran answered composedly.

"You've never seen it," he said.

"I know it's like that. Besides, I'm just bringing Amy out in society," the woman went on, "and I have maternal obligations."

"Maternal! You! What is she to you? Sister-in-law?"

"I wish Jud's mother were here to hear you! Family intricacies are meat and drink to her," Fran said. "She's getting back from Florida this week, by the way; you might come in for a cocktail and meet her. She'd be a subject for you! No," she added, reverting to the original topic, "Amy's not my sister-in-law. She's my—work that out, Jud. What's Amy to me?"

"Skunks," she said simply. Her voice hoarse and deep, thrilled suddenly in the silence.

"She's my brother's child," he elucidated. "She's my niece, and that makes her your niece by marriage."

"That makes her my niece by marriage," Fran repeated, turning the slow battery of her dark eyes upon Kelly.

"I'll have to come here and paint you at the house," Kelly said in an odd voice after a moment.

"Ah, well, if you could do that!"

"I don't see that we're such criminals, Jud and I," said Kelly, "you've two perfectly good escorts, out there in the hall. I don't dance; I drink very little; I hardly know these people—Why on earth should I go?"

"To be with me," Fran suggested, with an oblique glance at her husband and the hint of an unwilling smile.

"You'll be dancing or playing bridge."

"I'll be bored. I know that. I'd much rather stay at home and read Coventry Patmore. But for one thing," Fran said confidentially to the painter, somewhat lowering her tone as the judge went away to answer a telephone call, "I do it for Amy. After being so much abroad with Jud's mother, spending winters in Palm Springs and New York, she's out of everything. We have to give her some sort of party next month. I want to refresh my mind as to how it's done. It isn't my sort of thing at all!"

"I know it isn't," he said, his keen gaze fixed on her.

"You don't really know me at all," her fine, nervous ivory fingers were busy with the delicate lace of her handkerchief. "You've seen me—three times, is it?"

"Dante saw Beatrice once," he said.

"It's so pleasant," said the woman, "to talk to a man who doesn't think Dante's a hospital and who pronounces Beatrice properly."

"I shall hope as our friendship ripens into real affection," Kelly said with a little inclination of his head, "to please you in more important ways."

"Our friendship is going to ripen? How nice!"

"Don't be too sure it will be nice. It may be—distinctly unpleasant!" he warned her lightly.

She looked at him through half-closed lids at this, in a silence so long that Cherry, fussing with cheese and coffee, could feel her own heart beating quickly.

"You interest me," Fran presently said quietly.

"I can't think at the moment of anything I'd rather do," he answered in the same deliberate, half-serious fashion.

The judge returned before either spoke again, for although there was time for more words, Cherry noted that they did not say them but sat looking steadily at each other for a full half minute before Fran dropped her eyes. Amy came in from the hall too, followed by two young men in formal evening attire and there was a little stir of departure.

When they all left the room Cherry followed, not knowing what else to do, and slowly mounted the stairs between the palms, praying in her heart that no one would notice her or speak to her. Completely concealed and sitting down on the stairs until they should be gone, she heard Fran's voice just below her.

"You'll have to ask Jud that," the woman said.

"Who is she?" said the judge's goodhumored voice, evidently repeating a question. "Why, it's a guardianship case. I'm to turn her over to Mrs. Porteous Porter on Monday; she's to do secretarial work for the old lady."

"If I had seen her dress I might have copied it for tonight," said Amy with a little titter.

Fran and Amy and the two young men in evening clothes went away laughing, the big street door shut, and Judge Marshbanks and Kelly Coates came back across the hall and stood chatting for a moment before the artist said that he must start on his way to Sausalito, and the judge went off to his bridge game. But by this time the stairway was empty, and Cherry was back in the luxurious, dimly lighted guest room, standing perfectly still at one of the big windows, looking out into the darkness of the unfamiliar world, studying the scene of the night city with eyes that saw nothing, trying to think with her mind and soul one whirl of furious emotion.

Rage and shame and jealousy and a hundred other new and wretched feelings possessed her. Shaken and throbbing and blinded, she rested her face against the cool glass of the window and pressed one hand against the turbulent pain that was her heart.

Now, for the first time in her life, the significance of being a Saint Dorothea's girl swept over her. A girl to be laughed at and pitied and despised. It was a place for girls who, innocent enough themselves, were nevertheless victims of circumstances that were not innocent; girls who must stay out of the public eyes summer and winter alike; girls who had no home to which to go, no families to welcome them and miss them.

A knock at her door made her return in quick alarm toward the room. Molly, the nice-looking little maid, came in and delivered to Cherry a message as she expertly replaced towels and turned down the bed:

"The judge sent you up the magazines, Miss Rawlings, and says he was sorry not to say good night, and will you please have breakfast with him at half past eight. And May is to go downtown with you at ten, if that wasn't too early for you. And am I to call you?"

Cherry, confused, agreed to everything with a bashful thank you and a good night, and when the maid was gone took herself seriously in hand, brushed her hair vigorously, enjoyed a luxurious bath with every accessory in the way of salts and powders and scents that the bathroom afforded, got herself comfortable in bed and turned magazine pages for an absorbed hour.

But when the lights were out she fell to thinking again, and the humiliation and pain of her arrival at the Marshbanks mansion slowly came back, detail upon detail.

Fran, Cherry's thoughts ran on, had seemed ugly at first, but when you watched the expressions of her face for a moment, and heard her voice she did not seem ugly any more. Much more than Amy she seemed the sort of person an artist would like to paint.

And he was an artist, of course—that man with the tremendous laugh and the tremendous voice, so sure of himself, as he folded his big arms and entered into conversation with the judge, so more than sure of himself when he lowered his tones, and when a half-smile twitched at his mouth, and when he exchanged careless smiling words with Fran.

To have a man like that, at least know that one was alive! To have him obliged—forced to admire one for something, for anything! To call him by his name and have him smile when one unexpectedly encountered him . . .

It was of Kelly Coates that she was thinking as she dropped off at last into exhausted sleep.

The re-encounter with her old friend Emma and the introduction to her new home and to her new employer, proved much less of a strain than Cherry had feared they would. Her brief visit at Judge Marshbanks' house had somewhat prepared her for elegance and luxury.

and save minutes for war!

You've wondered what else you could do, in your own daily life, to speed the war effort. Here's one thing everybody can do —

When your telephone rings, answer as quickly as you can.

It's a little thing, but if all cooperate it can be far-reaching in its importance.

Every call must pass through a central office switchboard. And, switchboard facilities and telephone lines are busier than ever — carrying war messages. We'd like to add enough new equipment to meet all demands, but that's impossible because of material shortages.

So you can see why it's important not to keep any call waiting. Your cooperation in saving telephone minutes helps clear the wires for war calls that must go through!

Here are other ways you can help:

1. Keep all your telephone calls as brief as you can.
2. Don't call Information for numbers listed in the directory.
3. Make only the most essential Long Distance calls.
4. When possible, give the number of the distant telephone you are calling.

Adams, former mayor and Democrat from Sault Ste. Marie to retain his seat in Congress. Bradley carried every county in the district, including Chippewa, Adams' own bailiwick, for a 10,000 majority.

Raymond W. Starr, incumbent Justice of the Supreme Court, defeated Earl Pugsley, Republican state convention nominee, by a wide margin to produce the only major GOP set-back in the state.

Louis E. Anderson, of Northport, Republican representative in the state legislature from Charlevoix-Leelanau district, easily defeated Calvin J. Bennett, of East Jordan, Democrat.

While no official word has been received, all three amendment ballot proposals were defeated.

While the lightest general election vote in history was cast in Charlevoix county, voting showed a decided change to the Republican ranks. Townships which two years ago voted a Democratic majority, came to the Republican side. Retaining an established precedent of many years, this county gave Republican candidates a heavy majority.

Voted into office for the next two years were the uncontested Republican slate composed of C. Meredith Bice, prosecuting attorney; Fenton R. Bulow, county clerk; Floyd W. Ikens, sheriff; Lillis M. Flanders, treasurer; Frank F. Bird, register of deeds; F. F. McMillan and S. B. Stackus, coroners; Lyle B. Wangemon, road commissioner. A canvass of votes is awaited to determine selectees for circuit court commissioner, drain commissioner and surveyor.

HALLOWEEN QUIETEST IN HISTORY OF CITY

Youngsters, Entertained by Kiwanis, Refrained from Pranks

Last Friday night will probably go down on the records as one of the quietest Halloweens in the history of Charlevoix.

There was no property damage, church bells didn't ring, windows, for the most part, escaped the usual dosage of soap and wax.

Responsibility for this fine record, no doubt, lies with efforts of the Kiwanis Club in providing entertainment for children as a reward for abstaining from seasonal pranks. Nearly one thousand youngsters attended the Kiwanis free show afternoon and evening at the Palace Theater.

It was an exceptionally fine record.

GRAYLING COPS FOOTBALL TITLE

Swanson, Charlevoix fullback, stopped an apparent Grayling touchdown march and produced Charlevoix's second touchdown in the fourth quarter when he intercepted a pass on his own 20-yard line and out-ran the Grayling secondary defense to score. Rowe again added extra point for Charlevoix and minutes later the contest, final one of the season for both schools, ended.

The Ryders won two of six contests in the season ending Saturday. They won from Mancelona and Onaway, tied East Jordan and lost to Boyne City, Harbor Springs and Grayling.

TRAPPING SEASONS OPEN NOVEMBER 1ST

Good Prices In Prospect; Trappers Asked to Save Fats

Trapping of muskrats, mink, badgers, skunks and opossums began in Michigan on November 1 with good prices for fur in prospect and a new wartime duty for trappers on the schedule—the salvage of fats for explosives, from carcasses of furbearers that once were discarded.

The November 1 season opening is state-wide only for skunks, badgers and opossums. Muskrats and mink may be trapped November 1-30 in the upper peninsula, November 15 - December 15 in the northern half of the lower peninsula, and December 1-31 in the southern half of the lower peninsula, with another month of 'rat trapping allowed in the Monroe marshes.

Hunting of raccoons began in the lower peninsula November 1 and continues for six weeks, but 'coon trapping is restricted to November 15 - December 15 in northern lower Michigan and from December 1-15 in southern lower Michigan. Nocturnal hunters with their full-voiced dogs ordinarily take five times as many 'coons as trappers get.

Trapping of wild furbearers is a $2,000,000 a year industry in Michigan, according to conservation department records. While some muskrat carcasses are sold as "marsh rabbit," it is believed that most of the 700,000 furbearers taken annually can be turned over, after being pelted, to rendering plants for extraction of the glycerin-producing greases needed for making explosives.

NICKERSON-SHAPTON WEDDING EVENT OF SATURDAY AFTERNOON

The First Congregational church was the scene Saturday, October 31, of a lovely autumn wedding when Miss Ernestine Gladys Nickerson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bonnie Nickerson, of Charlevoix, became the bride of Ensign Warren William Shapton, U. S. N. R., son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Shapton, also of this city.

The marriage service was performed at 4 o'clock in the afternoon before a background of palm and white chrysanthemums, Rev. G. Russell Parker, of Northport, officiating in the presence of two hundred guests. In addition to tradltional marches, Mrs. A. J. Stelter played a program of wedding music.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of mousselene de soie over satin, made with full sleeves at the top, which came to a point at her wrists, and a long full train cut into the skirt. Inserts of lace crossed in front on the bodice and formed a girdle around her waist. A dainty coronet of lace and tiny pearls held her lace-edged veil of illusion tulle in place. Her flowers were white rose buds and pom-poms in a shower bouquet.

Mrs. Russell Kroeze, of Grand Rapids, only sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a gown of peach chiffon with inserts of lace to form a yoke, with long full sleeves and a full skirt. Her headdress of peach net was held in place by a band of matching flowers. She carried an arm bouquet of American beauty roses.

The bridesmaid, Miss Marie Novak, of Charlevoix, wore a gown of pale blue chiffon, with inserts of lace to form a square neckline, with full sleeves and full skirt. Her headdress of matching net was held in place by a shirred coronet, and she carried an arm bouquet of American beauty roses.

Stanley Shapton, of East Lansing, was his brother's best man and the ushers were Pvt. Keith Nickerson, of Camp Livingston, Ln., brother of the bride, and Russell Kroeze, of Grand Rapids.

Mrs. Nickerson, mother of the bride, chose a deep wine velvet gown made with shirred sleeves and a V neckline. Her accessories were black and she wore a corsage of gardenias. The groom's mother, Mrs. Shapton, wore gold crepe with brown accessories and her corsage was also of gardenias.

The bridal couple received the guests at a reception at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony. A lace cloth covered the table which was centered with a four-tier wedding cake, from which refreshments were served buffet style, Mrs. Allen Campbell and Mrs. Charles Heise presiding.

Both bride and groom are graduates of Charlevoix high school and Michigan State College, East Lansing. The bride, also a graduate of St. Mary's Hospital school of dietetics, was a member of Alpha Chi Omega at Michigan State. Mr. Shapton, before entering the service, was employed as biologist at the Cusino wildlife experimental station, Michigan Department of Conservation, at Shingleton.

Ensign and Mrs. Shapton are visiting relatives for a few days, after which they will leave for the west coast.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were: Stanley Shapton, East Lansing; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schmidt and Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Gibbs, Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Roy H. Barratt, Flint; Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Barratt and daughter, Jackie, Traverse City; Leon J. Barratt, Mr. and E. A. Nickerson and Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Nickerson, Kingsley; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Kroeze, Grand Rapids; Pvt. Keith Nickerson, Camp Livingston, Ln.

NAVY DRIVE FOR RECRUITS READY

submarine, sub-chaser and patrol torpedo boat.

Announcing the drive's opening, Chief Resler said:

"Navy enlistments in Michigan and throughout the nation have been at a higher level in recent months than at any time in history. However, the production of warships also has attained a record peak.

"Thus, it becomes apparent that Navy enlistments must not diminish, but actually must increase in volume so that we may be assured of providing enough men to operate these new ships and assure defeat of the Axis.

"I hope that all men of this area from 17 to 50 years old, inclusive, who have not yet looked into what the Navy has to offer, will do so during the period from November 7 to December 7.

"Let's give the Japs an answer to their stab in the back last December 7."

ELIZABETH STOCUM AND WILBER ROBERTSON ARE MARRIED ON SUNDAY

At a ceremony performed at 1:30 Sunday afternoon, Miss Elizabeth A. Stocum, of East Jordan, daughter of Mrs. Genevieve H. Stocum, of Rockford, became the bride of Wilbur A. Robertson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Robertson, of Eastport.

Rev. W. L. Cruthers, of Charlevoix, read the service in the presence of their immediate families at the home of the groom's parents. Miss Ann Wilson of Charlevoix, and Dr. Jerrian Von Dellen, of East Jordan, were the attendants.

The bride wore a street-length dress of royal blue transparent velvet fashioned with a V-neck, three-quarter length sleeves with silver sequin trim on the shoulders. Her accessories were navy blue and her corsage was of pink rosebuds and white bebe mums. Miss Wilson wore a tailored dress of deep dusty rose, with black accessories and a corsage of yellow bebe mums.

Following the ceremony a dinner with places laid for twelve was served to the wedding party and guests. A large wedding cake topped with a minature bridal couple and lillies of the volley was the centerpiece.

The couple left for a wedding trip through Southern Michigan and after November 15 will be at home at 605 North Main street, East Jordan.

Mrs. Robertson is a graduate of Rockford high school and the Butterworth Hospital school of nursing, Grand Rapids. For three years she was a member of the nursing staff of the Charlevoix Hospital and since last April has been office nurse for Dr. Van Dellen in East Jordan.

Fire Loss 13,153 Acres

With the first snows of the winter in the air in upper Michigan, the state conservation department added up its season's losses from 817 forest fires at 13,153 acres, and now hopes to hold them close to this figure for the rest of the year.

MICHIGAN COUNCIL OF DEFENSE
Michigan War Week

Federal Agencies Advise Against Meatless Days

Acting upon advice from Federal Agencies, the Michigan Council of Defense has recommended to Gov. Van Wagoner that no action be taken to encourage observance of "Meatless days" in Michigan. Instead, the voluntary meat conservation campaign planned by the Council in cooperation with the Food Requirements Committee of the War Production Board will go forward without interruption.

Under this plan, neighborhood war clubs have been asked to assist in house-to-house educational programs designed to make householders conscious of the necessity for conserving meat.

"Meatless Days" would interfere with the Federal meat conservation plan, now underway, and farm leaders agree that such a step might create the impression among stock raisers that there might be less demand for meat. On the other hand, every effort is being made to encourage increased production.

C. V. Ballard, chairman of the Council's Agriculture Advisory Committee, and Mrs. Olga Bird Nicle, chief of the nutrition section of the MCD, have assured the council that the voluntary meat conservation plan will serve to keep civilian demand for meat within the limits of supply, without forcing meat consumption below levels comparable to that of recent years.

Plan More Warden Schools

Gasoline rationing and the number of air raid wardens for military service is expected to make more warden instructors schools necessary. To meet this emergency it is contemplated that instructors schools will be organized in each Defense Corps district of the state within the next few weeks. Present instructors are fully occupied with training wardens in advanced courses and more must be supplied to carry on basic training for recruits. Lt. Col. Owen J. Cleary, State Chief Air Raid Warden, is engaged in a survey to determine the exact need for additional schools in each district.

State Piles Up Scrap

Michigan collected 80,000 tons of scrap between Oct. 5 and Oct. 24, according to Kenneth M. Barns, Chairman of the Salvage Committee of the Michigan Council of Defense. As a result of the enthusiastic response of Michigan school children, supported by all daily and weekly newspapers and radio stations, Burns predicts that every county will reach its quota of 100 pounds of scrap per person, and thus be eligible to fly an honor salvage banner from its courthouse staff. Collections for the month were expected to exceed 90,000 tons.

WARREN SHAPTON IS NOW A NAVY ENSIGN

Was Commissioned Saturday, October 31, at Chicago

Warren William Shapton, 25, has been commissioned as an Ensign in the U. S. Naval Reserve.

Ensign Shapton, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl J. Shapton, of this city, was commissioned Saturday as he was graduated from the Naval officer's training school at Abbott Hall, Chicago.

He has completed four months of training fitting him for active duty with the fleet at sea, and he will proceed under orders upon the completion of his graduation leave.

Shapton is a graduate of Michigan State College and before his enlistment for officer's training he was employed as a biologist at the Cusino Wildlife Experimental Station, Michigan Department of Conservation, Shingleton, Mich.

Shapton has a brother, Second Lieutenant Leslie D. Shapton, who is an Army air corps navigator stationed at West Palm Beach, Fla.

SCRAP METAL DRIVE WILL BE CONTINUED

Extension Thru November Announced by Salvage Committee

Extension of the county-wide scrap metal drive through the month of November has been announced by Robert W. Ries, of Boyne City, chairman of the county salvage committee.

This action has been taken according to Mr. Ries, because of unfavorable weather the past two weeks slowing up collection efforts. During the extended drive the county salvage committee would like to receive reports on scrap metal not being delivered—old, abandoned cars, scrap dumps and any other scrap which is not on its way to the mills. Each report will be investigated and trucks sent out to pick the metal up.

In making this appeal, Mr. Ries said: "This war is our and we need guns and tanks. No scrap should be left unturned. The future course of the war can well depend upon scrap metal."

SERVICE MEN'S CENTER TO OPEN NOV. 11

Change in Location to Lewis Building is Announced

Wednesday, November 11—Armistice Day—will mark the opening in Charlevoix of a USO service men's center sponsored by the Charlevoix Service Organization.

While plans for location of the center in the Birakrant building have been abandoned, the CSO has accepted the generous offer of Rollie L. Lewis to use the second floor of the building formerly occupied by the Courier.

Contributions of furniture to equip the center, generously offered since announcement of plans to establish the center last week, are still being sought.

Matrons selected from women's clubs of the city will be in charge. Entertainment facilities planned include a pool table, ping pong table, card tables, reading corner and writing desks.

REMOVE COMMERCIAL FISHING BAN TUESDAY

Re-Open Season Mackinaw Trout; Chub, Whitefish Seasons Closed

Local commercial fishermen, inactive since the closed season on mackinaw trout which went into effect October 10th, may resume operations Tuesday.

With the season not only closed on trout, but also on whitefish and chubs, most operators have utilized the enforced vacation to get their gear ready for the reopening of fishing.

The season on chubs reopens November 20 and the closed season on whitefish, effective since November 5, continues until December 10.

CHURCH OF GOD PARISHONERS WELCOMED THEIR NEW MINISTER

Rev. Wilfred Wood, new pastor of the Church of God, Mrs. Wood and their small son, were welcomed to their new pastorate Friday evening at a reception held at the parsonage.

William C. Palmer gave the address of welcome and Rev. Wood responded. A program of group singing and selections by Delores Richardson and Helen Hamlin were enjoyed. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening. Each member brought a harvest gift for the new-comers.

Rev. Wood comes here from Joliet, Ill., his former pastorate for seven years, prior to which he had spent six years in study at the seminary in Anderson Ind.

PUBLIC HEALTH NEWS

The Michigan Department of Health

Carbon monoxide, the invisible killer released by stoves, furnaces and automobile exhausts, will take a number of lives in homes and garages this winter unless precautions are followed, warns the Michigan Department of Health.

Carbon monoxide is deadly when one-tenth of one per cent is in the air. It is colorless, odorless and tasteless and being lighter than air it will rise into a house from a faulty furnace, a coal or wood burner or a water heater.

Safeguards against carbon monoxide in the home call for inspections to see that chimneys are unclogged, that furnace and stove doors fit tightly, that there are no cracks in the fire domes of furnaces and stoves and that dampers are not permitted to close drafts completely. One of the best ways to find leaks in furnaces or stoves is to throw sulphur on the fire. The telltale odor of the burning sulphur will indicate the source of danger. As for the automobile, the precautions are easier. Just open garage doors and keep them open while the motor is running.

Headache and nausea are early symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning, but by the time the victim is aware of the danger, his muscular condition may prevent him from doing anything to save himself. A person sitting in the driver's seat of an automobile may suddenly realize that he is being asphyxiated, but he may not have strength enough to reach out and turn off the ignition key.

The best first aid treatment for carbon monoxide poisoning is to give plenty of pure oxygen to the patient. Fresh air will bring relief, but only 20 per cent of air is oxygen. Most fire departments have resuscitators, but if none is available, the oxygen tank used by the welder at the corner garage should be put into use. A moderate flow of pure oxygen into the victim's "breathing zone" will speed recovery.

Utah hunters are asked by the State Fish and Game department to turn in all deer fat from the game they shoot in order to swell the State's waste fats collection by about 100,000 pounds.

LETTERS from the ARMY CAMPS

Dear Ken,

I see that you still enjoy your hunting as much as ever. I am afraid I am going to miss the season this year, or at least the biggest share of it.

There sure were a lot of addresses in the paper this week, and a lot of marriages. It sure seems funny to be in here and read that some of your friends get married and some die. I felt pretty bad when I read about Max White.

I have been on the swimming team for the last couple of weeks. We have a meet with Navy Pier this week end, also Camp Small. We have to do an awful lot of practice. We swim in a 35-yard pool which we swim 30 lengths every night and then we have springs for our turn development.

I am still in fire control school and it is getting tougher every week. This is my fifth week in school and we are studying range finding and such.

Well, it is almost time for taps so better stop and get in my hammock.

As ever,
Robert O. Bergmann

Editor Courier,

Have news again, but sort of sudden—am getting transferred. Please hold my paper until you hear from me. May leave tomorrow. There are 00 supposed to be transferred.

I went to the New Orleans Power Squadron meeting yesterday (Monday) evening, 8 to 10 p. m. They had a large class of new beginners, lot of young girls and civilian men, also sailors and marines, at the class. I guess there were about 200 or more, at least that was what R. E. Zerlin, secretary of the Squadron, told me. I was the only soldier attending the class.

The course was on the compass, variation and deviation. H. J. Rolling was the teacher and it sure made me feel at home. He was pretty good. Also told me he teaches celestial navigation. Sorry I won't be on hand for the big party the Squadron is having here at the Jackson brewery, as I received a letter of invitation from the commander.

The members of the Squadron were glad to meet me and I told them what our Charlevoix unit was like on Lake Michigan. One of the men in the class thought Charlevoix was a nice resort, as he was up there, so he said. The way it looks to me, there are a lot of "big shots" in this Squadron.

Well, I hope I am transferred up north again so I will feel at home. I sure do a lot of running around since returning from my furlough. When I got back from furlough to Utah, I was making boxes for our radio and signaling outfit. Didn't even get a chance to sleep at night.

Your Charlevoix Power Squadron Member,
Pvt. Charles Krulik.

Following is part of a letter received by Paul Heise from his son, Sgt. Robert Heise, who is "somewhere in New Guinea."

Dear Murph,

It's almost time to eat, but perhaps I can get in a few lines before chow.

I'm still in New Guinea, healthy, happy, and thinking of home occasionally, but am kept busy enough the majority of the time to keep my mind off the finer things in life.

Ed Radle says to say hello for him.

Did I tell you about the five dollar check I received from the St. Mary's church, for some popularity contest? As far as the money is concerned it has no value, but I figured it was pretty thoughtful of them to let the boys oversees know someone is thinking of him.

I'll write as regular as I can, and in the meantime remember to take care of yourself.

Bob.

October 28, 1942

Dear Ken,

Well, seeing that I have this day in and have plenty of time to spend, I will drop you a few lines.

I am very glad to receive the Courier and know all the dope about "good old Charlevoix." Boy, I sure miss all of the people up there as a lot of others of us do and will be very glad to come home soon.

Well Ken, I suppose you are catching a lot of lake trout, as they should be hitting good by now. Sure wish I got some good fish to eat instead of salt water fish.

I guess I will "lift anchor" now and am sending my best to all my shipmates in the navy and army and marines, and hope we will all meet together soon.

Your friend as always,
Richard John Hull, S-1c
U. S. Submarine Base,
St. Thomas, Virgin Islands.

October 28, 1942

Dear Ken,

Just a note to let you know there is another change in my address. I should have written before, but was kept too busy.

High school was never like this. I have been in pre-flight school for three weeks and like it very much. We have tough subjects and a tough physical course, but even with all this, we have plenty of fun.

There isn't much else to say right now, only the well known saying, "You Buy 'Em and We'll Fly 'Em." From the looks of the skies around here, it appears the people have been doing a good job of "buying 'em."

Sincerely yours,
Av.-C Edward R. Stinson,
San Antonio Aviation Cadet Center,
Preflight School Group 4,

Dear Sir,

I am a long ways from home and I miss the Courier very much. I wish you could send it to me.

I suppose you're getting ready to go deer hunting. You should not have any trouble getting a deer this year with all the young fellows in the service.

Thanks a lot.

Yours very truly,

LANSING LETTER

And that isn't all, brother.

For the city Slicker who likes to get out his bankbook and swell with pride, here's a stopper:

The Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture has just figured out that the cash farm income from marketings THIS YEAR of our Lord, 1942, will be about 15 billion dollars, an increase of approximately ONE-THIRD over 1941 and nearly double the pre-war 1935-39 average.

Why, the peak during World War 1 was 14.6 billion dollars, back in 1919.

The 1942 farm income represents, according to the Bureau, a rise in prices of around 25 per cent over last year and a 12 per cent increase in sales.

But that isn't all, folks.

Government payments for soil conservation will be about the same this year as last. This will raise the total cash farm income to around 15.6 billion dollars compared with 11.8 billions in 1941 and the 1935-39 average of 8.5 billions.

What's the farmer doing with all this money?

A large portion of this 1942 cash is going into payment of debts, reducing mortgages, savings through war bonds along with purchases of semi-luxury lines which are still available. One of the most encouraging signs, say the experts, is the absence of a speculative spirit which prompted farmers in the last war to go heavily in debt for purchase of land and equipment and then were caught in the vicious post-war price cycle.

No, the average country cousin isn't dumb.

Most farm authorities apparently agree that the farmer will come out of this present war with a smaller debt structure and a large backlog of liquid assets—those things like war bonds which can be converted quickly into cash—than ever before.

Because of high material prices, many farmers are postponing new farm construction until the war is over.

And here are some more encouraging trends:

Ownership of farms is increasing; tenancy is falling.

Rural retail sales have increased each month for 21 consecutive months. Instead of durables being in demand, farmers are turning to clothing, housewares, food specialties and minor luxuries.

The big unfavorable trend, of course, is the growing scarcity of labor, the selective service headquarters at Washington has recommended deferment for farm labor, and there is news of "freezing" labor on dairy and poultry farms. Farmers have been selling livestock, and even additional acreage, so that they can handle their farms themselves.

That is the bearish part of this story. It is one that heralds a possible scarcity of food by 1943 or 1944 with rationing of more and more commodities.

With approximately one-third more income this year than last year, and with food right in his own garden and poultry house or on the "hoof", the Michigan farmer is doing very well, thank you.

He represents the true American spirit of free enterprise. Getting the job done is more important to him than getting higher wages at shorter hours.

He is going to make a significant contribution to winning of the war.

Yes, the "poor" country cousin is feeling sorry for a lot of city folk these days. Pass the fresh eggs and bacon, and have a laugh on us.

4,000 Patriotic Michigan Men Like You Can Man These Great Fighting Ships!

Apply Before December 7, at Your Nearest Navy Recruiting Station

Four thousand Michigan men are needed by the first anniversary of Pearl Harbor. Will YOU be one of them?

The Navy Recruiting Service in Michigan has pledged itself to provide enough fighting men in 30 days to man six of our Navy's great ships. YOU can be one of these men. YOU can be one of the proud group who will say, December 7, "Listen, Hirohito, here's my answer to your little surprise party a year ago today!"

If you are a skilled craftsman, the Navy offers you a splendid opportunity to serve your country at a time when it needs you most—and yet keep right in the line of work you like best. It is your duty to yourself and to your country to put your ability and training where they will be used to best advantage. Ratings paying as high as $126 per month, plus generous cash allowances for dependents, are given qualified men.

If you have construction or mechanical experience, capitalize on that experience by joining the "SEABEES," or Navy Construction Battalions.

And don't forget—the Navy has a reputation for taking care of its men. You get delicious, healthful food—three square meals a day, generous servings, all you can eat. Living quarters are comfortable and clean. Recreational activities keep you entertained both ashore and on ship. You receive a complete outfit of warm clothing FREE upon enlistment. Medical and dental care is the best in the world . . . and it doesn't cost you a cent!

The Navy has a big job ahead, and it has many modern ships to do it . . . powerful Battleships . . . rugged Destroyers . . . lightning-like "Mosquito" boats.

It needs hundreds of thousands of men like you to man these ships.

Be one of them. Join the Navy TODAY!

YOUNG MEN Ages 17, 18 and 19

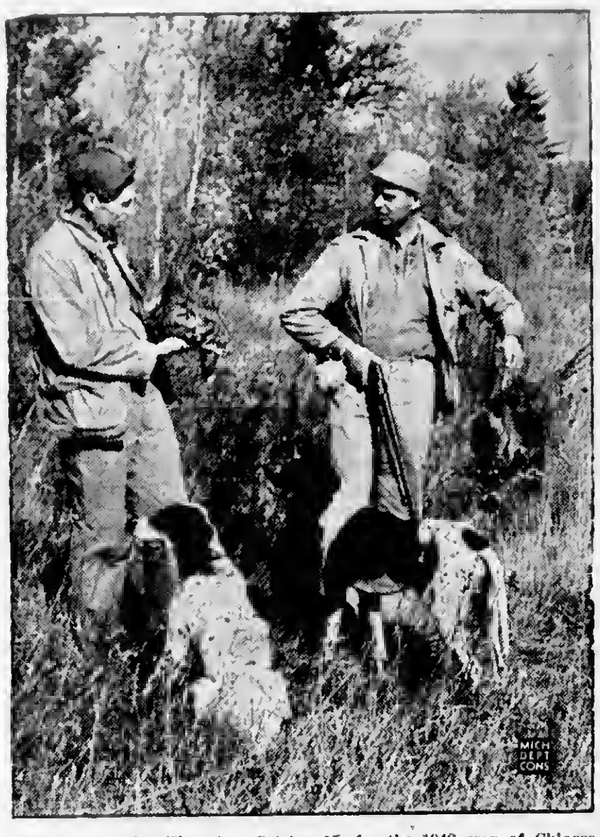
Most Popular Bird



Hunting begins Thursday, October 15, for the 1942 crop of Chinese ringneck pheasants. Michigan hunters bagged one and one-quarter million of the colorful birds last season, for sport and pheasant dinners. Conservation department game men report that this season's production, though not up to last year's in several areas, is abundant. Quite as important this season is the fact that pheasant hunting is available [illegible]

SHOT AT RANDOM

Well, folks, this is my Swan Song. When the Courier comes out another week, my connections with it will have been severed and the little corner which we have shared together will not exist. It is my hope that you have enjoyed reading by brain-wanderings, fun-making, opinions and bemoaning of happenings as much as I have enjoyed writing them. While this column may have been of minor import, is did, perhaps, serve to bring myself a little closer to those who were my daily acquaintances and many readers whom I have never met. Friendships are precious. I hope those I have made are never broken.

THE HOME FRONT IN MICHIGAN

Week by week, the war is trimming off all luxuries—pleasure driving, the extra cup (or two) of coffee, and so on along a growing list. But when we start paying next year's taxes, we'll begin to realize how far the trimming process can go. The government's war costs will run to about $55,000,000,000 this year, around $90,000,000,000 in 1943. Deducting direct war needs, there will be left over for our use at home next year about $70,000,000,000 worth of goods and services.

On the subject of coffee, rationing of this item starts midnight Nov. 28. The individual ration is one pound for five weeks or 10.4 pounds per year for each person over 15 years of age. Adding the amount of coffee consumed by the public in restaurants and other institutions, the average American coffee drinker under rationing will be drinking 38 per cent less "java" than he averaged over the period from 1937 to 1941. The coffee ration, of course, may be changed from time to time to meet the varying conditions of supply.

Here's news for Michigan farmers. As of Nov. 1, all new farm machinery and equipment is "frozen" under a temporary rationing order, which will remain in effect until state and county quotas are set up as a basis for permanent rationing. The "freeze" does not affect repair parts for farm equipment. County farm machinery ration committees set up last September will issue ration certificates when the permanent program takes effect.

Defense Transportation Director Eastman learns from police reports that the public is observing the 35-mile-an-hour nation-wide speed limit "almost 100 per cent." Cases of flagrant violations, or cases involving repeated violations, may bring individual revocation of gasoline ration books.

By the way, machinery on national gasoline and mileage rationing is rolling. Forms on which American's 27,000,000 motorists apply for basic "A" or "D" mileage ration are being distributed and will be available to the public through service stations, garages, tire shops and other conveniently located places designated by local OPA ration boards as soon as distribution is complete. Exact dates will be announced soon. Every owner of a passenger car or motorcycle, with few exceptions, will need one of these forms.

Michigan's bar bill, as in all other states, was boosted for every thing from packaged liquor to a "straight" drink at the neighborhood tavern, effective Nov. 1. Blame the increased federal excise taxes. Sole exception to the increase is beer on draft.

The Michigan quota of new passenger automobiles for rationing during November is 3,035. The month's quota of bicycles for the state is 5,051.

Did your grocer puncture the top of a vacuum-packed coffee can at the time you bought it? If he did, he was taking what OPA considers a reasonable step to prevent excessive stocking of coffee. OPA soon may establish practices retailers may and may not engage in to discourage hoarding of scarce commodities.

DOTS and DASHES: Snow fencing and four kinds of corn cribbing have just been brought under the OPA maximum price regulation. . . production of tire chains has been cut 60 per cent by WPB, saving thousands of tons of high carbon steel. . . less glamour and more utility will be the rule for kitchen enameled ware under new WPB restrictions setting styles for these items.

No more canned sauerkraut will be available after present stocks are gone—the tin is needed for war use. . . kraut will come in wooden or non-metal containers. . . . the war - time cupboard is getting more bare for Fido—canned dog food is just a memory, and your dog will have to be content with the leavings from his master's dinner plate.

A man or woman entering military service must turn in his war ration book to his local War Price and Rationing Board. OPA has ruled. . . incidentally, sugar rations for Army and Navy personnel on furlough have been set at a half pound a week. . . in buying gift kits for members of the armed forces that contain shaving cream or toothpaste tubes, WPB has ruled you do not have to turn in an old tube.

Excise taxes will make holiday drinking more expensive this season. . . but prices have been fixed for holiday delicacies of all kinds from plum pudding and fruit cake to sweet apple cider and candied fruits. . . pork, bread and flour also have been brought under price ceilings.

should be taken to the school on November 11, 12 and 13. When the teacher has checked the application and requirements and has found them correct, the applicant will be given an "A" book and an "A" sticker which he is required to paste on his windshield.

Here are some of the requirements outlined on the application form: Pledge to drive not more than 35 miles an hour; have four tires and a spare; list on application the serial number of the five tires; list the number of Federal Use Stamp on the windshield of car; present automobile certificate of registration.

After the general registration, at a date to be announced later, individuals qualifying for "B" and "C" books may make application for same with the rationing board. Requirements for this procedure will be announced when information is available.

CONFERENCE GRID TEAMS NAMED

Harbor Springs, with a record of four wins and no losses, and Grayling, with a record of four wins and one tie, were declared conference co-champions. Boyne City's record gave it runner-up position.

With new wartime regulations prohibiting the use of school busses for transportation of athletic teams, school officials and coaches must depend on volunteer private cars. Schedules will be completed insofar as possible and requests made of local citizens to transport athletes in the future.

FARM LABOR IS TO BE DEFERRED

workers found to be not essential in present employment will be referred to United States Employment Service and to county War Boards for placement on other farms where their skill is needed.

"Army and Navy will not recruit such farm worker without certification from local board that he is not in class 2-A, 2-B, or 3-B, or is not entitled to such classification by reason of being essential on dairy, livestock or poultry farm."

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Mrs. Leroy Zelley, who left this week to make her home in Sault Ste. Marie, was honored at a farewell party given Thursday evening by Mrs. Herbert Campbell and Mrs. Henry Supernaw, at the Campbell residence on Prospect street. Bridge prizes went to Mrs. George Smith Jr., and Mrs. Carlton Ikens, while Mrs. Franklin Curtis won the door prize. Mrs. Zelley was presented with a gift from the group. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

Mrs. Robert Withers entertained her sewing club Monday evening at her Clinton street home.

Mrs. Dallas Henry entertained at a small party last Wednesday evening for the ninth birthday anniversary of her daughter, Jon. After dinner, the little guests attended the theatre.

Mrs. Lee Allard was honored guest at a bridge party given Thursday evening at her home on State street, by a group of friends. Three tables of bridge were in play, with prizes going to Mrs. Harold Bedford, Mrs. W. H. Wallace, and Mrs. E. J. Smith. Following the card games, a cooperative luncheon was served.

Neighbors and friends numbering twenty-four pleasantly surprised Mr. and Mrs. Albert Taylor on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary at their Antrim street home last Wednesday evening. Cards were enjoyed, prizes going to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bird, Leo Powers and Mrs. Taylor. The honored couple were presented a lovely gift.

Mrs. Glean Rose gave a Hallowe'en party for a group of her daughter, Patsy's young friends at her home on Petoskey avenue Friday afternoon. Games and favors were appropriate to the occasion and the little guests, including Eleanor North, Janet Usher, Anne Gill, Marilyn Ikens, Lorna Lewis and Joan Henry, came in costume.

Sarah Coleman entertained eight of her girl schoolmates at a costume Hallowe'en party Saturday evening at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Supernaw. Decorations, favors and games were in keeping with the occasion. The little guests were Joan Pischner, Jonn Usher, Marion Seymour, Neta Brumm, Beverly Stroud, Marilyn Ikens, June Gudd and Barbara Bice.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Emrey entertained Sunday evening at their home on Michigan avenue at a party in observance of the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. Emrey's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Preston, of Petoskey.

A pleasant and amusing feature of the event was a mock wedding with Mr. and Mrs. Preston as bride and groom, Robert Emrey as the justice of the peace, Mrs. Glenn Ellis as bridesmaid, Galo E. Hines as best man, Glen Ellis gave the bride away. Present at the affair besides the honored guests and hosts were: Mr. and Mrs. Glen Ellis and Mr. and Mrs. George Knibfleisch, of Petoskey; Mrs. King Saunders, of Lansing; Mr. and Mrs. Leo Carey, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Emrey, Mrs. Clara Todd, Galo E. Hines, Bill and Bob Carey, this city. A buffet luncheon was served at the close of the evening.

Mrs. Harold Tousley entertained at a party Tuesday afternoon honoring the fourth birthday anniversary of her daughter, Vera. Cake and ice cream was served the eight little guests present.

Elnora and Bobbie Gene Carpenter entertained fifteen girls at a costume Hallowe'en party Friday evening at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carpenter. The children played games and later were served a delicious lunch.

Patsy Webster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Webster was hostess to four girls at a Hallowe'en party Friday evening at the home of her parents. Games and refreshments were enjoyed.

Mrs. James Krulik gave a birthday party Tuesday afternoon at her residence on Prospect street on the occasion of the seventh birthday of her daughter, Janet. Nine little guests enjoyed an afternoon of games and refreshments which followed.

Miss Ernestine Nickerson was guest of honor at a linen shower given by Mrs. William Porter, of East Jordan, and Miss Marie Novak at the Novak home Thursday evening. Several games were enjoyed by the guests with prizes going to Mrs. Robert Ashdon and Miss Esther West. Mrs. Gordon Bartlett won the door prize. Late in the evening refreshments were served by the hostesses. Miss Nickerson received many lovely gifts. Those present were the Mesdames Earl Shapton, Bonnie Nickerson, Charles Novak, Robert Withers and the Misses Dorothea Taylor, Marie Klooster, Ruth Heise, Roberta, and Mary Louise Mosier.

KRCHAK - EICHHOLZ WEDDING WAS SOLEMNIZED OCTOBER 27

At a wedding solemnized Tuesday, October 27, in St. John's Lutheran church, Charleston, S. C., Miss LaVonia Krchak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Krchak, this city, was united in marriage to Cpl. Carl Eichholz, son of Mrs. Lenn Wolverton, of Detroit.

The ceremony was preformed at 7:30 p. m. by the Rev. Heyward Epting. Attending the couple were Staff Sgt. Charles Spehl and Mrs. Spehl, of Columbia, S. C.

The bride's dress was of aqua and silver wool with brown accessories. Her corsage was of talisman roses. Mrs. Spehl wore a suit of light blue wool and a corsage of pink roses.

The couple will make their home in Moultrieville, S. C., where Mr. Eichholz is stationed.

FIRST SOLDIER ON NEW GUINEA

ED. RADLE, THIS CITY, LED AMERICAN TROOPS

Landing of AEF oo Pacific Island Told in News Dispetcbes and Radio Broedcests Monday

When the first airburne United States infantry ever to enter a combat zone touched ground somewhere in New Guinea in September, the first soldier to set foot on the ishud was Corp. Edward S. Radle, of Charlevoix, according to news releases in newspapers and radio broadeasts Monday.

Ed, former C. H. S. star athlete, is reported to be raising a beard which he swears he won't shave off until he gets his first Jap.

For days after the first soldiers were lended on New Guinea, the sky was filled with glant trnnsport planes as troops eontinued to pour into the Island. Days later, traepships slid alongsido the docks of the landing port nnd dischurged nddltional thousands of Yanks.

Tha entire operation, say the official releases, was carried out without interception by enemy plnnes, thanks to the heavy air superiority the allies now held in this area. As the soldiers landed, trucks drew up immediately to take them to temporary bivouacs in the bush, where they erected pup tents in the three-foot grass, dug slit trenches und set up field kitchens. A few days Inter when the unit was all in, they began moving up the trail townrd the enemy in the jungle covered Owen Stanley range, now in allied hands after weeks of fighting.

Ed's mother, Mrs. Esther Radle, of this city, has in her possession u small piece of aluminum cut from n Japnnese Zero plane, the first to he shot down in New Guinea by the division to which her son is attached.

MANY DEFR HUNTERS GO TO BEAVER ISLE

Boet end Housing Accommodetions Texed to Limit

COUNCIL GIVES FIRE TRUCK TO ISLANDERS

St. James and Peaioe Townships Get Local Equipmeot

Through action taken Monday night by the clty council, mechanical fire fighting equipment for St. James and Peaine tuwnshlps on Benver Islund wns provided.

At this time when wartime restrictions on building inske property protection imperative, the council presented to the island township officials, with compliments of the citizens of Charlevoix, the Oldsmobile fire truck which has been augmented by two more modern trucks.

While probably between 25 and 30 years old, the truck is in good condition, equipped with chemical tanks and necessary appliances. If sold, the truck would probably have brought a paltry price for junk, while given to the islanders fer fire protcction, it is of inestimable velue. These facts, together with the thought of engendering good will, prompted tha council's action.

STUDENTS SHARE IN WAR PROGRAM

PHYSICAL FITNESS DRILLS INAUGURATED MONDAY

High School Youths are Given Commando Training; Girls Also Share Effort

After several weeks in the experimentel stage, a physical fitness program for Charlevoix high school boys from 7th to 12th grades was officially inaugurated Monday.

Designed to form a vital purt of the high school's contribution to the war effort, class periods have been re-arranged to allow for 45 minutes of calisthenics and stunts in the school gymnasium, patterned on the commando training given United States soldiers. Coach Ray Kipke and assistant coach Mux Nevak nre directing the program.

Equipment to he used in the project consists of bars upon which mnny feats of bnlancing and turning can he performed; overhead ladders, ropes, nuts, walls and other obstucles employed in the commandn training courses. Adapted ât the beginning to the abllities of the students, the training will be grnlually intensified ns their muscles are developed.

Physicnl tnining for high school girls will consist of short periods of light calisthenics. The major portion of the girls' participation in the war effort will be sewing and Red Cross work, which will be directed by teachers. Work done outside of school will be credited. Definite plnns for the girls' progrnm have not yet been completed.

That the high school students are eager and anxious to do everything within their capabilities for the nation is shown hy the fact thnt 35 students are registered for duty at the airplane spotting station, forming fully a third of the crew needed to-mnn the station full time.

STATE WARNS PARENTS ON DIPHTHERIA INCREASE

Diphtheria cases in Michigan are unnecessarily increasing hecause children have not been immunized ngainst the disease, Health Commissioner H. Allen Moyer said.

"We should have no cases of diphtheria," he said. "The state furnishes free to physicinns the toxins which prevent the disease. Parents are again urged to hnva their children treated."

NEW MANAGEMENT IS EXTENDED A HEARTY WELCOME BY FRIENDS

In contrast to the softly falling snow, the interior of the Courier office has taken on an atmosphere of spring.

The aroma which permentes the building is from the beautiful floral offerings of congratulations and good wishes received from the former owners, the employees, former business associntes of the new owners, their families and others.

Announcement

Mr. A. J. Usher wishes to announce that the Charlevoix Courier has been purchased by Jerry F. Scudder and James A. Garrison, formerly of Detroit. They intend to reside in Charlevoix and each will take an active interest in the paper. We feel certain that they will do their part to maintain the reputation of the Courier and become real, live-wire citizens.

As we bid adieu to the Courier, we extend to Messrs. Scudder and Garrison the hand of welcome. Personally, we have found them to be a couple of likable fellows. Call and meet them.

INTERESTS COURIER AND OF CHARLEVOIX MY AIM—KEN USHER

Well, folks—here I am—right in the middle again.

It was with u tinge of regret, naturally, nfter 20 years association here, to contemplate severing my connection with the Courier, and possibly leaving Charlevoix. But after interviewing the new owners, Messrs. Scudder & Garrison, I found they intend to make only such changes as would improve and benefit the Courier.

Consequently, I will be greeting you here as usual in my capacity as manager. Insofar as time has permitted, I have contacted personally since the change in ownership, business associntes and friends, to inform them that as long as my present connection continues, my efforts in the future, as they have been in the past, are directed toward a better Courier, the best interests of its owners, and of Charlevoix.

Ken Usher.

BALLAD BENDERS MADE BROADCAST OVER WTCM

Pleyed Two Engagements Out of Town This Week

The Ballad Benders, Charlevoix's own barbershop quartette, appeared Tuesday night over radio station WTCM at Traverse City, broadcasting n 15-minute program of varied selections. Dr. G. B. Saltonstall, Dr. D. C. Nettleton, Rev. Donald R. Evans and Charles A. Hamlin compose the quartette. "Engineer" Dallas Henry was announcer for the program.

Following the broadcast, the Ballad Benders were featured entertainers at a party given by the Traverse City chapter of the SPEBSQSA at the Park Place hotel.

Monday night of this week the group were guest artists at tha Boyne City Rotary club meeting.

FISHERMAN GETS SIX POUND GREAT NORTHERN

A six pound, 32 1-2 inch long Great Northern Pike was caught by Mike Czerkie, of Petoskey, on Burt lake last week.

Mike was fishing with Roy Compton and was using a perch fishing outfit.

Both had a nice catch of yellowbelly perch.

POSTPONE GASOLINE REGISTRATION

The local rationing board office received official word Tuesday from the office of price administration that registration for gasoline rationing in Charlevoix county has been postponed to November 18, 19 and 20.

Delay in getting proper forms and blanks distributed throughout the country, and inability to gather up all of the extra tires (more thao five for each vehicle) were the reasoos given for postponement.

Gasoline ratiooing has been postponed from November 22 to December 1 in Michigan and 30 other midwestern and westero states.

Greetings

Having acquired the interests of A. J. Usher and Ella M. Usher in the Charlevoix Courier, we wish to advise that it is our firm intention to improve the Courier. We want to assure our readers and advertisers that we will always welcome criticism, whether it be good or bad. It is our sincere desire that the people of this community will like us. We want to like you. We intend to bring our families and make our homes here. From this day forward, it is our firm resolve to be boosters of Charlevoix-the-Beautiful.

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Menager, Michigan Press Association

Unless Harry F. Kelly brenks another precedent in Michigan history, he can look forward to two years af public service as Governer and no more.

The Republican secretary of state, victor in the G. O. P. landslide of Novemhor 3, upset one historical habit of voters in not changing their governor during a war. War Governers Austin Blair, Hazen Pingree nnd Albert E. Sleeper were all returned to office by a public which evidently cherished the old admonition against "swapping horses in mid-stream."

However, the custom didn't save the genial, capable Murray D. Van Wagoner, smiling "Pat" to thousands of his friends, from being buried beneath a 75,000 Kelly majority. The "war governor" will be retired in favor of an opposition candidate whose record in the World War was most distinguished, having been awarded the French Croix de Guerro for valor.

Another fact still remains: For seven successive elections, a majority of the voters of Michigan have switched allegiance. Every other year an opposition candidate has ousted the incumbent governor—seven times straight!

Between 1892 and 1912 tha Wolverine state was tagged by politicians as "Safely" Republican.

Republican Governor Blair had put the state well into the Republican column during the Civil War. The memory of Lincoln became a rallying point in succeeding campaigns, and the state remained G. O. P. for twelve elections until the turn of the nineties. Edwin B. Winans, Democrat, won in 1890 by only 11,500 plurality. The state then remained Republican until 1914 when Woodbridge N. Ferris defeated the field to win by a plurality of 35,000.

Michigan then returned to its Republicno voting habit until the Roosevelt New Deal swept across the nation like a tidal-wave in 1932, and William A. Comstock, a conservative Democrat, became governor.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By KEN USHER

Greetings, everyone! This is your announcer, Ken Usher broadcasting the choicest hits of nonsense from station SAR (Shot at Random) to you, after an absence of (no time) flat. I had a fine time and hope you are the same.

Inasmuch as my column has never before been asked for advice, I hasten to answer the following letter received a few days ago:

"Dear Ken:

Before leaving, could you give me some advice? Here's my story: I'm in the city now and feel that I should do my small part by contributing a few hours each week to my uncle—you know—Sam. I'm registered with civilian defense volunteers and would be glad to give a helping hand to the USO, Red Cross and other organizations needing the feminine touch. How do I go about it?

"The days are pretty well filled up, what with my family, etc., but I'd be glad to contribute evenings.

"Sorry to hear there will be no mure 'Shots.' I've enjoyed them and the Courier very much. It's a grand little paper."

U. V.

"Dear U. V.:

"I'm not much good at giving advice, but I have been familiar with the 'feminine touch' for a good many years. Whether the USO, Red Cross and other such organizations function evenings, I cannot tell you. Your patroitic intent, however, is badly needed in the war effort, and if you will give me your full name so that I know whom to address, I'll try to direct you to persons who will appreciate your cooperation. Thanking you for your interest in 'Shots' and your very generous praise of the Courier, I am

Sincerely,
Ken."

Now that that's taken care of, I certainly should mention because of its unusualness, the bunch of budded trailing arbutus Sam Sorensen and his Missus picked re-

Salvage Brass Shell Casings

Nail kegs in hardware stores throughout Michigan, like this one in Roscommon, are collection depots at which hunters are depositing their used shotgun and rifle shells. Brass they contain is much needed in the war salvage program, and the salvaging of millions of casings may mean better hunting ammunition supplies next year, if ammunition loads but not shell cases should be available.

"Now, Voyager"

In her latest picture, Warner Bros.' "Now, Voyager," scheduled Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 14-15, at the Palace Theatre, Bette Davis has a new, glorious role that surpasses anything she has done before. She plays the part of a neurotic daughter of a strict New England mother, whose only escape from her sordid world is a frustrated love affair. In the male lead is suave, handsome Paul Henreid.

"Two Yanks in Trinidad"

Our troops have landed . . . in a blaze of thrills and laughs! Those "Two Yanks in Trinidad" are making enemy spies see stars . . to win their sergeant's stripes! They're rough! They're tough! They've got the stuff!

There's no holding Pat O'Brien and Brian Donlevy when the fighting starts! They could lick their weight in wildcats . . until a wildcat in skirts named Janet Blair started throwing her weight around!

The new Columbia comedy, showing Tuesday and Wednesday, November 17-18, at the Palace Theatre, includes Donald MacBride, Roger Clark and John Emery in its stellar supporting cast.

"Call of the Canyon"

Hollywood owes a genuine debt of gratitude to Gene Autry, its second great Good Will Ambassador. Not since the tragic death of the well-beloved Will Rogers has Hollywood produced a personality of sufficient stature to merit the title "Good Will Ambassador"—until Gene Autry came galloping across the cinema firmament with his ready smile and his engaging personality, to cement deep-rooted good will for the motion picture industry throughout the country. His latest Republic picture, "Call of the Canyon," shows Thursday and Friday, Nov. 19-20, at the Palace Theatre.

Studebaker says:
"Wartime care will save your car"
Government regulation of driving makes it clear that every one of our cars and trucks is vital to the nation's need for essential wartime transportation.
Less driving means more danger from corrosion, sticking parts and leaking engine gaskets. Slower speeds make small irregularities of engine performance more bothersome.
Your car should be lubricated and [illegible] the basis of time rather than mileage [illegible].
Use your car carefully. Give it regular maintenance. This is the best way to preserve it. Simple, yes, but important.
Studebaker dealers are engaged in a wartime service program—to assist you—regardless of the make of car or truck you own.

THE Secret OF THE MARSHBANKS

• BY KATHLEEN NORRIS •

©NORRIS W.N.U. RELEASE

THE STORY SO FAR: An orphan since the age of seven, Charlotte (Cherry) Rawlings knows almost nothing about her early history. Judge Judson Marshbanks, her co-guardian with Emma Haskell, arranges for her to leave Saint Dorothea's, and tells her that Emma has obtained for her a secretarial position with the wealthy Mrs. Porteous Porter, of San Francisco, where Emma is housekeeper. She is first to go to the Marshbanks mansion. When she arrives she dines alone with the judge as Fran, his young wife, and his niece, Amy, are dining out. Kelly Coates, an artist, drops in and Cherry feels very ill at ease in her convent clothes. On their way out, Fran and Amy stop and casually nod when Cherry is introduced. It is evident to Cherry that Kelly and Fran are interested in each other. As Fran and Amy leave, she stands on the stairway, concealed by palms, and hears laughing reference to her and her clothes.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER IV

Mrs. Porter was a stout, soft, pretty woman of seventy-four. Some physical difficulty, perhaps not more serious than her weight itself, made it inconvenient for her to ever walk more than a few steps at a time. She took a drive every day, she could get to the bathroom for the comfort of a long, leisurely bath, and every morning she moved to her favorite chair in a sunny bay window or beside an old-fashioned fire.

As Dovey Glashell, Mrs. Porter had had an adored, flirtatious, giddy girlhood. Hers had been the generation that twined flowers in hair and danced kid slippers to pulp at formal balls. Upon marrying the richest and most eligible young man in a city full of mining and railway, banking and land barons' sons, she had flashed upon a stunned group of friends the news of a prospective European honeymoon trip with her bridegroom.

Emma was indispensable; she kept the whole enormous machine running; she knew where business papers were, and what the lawyer came about, and when to call the doctor. But there was nothing soft, friendly, companionable about Emma, and at the telephone or when it came to special shopping she was grimly inadequate. Also, she was a monotonous and disinterested reader. Mrs. Porter had a large mail; she had long been unequal to it, and had employed unsatisfactory girls to get as secretary from time to time with wearying results.

Cherry began her duties with the trembling feeling that by no chance could her lines have fallen permanently in such pleasant places. To be able to creep away from the world that in one brief encounter had hurt her so terribly and to hide herself here, with a lovely room for her own, a houseful of books for company, amazing meals served at regular — or indeed, irregular — hours, and only a gentle, sweet, helpless old lady to amuse seemed too good a fortune to be true.

From this she passed to a sort of exultation that she had succeeded. She answered the telephone and wrote letters and drove out in the park in her new brown coat and becoming brown hat, in a pleasant quiver of feeling herself liked and needed and approved.

The third phase came only after several weeks, and was one of doubt, boredom and weariness. She wanted exercise and interest and companionship; she wanted a sense of living; instead she was like a girl caught in a dream.

Outwardly, it was all easy and delightful. Cherry came into her employer's room not earlier than half past ten o'clock every morning, not later than eleven. Mrs. Porter only lost sight of the girl for brief intervals thereafter until ten o'clock at night. Cherry had immediately discovered her appetite for flattery and had innocently gratified it in their first days together. Now she had to pay the price for this concession with constant pleasantries.

"I like you because you're so frank with me, Cherry," Mrs. Porter said to her once. "I told Emma that you were a blunt little thing and she was afraid I didn't like it. But I do! I love people to be absolutely frank with me."

With her first sight of Emma, Cherry had had the feeling that the long years since last they had met were as nothing and that she was a little girl of seven again, living in a small tiled house with a patio and a fountain, and running in and out of the bedroom where her mother lay always in bed. A thousand details, half forgotten until now, had rushed back to her, and she had longed for the moment when she might talk freely to Emma of the past.

To include any exercise at all in the twenty-four hours she formed the habit of rising early and taking a long walk about the streets or into the eucalyptus-shaded roads of the Presidio before breakfast.

In the freshness and sparkle of these winter mornings life seemed exhilarating enough. But after her breakfast the warmth and torpidity of the Porter mansion enveloped her again like a stupefying drug.

"I wonder," she wrote Anita, "how long this would go on? Emma—that's my old nurse, you know—has been in one job or another like this for years and years. Well, anyway, I got my first pay yesterday and I'm going to buy myself a hat I saw on Polk street. My love to everyone, Madeleine especially, and Elizabeth and all the Sisters and girls."

One day Cherry had an adventure. It came on a quiet, foggy afternoon when all the world seemed dull and quiet. Cherry was driving with Mrs. Porter when her old companion said suddenly, "Look there—wait a minute—stop him!"

Automatically obeying these instructions Cherry seized the speaking tube and Merryweather drew up at the right-hand side of the road.

Then the girl saw that two bay horses carrying a man and woman were pacing along one of the bridle paths.

—and that the woman was Fran Marshbanks and the man Kelly Coates.

In response to old Mrs. Porter's gesticulations, and her voice at the window she was energetically lowering, the riders came close to the car and Fran gave Cherry her second careless smile and nod, and Kelly saluted her by touching his cap with his whip. He was presented to Mrs. Porter, and as the two women fell into a discussion of the list of patronesses for a series of concerts, he rode around the back of the car and chatted with Cherry at her own opened window.

"Well, Miss—I have to call you Cherry, I've forgotten the other name—" he began.

"Oh, do!" said Cherry, the dull park breaking into sparkles, the white winter sky turned June.

"Cherry then. What have you done to yourself? You look like another woman!"

"It's my hat," said Cherry. The Polk street creation was on her head, a picturesque bet that came far down over the streaked gold and brown of her hair.

"It's more than your hat," Kelly assured her. "You've washed your face, too."

Her laugh rang out; he had not heard her laugh before, and as it had impressed Judson Marshbanks at the convent a month or so earlier, it impressed the younger man now as being extraordinarily fresh and pleasant.

He looked at her a long time, thoughtfully. Or at least, if only for a few seconds, it seemed a long time to Cherry. She felt the warm color in her cheeks and the slow beat of her heart.

"I suppose that's true," Kelly said at last in a surprised tone.

"I'd read about girls making their debuts," Cherry pursued, warmed to the very soul by his attentive, half-sympathetic and half-amused look, "and orchids and all that. But somehow, just that night, to see her so safe and so happy and having such a wonderful time when I was homesick and tired and I knew I looked so awful . . ."

"Well, of course," he agreed quickly, as she paused in a sort of shame and embarrassment. "Amy, you mean?"

"Amy."

"She's not having such a wonderful time," he said. "It's all comparative. She thinks other girls are having a slightly better time, and that drives her wild. Mrs. Marshbanks, Fran, was speaking of it just a few minutes ago, and saying what fools girls are!"

"Oh, girls are fools all right," Cherry agreed meekly, and as the man laughed she laughed too.

"Mr. Coates," old Mrs. Porter said, breaking into the conversation and leaning across Cherry to catch his attention.

"Frances has promised to bring Amy to dine with me two weeks from Thursday, and I want you to come too."

"I'm a dead loss at dinners," Kelly said, laughing. "You'll never ask me again."

"Well, we'll see about that," said the old lady, in high feather. "But you come, now! My nephew George's daughter, Dorothy Page-Smith, is going to be here—comin' up with her mother from Santa Barbara, where they tell me she's been breakin' all hearts, and I want her to meet Amy and some of the other youngsters."

"Jud may not be here; he gets back from Portland tonight," Fran said, "but he may have to go right back again. So Mr. Coates will squire me. I'll guarantee him."

"And you tell Mrs. Dickson to get Mary Trainor and Lizzie Block on that committee!" Mrs. Porter adjured her vigorously.

"I will. I've not been going to the meetings, more shame to me," said Fran, "but I'm going tomorrow and I'll do what I can."

"And you tell 'em Cherry'll send them my check for two hundred."

"I'll tell them." Fran did not say anything about the generous size of the donation. And Cherry fancied that her employer looked just a little dashed and disappointed as the riders centered away on the bridle path again.

"We none of us understood," Mrs. Porter said then, in her sweet, wistful voice, "why Judson Marshbanks married Frances Unger—she's a very brilliant girl, but I don't think she's pretty, and she's twenty-two years younger than he is. Seems so strange!"

This was as near as Cherry ever had heard her come to criticism or unkindness, and she smiled at her interrogatively.

"That doesn't sound like you, Mrs. Porter," she said, with the simple daring that she knew well the old woman liked. "You always say such nice things about everyone."

"Well, I hope I always do, my dear, but somehow that girl always does seem to me outlandish. And I loved his first wife, Mary Lee Carey. She died—oh, ten years ago. Her mother was Sophy Laquelle, French family here—lovely people."

Mrs. Porter's proposed dinner party for a chosen dozen of the debutantes took on an increasing importance as the days went by, and, by the debutantes' mothers and families, was by degrees developed into a much larger affair. It was a long time—perhaps twenty or twenty-five years—since entertaining on a large scale had taken place in the old Glashell mansion, and the newspapers made much of it, and many were the friendly offers of assistance to Cherry's employer as the plan got daily under way.

The original twelve girls swelled to a score, to thirty, for there were many who must not be forgotten, and at least forty eligible young men were asked to join them. Then certain favored and intimate elders were included to save the hostess the least effort, and in no time at all caterers had come in to set tables and decorate them and prepare a sumptuous meal for one hundred guests; florists arrived with palms and ropes of chrysanthemums; newspapermen and photographers gave the house no rest; a five piece orchestra was engaged, and Mrs. Porter remained in bed all day, getting herself completely rested and ready.

To Cherry's eagerness and inexperience and hunger for excitement all this was satisfying beyond words. She was everywhere; she helped with everything.

In the midst of the flurry the guest of honor, Dorothy Page-Smith, arrived with a formidable mother as escort, and took possession of one of the big rooms on the second floor. This alone would have supplied Cherry with pleasureable interest, for Dorothy was a harmless, indeed a seemingly half-witted little creature who turned to Cherry at once as being the only other person of anything like her age in the house, and in a babyish lisp consulted her about her gowns, her hair arrangement, her beaux and the possibility of her having anything but a "wotten" time in a place where she just didn't know one "thingie thole."

The day of the party was overcast with a cold rain spattering down.

At seven o'clock, trim and demure in her blue dress with the silver buttons, Cherry went into Mrs. Porter's bedroom to find Emma and Ferny busily getting the old lady into a magnificent robe of silver-and-blue brocade, decorating the beautiful curls of her rich white hair with diamond butterflies and preparing her with a preliminary cup of tea and chicken sandwich for the evening's frivolities.

She had at first planned to go downstairs tonight, to be installed majestically in some great chair, to welcome her guests herself. But this seemed at the last moment too great an effort.

4-H GIRLS VIE FOR ALL-ROUND RECORDS

Making the Final Drive for Most Coveted Objectives

More than 200,000 4-H girls in this and 41 other States are now making the final drive to achieve one of the most coveted objectives in club work—that of being chosen as the outstanding all-around girl clubster in their county, state, and nation. To gain one or all of these goals, they are participating in the National 4-H Girl's Record contest, in which superior achievements in home economics projects and activities are also rewarded by Montgomery Ward in the form of medals, trips, and college scholarships.

That participants in this annual contest have well-rounded 4-H records is reflected in the achievements of previous winners. Their records show that they know how to keep healthy, improve their room, renovate old clothes into "new" and becoming garments, prepare and serve nutritious meals, keep house, can foods, raise gardens, beautify home surroundings, handle poultry and livestock, exhibit, demonstrate, and judge, as well as take active part in community life.

County winners receive gold medals, recipients of state honors are awarded all-expense trips to the 21st National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, Nov. 29-Dec. 2, and national winners are presented with a $200 college scholarship each. This is the twentieth anniversary of Montgomery Ward's support in furthering 4-H club work in cooperation with the Extension Service.

The Federal Trade commission estimated that lower chain store prices save consumers 8 to 10 per cent on their purchases.

A Few Questions to Ask The Printing Peddler!

When the peddler selling stationery and printed supplies solicits your business there are a few questions which he should be willing to answer to your satisfaction. Among them being:

? ? ? ?

Does he pay taxes in this community?

Does he donate space in his newspaper to your local community enterprises?

Does he pay wages to a force of employees located in this city, county or state?

Does his newspaper devote its entire space toward the betterment and upbuilding of this community?

Does he grant you every favor that you would ordinarily ask of a local newspaper?

Does the quality of his merchandise stand inspection—is it a quality paper stock, and is the printed matter attractively arranged?

Will he submit proof of your work before finishing and mail it to you C. O. D.?

Does his price include postage and insurance charges?

Can he supply your orders on short notice?

If he can answer all of these questions in the affirmative, he is entitled to your business. . . . If not, consult—

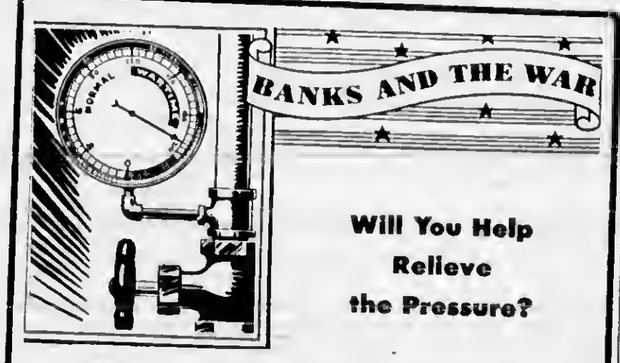
We are qualified to answer "YES" to each question!



Will You Help Relieve the Pressure?

THE vital bank functions of protecting, collecting, paying and transferring funds have been intensified greatly by the war. At the same time such patriotic activities as selling war bonds have increased the pressure on bank personnel. You can help relieve this pressure by banking in "off" hours, such as the morning, and if possible on non-rush days. You can help by making out your own deposit slips, by endorsing all items carefully and correctly before depositing and by banking by mail. We shall be glad to discuss any of these points with you.

1942 DEER SEASON WILL OPEN SUNDAY

EXPECT FEWER HUNTERS BECAUSE OF WAR

Pending the Gasoline Rationing, Ammunition Scarcity Facing Nimrods; Deer Plentiful

Michigan's first World War II deer hunting season opens Sunday, November 15.

With wartime conditions making transportation the primary consideration, and a scarcity of ammunition for more popular calibers of high-powered rifles a stark reality, what portion of last year's army of 226,000 hunters will invade the big woods this season can only be mere speculation.

Rumors that conservation department officials might "freeze" the season to prevent war workers from leaving their jobs were spiked Saturday by C. J. Hoffmaster, state conservation director, who said: "There are no provisions for closing or freezing the season, as is rumored about, and we don't believe it necessary anyway. However, we do believe the production of materials and instruments of war should come first at this time."

Hoffmaster, who estimated approximately 60,000 war workers would be involved, suggested that persons planning on hunting, work out an alternating arrangement with their co-workers to "keep the plants running."

Regulations will be back to the 1941 status with elimination of the doe for camp law. One buck deer with 3-inch antlers is the legal quarry for individuals and a party of four may kill a buck for camp meat on a special camp license. The license fee is $2.25 as usual.

The trek to the north woods will get under way on Thursday of this week and the usual Charlevoix contingent will be included.

Chain stores spend $25,400,000 annually in Michigan for freight and trucking services, fuel, electricity, repairs and other local services.

OLMSTED HEADS SCENIC TRAILS

RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT OF COUNCIL LAST WEEK

High Light of Meeting Address of Judge Parm C. Gilbert of Traverse City

George E. Olmstead, Treasurer of the Michigan Public Service Company of Traverse City was re-elected president of the Scenic Trails Council, Boy Scouts of America, at their annual meeting held last week in the council office at Traverse City. Other officers re-elected were: George W. John, Petoskey, Vice President, Howard Shirley, Manistee, Council Treasurer, and W. E. Baker, Mesick, Council Commissioner.

Reports were made by various officers of the council after a keynote address by W. Waldo Shover, deputy regional executive of Chicago. In his address, Mr. Shaver outlined the task facing the Boy Scouts of America during war times. He also outlined briefly the story of the Scenic Trails Council and the progress of the council to date.

The high light of the evening's program was an address by Circuit Court Judge Parm C. Gilbert. Judge Gilbert spoke on the responsibilities of the men who serve in Scouting, under present conditions. At the conclusion of his address, Judge Gilbert presented the award of the Silver Beaver to Hugh J. Johnston of Traverse City and Howard Trapp of Benzonia. The Silver Beaver award is the highest award which can be made to any man in Scouting for outstanding service. Hugh Johnston has served for over thirty years with the Boy Scouts of America and was the first president of the Scenic Trails Council. Mr. Trapp has served continuously for eight years as scoutmaster of Troop 42, Benzonia.

GOV. VAN WAGONER EXPRESSES SURPRISE

Avers "Change of Hat" Cause of His Defeat

Governor Van Wagoner was back at his desk in the executive office Wednesday, plainly disappointed over his defeat by Harry F. Kelly, but still joking with newspaper men.

Surrounded by party leaders and a few of the state candidates who had gone down in defeat with him, the governor said he thought he had made only one serious mistake during the campaign.

"I changed hats," he said.

During the campaign a battered hat which had been his good luck charm since he first ran for state highway commissioner in 1933 became so worn out that he switched to a new one.

"I haven't any plans for the future," Van Wagoner said. "I thought I was going to win, so I hadn't made any plans."

He said his defeat had come as a complete surprise to him. The governor said he thought he had conducted a clean campaign, and had a clear conscience in losing. He said he had no intention of retiring from public life.

It was the first time in the memory of capitol veterans that a defeated governor had returned to his desk the morning after losing an election.

VOLUNTEER WORKERS ARE RED CROSS NEED

Help Wanted in Surgical Dressings Project at City Hall

The Red Cross room in the city hall will not be open this Thursday, it was announced today by Mrs. F. F. McMillan, director of the surgical dressings program.

Next week the room will operate on the usual schedule, Monday through Thursday, from 2 to 5 p. m. and 7:30 to 9:30 p. m.

A fine response has been made by local women to the Red Cross chapter's call for help in turning out thousands of surgical dressings, but volunteer workers are still urgently needed. Anyone who can devote even a short period of time to the work is asked to help.

LEGION FEATHER PARTY SET FOR NOVEMBER 24

The American Legion's annual feather party is scheduled for Tuesday, November 24, at the Legion hall. Proceeds of the event are to be turned over to the Charlevoix Service Organization.

A recent survey made by the National Tuberculosis Association showed that 46 per cent of the people still hold the mistaken belief that tuberculosis is inherited. No baby is born with tuberculosis. The disease is spread by germs from the sick to the well.

Tuberculosis is the seventh cause of death in the United States. In 1912 it was the first cause. Even today it is the leading cause of death of persons between 15 and 45 years of age.

MARSH ANIMALS ARE PLENTIFUL

ONLY MICHIGAN RESIDENTS ALLOWED TO TRAP

Waste of Fur Crop Threatened by Labor Shortage—Furs Bring Good Price

Michigan's big 1942 crop of wild fur-bearers, like the crops of orchard fruits and sugar beets, is in danger of incomplete harvesting because of the current labor shortage, according to observations of the conservation department's game men.

Where a year ago the department warned trappers against overtrapping the marshes, the game men now are concerned over possible waste in a bumper crop, particularly of muskrats and mink. These marsh animals have been so favored by the wet season that trapping prospects now appear as good as in 1938, when more than 1,000,000 'rats were taken.

This year many of the regular trappers who are neither in military service nor war industry are too busy with other work to tend traplines, and others will not have the tires and gasoline needed for the travel involved.

Only Michigan residents are allowed to trap, and the fee is modest: $1 for the first 20 traps and 10 cents for each additional trap. Less than $10 will equip a trapper for a season's operations, and no shortage has yet been reported in the supply of traps, even of the better "stop-loss" traps.

Trappers in the field will have no difficulty in disposing of their furs at good prices. Normally the Michigan wild fur harvest approximates $2,000,000 annually.

MAIL CHRISTMAS GIFTS EARLIER

Postoffice Department Warning to Public in General

From the St. Louis Leader is reprinted this plea from Postmaster General Walker.

Postmaster General Frank Walker asked this week that Christmas cards and gifts be mailed at least 20 to 25 days before Christmas.

Reporting indications that Christmas mailings would be the heaviest in many years, Walker said in a statement that an acute shortage of personnel, lack of trucks and other equipment, and irregular train service would "tax to the utmost the ingenuity, the resourcefulness and the ability" of every postal employee.

The season for domestic Christmas mail begins Dec. 1, he said.

A Peoria, Ill., plant salvaged 11,420 pounds of scrap rubber, enough for the rubber content of 4 flying fortresses or of 2,855 gas masks.

IRONTON NEWS

The Ladies Aid will meet Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Ross Alexander. You are all invited.

Charles Dean, of Pontiac, Mrs. Bertha Sanford and son, Billy, of Northville, spent the past week and at the Datus Dean home. Mrs. F. Dean returned with them and will spend the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Alta Wilson, in Port Huron.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Howe, of Wayne, spent several days the past week with his father, Phil Howe, at Sequanota. They were also guests of other local relatives and friends. Elliot expects to leave for Camp Custer the last of the month.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Brown were called to the home of their sister, Mrs. Warner, of Norwood, Friday on account of the serious illness of Mr. Brown's mother, Mrs. Baldwin.

Albert Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marian Jackson, is now stationed in New Guinea. In his last letter, he said the weather was hot, he had lost several pounds but every thing was all right. We are always glad to know that our boys are all well and happy.

Dorothy Howe is spending the winter with relatives in Wisconsin.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wolfe and family have moved to Detroit where Mr. Wolfe has been employed several months.

Sam King and "Hap" Cunningham left Sunday for Detroit where they will be employed this winter.

The Alexander family spent Sunday at the H. L. Barnum home in Lake City.

The first aid classes will start Friday evening in the school house with Mrs. Pete Bennett as instructor. Everyone is urged to join and be one of us.

ROCK ELM

The present storm must be the one the geese came last week to warn us was approaching. Here is hoping it will be of short duration.

Lawrence Jensen received his shipment of young cherry trees Saturday which he hopes to set yet this fall.

Notice in last Michigan Farmer that commissioner of agriculture, Lee V. Card, warns that milk rationing is a possibility for the American people because too many farmers are selling all or part of their herds because they are unable to get needed help. Noticed also in the same issue twelve ads, mostly for help on dairy farms and only two by men who wanted farm work. If food is to win this war, some men will have to be sent back to the farms.

EDNA WARNER WEDS RUSSELL BARNETT IN CEREMONY SATURDAY

Miss Edna Marie Warner and Gerald Barnett, both of Dearborn, were united in marriage Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Methodist parsonage in East Jordan, Rev. J. C. Matthews officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Warner, of Charlevoix, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Barnett, of East Jordan.

Attendants to the couple were Miss Peggy McGhan, of Charlevoix, and Joseph Lilak, of East Jordan.

The bride wore a street length dress of soldier blue crepe, with short sleeves and V-neck. With this she wore black accessories and a corsage of pink roses and sweetpeas. Miss McGhan's dress was sheer gold wool, made princess style, with brown accessories and corsage of yellow roses and sweetpeas.

A wedding dinner for the bridal party and relatives was held at 5 o'clock at the home of the groom's parents in East Jordan.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnett will make their home at 2212 South Telegraph road, Dearborn.

The bride is a graduate of Charlevoix high school, while the groom graduated from East Jordan high school.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS
By B. C. Mellencamp

Manure Saved Sows Fertilizer

Fertilizer shortages possible in 1943 can be overcome to some extent on many Michigan farms by wise conserving of livestock manure.

Four rules offered by County Agricultural Agent, B. C. Mellencamp, suggest:

1. Use bedding material or litter that will not only keep stock clean but will also conserve manure values. Good litter should absorb liquids, remain well in place, and not be dusty or excessively coarse.

2. Provide flooring that will save the liquid part of the manure—if possible. The Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station has calculated that savings from using concrete floors in two feeding periods of six months each were enough to pay for the floor.

3. Compact the manure to exclude air. The easiest way to do this is to let the animals tramp it down.

4. See that manure piles if not covered are high and narrow and protected on the sides. Access of air inside the pile results in excessive heating and loss of organic matter and nitrogen.

Fertilizer values of manure, of outstanding importance during wartime, are not its only benefits. Manure use also adds humus to the soil and improves tilth, water-holding capacity, aeration, temperature relations, and activity of microorganisms. Long time benefits are thus predicted for American farmers who learn from wartime shortages to conserve manure value.

The Charlevoix county "Victory Harvest" fair, staged at East Jordan, November 3rd, resulted in a fine display of agricultural products and a most enjoyable program.

The program of the evening was certainly the big feature of this event. Never before has an audience shown their appreciation and displayed more enthusiasm than did this group. First of all the program developed was of a highly informal nature and consisted of musical numbers by students in East Jordan, Boyne City and Boyne Falls high schools. Also the East Jordan and Boyne Falls high schools put on very interesting short plays which captivated the audience. Special commendation should be made to Mr. Fisher and Mr. Reynolds of Boyne Falls, Mr. Wolfe and Miss McMartin of Boyne City and to Mrs. Ann Reynolds and Miss Fauvette Johnson of East Jordan high school for developing the plays put on. Altogether the evening was very pleasing and full of fun and a refreshing newness that the audience enjoyed to the utmost.

The Boyne Falls high school play was of a patriotic nature and showed the effect of downright American spirit in overcoming the deviltry of autocracy. The East Jordan high school play was a farm scene including the home and the barn—with most of the activity taking place in the barn. Perhaps the funniest character was the lad who came from the city to take the place of the son drafted into the army. His antics tickled the audience. However, the musical numbers put on by all three schools were excellent. Special mention should be given all participants for their tremendous efforts.

The payment of the premiums to exhibitors was made possible through the generous cooperation of the following East Jordan business houses: State Bank of East Jordan, East Jordan Canning Co., The East Jordan Co-operative, The Jordan Valley Co-operative Creamery, and the East Jordan Iron Works. The judges who very kindly gave their services were Howard Bedell of Boyne City, who judged the fruit; Mrs. John Smith, East Jordan, who judged the Home Economics exhibits and Roscoe Flynn of Mancelona, who judged the crops. These people did an excellent piece of work.

The fair with its program was made a success because of the cooperation of B. C. Mellencamp, County Agr'l Agent, the East Jordan high school F. F. A. advised by L. B. Karr, Agricultural Instructor, Lester Walcutt and Mrs. Leatha Larsen, prominent 4-H club leaders at East Jordan. All cooperated very nicely to make the fair a success.

The following are the first place winners in the various classes: Harry Behling, Boyne City, two first places in potatoes; Vernon Vance in Corn; George Ferris, East Jordan in Beans. Raynor Olstrom, East Jordan in 4-H potatoes, Robert Behling, Boyne City, and Barton Vance, East Jordan in Smith-Hughes potatoes. In Apples, Eveline Orchards won all places showing six plates and 8 bushels. In Canning, Cenevieve Barnett, Maxine Lord, Luella Reich, and Arliss Thompson, East Jordan, were in the blue ribbon group. In 4-H Canning, Annalee Nichols, Margie Nachazel, Shirley and Patricia Sinclair, Gladys Larsen and Jean Dennis, East Jordan were in the blue ribbon group. Blue Ribbon Group Winners in the Baking project were Annalee Whiteford, Margie Nachazel and Donna Jean Holland, East Jordan; in the muffins, Vida Stallard, East Jordan, and Marvel Crowe, Boyne City in the Pie project; and Irene McCary, Boyne City and Evelina Thomas, East Jordan in the Cake project.

F. S. A. BULLETIN

A six-point wartime food production and marketing program, ordered by the National Food Requirements Committee, is being put into work immediately by the Farm Security Administration in Charlevoix county, Robert W. Ries, FSA supervisor, announced last week.

The program, contained in a directive from secretary of agriculture, Claude R. Wickard, who is also chairman of the National Food Requirements Committee, charges the FSA with the responsibility of bringing into full production the "land, labor and resources of the small farm operators who, with the aid of Farm Security, will be able to achieve their maximum output of food and fiber."

"The job ahead, as outlined in Secretary Wickard's directive, is to make the best use of man power, land and equipment to produce and market the food that is vital to victory. Farm Security will encourage small farmers who can get credit through normal channels to do so, in order that the financing job we and other federal agencies do will make the greatest possible contribution to the production of food," Mr. Ries said.

Secretary Wickard, in his directive to the FSA, said, "There is no question that those who can produce more will produce more. There is a serious question, however, whether a great part of our farmers, a third or more of them, can bring their labor into full use and their land into full production through their own unaided efforts.

"This Nation cannot produce too much of the food needed to win this war. The needs of the United Nations today are in many cases already greater than the available supply. With adequate organization and effort we can meet this vast demand!"

The growing importance of the small farmer in producing the Nation's food requirements is indicated in the secretary's request that the Farm Security Administration advise him of any measures necessary to strengthen or broaden FSA's efforts in carrying out the wartime program as directed.

"95 FSA families in Charlevoix county have greatly increased their production this year by improved farm and home management practices, including more home produced food and better feeding of livestock, supervisor Ries said. "Secretary Wickard is calling upon all farmers to increase our Nations supply of foodstuffs. The example set in Charlevoix county by families cooperating with the FSA program is indicative of what small operators can accomplish with adequate credit and helpful planning provided by FSA."

10 RULES OF GUN SAFETY

In spite of the advice handed out each hunting season on how to keep out of danger and how to protect others who may be hunting, accidents, fatal or nearly so, continue to be a part of the annual news at this time of the year. Here is a list of 10 commandments of safety which cannot be exhibited too often:

1. Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun. This is the cardinal rule of gun safety.

2. Carry only empty guns, taken down or with the action open, into your automobile, camp and home.

3. Always be sure the barrel and action are clear of obstructions.

4. Always carry your gun so you can control the direction of the muzzle even if you stumble.

5. Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger.

6. Never point a gun at anything you do not want to shoot.

7. Never leave your gun unattended unless you unload it first.

8. Never climb a tree or a fence with a loaded gun.

9. Never shoot at a flat, hard surface or the surface of water.

10. Do not mix gunpowder and alcohol.

If you check over the various accidents reported in all sections of the country you will find virtually every one of them happened because someone did not observe one of these commandments of safety.

FROM THE GARDEN CLUB

Late fall is the time to plant bulbs. The practice of surrounding bulbs with a layer of sand is an excellent one. The sand provides extra drainage and protects the bulbs against worms and injurious insects. The use of manure with bulbs is very dangerous. Bone meal, wood ashes and commercial superphosphates are the best fertilizers for bulbs.

Most bulbs require a depth equal to three times their own height. When planting the bulb make sure that the hole is of a shape and size to allow the soil to be firmly packed around the bulb so as to fill in all air spaces. A mulch of peat moss, leaves or marsh hay is usually provided to prevent heaving in the spring. The mulch is usually applied after the ground is frozen to prevent the possibility of rodents using the mulch for shelter and the bulbs for food. One must be very careful not to remove the mulch too early in the spring as frost plays havoc with the tender new shoots. Only actual experience in each individual garden can determine when the protective blanket should be removed.

Since advent of the New Deal which hastened the development of sacial legislotion at Washington such as unemplayment compensation and old age pensions, the state has gane Republican for two years and then Democratic for the next two.

Wilbur M. Brucker was the first victim of the Democratic upset in 1932. Every governor from that day on has held office for two years—and no more!

Here is the procession, just to refreshen your memory:

1930—Wilbur M. Brucker, Republican. 1932—William A. Comstock, Democrat. 1934—Frank D. Fitzgerald, Republican. 1936—Frank Murphy, Democrat. 1938—Frank D. Fitzgerald, Republican. 1940—Murray D. Van Wagoner, Democrat. 1942—Harry F. Kelly, Republican.

Why have the voters switched favors so consistently, as the above record bears aut?

Fram a state considered in the past to be Republican, Michigan has beenme fighting graund for both partles every ather year with better than even chances of victory for the apposition.

These have been times of depression—ups and downs in employment. They have been yenrs of lsbor unrest—strikes, sitdowns, organization ferment. Farm prices have heen low.

Michigan, once an ugricultural state, is now heavily industrial. Security through governmental action has been replocing security through individual initiative. Mare and more centralized contral at Lansing und Washington has heen the trend. More hureaus, more employees and higher payrolls huve followed each administration, almost regardless of party, during these years of economic and social turmail.

Why did the voters swing the pendulum once again in Michigan?

Your guess is just as good as ours. Last Mnrch we uppruised the trend as follows:

"If the fall elections were to be held today, many Michigan office-holders would be buried in a landslide protest. Right or wrong, the mnn on the street is pretty mad today. He is mad about the way the war is going. He is mad about labor's insistence af double pay for Sundny work, while the government asks him to buy bonds cheerfully and to pay more taxes. He is mad abaut a 40-hour week, while his son serves in the urmy for $21 a month."

It was our observation eight months ogo that "voters usually da the irrational thing when they are in a mood to kick someone in the pants—whether the fault lies at Washington or at home."

Again in eorly August we sized up public apinion as follows:

"The key to the 1942 primsry and election, will be the war. If tha war is going budly as it is today, watch out! If the tide turns, voters will be more cheerful, less in a mood to kick someone in the pants. . . . Generally speaking, 1942 is nlready tagged on 'emotional year'."

We hnve an affectionate regard ond respect for both Murray D. Van Wagoner and Harry F. Kelly.

But we still believe the vote in November was influenced chiefly by upset emotions of muny Amercans wha don't like the woy the war is going.

Looking for someone to kick in the pants, they found Governor Vnn Wagoner within bullot-box reach.

Will the voters again swing over to an opposition condidate in 1944? Based upnn contemporary history, the chances are seven to one that they will.

We offer one final observation. Harry F. Kelly upset one precedent in 1942. He may do it again in 1944.

AAA PROGRAM IN CHARLEVOIX COUNTY

Wickard Advises Ways for Eaters to Help Victory

"Victory eaters" is a new phrase in the Nation's wartime dictionary. It applies to people who follow Secretary of Agriculture Wickard's advice and gear their eating habits to wartime needs. "Victory eaters," for example, eat fresh foods whenever possible, because it is bud wartime economy to eat food out of cans when fresh foods are avoiluble, ond when there are shortngos of tin, os is the cose now.

The secretary gives four suggestions as to how Americans con help win the war at the dinner table:

1. Watch for Victary Food Specials. When you see the "Victory Food Special" sign in a market or store, go in and buy as much of the "Speciol" os your family con conveniently consume. Sometimes seasonal surpluses of these products overcrowd processing facilities and must be consumed before they spail.

2. Eat Cheese as an Alternative for Meat. If we eat more of this muscle-building food, it will help make more meat and other foods available to our fighting men and our Allies. Because of its protein content, cheeso is a substituto for meat.

3. Use All the Flour You Can. Wheat is so abundant that it is overflowing urgently-needed storage space. Don't forget that enriched breod and flour hove body building elements that you didn't get from white bread and flour in the past.

4. Give Fresh Meats Preference Over the Cured Types. Especially During the Winter Months. Right now one of the greatest problems is that of getting our bumper crop of hogs slaughtered and converted inta the various pork products to be shipped abraad. The packers can put on extra shifts to slaughter pigs, hut the cooling and curing facilities can't be hurried up.

It's patriotic to eat apples these days because, by eating more and maro fresh fruits and vegetables, we are better able to release processed, packaged foods that are needed by the men in the armed forces.

Throw your scrap into the fight.

LETTERS from the ARMY CAMPS

Dear Ken,

Have moved again, sa thought I would drop you a few lines about the, new camp and country here.

Our outfit, the quartermaster, came out here from Colorado to take over this camp which has been a Jap relocation center up until now. The last one out of about 6,000 Japs was sent ta Arkansas today. We maved into the quarters they abandoned yesterday and it seems that the government has been treating them quite well. The center that we moved into had a swimming pool, dental and medical clinic, and a mess hall that is as good os the ones we huve in the ormy.

Wns talking to a fellow in the chow line taday from Michigan, and faund aut thut Gordon Bartlett had been here a couple of weeks before we came in, but hud been transferred to different autfit about 100 miles from here. I have been attached to his old compuny, the 888th Ord. Co.

There is an nrange grove next to the post, so I have been getting my share af the frnit. Might be persuaded to send n box up to you around the 15th of Nov. in exchange far n nice haunch of venison.

As ever,
Pfc Bernard J. Foster.

Dear Ken,

Just a line to let you know I have been moved again and will be here for some time at a technical schaol.

This is a wonderful plsce snd I like it so far. It is so wnrm that my clothes are wet with sweat. Even at Camp Barkeley, 250 miles north, it was quite chilly.

Hello Ken,

I just hnve to write you again to opalogize for my stupidity concerning my last letter. I mentioned a few of the boys that are with us from Charlevaix, ond in doing so forgot a few more. At present we have with us from Charlevoix, Ed Radle, Carl Smith, Dove Motchett, Orin Sutton, Russell Guild, and Frank Pop. They all send their regurds and told me to ask you to arrange to hove the army and navy bands ta greet us shortly, with the key ta the back door of the soup line—because it won't be lang now.

We heard some news last night that interested us, but as yet haven't been able to find out whether it's facts or rumors. The news was that the Cardinals had won three of the first four world series games from the Yanks. That's the kind of news we like to hear.

This seems like a good time to thank the St. Mory's church for their five dollar money order I received, while in Australin, for that popularity contest—that is if you publish this. Also a good time to say hello to a few of my friends, such as Fred Cartier, my former, and future (I hope) boss. The boys at Ike's station and their cokes—I wish I had one here. Art Fagon—everyone's friend; Jack Withers, my old mnneuver bunky; and I can't forget Eva Scott and Pete, Min, Gearge Glados, Jim Wyers or Bill Kerns. There are many more but a hello to all will cover them.

I received a letter from Bobbie Pearl just before we left Australia. He gat my oddress thraugh that letter you put in the Courier.

Regards to all,
Sgt. Rab Heise

Better put Bill Supernaw on thot list of "hello's" tao.

MICHIGAN COUNCIL OF DEFENSE

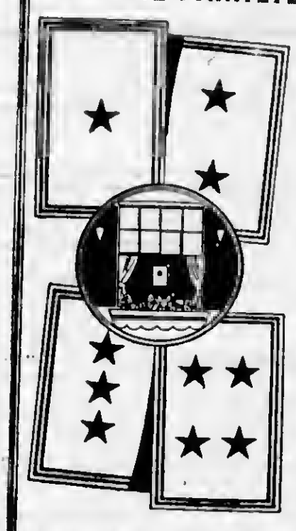
FREE SERVICE STAR CARDS FOR THE FAMILIES OF SERVICE MEN



This Service Star window card should be seen in every home in America that is represented by a father, husband, son or brother in the Armed Forces of the United States. It emphasizes America's pride in those who are serving our country in time of war.

BLUE, SILVER OR GOLD

The Blue Star indicates service in the Army, Navy or Marine Corps within the boundaries of the United States.

The Silver Star denotes service outside the continental United States, either on the high seas, in the United States possessions, or on foreign soil.

The Gold Star is America's tribute to those who make the supreme sacrifice under the Stars and Stripes in time of war.

You are entitled to display the proper star for each member of your family serving in the Armed Farces of the United States of America. For example, if you are the parent of one boy in camp in the U.S.A., you are entitled to one Blue Star. If you have two sons in service—one in the U.S.A. and one outside the U.S.A.—you are entitled to a Service Star card bearing one Blue Star and one Silver Star.

Produced in Red, White and Blue
Actual size 6 inches x 9¼ inches.

cently near Torch lake. The wonders of this Northland of ours never cease, says I.

Judging from numerous complaints of poultry losses and the alarming scarcity of rabbits and partridge in the west portion of the county, particularly, the fox situation has become serious. Farmers in most any direction from Charlevoix are reporting forays by fox on their chicken and turkey flocks. Any hunter knows this region has never been so denuded of rabbits and partridge flocks, numerous and widespread two years ago, are almost non-existent. Antrim supervisors have met the situation by offering a $3 bounty on each wild fox killed in the county. This action, it seems, would be a good one for other counties, including Charlevoix, to follow.

Yap, I'm going back hunting. What with the meat scarcity, and everything, I've got to get results this year or I won't dare to come back home. Have already cut a good, heavy crotched stick to steady my aim and there's no foolin' this time. And to you other fellas—don't forget to take along enough gas to get home on.

If we had all the gas that some politicians used on as before election, there'd be no need at all for rationing it.

Tsh. Tsh. Here a fellow just gets used to coffee without sugar and then they ration coffee.

Which reminds me of the preacher who walked into a local tovern in the course of his welfare work and ordered a glass of milk. By mistake, he was served milk punch. After drinking it to the last drop, the preacher lifted his eyes upward and was heard to say: "Oh, Lord, what a cow."

Greetings to Thomas Olsen, of Chicago, a Courier reader, who last summer dropped in for information on a desirable bicycle trip in the upper peninsula. He says: "Thanks for your advice last summer about our vacation trip to Newberry, Seney and other points in upper Michigan. We saw the beautiful Tahquamenon Falls and got as far as Marquette on our bicycles. A lovely trip, indeed." We'll be awaiting your next trip to Charlevoix, Mr. Olsen.

CALVIN SUPERNAW, 95 SUCCUMBED THURSDAY

City's Oldest Resident Was Active Until His Death

Calvin Supernaw, 95, pioneer resident of this region, died last Thursday evening at the Jack Gallagher residence on State street, where he made his home. He was believed to be the city's oldest resident.

Although in failing health for some time, Mr. Supernaw was active until he was suddenly stricken. For years he had never missed a day of visiting in the city's business district, and had voted Tuesday.

Born September 8, 1847, in Ellenburg, N. Y., he lived there during his youth. In 1867 he married Pauline LaBarre and about 62 years ago they came to Atwood to make their home. Leaving the Atwood farm 21 years ago, Mr. Supernaw had since resided in Charlevoix. Mrs. Supernaw died in October, 1926.

Surviving are a son, Frank Supernaw, of Charlevoix, the only one of a family of twelve children; a brother, Dolphas Supernaw, of Flint; four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren; also Lynn Sheldon, of Flint, a nephew who made his home with the family for many years.

Funeral services were held at 9:30 o'clock Monday morning at St. Mary's church, Fr. John W. Collins officiating. Interment was at the Catholic cemetery.

VICTORY AUCTION WAS HELD LAST WEDNESDAY

The victory auction held last Wednesday night at St. Mary's recreation center resulted in donations of $14.20 to the Charlevoix Service Organization, and war stamp sales of $24.10. Fr. John W. Collins won the grand prize at the Wednesday night party, and contributed it, along with another smaller prize, to the CSO. His donation amounted to $28.75.

Annual advertising expenditures of Michigan chain stores amount to $6,500,000.

COURIER CHANGED HANDS LAST WEEK

Detroit Newspaper Men Acquire Interests of Usher & Usher

The Charlevoix Courier, formerly owned and operated by Usher & Usher, a co-partnership consisting of A. J. Usher, as manager, and Ella M. Usher, have sold their interests to Jerry F. Scudder and James A. Garrison, of Detroit. The present owners have taken over as of November 2, 1942.

The former owners of the Courier, A. J. Usher and members of the DuBois family, are retiring after over 35 years of continuous business.

On October 1, 1907, they purchased the Courier from W. E. Hampton, now of Ann Arbor. At that time the plant was located in the basement under the old post-office block. They continued the business at this location for about two years, when the plant was moved into the building now occupied by the Maxbauer Creamery, at the west end of what is known as Van Pelt place. Business was continued at this location from 1910 to about 1920, when they moved to the two-story building now identified as the Lewis block, occupying the entire first floor. This location was continued until April 12, 1941, when partial destruction of the plant and building by fire necessitated providing new quarters. The result was the erection of the modern brick building at 101 Clinton street which now houses the Courier.

Under the business management of A. J. Usher, the Courier has carried on through these years. Mr. Scudder reports that, upon retirement, Mr. Usher expressed himself by saying: "Charlevoix is the best town in Michigan, as I see it. Not only as a place in which to live, but as a community of higher citizenship, good fellowship and loyalty among our neighbors," with which the new publishers heartily agree.

Continuing, Mr. Usher requested: "I wish you would express for us, our sincere appreciation for the cooperation of Charlevoix business interests and to the 1,300 readers of the Courier. Any success in the business is due directly to the loyal support and cooperation of these associations."

Mr. and Mrs. Usher will continue their residence here indefinitely. The change in ownership was due to failing health and inability of Mr. Usher to carry on the business.

BROWN BLAMES WAR RATIONING

Defeated Senator Said Restrictions Beat Him In Recent Election

Sen. Prentiss M. Brown, one of the administration's leaders in the U. S. senate, blames his defeat chiefly upon wartime restrictions placed upon the public within the last few months.

"Unquestionably," he said, "the restrictions we have had to place on the general public by way of rationing food, tires, gasoline and other commodities, the necessity of reaching into the family and taking sons into the army, the necessary strict governmental control of prices, wages, etc., have caused a feeling of resentment with many.

"I believe," Brown added, "this is the main reason for the losses we have suffered."

Brown and Gov. Murray D. Van Wagoner received pluralities of nearly 100,000 from populous Wayne county but were swept out of office by the out-state swing back to the Republican party.

Brown said the present election was not a repetition of the 1018 defeat of the Democratic party.

"The president can go forward with a house and senate controlled by his own party," he said. "This is best for the country".

NAVY DRIVE OFF TO FLYING START

ENLISTMENTS HIGH LAST WEEK OF OCTOBER

Campaign Opening November 7 Designed to Recruit 4,000 Men by December 7

Michigan's navy recruiting campaign to enlist at least 4,000 men got off to a flying start on Saturday, November 7, in Charlevoix and other cities throughout the state.

This is indicated by the fact that during the last week of October more Michigan men joined the navy than in any other corresponding seven-day period since the United States entered the war, according to Chief Turret Captain Albert J. Resler, recruiter in charge of the Traverse City navy recruiting station, American Legion hall.

Mayors of 60 communities throughout the state have proclaimed the period from November 7 to December 7 as Navy Recruiting Month in Michigan. Many business, civic and fraternal organizations have given the support necessary to success of the campaign.

Appreciation for this cooperation is expressed by Lieut. Byron E. Fletchner, officer in charge of navy recruiting for the lower peninsula of Michigan.

"The people of Michigan are already responding enthusiastically to the navy drive for 4,000 recruits," says Lieut. Fletchner, "and we members of the navy recruiting service in the state are grateful for the assistance which has been given us.

"With this aid, our drive promises to be highly successful. I urge all men from 17 to 50 years old, inclusive, to visit their nearest navy recruiting station to find out what the navy offers them."

The navy has great need for both trained and unskilled men. The unskilled may receive training in 49 different navy trades and specialties, while men skilled in many types of work are able to qualify for high-paying petty officer ratings as soon as they enlist.

These ratings pay as high as $126 per month, plus maintenance and generous monthly cash allowances for dependents.

NOTICE!

Due to the change in ownership of the Charlevoix Courier, all outstanding bills will be paid by the former owners, Usher & Usher.

All bills payable on or before November 1, 1942, are payable to the former owners.

Subscription accounts to be paid at the Courier office as heretofore.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

In celebration of her daughter, Janet's, fifth birthday anniversary, which occurred October 31, Mrs. Lottie Todd gave a party last Saturday afternoon for five little girls. Games and refreshments were enjoyed by the guests.

Mrs. Alfred Gill, Jr., was hostess Friday evening at a party for the tenth birthday anniversary of her daughter, Ann. Twenty-one guests played games, for which prizes were awarded to Janet Usher, Larry Peterson, Bruce Shanahan and Don Gill. In keeping with the red, white and blue motif of the refreshment table, the birthday cake was decorated with tiny flag pins which were given to the guests as favors.

Complimenting Mrs. Ira Smith, the former Miss Billie Meyer, a bridal shower was given Monday evening by Mrs. Louis Mosier and Mrs. Will Heise, at the Mosier home on Clinton street. Bunco was the evening's entertainment, for which Miss Anne Higman and Miss Roberta Seymour won prizes. Door prize was awarded to Miss Marie Klooster. The honored guest opened the beautiful gifts which she received from the fifteen guests present, after which refreshments were served.

Mrs. Glenn See entertained Friday afternoon with a party honoring the fourth birthday of her son, Glenn. Guests, who were Tony Ashdon, Kit Carson, Edward O'Neill, Bruce Fairbanks and Alvin Ranger, played games and later were served refreshments.

Mrs. Walker Miles entertained Tuesday evening with a surprise party for the tenth birthday anniversary of her daughter, Suzanne. Dinner was served to ten little girls and favors were given to the guests.

The Young Mothers Club met Tuesday evening with Mrs. Dan Geneit at her home on East Garfield avenue. Bridge was played, for which first prize went to Mrs. Bill Sapernaw. Refreshments were served late in the evening.

The Past Matrons club was entertained Monday evening at a 6:30 dinner at the home of Mrs. Glena See, for their regular monthly meeting. Mrs. Angus Fochtman led devotions. The hostess prize was awarded to Mrs. Robert Bonthron, and a social evening was enjoyed.

Departure Permits Apply to Trips Out of District

A previous notice published in the Courier regarding the movement of vessels between ports on the Great Lakes applies only to vessels leaving this area for other ports in other areas of the lakes.

This requirement of filing notice with the captain of the port, Charlevoix, does not apply to commercial fishermen in the performance of their business. Other craft, however, should notify the captain of the port of the time and date of departure in adequate time to receive a reply.

This is by order of the captain of the port, U. S. Coast Guard, Charlevoix, Michigan.

OPEN BASKETBALL SEASON NOV. 25TH

RAYDERS MEET GRAYLING IN INITIAL TILT

Three Votarans, Four Subs Among 26 Players Reporting First Practice Session

Charlevoix high school's 1942-43 basketball schedule opens Wednesday evening, November 25.

Grayling comes here for the initial tilt, a contest moved ahead from an original date of February 12 due to wartime restrictions on transportation of high school athletes. This change sets the Rayder schedule ahead one week, as the opening contest had been originally booked for December 4 at Petoskey.

In view of the early opening of the season, Coach Ray Kipke is putting candidates through heavy drills. Three veterans and four subs from last year's squad were among 26 candidates reporting for practice. The veterans include Don Carey, center; John Swanson, guard, and Ralph Mitchell, forward. Regular first team subs are Bill Rowe, Lester Gallagher, John Bissell and Robert Vrutinina. Also available are Jason Chambers, Don Beilinger, Bob Beify, Gene Bergmann and George Plum, members of last year's second team. With Carey, Swanson and Mitchell as the nucleous, Coach Kipke will likely build his squad around this group. Three regulars, Carl Rowe, Jack Stewart and Stan Shupton were lost by graduation last spring.

Other candidates reporting at the initial practice session included Don Brown, Howard Maaclay, Gordon Clement, Hubert and Vincent Olach, Junior Ward, Bill Graves, Jack Mol, Bernard Zeitler, Tony Gengle, Charles Bergmann, Versil Sheurer, Bill Poole and Edward Novotny.

Charlevoix's original schedule of 14 games has been reduced to 12 by the cancellation of Gaylord high school's two contests booked for December 15 and January 15. This cancelation is the first direct result of transportation difficulties. Local school officials pointed out that remaining games could only be considered tentative, depending almost entirely on the success of plans to utilize cars volunteered by individuals to transport athletes to out of town contests. School busses can no longer be used for this purpose.

LOCAL MAN IN NAVAL ACTION IN SOLOMONS

Leroy Plum Is Gunner on Cruiser San Francisco

Leroy Plum, son of Mrs. Helen Plum of this city, is in the thick of action in the Solomon Islands, according to news dispatches of last week.

He's a gunner on the cruiser San Francisco, which last Wednesday was damaged by a Japanese plane crashing onto her decks. Bringing down all but one of the 31 planes which attacked her, the ship lost 30 of her crew members when one plane landed in flames on the deck. One enemy plane returned to its base, say the official reports.

Mrs. Plum has not yet received word concerning her son's safety.

RECORD NUMBER INVADED BEAVER ISLAND

Report Thirty Bucks Killed on Island Up to Tuesday; License Sell-out in Charlevoix

Three local deer hunters have reported success as the 1942 season reached the mid-way point of the initial week.

Cover adjacent to Charlevoix produced two bucks the opening day, one killed by Lawrence McClanaghan on the Waller farm north of town, and a 210-pound 10-pointer bagged by Robert Santos, of Detroit, on the Supernaw farm near Norwood. Arthur Wexstaff killed a spike horn buck in the Hardwood lake district east of Vanderbilt. While other local hunters may have been successful, no reports have been received.

Reports from Beaver Island revealed 30 bucks had been taken up to late Tuesday. Last year 22 were killed the opening day, while this year's first-day bag was understood to be 12. The number of hunters on the island is believed to be approximately 150, double last year's total. Dr. Charles McCann, of Bay City, brought the first buck from St. James to the mainland.

Heavy concentration here of hunters enroute to Beaver Island resulted in a sell-out of licenses by local dealers. Staley Hardware and Wood Bros. exhuusted their supply late Saturday and had to appeal to conservation headquarters at Boyne City. The two agencies sold 230 licenses up to Saturday night. GAS RATIONING INSTRUCTIONS ISSUED BY WAR PRICE BOARD

DISPOSE OF SURPLUS TIRES IMMEDIATELY

Car Owners May Have Only Five for Each Car

Michigan passenger automobile owners have been urged by Arthur H. Sarvis, state director for the Office of Price Administration, to dispose of idle tires as quickly as possible so that they will have no more than the permissible five per car when they register for gasoline rationing.

Under the regulations, those who possess more than five tires when they register cannot obtain their ration book. Delay in surrendering the tires will also jam the pickup service of the Railway Express Agency to such an extent that considerable delay may be faced in getting rid of the tires.

All usable tires over the limit will be purchased by the Defense Supplies Corporation through the REA. Tires that cannot be repaired and are not in serviceable condition should be surrendered to a local scrap dealer or salvage committee.

If an applicant fails to get rid of his surplus tires by the time he registers for gasoline, he will be unable to procure a book until after rationing becomes effective.

RE-CAPS AVAILABLE COUNTY WAR WORKER

Have Tires Repaired Before They Wear Out Completely

War workers in Charlevoix county are reminded by Fenton R. Bulow, chairmon of the county war price and ration board, that they are eligible for re-capping of their present automobile tires, and are warned to have the re-capping done before tires become too badly worn.

A large quota of re-caps has been given the county for this month, for which no applications have as yet been made. If the delay has been caused by the fact that it is difficult to lay up cars for the time required to remove tires and ship them in for re-caps, arrangements should be made by workers to share rides with others while their tires are undergoing repair. The present tire supply must be kept in good condition, although at the cost of temporary inconvenience.

DRAFT BOARD REPORTS TWO MEN DELINQUENT

J. M. Foster, chairman of the Charlevoix county draft board, has released the names of Jake Gilbert White, of Charlevoix, and Goodwin Clarence Palmer, of St. James, as delinquent for failure to report for induction. These men are given until 4:30 p. m. on November 24 to report.

REGISTER AT HIGH SCHOOL NOVEMBER 16-20

Requirements for "B" and "C" Books are Listed; Many Occupations Eligible

Registration for gasoline ration books started here today (Wednesday) and will continue through Friday. Following the plan used at the institution of sugar rationing, the registration is being conducted by teachers of Charlevoix public schools, from 4 to 8:30 p. m. in the basement lunch room of the high school building.

Automobile owners are again reminded to present their certificate of registration, issued at the time the car was licensed; to have only five tires in their possession and to list their serial numbers on the application blanks; and give the number of the Federal Use Stamp on the car's windshield. Application blanks, available at all gas stations, should be filled out in advance in order to speed the work of registration.

Motorists desiring "B" and "C" books should ask for special application forms either at the school when they register for "A" books, or later at the local ration board office after November 27, when supplemental registration starts. Application blanks secured at the initial registration may be presented at the ration board office after the 27th.

Applicants for "B" books, must, in addition to the "A" requirements, meet the following: (a) prove necessity of higher occupational mileage; (b) be a member of a group-ride team or (c) prove that group-riding is impossible, or (d) prove that public transportation is inadequate.

Applicants for "C" books must, in addition to "B" requirements, meet the following: (a) prove necessity of occupational mileage greater than "B" book affords and, (b) prove they are engaged in any one of the following occupations:

1. Official government for Federal, state, local or foreign government or agency.
2. United States Government mail.
3. School teacher or official from school to school.

FORM CAR-SHARING CLUB FOR MORE GAS

Cooperate with Neighbors or Fellow Employees

Autoists who expect to apply for supplemental rations to enable them to drive to and from work should make plans now to share rides with others needing transportation to their jobs. To get more than the basic A ration, a car owner must form a car-sharing club to carry at least three other persons to and from work, or prove that he cannot do so.

It is suggested that car owners get together with their neighbors or with fellow employees at the plant or office, on some car-sharing plan. If two or more cars are to be used in the club, members may divide up the use of those cars to suit their convenience. Supplemental rations will then be issued each vehicle for mileage to meet its obligations.

The club must be formed before the application for a supplemental ration is submitted to the board. Signatures of all members must appear on the application, and applicants must certify that they will carry through their part in the car club agreement.

Supplemental applications are not to be presented registrars at school houses on November 18-20, although forms may be obtained at that time. Application for additional rations will begin November 27, at the local ration board office.

RED CROSS SPONSORS PHOTOGRAPH CONTEST

Awards are War Savings Bonds Totaling $5,125 Maturity Value

Photographers and candid camera fans of America have been called upon to lend their talents in recording the war-time work of the American Red Cross at home and abroad.

In inviting the cooperation of photographers, the Red Cross is sponsoring a national photographic competition. Awards are war savings bonds having a total maturity value of $5,125. Funds for the awards are being provided by the Photographic Society of America and other friends of the Red Cross.

Amateur and professional photographers are eligible, and may submit as many pictures as they desire. Monthly competitions are held, with winners competing for the grand awards at the close of the last contest on December 31, 1942. Grand awards will be announced February 1, 1943. Rules of the contest are obtainable from local photographic supply dealers.

Pledge Four New Members

Last Thursday the T. M. T. M. club of Charlevoix high school pledged four girls to the organization. They are Marion Craig, Ruth Essenburg, Joan Nelson, Mary Jane Usher. This is the first year that a pledging ceremony has been used. As pledges the girls are on a two weeks' probation, after which they will be formally initiated into the club.

WPB Issues Order Providing for Storage by Farmers

Gasoline dispensing pumps and storage tanks may be installed on farms of 10 or more acres to supply machinery and vehicles used directly in farm operations, the war production board has ruled.

WPB said it was acting on the recommendation of Petroleum Coordinator Harold L. Ickes. It issued an order providing that pumper and storage tanks installed in the future must be second hand and must have been completely fabricated on or before Jan. 14, 1942. The equipment must be used for dispensing petroleum products only for operations on the individual farm, WPB said.

TB SEAL SALE TO OPEN NOVEMBER 23

MICHIGAN ASSOCIATION'S 36TH ANNUAL CAMPAIGN

Slogan of Drive, "Protect Your Home from Tuberculosis!" Control Wartime Stressed

Carrying the vital war-time message, "Protect Your Home from Tuberculosis", the 36th annual Christmas seal goes on sale Monday, November 23. Its colors form a patriotic motif—red barn, crisp white snow, and bright blue sky.

But although its design is gay, its purpose is as grim as war itself. War conditions aid the spread of tuberculosis germs. England has seen tiny children stricken with tuberculosis meningitis. Where two children died before the war, now three die. The Christmas seal is the voluntary guard, dedicated to "Protect Your Home from Tuberculosis".

Thee. J. Worle, executive secretary of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, reminds us that we, in Michigan, now face greater public health problems than in World War I. Yet between 1914 and 1018, Michigan's tuberculosis deaths increased 29 per cent.

"If we suffer such a rise here next year it will mean 10 more persons in Michigan die of tuberculesis every week of the entire year", he points out. "This would be in addition to the 33 who at present die each week.

EFFORT IN SCRAP METAL DRIVE RECOGNIZED

Collection 700 Tons, Average of Over 100 Pounds per Person, In September-October

Charlevoix county has been awarded a "Salvage Pennant" by the War Production Board in recognition of the efforts of its citizens in the September-October scrap metal collection campaign.

This announcement was made today by Robert Ries, of Boyne City, chairman of the county salvage committee, upon receipt of a telegram from John D. McGillis, representing the WPB, which read as follows:

"Salvage pennant being mailed to you today as merit award for scrap collection during the months of September and October. We congratulate you and through you all citizens of your county on their splendid showing. Suggest you arrange appropriate presentation ceremony for delivery of pennant to your county officials."

Commenting on the award, Mr. Ries reported that Charlevoix county collected in excess of 700 tons of metal during September and October to earn the pennant. This amount represents an average of more than 100 pounds for every person in the county.

In conclusion, Mr. Ries said: "Let's not rest on our laurels, but keep right on picking up and getting scrap metal to the mills. Individuals and communities still having scrap piles should get them hauled in as soon as possible. Every patriotic American should take it upon himself to see that every bit of scrap metal and rubber is turned in. He should go out of his way to remind others that it takes 15 tons of scrap metal to make a tank, three tons for an anti-aircraft gun, 10 pounds for a machine gun. Our boys at the front are not waiting for someone else to do their job. Let's do our job and do it before it's too late."

Archers Get Eight Deer

Eight deer—six bucks and two does—exactly the same score as was made in the entire archery season in Allegan county last year, were taken in the first half of the archery season there this year, and there is every prospect that the 1942 total will be higher.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By KEN USHER

When a stenographer showed up for work with a black eye she told her curious boss that it was from defense work.

I know a group of sportsmen—duck hunters for the most part—who are strongly agitating closing of the west end of Charlevoix county to deer hunting. I understand fully the merits of conservation, but I always did abhore selfishness, so between you and I, I'm going to start agitating a ban on duck hunting along the Lake Michigan shore. Even exchange is no robbery, says I.

Weather has been as variable as a woman's whims. Last Thursday night's blow was as fierce as that of Armitice Day in 1940, breaking down trees and causing widespread property damage. This roaring nor'wester blew itself out Friday night amid temperatures approaching the freezing point. Charlevoix escaped heavy snowfall experienced in areas to the east and south. There was 12 inches of snow, temporarily blocked highways and mid-winter blizzard conditions in the Kingsley, Fife Lake and Kalkaska districts. And then Sunday, Monday and Tuesday—Indian Summer days with the temperature high enough to make you wish you hadn't changed from B.V.D.'s to winter woolens; days when the deer hunter leans up against a log or stump and blacksnakes in the sun; days worth living, by heck!

By the time a man reaches the age to understand the value of rest, it does him little good.

Thursday night's heavy blow and subsequent high seas on Lake Michigan produced an unusual incident. Hikers and hunters Friday reported finding dead fish—suck-

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Full - fledged support of Dr. Alexander G. Ruthven, president of the University of Michigan, in his program of war-time education was voted recently by Michigan newspaper editors in a formal resolution adopted at Ann Arbor.

Coming on the trail of criticism by university regents concerning Dr. Ruthven's war attitudes, the editors' action was a significant prelude to the Congressional enactment last week of selective service for 18 and 19 year old youths. Students will be permitted to complete their studies this year through June.

It is another reminder that World War II is far different than the first conflict 25 years ago.

And it brings up an interesting situation, the plight of higher education in all-out modern war. Here is the story. You can be the jury.

What is the function of higher education in war?

Is it that of providing technical training in the fine arts of killing and self-defense to the exclusion of general cultural knowledge, or should such instruction try to train youth to take the part of responsible citizens, to provide an understanding of the problems of the present world, and otherwise to instill immediate instruction of war technology?

Does all-out war mean the all-out abandonment of cultural training?

Should we return to the "three R's" and close down our colleges and universities "for the duration"?

Dr. Ruthven, president of the University of Michigan, set forth his ideas on the function of higher education in war-time in a formal address to the newspaper editors. The occasion was the 25th annual meeting of the University of Michigan Press club.

Here are a few excerpts, representative of Dr. Ruthven's thinking:

"Every professor fully understands that there must be a shift in emphasis in college and university programs during war periods.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS
By B. C. Mellencamp

Farm Front Fleshes for Freedom

Farmers are busy folks. They have demonstrated this year that they can produce at a high level if given sufficient labor, machinery, and other items that enter into production. Being busy they do not take time or have time to read thick volumes of material on farm subjects. Our Michigan State College as a result has printed a large number of folders consisting of only four pages and with all subject matter boiled down to a summary of the essential suggestions. Your extension agent, B. C. Mellencamp, Boyne City, in cooperation with the State Extension Service is hopeful that brief comments on various farm topics will present important material to farmers in a very simplified form. Each week we will discuss timely topics.

Feed Wheat to Hogs—Wheat is equal to No. 2 corn for feeding hogs. At present, it costs less than corn. Wheat is higher in protein, thus less protein, need be added to the ration.

Hard winter and spring wheats probably will give best results when ground for hogs. Home grown soft red winter wheat gives good results when fed whole in a self feeder. It should be ground for slop feeding.

Mixtures including 20% or more of wheat usually produce more rapid gains than mixtures without the wheat. However, there is also some advantage in having corn, barley or other grain in a wheat ration.

Cows Need Dry Period—Cows need a dry period of five to six weeks. Sometimes this is overlooked or shortened, because the freshening date is not known. Many times the dairyman with a good producing cow is fearful that he cannot dry her off without injury to the udder. The essential step is to stop milking. If the production is no more than 15 to 20 pounds a day, no further milking need be done.

Cows giving over 20 pounds per day should have a few milkings skipped until they come under the 20 pound limit. After stopping milking, it is important not to handle the udder, as the milk will be reabsorbed by the cow.

With the better cows, it may help to stop feeding grain a few days or at least decrease the quantity.

Pay Debts—When general prices go up, the price farmers receive for their products rises more rapidly than farm costs. The resulting net income gives farmers increased funds to invest. One of the wisest uses he can make of these increased earnings is to pay debts. He can thus get his financial setup on a basis to weather the deflation that is likely to follow the period of war prosperity.

Plan to Store Vegetables—Converted coldframes and hotbeds make good storage places for vegetables. Basement storerooms and outdoor root cellars can also be utilized to get full value from your Victory garden. Extension bulletin 232 "Home Vegetable Storage," gives conditions under which certain vegetables should be stored.

Cull and House Pullets—While September and October are the best months to cull pullets nevertheless they should be culled at any time when they are lagging or not showing proper growth and development. When feed is high priced, it is better practice and more patriotic to cull closely and save only those pullets that will pay with eggs for their keep, than to maintain some which are boarders, just for the sake of having the laying house filled.

It avails little, too, to cull carefully and then house the pullets in poor quarters. A laying house need not be expensive, but it must be warm and dry, with an opportunity for the laying hens to get sunshine and exercise.

Local Exhibitors Win High Awards at District Apple and Potato Show

The 7th annual Northern Michigan Potato and Apple Show held at Evart attracted several exhibits from Charlevoix county. In spite of the fact the location was well over 100 miles from this district our county was represented by a nicely balanced group of exhibits. The show location is changed each year and thus was awarded to Osceola county to arouse additional interest among farmers in that particular area. Next year if a show is held it will be moved up to the north end of the area where it will be much closer to folks in this district.

The show was not as large as formerly but nevertheless was of high quality. Eveline Orchards, of East Jordan, was one of the biggest winners in the apple department. Exhibiting four bushels and 3 plates they won first places on bushels of MacIntosh, Starking and Wagener and a first, third and fourth on plate samples.

In the potato division, Robert Behling, Boyne City, won two first places on samples of Chippewas and Pontiacs. These were in the F. F. A. Jr. department. Likewise Barton Vance, of East Jordan, won third on a sample of Russet Rurals. In the 4-H club division Raynor Olstrom, East Jordan won 4th. In the adult department, Harry Behling, Boyne City, won second and third on samples of Irish Cobblers and White Rurals.

Due to the distance involved it was impossible to have our F.F.A. and 4-H club boys take part in the judging contests. All in all we can be highly satisfied with the results of the show.

THE Secret OF THE MARSHBANKS

• By KATHLEEN NORRIS •

©NORRIS W.N.U. RELEASE

THE STORY SO FAR: An orphan since the age of seven, Charlotte (Cherry) Rawlings knows almost nothing about her early history. Judge Judson Marshbanks, her co-guardian with Emma Haskell, arranges for her to leave Saint Dorothea's, and tells her that Emma has obtained for her a secretarial position with the wealthy Mrs. Portenus Porter, of San Francisco, where Emma is housekeeper. She is first to go to the Marshbanks mansion. When she arrives she dines alone with the judge as Frao, his young wife, and his niece, Amy, are dining out. Kelly Coates, an artist, drops in and Cherry feels ill at ease in her convent clothes. Cherry becomes bitter when she overhears Fran and Amy make laughing reference to her and her clothes. Her surroundings are luxurious when she takes up her job with old Mrs. Porter, but after several weeks she finds life almost monotonous.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER V

So Emma and Ferny propped her up comfortably and arranged the lights becomingly, and were barely finished as the clock struck the half-hour after seven, when Dorothy and her mother came in to preen themselves under the old lady's approving eyes; to admire her and be praised themselves. And in another half-hour three or four mothers were there, and quite a little reception was going on in the upstairs sitting room. At Cherry's suggestion the arriving guests were to be sent upstairs in detachments; she went below at half-past eight to find sixty of them milling about enjoying a succession of cocktails, and was reminded of old days at Saint Dorothea's and school theatricals as she sent them up in parties of six.

Unexpectedly, Cherry found Amy Marshbanks in the center of an admiring circle, and hated herself for the wretched little prick of jealousy that rose even through her newfound sense of ease and power. She looked for Fran and Kelly Coates, but they were evidently coming later; they were not in sight. When the time came for her to say to Amy that if she would please—would any four of them—go upstairs and say good evening to Mrs. Porter, Amy stared at her amusedly, entirely without recognition, and said in an undertone to an adoring boy beside her:

"What's the big idea? Is Nursey telling us to say we had a nice time?"

There was a small library known as "the den" tucked away under the wide turn of the stairway. The door into the hall was open, but when Cherry approached it to answer the telephone in the hall near it she had no idea that anyone was in the room.

The voice on the telephone was that of an agitated gentleman who was bringing a lady up from Hillsborough and had had the misfortune to break a spring while driving. They had sent for a taxi.

Cherry's eyes moved absently to the open door of the den, and rested incuriously upon a pair of satin slippers that in their turn were resting upon one of the tasseled taborets that stood before the fire.

The wearer of these slippers, whoever she was, was sunk so deep in a great chair in the comfortable position she had assumed her heels were at least as high as her head. The firelight twinkled on the slippers and on the swirl of her vermillion velvet gown; she was evidently whispering, for Cherry heard no words distinctly.

Cherry went upstairs with her message that Miss Trotter and Mr. Buddy Brown would be a little late, to find the detachments coming and going between the downstairs rooms and Mrs. Porter's apartments, and any serious consideration of dinner as far removed as ever.

Emma said with her usual air of stern but repressed annoyance that this would never do, and just as the delayed couple arrived from Hillsborough, at twenty-two minutes past nine, the eight-o'clock dinner began to take shape and form, guests straggled toward the tables and looked for name cards, and waiters began to serve smoking cups of madrilene.

It was at this moment that the couple whose privacy she had observed sauntered from the den. Cherry, halfway up the stairs to find Keno and ask the little Japanese maid to keep an eye open for a lost evening bag of silver and amethysts, happened to see them come out. She paused on the stairs to watch them make their leisurely way toward the dining room. They stopped once in the lower hall, the man speaking earnestly, the woman listening with a bent head, giving him only an occasional swift upward glance.

Kelly and Fran. Kelly and Fran. The sight made Cherry feel first a little weak, and then heartsick. They had come supposedly to keep an eye on the younger crowd, to help with the party. They had really come to seize an opportunity of being alone and unobserved together. Of course! Of course!

All her bright, vague hopes for what this evening might bring were destroyed instantly. Everything was a dull and dreary blank now; Cherry hated every detail of the party, dragged herself through the next hour or two by sheer force of will.

There was plenty for her to do, for the cocktail hour had been a time of great confusion, and the downstairs rooms were a scene of wild disorder.

During this busy, hurried time, messages were constantly coming downstairs from Mrs. Porter, up to whose room Cherry ran a dozen times. Her employer wanted blandly to know if everything was going nicely, was enthusiastic as to her own share of the festivities and would like another cup of that delicious madrilene. Ming Wo so rarely made madrilene and she had always been so fond of it!

The dinner party had progressed to the breast of milk-fed chicken with Virginia ham and mushrooms and to procure another cup of the soup was like returning to some event of the dim past. When that was accomplished, Mrs. Porter was delicately picking at some rich concoction of crab meat and allowed the soup to cool untouched.

Bridge and backgammon had been set out in one of the parlors now; the orchestra concealed behind the inevitable palms was playing provocative dance music.

Couples were leaving the dining room to dance for a few minutes.

—were returning to play absently with alligator-pear or frozen pudding. Cherry looked into the upstairs bedroom to find Alma and Hatty deep in a muttered conversation.

"They're doin' nothin' but makin' fun of the old lady," said Hatty. "Her champagne's good enough for them, and her dinner's good enough for them, but 'Oh, ain't she a scream,' and 'Ain't this a queer old vault!' and 'Lord, my dear, you let me into this; I never would have come.'"

"An' they says, 'How early can we get out and go somewhere and dance?'" added Alma.

Cherry was the more disturbed to hear the maids' views because they confirmed an uneasy and ashamed impression of her own. An impression that the flattery and kisses that went on in Mrs. Porter's room were not sincere, that behind the old lady's back there were patiently resigned sighs and shrugs, and a good deal of the raising of amused and contemptuous eyebrows. Mrs. Porter's dinner dance for the debutantes would be long remembered, but not with the gratitude she imagined. The words "horror" and "awful" and "lousy" and "just about the limit!" would be used more often than more complimentary terms. Cherry felt a sudden rush of resentment, of pity for her employer.

Stepping back into the hall, and going to look down at the lower floor, to see if the dinner was about over, Cherry was shocked suddenly to hear the sound of sobbing. Who was crying?

It came from Dorothy's room. Cherry went softly toward it, and as the door stood open a crack, she pushed it further open and went in.

Dorothy, her party frock crushed into stringy limpness, was lying across the bed crying bitterly. She had a chiffon handkerchief pounded into a wet ball in her hand, and was digging at her eyes with it, and snuffling and sobbing like a heartbroken child of three.

The endless evening dragged its way to midnight, and the guests began to disperse. Mrs. Porter, when they came in to say their good-byes, protested kindly. It was early yet! Why, when she was a girl they had often danced right into the morning! But the pretty girls and the hoarse, polite young men were firm. Some of the boys were working, they explained; they had to keep early office hours. By twos and fours they dwindled away.

Cherry knew that they were all going off somewhere else to dance. She heard them promise one another to meet later. She heard them laughing at their evening's entertainment, and their "Whews!" of relief as they disappeared into the darkness outside the front door. The whole thing had been ridiculous and a failure, she decided, going downstairs for the twentieth time that evening to see if the bridge players were still at their game.

Fran was playing hard. Two other tables were deserted, littered with cigarette ashes and chocolate frills, scribbled scores and torn paper. She was returning upstairs again for the purpose of asking Emma if she could stay up to put out lights, when Kelly Coates came down stairs, met her halfway, smiled at her and arrested her with a hand on her arm.

"Sit down here a minute," he said, immediately seating himself on the landing's top step. "How's it gone? Had any fun out of it? I've seen you coming and going and didn't know whether it was any fun for you or not. Get your candy?"

"Oh, it was wonderful, Mr. Coates."

"Not your first box of candy, I suppose?"

Cherry was too dizzy to know what she said by the way of reply. She tried to make it grateful. But merely talking to him confused her. The—lost—evening—was—suddenly aglow with color and light. She was to have her moment after all!

In her agitation she said exactly what she would have wished not to say. Swallowing hard and with a nervous, quick laugh, she asked, "Didn't . . . didn't Mrs. Marshbanks look lovely tonight?"

For a minute his expression was so odd that she was terrified. He didn't like her saying that! Then he said briefly, "Lovely."

Blundering on, in spite of a half-defined feeling that he would not like to talk about her, Cherry said, "I used to think she was almost—well, homely. But when you know her face you see that she's beautiful!"

He had folded his arms, in a favorite gesture of his, and was looking at her seriously.

"Fran," he said simply. But the word brimmed with some secret magic for him, and she felt its echoes reach her, and was chilled. "The Randalls are taking her home," he added. "I've got to be on my way back to Sausalito. But you—what kind of time have you had?" he asked after a moment.

"Rotten," she said, suddenly hungry for his sympathy and understanding. It was unwise, it was impulsive, she knew it, even as the ground slipped away from beneath her feet. "I hate that Amy!" she said. "That is, I don't hate her," she amended it, "but she treats me as if I wasn't there—didn't count."

"I suppose so," he conceded with a thoughtful look. "Give it time," he went on, with a little stress on the last words, "give it time. You'll leave Amy behind you some day, and then this will all seem very small-girl stuff. Patience, Cherry."

His use of her name, his serious consideration for her ill-timed outbursts destroyed the last shred of her reticence. She was tired, excited, jealous, lonely; she wanted somehow to hold him, and blindly reached for whatever claim upon his interest she could find.

"No matter what I did," she said, looking down shyly and fingering the ornamental end of one of the brass rods that held the stair carpet in place, "no matter what I did I would never matter to you, I know that! You'd never think of me as anything but a girl from Saint Dorothea's who didn't count—you'd go on falling in love with Mrs. Marshbanks—of course," Cherry floundered on wretchedly. "I know I'll never be like that—dressed that way and playing bridge and all; she's been in Europe—but if I had clothes and money—if my husband was as wonderful as Judge Marshbanks—I couldn't—I know I couldn't . . ."

She stopped in a terrifying silence. She could not raise her eyes. As Kelly got to his feet she rose too, but still she could not look at him.

"I'm sorry," she said thickly, when she could not bear it an instant longer.

"Well!" the man said dryly, on a surprised breath, as she came to a horrified and frightened pause. And forcing herself at last to meet his eyes, Cherry saw that he was smiling, in a sort of annoyed indulgence, as one might smile at a forward child. At the look her soul died within her. Those eyes could never again hold anything but contempt and dislike for her. Presently with a nod and a quiet "Good night" he left her, descended the stairs. Then the front door closed and he was gone.

For the first time in her life, Cherry spent an entirely wakeful night. Her wearied mind thrashed over and over again the last episode of the ill-starred party; her weary body twisted and struggled in a physical misery that matched the torture in her soul.

PLENTY TO EAT INSTEAD OF MEAT

Remember poultry, fish, eggs, cheese, beans and nuts.

Those are some of the principal alternates, rather than substitutes, suggested by members of the home economics extension staff at Michigan State College as the problem of getting normal meat supplies becomes more acute in Michigan and other states.

Good nutrition can be combined with patriotism in selecting foods that will supply those things that meat normally supplied. Flavor, protein, iron and three members of the vitamin B complex,—thiamin, niacin and riboflavin, are the points to watch.

The protein, some iron and some of the B vitamins can be put on the table in the form of poultry, fish, milk, cheese, eggs, dried beans and peas, soybeans and nuts. Additional vitamins and iron can be obtained from servings of whole grain or enriched grain products, dark green leafy vegetables and potatoes.

Such a dish as that made from the navy or white pea bean can come to the table in various forms.

The navy bean is the one grown principally in Michigan. Beans from the 1942 crop in the state would fill nearly seven million bags holding a hundred pounds each.

Beans, it seems, are baked in three styles. New England bakes its beans slowly to a rich brown with salt pork and molasses for extra flavor. Michigan has a reputation in bean recipes for baking them in a flat pan and seasoning with salt pork or bacon. Western style adds onion and tomato.

THANK YOU!

As usual, Charlevoix citizens more than met another war-time obligation in exceeding the city's quota of scrap metal in the United Newspaper Scrap Drive.

In response to the urgent appeal of Donald M. Nelson, director of the War Production Board, the Courier, with most other newspapers in the United States, sponsored the scrap effort. The result was an average of 100 pounds per person of badly needed scrap metal.

These results could not have been obtained without the wholehearted efforts of the local salvage committee and Chairman Clifford McKibbin, Jr. But one thing, above all others, which made the campaign such an outstanding success was the perfect cooperation of the public—every man, woman and child in this community. To them all, the Courier expresses its most sincere gratitude.

May we add this word, however. No war-time campaign can end until the war ends. As long as American boys are fighting on the far-flung front of the world they will need munitions of war. We must provide scrap metal to produce steel needed for arms. Continue to hoard your scrap until it is called for again.

Lighthouse Keeper Dies

Captain A. C. Erickson, for about 30 years keeper of the Harbor Springs harbor light, and recently retired, was found dead in bed last Wednesday morning. He had been ill about two weeks. Surviving are the wife and a son, Cortis Ericksen, with the nation's armed forces.

PUBLIC INVITED TO USO HOME SATURDAY

Official Opening of Center is Scheduled This Week

Charlevoix's new USO center in the Lewis block, former Courier location, will be opened for public inspection this Saturday, November 21, from 2 p. m. until midnight.

Townspeople are invited to come and inspect the furnishings and recreational facilities of the center, which was unofficially opened last Saturday evening. There will be a dance in the evening for all service men, to which the public is cordially invited.

Although the center is well furnished, some requirements yet remaining include bookcase, books, and a desk. Window draperies were made by a committee of women including Mrs. Donald Evans, Mrs. A. L. Livingston, Mrs. Ray Kipke, Mrs. O. P. North, and Mrs. Harry Ladd.

To keep the center open each afternoon and evening, it is necessary to have a matron in charge at all times. Volunteers are being sought among local women to take over this duty, to serve at the center for a few hours each week. Any woman who feels she can take charge of the room at any time is asked to call Mrs. Charles Bellinger, phone 113.

Much of the credit for successful establishment and operation of the center is due Fr. John Collins, who has bent his untiring efforts to the work. Other members of the Charlevoix Service Organization, acting as an affiliate of the United Service Organizations, are also to be commended for their part in the project.

Commissioned 2nd Lieutenant

Gilson E. Clarke, of Chicago, brother of Mrs. Walter Bergeen of this city, was commissioned a second lieutenant in the United States army last Saturday upon successful completion of the three-month officer candidate course at the infantry school at Fort Benning, Ga. Enlisting in the army in February, he served with Co. C., 66th Bn., 14th Regt., Camp Joseph T. Robinson, Ark., before going to the officer candidate school. He held the rank of corporal before being commissioned.

* FROM THE GARDEN CLUB *

The age-old practice of making parsley baskets is being revived in our community, to the delight of many modern gardeners. As it is a practice that could be followed with pleasure and profit by many gardeners, a brief outline of the process may be useful. The baskets are made by lining a wire hanging basket with moss and filling it with rich garden soil. The number of parsley plants needed will depend upon the size of the basket. Those of ordinary size, used by florists, will accommodate eight or ten plants.

Large roots, taken up from the garden late in the season, should be put in place before the basket is filled with soil. In either case be sure the soil is made as firm as possible around the roots. The baskets are kept in the shade until the plants have revived, when they may be hung on a porch until cold weather.

After frosts arrive they are transferred to a sunny window. Each basket is turned part way around daily to induce even growth, and the soil is always kept moist, not wet. The more one picks the leaves for salads and garnishings, within reason, the more dense the plants become. A well-grown basket looks like a ball of ferny foliage.

REPORTS ON TB WORK

A report to Charlevoix county residents on the work accomplished by their last year's Christmas seals is submitted by Theo. J. Werle, Lansing, executive secretary of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association.

To wipe out tuberculosis, Christmas seals work in two distinct fields, Mr. Werle explains. (1) To find the unknown cases of tuberculosis, protecting the community from the spread of their germs and giving the sick a chance to become well. (2) To educate people to prevent tuberculosis.

The Michigan Tuberculosis Association X-rayed 66 persons in Charlevoix county this year. Since 1931, when Christmas seals began the X-ray service, 1327 persons have been X-rayed in this county, Mr. Werle reports.

Because early tuberculosis shows no symptoms, the X-ray, which makes a shadow picture of the chest, is a great help in diagnosis. A trained tuberculosis specialist studies each film and determines whether or not disease is present.

The MTA offers its educational services, including literature, posters, and a film loan library, to all civic groups. Churches, schools, health directors, boards of supervisors, libraries, and industries make use of this material, Mr. Werle says.

Early in January the MTA movie operator was in Charlevoix presenting school programs of the new color movie, "The Case History of Lucy X", which was filmed at a Michigan sanitorium.

Princess Watassa, health ambassador for the MTA, visited Charlevoix county the week of April 26. Her Indian health legends were heard by 656 persons from the Ramsey, Dingman, East Jordan, Boyne City, and Boyne Falls schools.

To interest students in building good health, six issues of the Wolverine Health bulletin were mailed to all schools in the county. Health teaching aids, posters, pamphlets and booklets, were supplied to rural schools through the school commissioner.

The steady work of Christmas seals over the state, forced Michigan's tuberculosis death rate to the lowest figure in history last year—32 per 100,000 population. To hold this record against the onslaught of war is the job of the 1942 Christmas seal, Mr. Werle stressed. Tuberculosis, which has always increased with war, has already made sharp rises in England, Canada, and France, he said.

TB SEAL SALE TO OPEN NOVEMBER 23

"It would mean robbing children of their mothers, cheating young men of the maturity of which they had dreamed, murdering tiny children, taking workers from our war industries", he warns.

In order to finance a more intensive attack on the disease, more Christmas seals will be placed in outgoing envelopes this year, Mr. Werle reveals.

The Christmas seal program for 1943 will consist of (1) searching for unknown cases of tuberculosis, through tuberculin tests and chest X-rays, (2) educating children and adults to prevent tuberculosis, (3) aiding tuberculosis research, (4) helping the expatient to a suitable job.

Named Committeeman

William C. Palmer, commissioner of schools, has been named local committeeman on Red Cross first aid training, according to announcement by George R. Hemingway, county first aid chairman.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Helen Bennett submitted to a major operation last Thursday.

Mrs. Clayton Brown was admitted Friday for surgical treatment.

Alma Dinger, of Central Lake, underwent a major operation Saturday.

Louis Wilson, son of Gilman Wilson, of East Jordan, Rt. 2, submitted to a major operation Saturday.

Mrs. Frances Marshall, 83, was admitted Sunday for treatment of a leg injury incurred in a fall Saturday evening.

Mrs. Ivan Thomson, of East Lansing, was admitted Monday for surgical treatment.

Mrs. Lyle Warner, of East Jordan, underwent a major operation Tuesday.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS BEGIN WAR PROGRAM

Students Are Eager to Share in National Effort

A program of war participation for Charlevoix high school girls from the seventh to twelfth grades has been organized in conjunction with the physical fitness training for high school boys which was inaugurated last week.

Re-arranged class schedules allow for a 45-minute period each morning which is devoted to calisthenics or war work. "Save, serve, conserve," is the motto of the 145 girls taking part in the program.

Light calesthenics, drills, games, personal health and hygiene comprise the physical fitness training for girls, under direction of Mrs. Margaret Theriault.

Miss Floranz Milner and Miss Eleanor Thomas have charge of Red Cross sewing. The girls are making rompers and pajamas for refugee infants, and flannel patchwork quilts. Miss Nelle Smith, who has supervision of Red Cross knitting, is directing the work of making hospital blankets from yarn scraps.

The publicity division of the project is in charge of Mrs. James Hiller. The 30 girls under her direction are preparing posters and bulletins of late news reports and maps, to be placed about the school; doing typing for the Red Cross; stimulating the sale of war stamps and bonds among students; gathering recreational materials to send to Fort Brady; and sponsoring the sending of personal letters to local men in the service.

Response to the war participation program has surpassed all expectations, and is an encouraging indication of the eagerness with which local students have met the nation's need.

OPA GIVES RULES ON RATION BOOKS

Persons Entering Military Service Must Return Books

A man or woman entering the military service must turn in his war ration book to his local war price and rationing board, the Office of Price Administration emphasized in a recent bulletin.

Failure to observe this requirement may cause improper distribution of rationed commodities.

Regulations require that the ration books be returned to the boards not only in the case of persons entering the armed services, but also by civilians, such as Red Cross workers, or representatives of government agencies, or others, who leave the United States for more than 30 days. The ration books of persons who have died also must be returned to local boards.

These provisions of the rationing regulations must be observed, it was pointed out by OPA. Records of returns of the books both in areas where large numbers of men have entered the service, and as compared with records of deaths in a number of localities, have revealed that many persons fail to return the books.

The reminder was issued in the belief that many have neglected their duty through ignorance of the regulation.

Use of these war ration books by others is a violation of the regulations, it was stated.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

The Past Noble Grand club, meeting at the home of Mrs. P. R. Ross last Thursday evening, nominated officers to be elected at their December meeting. Following the business session, cards were enjoyed. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Fred Southwood and Mrs. Fred Gill.

Miss Roberta Seymour entertained members of her sewing club on Monday evening at the home of her aunt, Mrs. John Cross. The birthday anniversary of Mrs. Charles Puyment was honored by the fourteen members present.

Mrs. George Smith, Jr., entertained the Young Mothers club on Tuesday evening at the home of her mother, Mrs. F. C. Partridge, on Park avenue. Three tables of bridge were in play, first prize being awarded to Mrs. Franklin Curtis. Refreshments were served at the end of the evening.

Mrs. Kennoth Anderson was hostess to her sewing club Tuesday evening at her home on East Upright avenue. The occasion was a farewell party for Mrs. E. D. Rohinette, who is leaving soon for Alpena. Many lovely gifts were presented to her by the guests and refreshments concluded the evening.

COMPLETE RED CROSS INSTRUCTORS' COURSE

Red Cross first aid instructors' certificates have been awarded to seven local residents who recently completed an instructors' course given at Boyne City. Those qualified to teach are Mrs. Floyd Ikens, Mrs. Sims Baker, William C. Palmer, Mrs. Robert Ashdon, Mrs. Ray Freeland, Miss Anne Higman, and Mrs. Pete Bennett. Certificates may be obtained by calling at the office of superintendent of schools O. P. North.

EGG LAW VIOLATION BRINGS COURT FINE

Frank Huff, Salesman for Armour & Co., Assessed $13.35 Friday

Frank Huff, of Petoskey, salesman for Armour & Co., was assessed fine of $10 and costs of $3.35 last Friday by Justice H. R. Fowler for violation of the federal and state egg grading law.

According to Jake Klooster, of Ellsworth, state inspector and complainant, a dozen eggs bought as a sample at a Boyne City store from a consignment sold by Huff as "Grade A, large", contained one "Grade B" and the balance "Grade C".

Mr. Klooster pointed out that the federal-state egg grading law was designed to protect the public from misbranding and misrepresentation, and that his department will "crack down" on every violation. He asked public cooperation for their own protection by insisting on grades as advertised and reporting violations.

HOTELS TO REGISTER FOR COFFEE RATION

Restaurants, Other Institutions Sign November 23-25

Restaurants, hotels and other institutional users of coffee in Charlevoix county must register with the local war price and rationing board November 23, 24 and 25, in order to purchase coffee after November 29, the effective date of the rationing order.

The first allotment for institutional users will cover the period from November 22, 1942, to January 31, 1943. A requirement of registration is an inventory of coffee on hand as of midnight, November 21, excluding coffee substitutes which the institution itself combines with coffee.

For the first allotment period, an institutional user is entitled to an amount of coffee equal to the amount actually used during the months of September and October, 1942.

CERTIFICATE OF WAR NECESSITY REQUIRED

Form Basis for Issuance of Rations to Commercial Vehicles

Operators of trucks, busses, and taxis must have their certificates of war necessity before applying to the local war price and rationing board for their mileage rations.

Each war necessity certificate states the number of miles the vehicle for which the certificate is issued will be allowed to travel during a three-month period; also the number of gallons of gasoline needed to cover this mileage.

The rationing board will determine the amount of transport rations to be issued for the vehicle on the basis of mileage allowed by the certificate. In no case is the board permitted to allow more gasoline than is stipulated on the certificate.

ROLL OF HONOR IS IN MEMORIAL PARK

Names of Charlevoix Service Men Are Inscribed

The Roll of Honor signboard in Memorial Park, with names of all Charlevoix men in the nation's service inscribed upon it, has attracted considerable attention since its erection.

Constructed by Wayne Belding under contract to the city council, the sign is 8 feet high and 20 feet long, and contains 227 names. Other names will be added from time to time.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED BY MARY BURNS CIRCLE

Officers for the ensuing year were named by the Mary Burns circle of the Congregational church, at their meeting last Wednesday at the home of Mrs. F. R. Bulow. Those elected were: president, Mrs. Alfred Gill Jr.; vice president, Mrs. Vane Smith; secretary, Miss Anne Higman; treasurer, Mrs. Robert Miles. They will assume their duties at the first meeting in December.

HALT INDUCTION MEN WHO HAVE REACHED 45

Col. E. M. Rosecrans, state selective service director, has directed local draft boards to halt induction of men who have reached their 45th birthday. The order was under terms of the revised selective service law which permits drafting of 18 and 19 year olds.

TUESDAY IS DATE FOR LEGION FEATHER PARTY

An advertisement appearing elsewhere in this issue calls attention to the American Legion's annual feather party, to be held Tuesday evening, November 24th. Entire net proceeds of the event will be turned over to the United Service Organizations and Charlevoix Service Organization.

W. C. T. U. Roll Call

The Roll Call luncheon of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was a delightful occasion, though Friday's storm kept down the attendance. "In the Church Awake to the Liquor Problem," was the subject of a very fine address by Rev. H. C. Riagenoldus.

School Boiler Sold

The boiler of the old Central school building's heating system, which has not been used to heat the building for the past eight years, has been sold to the Foster Boat Company and removed to their Ferry avenue plant. Removal was accomplished by Alonzo Powers, who installed the boiler 25 years ago when operating the Sanitary Engineering Co. in this city.

The Soblesky's formerly made their home in Petoskey. Accompanying her were her sister, Miss Doris Solomon, and Mrs. Greg Shadko, who will return the end of this week.

Local friends have received word from Arthur Taylor, state highway department engineer located here while directing relocation projects on US31 and M-66, that he has been commissioned 1st Lieutenant in the 754th Eng. Ry. Bn., U. S. army, and is now stationed at Camp Claiborne, La. Mrs. Taylor is residing at Alexandrin, La., near the camp.

GRACE BERGSTROM IS WED TO ROBERT NEFF SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 7

A beautiful candlelight wedding was solemnized at the Gustavus Adolphus Lutheran church, Chicago, Saturday, November 7 at 5:30 p. m. when Miss Grace Eleanor Bergstrom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Bergstrom, of Chicago, and Robert L. Neff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lance Neff, of Charlevoix and Detroit, were united in marriage, the Rev. Joseph Parkander, officiating.

The ceremony was performed before an altar decorated with baskets of white chrysanthemums and tall white tapers. The bride was lovely in a princess gown of white satin with long sleeves and train and wore a coronet of orange blossoms which held a long veil of fine net. She carried an arm bouquet of snowball chrysanthemums. The matron of honor, Mrs. Gordon Neff, of Detroit, was attired in a blue satin floor length gown and carried an arm bouquet of pink chrysanthemums. Also attending the bride were Mrs. Basil Kennedy, of Traverse City, sister of the groom, Mrs. Roland Gustavson, Miss Gertrude Barkow, Miss Edith Rampke, all of Chicago, who wore gowns of spanish raisin shade, similarly styled with matching hair bows. Their arm bouquets were composed of Detroit News mums.

The groom was attended by his brother, Gordon Neff, of Detroit, and the ushers were the bride's cousins, Eldon Johnson, of St. Paul, Minn., Carl Olson, Stanley Larson, and Roland Gustavson, of Chicago. The flower girl, Lois Harper, wore a gown of blue satin and carried a colonial bouquet of white bebe mums.

Preceding the ceremony, Oscar Green sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly". Mr. Bergstrom gave his daughter in marriage. Lohengrin's wedding march was played by Mrs. Arthur Boring, the church organist.

Mrs. Bergstrom chose for her daughter's wedding a formal gown of plum colored crepe, while Mrs. Neff wore a gown of light blue chiffon. Both wore corsages of orchids.

Following the ceremony a reception for 130 guests was held at the South Side Swedish club. The bride's table was centered with a bouquet of white chrysanthemums and flanked with white tapers. At the reception Mrs. John Johnson sang several selections and Roland Gustavson acted as master of ceremonies.

Mr. and Mrs. Neff left for a short wedding trip, after which they will make their home in Marquette where Mr. Neff is a member of the Michigan State Police ataff.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lance Neff, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Neff and daughter, Marilyn, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Walgren, Mrs. Minnie MacLeod and daughter, Marjory, Mrs. Patrick Burke, Thomas Hickey, Mrs. Edward Britton and daughter, Mary, of Detroit; Mrs. Basil Kennedy, of Traverse City; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Voreis and Miss Margaret Swanson, of Culver, Ind.; Eldon Johnson, of St. Paul, Minn.; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Evy, of Downers Grove; Fred Rampke, of Riverdale, Ill.; Miss Leslie Smith and Mrs. Hilding Almquist, of LaGrange, Ill.

AT THE MOVIES

"Gentleman Jim" Palace Theatre Attraction

'Gentleman Jim,' Warner Bros.' filmization of the life of James J. Corbett, will be the Palace Theatre's next feature attraction. The picture will be shown Thursday and Friday, November 26-27.

Starring Errol Flynn as Corbett and Alexis Smith, "Gentleman Jim" is the spirited account of the exciting 1880's and the famous Gay Nineties. High-lighting the picture are the climactic scenes of the James J. Corbett-John L. Sullivan championship bout, now a classic in the annals of sports history.

Jack Carson, Alan Hale as Corbett's father, John Loder, Minor Watson, William Frawley and Ward Bond lend the supporting cast. Vincent Lawrence and Horace McCoy did the screen play.

Throw your scrap into the fight.

War Boosts Demand for Buckskin

To prevent waste of a single one of the 50,000 deer hides that may be taken in Michigan this month the conservation department is advising hunters how to get them to the tanneries in good condition. After careful skinning the hide is well salted with two or three handfuls of coarse salt, rolled in a tight bundle with hair side out, labelled with a shipping and sale permit tag obtained from the local conservation officer and shipped promptly. Sale prices probably will cover only express charges, but the buckskin will release other leather for war uses. Hunters also are urged to save deer fat for explosives manufacture.

LETTERS from the ARMY CAMPS

Dear Sir,

I am going to thank you for your paper, it sure is good to get the home town paper.

I have been in the army for five months now. Have been in Camp Blanding for two months, was in Camp Pickett, Va., for three months.

It sure is good to hear of the boys that are in the army from Charlevoix. There are a lot of the boys in the camp here who like to see the paper, it sure is a good paper.

Sincerely yours,
Pvt. Marvin Pedersen

Camp Blanding, Fla.

Dear Mr. Usher,

This is just a few lines to let you know I get the Courier all right. I should have written to you about six months ago, but I have been pretty busy. We go quite a while sometimes without getting any mail and I sure appreciate having the home town papers waiting for me when we get in.

There isn't any news I can tell you, have been in the navy a little over a year now and spent most of my time at sea. I still get seo sick every time the wind blows I guess I will never make a very good sailor, but I am damn sure I am going to make a "heek" of of a good civilian when the war is over.

If you see any ambitious buck hunters running loose around there tell them to shoot a buck for me.

Yours truly,
Bill Edwards

Somewhere in Hawaii

Dear Ken,

A few words to let you know I'm receiving the paper regular and hope to continue receiving it. I certainly enjoy the home town news, and especially the letters of boys in the service.

I received a card today with pictures of the boys on it. I went to school with most of them and I know they certainly make good service men.

The greatest surprise came last Friday. I was out on pass and who should I meet but Bob Pearl. He was just as surprised as I, so we proceeded to the L. G. Allen home, where I was introduced to his friends. I learned that cousin Charley Cellner is over here. I plan to meet him soon.

I'm thanking you again for the paper, and hope to be back to the states again as soon as we slap a few Japs and scrap the Axis.

I remain your friend
Ed Gregory.

Dear Ken,

I have a few minute to spare, so I am writing you so as to give you my new address.

I am attending the Lincoln Aeronautical Institution, learning to be an aircraft mechanic. It's mighty hard to try to get all the dope they throw at you at once. I would much rather be in Charlevoix, and driving the Hill View Dairy milk truck.

I wish to thank the person that's paying the dues so I may receive the paper. I enjoy reading it very much.

Goodbye and hope to see you after the war's over.

Your friend,
Pvt. Harry M. Muson
Class 21-43, Y. M. C. A.
U. S. Army Air Corps
Lincoln, Nebr.

Dear Ken,

Skipping through the paper this morning I noticed an article of special interest to me and feel it will be of interest to friends of the boys who are fighting "over there" from Charlevoix. I can well remember seeing Ed place first in the mile track meets for CHS and it appears that he still gets out in front and takes the lead, whether it be sports or actual warfare. Friends and citizens can well be proud of that boy who is doing his every bit—now—when it is most needed.

Recently I received a V-Mail letter from Ray Nowland who is with the U. S. Marine corps, and at the time of his writing he was ducking plenty of lead on Guadalcanal. He said he was getting plenty of exercise as he had to run to catch up with the Jap before he could tear them apart. He said he didn't write us often as he would like to have the people at home hear from him because of the lack of paper and envelopes, and asked that I send his regards to the folks at home and tell them not to worry, because it won't be long before we'll all be back on Bridge street. WE HOPE!!

Life goes along much the same with me. A bit of excitement now and then, and the lack of wine and women only tend to make us strive harder each day to bring about the end of this conflict, so that we can also enjoy the things in life we are fighting for.

My sincere regards and may the holiday season bring you all a white Christmas.

LANSING LETTER

The curricula must be augmented by technical subjects, the student population and staff's decreased, and the educational facilities in many ways diverted to other purposes.

"Any doubt as to the appreciation of the nature and consequences of the war by college and university professors and administrators should quickly be dispelled by an examination of the changes made by these institutions in the last year. They have on the whole responded splendidly to the need of the war machine as presented to them in requests and directives from the officials in charge of the various war agencies. In a few months they have became indispensable adjuncts to the regular training agencies of the military departments." As many unprejudiced and informed observer of the contemporary scene must conclude, the colleges and universities are now rendering their proper service in the emergency as fully as is any other type of institution or group of workers. Their response is particularly remarkable when one considers that they have been continually handicapped in their efforts by differing policies of draft boards, by ungueness and inconsistencies in the statements emanating from government officials, and by delays in getting information from federal agencies.

Dr. Ruthven pointed out the recent trend of abandoning educational courses in humanities in favor of technical courses as a result of "pressures set up in an industrial civilization."

"Assuming that democracy is their goal, educators should insist that higher education is not a luxury to be enjoyed in peace times or mere training in the techniques of living—a matter of easy gain and endless amusements," said Dr. Ruthven.

"The chief business of schools in a democracy remains the same through the ages—in war and in peace. It is the forming of creative minds, the study of human problems, and the preparation of citizens to govern themselves intelligently. It is not to develop soldiers alone or skilled puppets but to enable men to possess in the 'form and substance of their own minds and spirits' the 'creative cultural tradition of Europe and the Americas'."

"Educators in times of national trouble must continue to emphasize the importance of instruction in the humanities and in pure science. Only by constant reference in instruction to the world after the war and by providing facilities for study in philosophy, art, language, literature, religion, and science, as distinguished from technology, can the universities in this crisis continue to be centers of faith, repositories of new truths and the heritage of knowledge, and effective training centers for those who are to be responsible for preserving and improving our social order."

M. A. Gorman, editor, Flint Journal, read the resolution upholding President Ruthven in his above stated general policy. George R. Averill, Birmingham Eccentric, proposed a resolution condemning "star chamber" sessions of state boards and a left-handed criticism of the university regents.

Carl Saunders, editor, Kalamazoo Gazette, was chosen president of the 1943 press club; Elton R. Eaton, Plymouth Mail, first vice-president, and Floyd J. Miller, Royal Oak Daily Tribune, second vice-president.

GRACE BERGSTROM IS WED TO ROBERT NEFF SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 7

A beautiful candlelight wedding was solemnized at the Gustavus Adolphus Lutheran church, Chicago, Saturday, November 7 at 5:30 p. m. when Miss Grace Eleanor Borgstrom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Hergstrom, of Chicago, and Robert L. Neff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lance Neff, of Charlevoix and Detroit, were united in marriage, the Rev. Joseph Parkander, officiating.

The ceremony was performed before an altar decorated with baskets of white chrysanthemums and tall white tapers. The bride was lovely in a princess gown of white satin with long sleeves and train and wore a coronet of orange blossoms which hold a long veil of fine net. She carried an arm bouquet of snowball chrysanthemums. The matron of honor, Mrs. Gordon Neff, of Detroit, was attired in a blue satin floor length gown and carried an arm bouquet of pink chrysanthemums. Also attending the bride were Mrs. Basil Kennedy, of Traverse City, sister of the groom, Mrs. Roland Gustavson, Miss Gertrude Barkow, Miss Edith Rampke, all of Chicago, who wore gowns of spanish raisin shalle, similarly styled with matching hair bows. Their arm bouquets were composed of Detroit News mums.

The groom was attended by his brother, Gordon Neff, of Detroit, and the ushers were the bride's cousins, Eldon Johnson, of St. Paul, Minn., Carl Olson, Stanley Larson, and Roland Gustavson, of Chicago. The flower girl, Lois Harper, wore a gown of blue satin and carried a colonial bouquet of white bebe mums.

Preceding the ceremny, Oscar Green sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly". Mr. Bergstrom gave his daughter in marriage. Lohengrin's wedding march was played by Mrs. Arthur Borling, the church organist.

Mrs. Bergstrom chose for her daughter's wedding a formal gown of plum colored crepe, while Mrs. Neff wore a gown of light blue chiffon. Both wore corsages of orchids.

Following the ceremony a reception for 130 guests was held at the South Side Swedish club. The bride's table was centered with a bouquet of white chrysanthemums and flanked with white tapers. At the reception Mrs. John Johnson sang several selections and Roland Gustavson acted as master of ceremonies.

Mr. and Mrs. Neff left for a short wedding trip, after which they will make their home in Marquette where Mr. Neff is a member of the Michigan State Police staff.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lance Neff, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Neff and daughter, Marilyn, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Walgren, Mrs. Minnie MacLeod and daughter, Marjory, Mrs. Patrick Burke, Thomas Hickey, Mrs. Edward Britton and daughter, Mary, of Detroit; Mrs. Basil Kennedy, of Traverse City; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Voreis and Miss Margaret Swanson, of Culver, Ind.; Eldon Johnson, of St. Paul, Minn.; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Evy, of Downers Grove; Fred Rampke, of Riverdale, Ill.; Miss Leslie Smith and Mrs. Hilding Almquist, of LaGrange, Ill.

ers, smelt and other varieties—strewn along the Lake Michigan shoreline from the piers as far south as Fisherman's Island. Caught by the storm in shoal water, the fish probably were killed by the heavy surf. Seagulls had an early and unexpected Thanksgiving dinner.

A lonesome existence is usually the lot of the man who places value of money above the value of friendship.

Drew a blank opening day of the deer hunting season, so will continue the quest this week end. Found out Sunday how it is done, though. While I was loading my gun and my brother Clare (dump grounds deer killer) Usher was pulling on his gloves, mother of those Grand Rapids slickers, Rniph (Dead-Eye) Demman, walked up the road about 75 feet and bopped off a nice prong-horn right from under our noses. That's how it's done, but whether you have to live right to be that lucky, is something I'm still pondering over.

Even the fellows who used to address their wives as You and Hey now call 'em Dear and Darling, but nobody calls 'em by their given names.

It is an uncertain age in which we live. Tomorrow is a mystery to us all. With war invading every portion of the globe, no one is secure and few are undisturbed. Yet life goes on. It spite of war, children are being born and their future planned, books are being written and music composed. There is work to be done, and there are truths that cannot be destroyed. We must teach our children to believe in decency, to fight for liberty, to respect the rights of other men, to live and work in harmony with their neighbors. They must be taught realities, but they must understand that honor is a reality no less than war. In a world of turmoil we should remind ourselves that character and integrity are enduring, that beauty and dignity will survive all wars, that fairness and kindness and consideration are indestructible.

These troubled past two weeks have had a brighter side as well. I refer to the many, many expressions of personal interest in my welfare; of those who said: "I'm glad you're staying in Charlevoix, Ken"; of those who have said they liked this little column. I am very grateful, folks.

LOCAL HUNTERS BAG THREE DEER

ber was by no means a record, it was larger than anticipated in view a general belief that wartime travel restrictions and difficulty confronting defense workers to obtain time off would greatly curtail the quantity of ninirods.

The number of hunters taking to the woods throughout the state was larger than earlier expected. The conservation department planned a season equal to 1940 when 175,000 were licensed, while indications now are that last year's army of 225,000 would be equalled. A check Sunday evening on US-27 showed a heavier first day kill than a year ago, a fact, which, however, may have been an indication that successful hunters were returning home earlier so as not to be absent from war jobs. Most lower peninsula areas reported a heavier hunter concentration than last year. The state highway department reported week end traffic at the straits 12.4 lighter than a year ago, although the concentration Friday and Saturday was heavier than the same period in 1941. The waiting line at Mackinaw City was eliminated Sunday at 3 a. m. after a 33-hour stretch.

MICHIGAN COUNCIL OF DEFENSE
Michigan War Week

Share-the-Meat Campaign Opens in State Nov. 30

Neighborhood War club leaders in all sections of the state will begin training Nov. 23 for the job of enlisting the people of their communities in the nation-wide meat conservation program. War club leaders will begin a house-to-house educational survey Nov. 30 to explain the reason and necessity for conserving meat, distribute "Share the Meat for Victory" folders and sign up householders who wish to attend food demonstrations.

First steps were taken during the week of Nov. 9 to 16 when representatives of the State Nutrition committee of the Michigan Council of Defense met with chairmen of county and local councils of defense, county nutrition committees and chairmen of Neighborhood War clubs to explain the details of the meat conservation program.

Organization of Neighborhood War clubs, designed to enlist every family in all phases of the home defense war effort, is going forward rapidly in all parts of the state, according to Mrs. Margaret E. Blaney, chief of the MCD volunteer activities section, who is in charge of developing Neighborhood War clubs. County councils of defense in 75 of the state's 83 counties have reported progress on war club organization, and clubs are fully organized and active in many communities.

V-Home Drive Grows

The V-Home drive in Michigan is going forward at an encouraging rate, according to Lt. Col. Owen J. Cleary, state chief air raid warden. Approximately 180,000 V-Home stickers have been distributed to 25 councils of defense in the state by the Michigan Council of Defense. Orders for stickers are being filled as rapidly as possible and the demand indicates the interest of the public in the campaign. Latest requests for V-Home emblems have been received from Hancock, Traverse City, Grosse Pointe, Iron Mountain, Pontiac and Ionia.

New Schools to Open

New air raid warden instructors schools will open Dec. 3 in the state's seven Citizens Defense Corps districts. Members of the defense corps staff will be instructors and schools will run four days each. A survey made by Lt. Col. Owen J. Cleary, state chief air raid warden determined the need for more air raid warden instructors to train volunteers for warden and other protective services. Schools are scheduled for Dec. 3 at Cadillac; Dec. 10, Detroit and Flint; Dec. 17, Jackson and Grand Rapids; Dec. 27, Kalamazoo and Marquette. The Michigan department, American Legion is again cooperating in arranging the schools and selecting students. Public school superintendents have been urged to select members of their faculties for instructor training.

Teach Wartime Living

"The School for Wartime Living", a one-day consumer educational program for home-makers, is well underway with schools being scheduled in many Michigan cities, according to Mrs. Martha G. Sawyer, chief of the Michigan Council of Defense consumer activities section. Schools were held Bay City and Coldwater, Nov. 7 and in Midland, Mt. Clemens and Holland Nov. 14. Others are booked for Nov. 21 in Ann Arbor, St. Johns and Mt. Pleasant.

Controlled Distribution Scheduled to Start November 29

Persons who did not receive war ration book No. 1, originally issued for sugar rationing, are reminded to obtain this book if they wish to purchase coffee after rationing starts November 29.

No books were issued in some cases where a large amount of sugar was in an individual's possession. Books are obtainable at the local rationing board office, with those stamps removed which have already been designated for the purchase of sugar.

MICHIGAN BELL ASKS HALT SOCIAL CALLS ON THANKSGIVING DAY

The Michigan Bell Telephone company urges its customers to refrain from making social long distance calls on Thanksgiving Day to prevent possibly dangerous congestion of the circuits.

C. Lester Johnson, manager for the company, pointed out that the wires will be crowded with military and war production calls, and calls home by men in the service.

He particularly urged users not to make social calls over transcontinental or interstate long distance lines involving distances of more than 300 miles, where the traffic normally is heaviest. He also suggested that a person having an urgent call to make, give the operator the number of the distant telephone if possible and keep the conversation short.

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY IS GIVEN WEIGHT TAX

Charlevoix county received an apportionment of $16,316.86 in automobile weight taxes for the third quarter of 1942, according to a report from State Highway Commissioner, G. Donald Kennedy to the auditor general.

AAA PROGRAM IN CHARLEVOIX COUNTY

A two day district AAA meeting attended by county committeemen, county farmer fieldwomen and secretaries from fifteen Northern Michigan counties was held in Boyne City at the Hotel Dilworth on November 11 and 12. State AAA committeemen and representatives from Lansing were in charge of the meeting which was presented in the form of a discussion of county administrative problems and general school of instruction relative to the many phases of the Farm program.

Main emphasis was placed upon food production for the coming year and each county established 1943 goals showing the percentage increase they expected to obtain over 1942 production records. AAA committeemen will personally contact farmers with this information in order that every individual farming operation may be adjusted accordingly to meet the county goal.

We are again urging farmers to make applications for fertilizer to apply on their 1943 AAA payment. Several shipments of fertilizer have recently been received in Boyne City, Charlevoix and East Jordan. You may receive fertilizer from your nearest town. As we have previously informed you, this coming year the fertilizer may be applied on your small grain crops, excluding wheat. For this reason, we expect that our supply of fertilizer will be ordered more rapidly than usual. We are not assured as to our future shipments, therefore be on the safe side and sign for your fertilizer now while it is available. Remember that every ton of fertilizer applied on your farm will contribute to the war effort by greater production yields.

APPLY ON FRIDAY FOR MORE GAS

"B" AND "C" BOOKS WILL BE ISSUED THIS WEEK

Don't Apply Unless Eligible; Save Rationing Board Considerable Unnecessary Labor

Registrntion for supplemental gasoline ration books will be held in this city Friday and Saturday, Novemher 27-28, in the basement clubroom of the city hall between the hours of 1 and 9 p. m. Of the 673 local meterista who obtalned "A" cards at the initial registration last week, a large number are expected to apply for edditlonal allowances.

These who intend to meke application are urged to examine their qualifications for "B" books, which provide a maximum mileage of 470 miles per month, or "C" baoks, which are tailored to fit individual needs. Only thase engaged in the war effort or public health and safety are entitled to supplemental mileage in excess of 470 miles per month, and even these nre subject to many limitations. "E" and "R" books, fer non-highway use, end "T" books, for trucks, taxis and verious commercial uses, will also be issued at this registration.

Application blanks, for which many people applied at last week's registration, must be completely and accurately filled out before presented to the rationing boerd.

Incorrectly made out applicetion blnnks, nnd numerous appllcations by persons not entitled to additional mileage nbove the provisions of the "A" books, can unnecessarily confuse the work of the local ratianing board, already swamped by the lnbor required in rationing of autos, tires, sugnr, fuel oil, coffee and other nrticles.

Petitloners for "B" books must be able to prove necessity for higher occupational mileage, bo a member of a ride-sharing team or prove that such an arrnngement is impossible, and prove thnt public transportation is inndequate.

Eligible for "C" books are employees of federnl, state or local governments, including mail carriers; school teachers or officials and vehicles for the transportation of four or more pupils or teachers; vehicles for wholesale newspaper delivery and transportation of nen-pertable news reel

SUMMER ROAD MAP IS FINAL FOR DURATION

State Highwey Department Still Has Supply Old Maps

Because of a decline in highway travel which will be further decreased with the ndvent of gasoline rationing, nnd extremely few road construction changes, the 1942 summer, highway department service map, will be the last one printed for the duration, State Highway Commissioner G. Donald Kennedy announced this week.

Kennedy said that an ample supply is still available in state highwey department offices as few maps were distributed during the summer and fall for exhibits and fairs. Maps were previously issued for spring, summer, and winter indicating road changes.

KIWANIS CLUB AID RED CROSS

DRIVE WILL BE CONDUCTED TUESDAY NIGHT

Will Encavor to Complete City's Share in County Quota of 400 Kits for Service Men

Raising of $150 to furnish 150 comfort kits to men in the nntion's armed forces is the goal of n drive to be staged by the Charlevoix Kiwanis club next Tuesday evening.

The Kiwanians hnve undertnken the tnsk of filling this city's share in the Charlevoix county Red Cross chapter's quota of 400 kits in the confident hope that each citizen who hns a relative or friend in the service will give some nmeunt, however small or large, townrd filling a kit which may go to that partlcular soldier.

In conducting the drive, the thirty Kiwanians will divide the city into districts, each of which will be canvassed by two members following their weekly meeting, which closes at eight o'clock.

Red Cross specifications for contents of the kit include: small soap box and soap, deck of playing cards, package of cigarettes, shoe polishing cloth, small pencil with cap, package of envelopes and paper, package of chewing gum, pair of 40-inch shoelaces, waterproof matchbox, package of double-edge razor bladea, a pocket-aize book, either detective or humorous, and a aewing ease containing two darning needles, six snfety pins, and skeins of thread and buttons to match uniforms. These articles are purchased by each chapter at cost from wholesala houses, through arrangement made by national Red Cross headquarters.

EIGHTEEN MEN LEFT FOR ARMY SERVICE

Future Send-off Programs to be Held at School Gymnasium

Eighteen Charlevoix county men left last Wednesday afternoon for Fort Custer to enter army service at the conclusion of their two-weeks furlough after induction at Kalamazoo.

R. L. Lewis acted as master of ceremonies at the send-off program in the gymnasium at three o'clock, introducing Major J. Sidorowicz, who gave a short inspirational talk. Rev. Wilford Wood gave the benediction. Max Smith directed the Charlevoix high school band in a group of musical selections, and gifts were presented to the men by the Charlevoix Service Organization and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Those leaving from Charlevoix were Steve Louis Faculak, John J. Hallett, J. Frederick Kirkpatrick; George T. Fratrick, Harry L. Oldham, Tony Faculak, and James William Ochs.

Future send-off programs will be conducted in the gymnasium, as cold weather will prevent outdoor programs.

REDUCED WINTER TAX PAYABLE DECEMBER 1

Winter taxes, which became payable, Tuesday, December 1, at the office of City Treasurer Nelle A. Hammond, are lower than last year, according to figures just released.

The rate spread will be $16.86 per thousand dollers valuation, compared to $18.81 last year. Spread against a city valuation of $2,368,365, the tax is divided $10.06 per thousand for county purposes, $6.20 per thouaand for school operating. With retirement of the school bonded indebtedness last January, no spread is made for school debt service this year, although two extra mills was voted for operating at the annual school meeting in July.

Taxes are payable without four per cent collection penalty until January 9 unless the penalty deadline is extended by the city council.

JALOPY ROUND-UP CAMPAIGN PLANNED

County Residents Asked to Help Locate Abandoned Cars

Thousands of junk ears heve been turned in for scrap during the past few months, but hundreds are still availablo all over the state, many of them in Charlevoix county.

Abandoned along the roadside by their former owners, or simply left standing in field or ynrd, these old cars will ba gatherad for scrap metal during the Michigan jalopy round-up campaign, December 1-15.

Residents of Charlevoix county are asked to help in the round-up by writing to the Salvaga Committee, Boyne City, to give the location of such autos.

Cars which still provide transportation are not considered as jalopys.

INCREASED FOOD BUDGET ALLOWED

BUREAU OF SOCIAL AID RECIPIENTS BENEFIT

Sylvester Vaughan, Director for County, Says Changes May Require Three Months

Michigan's social security recipients, hard-pressed by mounting living costs because of the war, will receive a 25 percent increase in fned allowances, beginning next month.

The state welfara commission at its meeting Thursday, October 22, nuthorized F. F. Fauri, social security director, to increase grants to clients receiving old ago assistance, aid to dependent children, and ald to the blind during the next seven months.

Fauri had recommended the action, pointing out that present food allowances wore granted on the basis of 1039 food cost surveys and that state matching funds could meet the increase up until next June.

He said the increaso would be predicated upon the continued decline of case loads. At present, he said, old age assistance rolls include 01,180 persons, aid to dependent children 19,428, and aid to the blind 1,384.

He said that under the increased payment program, the state's share of old ago assistance for the year ending next Juno was estimated at $11,403,040 and that available funds totalled $11,459,040, leaving a balance of $56,000. State funds available for aid to

RAYDERS MEET GRAYLING ON HOME COURT

Reserve Teams will Open Double Bill; Initial Contest Week Ahead of Schedule

Charlevoix high school's Red Rayder basketball team will open their 1942-43 season Wednesday night on the home court.

Grayling high school comes for the initial tilt, a contest, set nhend from February 12 at the request of official of that school due ta uncertainty of transporting athletes after the advent of gasoline rationing December 1 and the ban on use of school busses for such purpose.

Coach Ray Kipke will have two veterans in the starting line-up Wednesday night. They are John Swnnson, guard, and Don Carey, forward. Occupying the other forward position will be Jasen Chambers; Robert Vratinina will hold the center position occupied last year by Carey, and Bill Rowe will complete the line-up at the other guard position. Others of the first ten are Ralph Mitchell, a regular last yenr, and John Bissell, guards; Lester Gnllagher, center; Bernie Ward, Jr., and Don Bellinger, guards.

The preliminary contest will match two local reserve teams.

Charlevoix'a original 14-game schedule, reduced to 12 contests by cancellation by Gaylord, is as follows:

THOSE 16 - 19 SUBJECT TO SELECTIVE SERVICE

Registration is Scheduled Last Three Weeks in December; Deferment Outlined

The Charlevoix county draft board has received and is acting on orders to register for selective service all youths who have turned 18 since July 1, 1942. The registration will be spread over the last three weeks of December.

This will make perhaps 500,000 more than 18-year olds eligible for service under the new draft law.

The new orders were issued shortly after National Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey had set in motion machinery which will bring some 'teen-age youths into the armed services, probably within 40 to 60 days, and defer essential farm workers. Hershey acted under the recently-passed 'teen-age draft law.

The order also provided for the continuing registration of those who attain their 18th year after Jan. 1. They will register on their birthdays.

For those who became 18 after July 1, the following schedule was set:

Youths born between July 1, 1924, and August 31, 1924, will register during the week beginning Dec. 11. Those born between Sept. 1, 1924, and Oct. 31, 1924, will register between Dec. 18 and Dec. 24. Those born between Nov. 1, 1924, and Dec. 31, 1924, will register between Dec. 26 and Dec. 31.

This is the sixth registration ordered by the president. The last was on June 30, when 18-and-19 year olds were first registered. At that time, however, the 18-19 year class was not subject to call for military duty. Mr. Roosevelt signed legislation last Friday permitting their drafting for military service.

Moving swiftly to effectuate the terms of the recently-enacted 'teen age draft law, Hershey issued directives to state selective service headquarters to guide local draft boards in carrying out the new program. He ordered:

Deferment of all men who registered before the age of 45 who have since passed their 45th birth-

SHOT AT RANDOM

By KEN USHER

Why do they always speak of Hitler's "spring offensive?" Hitler is offensive any time of the year.

Louie O'Neill came forth with the best deer hunting alibi I've heard so far this year. Just before a big buck came romping along over on Beaver Island he looked at his license and discovered is was made out for Louie Walinee, so he let the buck live, unloaded his rifle and packed back to town. Among other empty-handed hunters were J. C. Marshall, who shot part of a horn off a big one east of Kalkaska, and myself, with no alibi at all. There's still several days left in the season though, and a little optimism will do the rest.

In all literature there's no pleasantor reading than a complimentary paragraph in a newspaper about yourself. So, being a part of the organization which gave way to Messrs. Scudder & Garrison, new owners of the Courier, I pause to express appreciation to Editor G. A. Lisk, of the Charlevoix County Herald, East Jordan, and Editor Al Weber, of the Cheboygan Observer, Cheboygan, for their kind expressions of praise regarding conduct of the Courier in the past. And being also a part of the organization represented by the new owners, I will take exception with both of them on their statement the Courier cannot be improved. There's nothing under the sun that won't stand betterment, and the Courier is no exception.

If you have any idle time on your hands, take up pipe-smoking and you'll never have another idle moment, what with cleaning, filling, lighting, packing, loosening, re-lighting, tamping, puffing, cleaning, filling, etc., etc.

After talking with many local hunters, I've come to the conclusion that something's happened to some of the favored spots where deer were plentiful last year. It might be unfavorable weather, change in food conditions or num-

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Speaking of reasons why we should be thankful:

All records in Michigan for holiday buying are likely to be broken during the next few weeks. There is more money in circulation, more employment, higher payrolls, and bigger family incomes than ever before.

In scores of industrial towns the factories are humming with plush war orders. Pay checks are being swollen by over-time.

The approach of more rationing, together with growing shortages of merchandise, has precipitated a consumers' rush to get products while they are still available.

Opening of the "second front" in Africa and news of the outstanding achievement made by the U. S.-made tanks in Egypt were welcomed by managers of several Michigan war plants.

One plant has been manufacturing heavy tanks. Because of shortage of a few vital parts hundreds of the assembled machines have not been sent to seaboard ports for shipment to our fighting fronts.

It's hard to convince a worker that he should stay on the job and forego the pleasure of deer hunting or frequent absences, when the government apparently is in no hurry to get the machine when the worker is through with it.

Hoarding of surplus labor by management, fearful of a disadvantage in the arms race, and over-absenteeism by labor are two of the most common complaints to be heard at Lansing these days.

Selective service officials are convinced that many war plants are over-manned with draft-age workers, that management is trying to hedge as much as possible against anticipated draft losses, that women can replace most men and do the job just as well.

On management's side you hear this complaint: Organized labor is limiting production, compelling workers to slow down, and is indifferent to frequent absences by workers. "We can't win the war

THANKSGIVING

George Washington, in the first Presidential Thanksgiving proclamation, 153 years ago, cited "the means we have of acquiring and diffusing general information" among the blessings for which his countrymen should render thanks.

No doubt this greatest of American leaders had in mind a free press, then in the stage of infancy, but today one of the major factors in providing general information and moulding public opinion.

The democracies today stand alone in a war-torn world with a free press. It is a privilege which has survived 153 years and longer. George Washington wisely pointed to it as a blessing then. It is still so—only increased many fold.

We give thanks this fateful Thanksgiving season of 1942.

SPECIAL THANKSGIVING SERVICE TO BE HELD

As is customary in all Christian Science churches, a special Thanksgiving service will be held on Thanksgiving Day in the Christian Science church, 205 Clinton St.

Following the usual order of service there will be a brief period in which members of the congregation may express their gratitude for healings and other help which they received during the past year. All are cordially invited to attend.

REV. RINGENOLDUS IS CALLED TO MONTAGUE

Rev. H. C. Ringenoldus, for the past five and a half years pastor of Barnard Reformed church, has accepted a call to the Ferry Memorial Reformed church of Montague, Mich. He and Mrs. Ringenoldus will leave Charlevoix next month, as he expects to take up his new pastorate after December 7th.

NAVY MAKES APPEAL 18-19 YEAR YOUTHS

Points to Training Offered Young Men Subject to Draft

Enactment of the law to draft men 18 and 19 years old makes clear the fact that now is an opportune time for such men to find out what the navy offers them, both in valuable training and a chance to serve their country.

This was announced today by Lieut. Byron E. Flechtner, officer in charge of Michigan navy recruiting.

"Since hundreds of thousands of 18 and 19-year-old men soon will be called for military service," said Lieutenant Flechtner, "they owe it to themselves to investigate now the opportunities which the navy offers them to continue their education.

"Navy training is practical—for this reason—navy-trained men get high-paying jobs in private industry later. This navy training is in 49 different trades and specialties, most of which have a direct counterpart in civilian occupations."

He urges young men who expect to be called for military service to visit their nearest navy recruiting stations now during Michigan Navy Recruiting Month. A campaign is underway throughout the state to enlist 4,000 Michigan men in the navy by December 7, the first anniversary of Pearl Harbor.

SAVING DEER HIDES DEEMED A NECESSITY

Buckskin for Military Use Asked by War Production Board

News that buckskin is much needed for military purposes is giving new impetus to the conservation department campaign to have all hunters sell to tanneries at nominal prices the deer hides that are not being made up for personal use.

Earlier it was believed that the use of buckskin would be largely to meet civilian needs, releasing other leather for war use. Now Albert Schain, chief of the imported hides unit of the textile, clothing and leather branch of the War Production Board, reveals a specific need for buckskin for military uses.

For mukluks (a kind of moccasin) of artic troops, for special gloves for the signal corps, and for "a host of other military requirements," buckskin is needed, Schain says. He points out that imports of foreign deerskins previously used are now "gravely uncertain."

Hunters are advised to remove the hide from their deer carefully, salt it well with several handfuls of course salt, roll it in a tight bundle with the hair side out, attach the shipping and selling permit tag obtained without cost from the local conservation officer, and ship it promptly to a tannery.

day. Exceptions may be made when men in this age group consent to induction.

Deferment of farm workers of all ages subject to the draft who are necessary to and regularly engaged in work in war-essential agriculture.

Deferment of high school students in the 18-10 year class, if the students request it and they are in the last half of the autumn-to-spring school year.

Distribution of questionnaires to 18 and 19-year-olds who registered in January 1942. They will be called up on the order of their birthdays. No lottery will be held.

Hershey set up two new draft classes—II-C and III-C—for deferred farm workers. Those without dependent wives, children or other grounds for dependency deferment will go in II-C, those with dependency into III-C.

Hershey's directives made it plain that draft boards would retain the last word on whether a farm worker is to be inducted or not. Local boards may seek the advice of the agricultural department and county agricultural war boards, as to what farms are essential to the war and what jobs on them are classed as "necessary."

GASOLINE HOARDER DUE FOR TROUBLE

Excess Storage May Void Insurance Protection

In a communication received here by Chief Charles Marshall, of the fire department, Oscar G. Olander, state police commissioner, warned that violators of the gasoline rationing order will find themselves liable to prosecution and insurance cancellation.

"Michigan should profit by the experiences of the east where gasoline rationing has been in effect for several months," Olander said. "Many accidents and explosions resulted from the attempt there of a few motorists to hoard a supply of motor car fuel. In one instance, several barrels of gasoline were found in a residence where an explosion occurred, causing two fatalities and injuring several firemen."

Olander pointed out that it is illegal to store more than five gallons of gasoline in any building or structure not used exclusively for storage. Some cities limit by city ordinance, the amount to one gallon. Stiff penalties are provided under the law for violation.

ATTENDANCE STATE PARKS SHOWS DROP

Decrease of 24 Per Cent Revealed by Conservation Department

Michigan state parks served 7,382,000 customers in 1942, but the peak attendance of 9,715,000 in 1941 so far exceeds the recent figure that the season now closing must go into the record books as having 24 per cent less use, the conservation department's parks division reports.

The number of campers declined more sharply than daytime attendance, and at 85,200 was down 44 per cent from the previous season. Tent and trailer camps declined at about the same rate, and the total number of camps built, at 23,401, was off 48 per cent.

The influence of travel difficulties was seen also in the increase in the number of persons per camp from 3.42 to 3.78 and the increase in the number of days the average camp was maintained from 4.8 to 5.8. Campers comprised about seven per cent of the total attendance.

The "Big Three" again were Grand Haven, Bay City and Holland state parks, in that order, with Bay City displacing Holland from second place. The 51 state parks open served visitors from 43 states, the District of Columbia and Canada.

EGG CARE WORTH AN EXTRA MILLION

Those eggs that never get out of the hen house make a total worth an extra million dollars a year to poultrymen in Michigan.

At least one egg in 25 gets broken or eaten by the hens before it is gathered, according to estimates made by C. G. Card, head of the Michigan State College poultry department.

One common fault comes from not providing sufficient nests. The average henhouse has a nest for each 10 hens,—one for every five hens makes a better proportion, according to tests. The extra nests, not lighted up as well as the feeding floors, help keep extra hens from crowding into nests already occupied.

Laying records at the college indicate from 60 to 75 per cent of the eggs are laid before noon. That not only is an indication of need for plenty of nests, but means that the gathering periods often should be adjusted. If eggs can be gathered at least four times daily, the gathering should be at about 9:30 and 10 a. m., noon and at night.

Nesting material needs to be adequate. Professor Card suggests attention to the nesting material to prevent breakage of eggs. This prevention, in turn, would prevent hens from eating many of the eggs that they normally do eat.

From there on, it's simple arithmetic. With the annual egg crop worth approximately 25 million dollars in Michigan, the saving of every 25th egg ought to mean a million dollars a year for the effort. Right now, he says, that makes a good combination of economy and patriotism.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The "Stovepipe," as the 60-millimeter trench mortar is commonly known, is used by our infantry for close-in fighting. It fires a 2.4-pound shell at the rate of about 35 a minute.

The mortar fires its projectile in a U-shaped arc and for this reason may be successfully camouflaged behind an obstruction. It costs about $500. You and your neighbors, joining together, can buy many of these effective weapons for use of our army. Investing at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every payday will do the job. EDITH MAY SMITH SUCCUMBED FRIDAY

Had Lived in Clearwater, Fla., for Past Sixteen Years

Word has been received by local friends of the death of Edith May Smith, 27, at Clearwater, Fla., last Friday. She died at Morton Plant Hospital after a short illness.

Born in Charlevoix, Miss Smith went to Clearwater 16 years ago with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee R. Smith. She was a member of the Jayece Beach club, Business club of the Y. W. C. A., Peace Memorial Presbyterian church and active in Red Cross and home nursing work.

Surviving are her parents, three sisters, Mrs. Helen Rogers, Ruth, and Marilyn; a brother, Bobby; grandmother, Mrs. John J. Wagner, all of Clearwater; and her grandfather, M. Nixen, of Charlevoix.

Funeral services were held Monday at the Alexander funeral home in Clearwater.

INCREASED FOOD BUDGET ALLOWED

dependent children, he said, were estimated at $6,112,184, compared with needed funds of $0,003,803.

Fauri reported the state's expenditure under increased aid to the blind would be $230,000, leaving a deficit of $28,000, which he said could be met by a transfer from other funds.

Total increases in food allowances for the seven-months' period would be approximately $2,000,000, Fauri estimated.

Increases will be made as rapidly as the bureau of social aid staff can make them. The changing of 714 cases concerned may require the next two or three months to make all changes.

Recipients are asked not to call or write the bureau of social aid regarding the increase in food allowance, as it will only delay the increase on the case because of the time element involved. Every effort will be made to make these changes as rapidly as possible, said Sylvester M. Vaughan, county supervisor of the bureau of social aid for Charlevoix county.

Ceilings in aid to dependent children grants will be raised to meet the increased costs of food and other increased costs of living. Ceilings will be fixed as follows: $34 for one child, compared with $28 at present; $40 for two children, compared with $34; $50 for three children, compared with $42; $60 for four children, compared with $55; and $70 for five children, compared with $66.

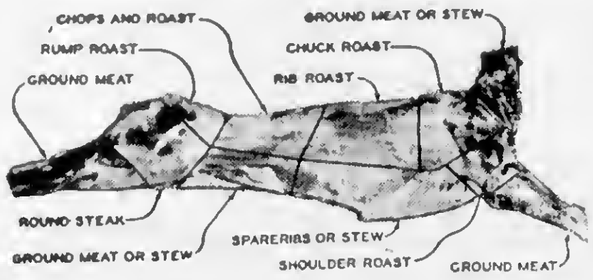
Venison Supplements Meat Ration



Several million pounds of venison from the 50,000 deer that probably will be taken in Michigon this fall will be a welcome oddition to meat rations in many homes. Properly butchered, a deer yields much meat that can be stored for later use. Venison can be smoked, pickled or dried, but the simplest preserving methods, where cold storage lockers are not available, are cold-pack canaing and old-fashioned refrigeration freezing, wrapping ond packing in sawdust in a barrel set outdoors Venison may be kept 60 days past the end of the deer season without permit, six months longer if a permit is obtained from the state conservation department.

THE HOME FRONT IN MICHIGAN

The Michigan coffee-lover, beginning with breakfast on next Sunday, Nov. 29, must face the world on about a cup a day. Starting on that day, stamp No. 27 in your War Ration book—the book you use to get sugur—will entitle you and each member of your family over 14 years old to one pound of coffee. This will have to last you five weeks.

Most of the rules applied to sugar rationing will apply also to coffee. The main exception is that you will not be nble to get coffee with coupons from the books of your children 14 years old or younger. And you probably will want to take care of your coffee purchases differently than you have sugar. Most women are accustomed to buying sugar in large quantities, but coffee loses its flavor and freshness and should be bought a pound or two nt a time.

Advise to Christmas shoppers from the office of Defense Transportation! Carry your packages home with you (store delivery has been cut 25 per cent under last year), but carry them on buses and street cars during off-peak hours between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. In cases of purchases that cannot be carried, do your shopping immediately. Avoid the all-time record crush anticipated for mid-December.

Kitchen gadgets are out for the duration. The War Production board has ordered that bare essentials must be the rule, which eliminates most of the varied and colorful army of metal gadgets, cooking utensils and housewares that in recent years have characterized the American home and kitchen.

Price reductions are always good news—and here's a report of them from the office of price administration. The cost of knitted underwear is expected to drop from three to 20 cents per garment under un OPA order requiring that savings in material costs of these garments due to necessary war-time substitutions of less expensive carded yarn for combed yarn be passed on to the consumer.

To prevent a critical heating oil shortage in lower Michigan and to insure adequate deliveries pending further study into price structures, OPA has just established new ceilings on distillate fuel oil for both tank wagon and refineries in this territory. Generally, the new ceilings are one-half cent higher per gallon.

The '43 garden season is a long way off—but Victory gardeners are advised by WPB that sufficient supplies of insecticides for next year will be assured.

Old jokes about the ice man may start popping up again soon. With curtailment of production of mechanical refrigerators, ice cards probably will start making their appearance in windows again. WPB is allowing the manufacture of 300,000 ice boxes next year—boxes which employ a minimum amount of iron and steel.

DOTS and DASHES: Number of styles and colors of wall paper has been reduced by WPB . . war-time limitation on private home construction and shut-down of many non-essential industries were factors in determining the extent of the curtailment . . umbrella production next year will be less than one-third of what it was in 1941. . . and umbrellas themselves will be generally uniform in size, shape and weight.

LANSING LETTER

on a 40-hour week," officials insist.

According to two British labor leaders who recently visited a number of American plants, the average American worker is not aware of the danger confronting the democracies.

Arthur Stace, editor, Ann Arbor News, makes this observation: "While paying the highest tribute to the magnificent physical establishments connected with the job of building weapons, the two visitors observed that the average American war worker seemed to lack the sense of urgency that motivates British workers to all-out production.

"Still more recently, an American reporter in Britain contributed a somewhat similar observation. His account did, however, emphasize a slightly different aspect of the situation. It related that after having lived together under the pressure of bombs and under the threat of immiaent attack, the British had acquired two valuable qualities: steadfast national solidarity and a willingness to sacrifice. In the face of perpetual danger, the nation has drawn closer together and individuals have lost a large part of their reluctance to do without things."

Wouldn't you like to buy a War Bond with an official validating stamp, "December 7, 1942"?

Frank N. Isbey, Frank Murphy's choice for manager of the Michigan State Fair who is chairman of the Michigan war savings committee, invites Michigan citizens "to remember Pearl Harbor" by buying an extra bond between Dec. 1 and 7.

A commemorating date of Dec. 7 will be stamped on each bond purchased during that period, if the purchaser requests it.

Within twelve weeks after enlistment, 300 Michigan volunteers in the U. S. Marines will be on their way to battle, presumably in the southern Pacific war zone.

This fact, together with the 167th anniversary of the founding of the Marine Corps, prompted a group of chain store executives in Detroit to arrange a Christmas party in San Diego for the Michigan lads.

Each youth will receive a box containing cakes, cookies, cigarettes, razors, belts, etc.

Cooperating companies are Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, Sears Roebuck, Kroger Grocery & Baking Company, S. S. Kresge, and Cunningham Drug stores.

Repeal of war time for Michigan, the most western state to be within the eastern time zone, is a good bet for the 1943 state legislature.

Campaigning candidates found this pledge to be a vote-getting weapon in bidding for farmer's support.

The last legislature repealed the advanced war time, only to have the governor veto the bill.

Streamlining the state legislative job into two annual sessions, instead of the biennial seige at Lansing that usually goes well into May or June, is one of the objectives of Governor-elect Harry F. Kelly.

Other governors have had similar dreams—economy in government, for example—and it remains to be seen whether Kelly can deliver the goods.

It is his conviction that an annual budget would be more efficient. Hence the annual session proposal.

What and How to Feed War Plant Workers

The American Weekly . . . with this Sunday's (November 29) issue of The Detroit Sunday Times . . . points out that food experts say workers can pack enough pep into a lunchbox to avoid afternoon slump at the desk, or on the assembly line, and make up man-hours lost through illness—without putting a strain on the pocketbook. CHAPTER VI

The hours went by; chill deylight came into the room. Sha got up jeded and weary, bathed and brusbad her thick hair and somehow was at breakfast with Emma as usual at eight o'clock. Emma gave her a sharp look as if sbs thought that even last night's activities should not have left such tracea, hut sha said nothing; hoth woman rustled the morning papers and drank their coffee almost in silence.

The customary miracle of service was going on in the house, was accomplished when Cherry walked through the downstaire rooms at noon after a full, fire-warmed morning in Mrs. Porter's apartment, tha ordinary procedure of letters and compliments and telephone calls. Tha great house had reassumed its aspect of luxurious mausoleum.

Cherry felt stifled. She told Emma she did not want nny lunch; sbe took a long walk instead, for Mrs. Porter, all cheerful restoration and amazing vitality at breakfast, had admitted in mid-morning that sha felt sleepy—oot one hit tired, hut sleepy. So the machinery of the day bad heen stopped. Cherry wae free until late in the afternoon.

She walked toward the Presidio and down its narrow eucalyptus-shaded paths to the cliffs, and so along hy the bay shore. Right across the hay, under the arch of tho long red bridge, was Sausalito, and somewhere there was Kelly's studio, "Topcote."

Cherry sat down on a wall and stared wistfully at the hills as if her thoughts could cross the miles, and somehow find him and somehow let him know how eager she was to make her apologies. "Topcote" could easily be reached on a long afternoon's walk; it would be but a short half-dozen miles in all. Her fancy began to play.

Soma day—her next all-free day—sha would start early and walk straight across the bridge, and when she reached the great ramps on the Marin County sido, she would ask someone wbere Spanish Farm Road was, and follow it to eome gate or fence that said, "Topcote."

Emma, quiet and stern-faced and impersonal, had to concede herself sufficiently like the rest of humankind to succumb to a heavy chest cold when changeable March weather wos vexing the city, and for a few days the household was seriously alarmed about her. Her old employer woe ill too, and a nurse who had often cared for Mrs Porter wae installed in the rooms of the mistress; there was a second nurse as well to relieve the first.

For the little time that Mrs. Porter needed diversion, her nurses read to her or chatted with her and Cherry formed the habit of spending the early evening hours with Emma, as Emma grew convalescent. Although the older woman never acknowledged in words that she liked her companion or missed her or waited for her, Cherry grew to enjoy these evenings, and suspected that Emma did, too.

Emma was about fifty, but she might have been any age between thirty and seventy. Her face wae thin, narrow and marked hy starkness and reserve. Her graying hair she wore coronet fashion in tight braids in which never a hair was awry.

A strange, cold, repressed woman, Cherry used to think, as Emma, belted into a gray wrapper, sat back panting against her pillows and attacked the day's bills, menus, reports. Cherry brought up a lamp that illumined the ceiling and sent a soft light down for the invalid's eyes, brought up a glass bowl of crocus blossoms and set it on the table, put a Chinese plate of brown bulbs in the sunshiny south window where Emma could employ times of languor in watching their almost hourly change. And finally, shyly, she brought Emma a tiny kitten, a bundle of wet, wailing fur that she had found by the Presidio wall.

Emma laughed a short, scornful laugh at this last contribution. Sha never could stand cats, she said. But Cherry, noting the confidence with which the small stray, newly warmed and fed, was advancing toward Emma's languid hand, promised with great confidence that she would remove the little creature tha minute he became troublesome. From that moment the cat was visibly the absorbing consideration of asked idly one night. Emma looked at her quickly, hesitated before speaking.

"Yes," she answered then. "I'd taken tha boys, Fred and Judson, through tonsil operations, and then through scarlet fever, at the hospital when I was in training. The old lady took a liking to me, and when they'd come back from abroad a few years later and I'd been widowed, the old madame—as we used to call Mrs. Marshbanks, though I don't suppose she wee more than fifty then—sent for me to take care of the colonel. He'd been struck down with sleeping sickness; he was on a couch for years. Then Miss Louise—she wee the only daughter and had married an engineer from Springfield—came home to have the baby. The old lady was so pleased about it—they both talked so much about the grandchild. And then to have both die—yes, that was a bad time.

"I stayed on as a nurse and housekeeper; I had my sister to support, and it was a comfortable place. I wasn't twenty when I graduated and came to them."

"How'd you know my mother, Emma? Did you meet her at the Marshbanks'?"

Emma looked thoughtfully at her companion.

"No; I knew her before that," sha finally said. And then, after another pause: "Your mother was my sister Charlotte."

Cherry stared at her. Tha words did not seem to make sense.

"My mother—" she began in a whisper, and stopped.

"Yes. Your mother was my sister. You were named for her.

"But Emma," Cherry said breathlessly, confusedly conscious of shock and reluctance, "you never told me!"

"Well, you don't always tell children everything," Emma said after a moment. "You weren't but a little thing when your mother died."

"I could have known that!" Cherry exclaimed. A thousand bright dreams vanished with the revelation, and she felt hurt and wronged. But amazement still had first place in her thoughts.

"Maybe I never told you because I didn't think you'd be especially pleased," Emma said dryly. Tha girl's color came up warmly.

"It's not that! Of course I'm—I'm glad," she stammered. "I've never had any family, and—and of course I'm glad!"

And, immediately, to her own amazement, sha burst into tears. She had often imagined what her connections might be; sha had never dreamed this. Emma—so contained and cold and distant—her own aunt! Cherry pushed the table away blindly and went to the window, and stood looking out at the dark night, and the far city lights that shot arrows and flashes through her tears.

"Mother—mother never told me!" sha stammered. "I wish she had!"

Cherry looked down at her cards with blinded eyes, and made herself move them here and there as if she were playing. She finished her game, and said with a shaking voice that sha was tired and thought she would go to bed. Emma still making no comment, Cherry put away the table and asked Emma if there was anything more sha could do.

"No," Emma said, "nothing."

The girl came to the bedside, looked down.

"Good night then," she added in a light, level tone, with a resolute smile. "Would you—I would if you liked — shall I call you Aunt Emma?" she added hesitatingly.

Emma eyed her steadily for a few long seconds.

"No," I don't know that I'd make any change," she said then, in the same emotionless voice that Cherry had used.

"Need more ice?"

"No; I'm going to listen to the radio and then I'm going to sleep.

"Good night," Cherry said, with a parting second attempt at a pleasant smile.

Sha walked to her own room, slipped into bed and lay with narrowed eyes and a bitten lower lip, pondering. Thought, long denied, came with a rush, and she was drowned in the bitterness of it.

Other girls had mothers and fathers and homes. And she had—sha had only the drab background of Saint Dorothea's and this humiliating revelation tonight!

Slow tears began to creep down Cherry's cheeks; presently she began to sob heavily. Sha cried herself to sleep.

One morning Cherry found herself free at noon, and determined to take one of tha long walks she loved.

Sha was some blocks away from home when a low-slung, open, disreputable car drew up close to her on tha curb and a voice said, "Jump in."

Tha world wheeled about her for a few dizzy seconds, for it was Kelly Contes who had spoken; he was driving the car and beside him sat Fran Marshbanks smothered in soft fox skins, with a daring red hat topped on her dark hair.

"I want Mrs. Marshbanks to come over and have lunch with me," tha man explained it honestly with his wide, flashing smile, "and she won't come unless you do."

"Are you free from those old ogres for a while?" Fran asked in her careless, fascinating, hoarse voice.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

Karl C. Festerling, District 4-H Club Leader, Visiting Rural Schools This Week.

Karl C. Festerling, newly appointed District 4-H Club leader for Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Cheboygan counties is making contacts with all schools in the county interested in 4-H club activity and in getting acquainted.

Mr. Festerling has had a background of 4-H club leadership and training that is difficult to equal. He comes from Munger, Mich., located near Bay City, where he has taught school for the last ten years. It is significant to note that both he and Mrs. Festerling have led clubs for thirteen years. More important is the fact that his leadership has been so exceptional that out of an original group of 21 boys, six of them are carrying on club projects for the 9th year. This is sufficient proof that he is the type of individual that attracts the attention of young folks and makes the program so worthwhile that even the older members continue their 4-H club activities.

This year our 4-H club projects in many cases have been adjusted to our war needs. In fact several new projects have been developed. In our clothing program three new projects are offered. The 4-H personal accounts may be taken by club members of 10 to 21 years of age inclusive. For the sum of 10c they will purchase an account book and keep an accurate record of all personal expenses for a twelve month period. Then in order to meet the needs for war effort in 1943 we have a project entitled "Everyday Work Clothes." This will encourage girls to make items of clothing such as "Coverette suits," "Field suits," "Coveralls" and other so called work clothes. Those members who may have good wool or rayon garments that may be outgrown or out of style, a new project "4-H Re-styling" has been developed to permit them to bring the garment up to date and wearable.

In regard to boys a new project "4-H Farm Machinery" is being announced. Among the requirements are checking farm machinery and repair parts, cleaning and oiling machinery, repairing worn and broken parts, adjusting farm machinery and many other requirements that are practical and may be carried out right on the home farm. In addition we have available a 4-H war activities project. In this program a club member will complete at least one of many projects such as the collection of waste fats, collecting tin cans or scrap metal, or selling war stamps and bonds. Thus we are adapting and adjusting our various 4-H club activities to the war effort. The above mentioned projects are offered in addition to the regular program of clothing projects, handicraft, conservation and electrical.

It will be greatly appreciated if you see Mr. Festerling to say "hello" and introduce yourself. His office is located in the Federal building, Boyne City and he can be reached by phone.

Grubs Take Toll From Cowhides

Millions of cowhides produced in the United States each year are ruined by cattle grub holes, says B. C. Mellencamp, agricultural agent in Charlevoix county.

Cowhides are one of the essential war commodities. At least 10 per cent more than are now being produced are needed. Hides are used in making shoe soles, seabbards, and other equipment for the fighting men, belts for driving war industries and for many other essential uses both on the battle and home fronts.

Charlevoix county farmers are urged to help stop cattle grub damage in order that good cowhides of thickest leather—the part that lies along the back and upper sides of the animal—may be produced. About seven per cent of the weight and 11 per cent of the value of an animal is in the hide.

If the waste caused by the cattle grub is stopped, livestock growers can produce most or all of the 10 per cent increase in beef milk, and leather that the nation needs without raising more cattle or feed.

Totenone powders, best materials for killing grubs, are recommended only for large range herds and may become scarce. Grubs can be extracted by hand or pulled out with forceps from cattle in small herds. For treatment of the average size herd, benzol or iodoform ointment are good remedies and should be used in order to conserve rotenone. Benzol (commercial grade) is applied with the fingers by pressing a little of the material into the grub hole in the skin. Rotenone powders can be applied in the form of a spray, wash, powder or ointment.

The entire crop of grubs does not reach the back of the animal at the same time, but they continue to appear for a period of 3 or 4 months. Therefore treatments must be made at 30-day intervals as long as grubs are present in the animals back.

AT THE MOVIES

"Twin Beds"

There may have been longer Hollywood chase sequences than that staged for Edward Small's farce comedy, "Twin Beds," which is slated for its initial showing at the Palace theatre on Wednesday, December 2.

But John Bennett and Mischa Auer rise wearily to a point of personal privilege and register doubt. The chase, done on location at Busch's Gardens, Pasadena, at least set a new high for the ten-year film careers of the star and the comedian.

According to the script girl's statistics, they went a total distance of a mile on their own feet and as fast as they could go. The sequence had Miss Bennett chasing Auer who was chasing an organ grinder who was chasing his monkey which was chasing a Cairn terrier which was chasing a Russian wolfhound. Miss Bennett and Auer had supposedly lost their respective canines and the organ grinder had lost his monk.

After running three hundred yards across the park lawns three times during the morning, all three said the animals could stay lost.

But in the afternoon they had to repeat sections of the chase over and over again for close shots. When the light got too weak for the camera, they sank down in chairs.

"Water," gasped Auer.

"No," breathed Miss Bennett, "Liniment."

SEE '42 SALES TAX HITTING NEW RECORD

Expect December Xmas Business Best Last Year

Louis M. Nims, state revenue commissioner, predicts that retail Christmas business in Michigan this year would break all records as far as the state sales tax was concerned.

Nims said he was expecting a $9,000,000 month next January when the 3 per cent tax on December business is paid the state by the merchants.

"People may not get what they want, but they will have money and will buy something," Nims said, "They probably will clear the shelves of many things. Then our state revenues will really begin to drop."

Nims said he based his guess that the previous monthly record of $8,400,000 collected last January would be broken on the fact that this month's collections so far were 16 per cent ahead of those last November.

"We expect another $7,000,000 month this month," Nims said. "Prices are higher and the people have more money to spend."

CANNERY AT CENTRAL LAKE HAS BIG PACK

Paid $90,000 to Growers, $22,390 for Labor During Season

"Faas Foods Inc", the Central Lake canning factory, had a successful season, the manager, J. B. Faas, informed The Torch this week. He told us that $90,000 was paid to the growers in the vicinity of Central Lake, Ellsworth, Bellaire, Mancelona, Atwood and other out-lying districts. In addition, $22,390 was paid out for labor with people from Central Lake, East Jordan, Bellaire and the rural communities being employed at the local plant.

The contracted acreage for the various vegetables amounted to 1600 acres. An average of $56 per acre was therefore realized by the growers.—Central Lake Torch.

ASK HUNTERS SELL DEER HIDES DIRECT TO REGULAR DEALERS

Pressed with offers of free deer hides hunters want to donate for war uses, the conservation department this week declared it cannot accept the hides directly, but again urged making them available through the regular established trade channels, to meet wartime needs.

Quickest way for a hunter to dispose of his deer hide is to call the local hide and fur buyer—and there is one such buyer in almost every town. Prices are low, but at a dollar or so they compensate the huntor for the trouble he takes to deliver the skin.

Both the War Department and the War Production Board have said armed forces have definite need for deer hides, particularly since Asiatic and South American imports formerly depended upon have been curtailed. The federal Fish and Wildlife service has been definitely assured the hide and leather trade will pick up the deer skins and see that they are properly channeled to tanners and manufacturers. Many states besides Michigan are cooperating in the drive to deliver this material needed especially by our arctic troops.

To Navy Radio School

Richard LeRoy Edwards, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Edwards, of Charlevoix, has been assigned to advanced instruction at the navy's new training school for radiomen at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio. Enlisting in the navy in September, he received his "boot" training at the Great Lakes, Ill., training station. After completing the streamlined 16-week course in transmission and reception of radio code messages, he will be eligible for a petty officer's rating, and ultimately will be assigned to specialized duties with the fleet.

LETTERS from the ARMY CAMPS

Dear Ken,

Will drop you a line to thank you for sending me the paper, also give you my new address. I am now in the Coast Artillery. I look forward to every Saturday, for that is the day I have been receiving your paper.

We have a very nice place here. There are only about 1,200 soldiers. I wish there were some boys from Charlevoix. What few are here from Michigan are from Detroit.

Well, I must close now for it is time for retreat.

Yours truly,
Vern Bissell.

Let's always be Thankful

GOOD CHEER! There's nothing like it. And good cheer is an affair of the heart. It cannot be withheld and hoarded to gain added value with the days or years. Good cheer must be spent.

Let us all radiate good cheer this Thanksgiving Day, for there are reasons enough for good cheer, if we but pause to reflect.

As for ourselves, we find ample occasion for good cheer in the continuous patronage of our many friends. And for this we are truly grateful.

This Bank will be closed Thursday, November 26, in observance of Thanksgiving Day.

crous other reasons, but I'll bet a plugged nickle the cause can be simply answered by referring to the infamous "doe for comp" law which last year legalized the killing of does and the elimination of untold thousands of mother deer that did not replenish their species last spring.

Notwithstanding a deplorable record of complacency from the day the war began until after Pearl Harbor, some Congressmen excuse themselves and are excused by their constituents. The Congressmen say that they couldn't forsee what needed to be done. This is lame defense. This writer acknowledges that he couldn't foresee the proportions of this war. But Congressmen ought to know more about such affairs than any of his constituents, and he should act on the information available to him and not await the results of a Gallop poll, or necessarily pay any attention to a Gallop poll if he knows that the public is not informed. In time of war we expect statesmanship to take the place of politics. The people can't decide the time and place of a new battlefront. The people can't decide where the fleet should be concentrated. The people can't decide how large the army should be, or where the men should be sent. The conduct of this war will drag, as it has been dragging, until a more vigorous and purposeful leadership asserts itself in Washington. Getting on with the war is the most important task at this time.

Acknowledge with deep appreciation letters of best wishes to the late owners of the Courier, the new owners and myself from James I. Dissette, of Indianapolis, Ind., and Sidney Loewenstein, of Chicago. Knowing the intense interest these old-time summer residents have in Charlevoix, its institutions and citizens, makes their expressions the more welcome.

Lest we forget—there are exactly 29 days before Christmas.

Joe Howard, Charlevoix's genial harbor master, reported the 50th buck came over by boat from Beaver Island on Monday. More hunters are going to kill less deer unless the last week produce better results than the first.

They say Clarence "Ted" Coblentz played a mean trick on that black bear he got up north of Newberry. When bruin came zigging and zagging down thru the woods, "Ted" zigged when it zagged, and zagged when it zigged, making the bear so dizzy he just rolled right over and gave up. Anyway, that's the way I heard it.

I hear Alvin Durance is going to erect bleachers and charge hunters for the privilege of using seats while watching for deer at his berry patch next year. Honestly, something should be done to shoo those deer further outside of the city limits.

If I survive "Turkey Day" and the leavin's, will be with you next week.

equipment; physicians, surgeons, dentists, osteopaths, chiropractors, veterinarians, medical internes and students, public health nurses, embalmers, for necessary professional calls.

Others to whom "C" books are available are: ministers or religious practitioners serving their congregations; farmers, for transportation of farm products and supplies; members of the armed forces who travel between home and post of duty, or on official business; motorcycles for messenger service, and passenger cars for delivery of telegrams; scrap dealers having approval of the War Production Board.

War workers and those who supply food to the people, are allowed "C" books by provision for transportation of farm workers, commercial fishermen, seamen or marine workers; transportation of essential war workers to, from, within or between naval, military, or hospital establishments, facilities of common carriers or public utilities, and industrial, extractive, agricultural or scientific research establishments essential to the war effort. Agents of government, management or labor to maintain peaceful industrial relations, or to recruit or train war workers, and construction and maintenance workers on work essential to the war effort are also included.

PAST MATRONS CLUB ENTERTAINED BOYNE CITY, EAST JORDAN

Past Matrons of the Boyne City and East Jordan Eastern Star chapters were entertained at dinner Friday evening by the Past Matrons Club of this city, at the Masonic temple.

Places for 35 guests were marked by candles and gumdrop favors at the tables, which were set in the form of a V. Flags were set on the upper ends of the V, and at the point was a cornucopia made of a large yellow squash, filled with autumn fruits and vegetables. Mrs. Glenn See, president of the club, was in charge.

Following dinner, Mrs. Rosa Nettleton, attired in a costume of the latter 19th century, gave a lecture entitled "Hoops, sleeves and bustles." She illustrated her talk with small wood models, which she had carved and costumed herself.

A social period concluded the evening.

DO CHRISTMAS MAILING EARLY

SEND PARCELS AND CARDS BY DECEMBER 1

Wartime Demands on Postal and Transportation Services Create Problem

Unprecedented wartime demands on the postal and transportation systems, plus a prospective record volume of Christmas mailings, make it necessary that the bulk of Christmas mail be in the post offices by December 1 this year if deliveries on time are to be arranged.

If the bulk of parcels and greeting cards are held back until the usual time, the period of about December 15 to 23, they cannot be distributed in time, and thousands of gifts will reach their destinations after Christmas.

In 1941, about 21,950 mail cars were required between December 12 and 24 to deliver Christmas mails, enough cars to make a train 270 miles long. This year, the extra cars needed to move holiday mails are being used by the armed services. The postal service cannot, as in former years, borrow 2,500 trucks from the army and other governmental services, or rent 10,000 from private owners. The army needs its own trucks and private owners are reluctant to let someone else use their tires.

Even while the rush of holiday mail is being handled, the post office department must keep up its job of moving millions of pieces of mail every day to and from soldiers, sailors and marines throughout the world, while handicapped by many thousands of new and inexperienced employees, taking the place of postal veterans called to the service.

Railroads are cooperating by converting some hundreds of steel cars and similar equipment for mail transportation, and unnecessary travel has been ordered curtailed to the limit during the holiday season. But these measures cannot assure deliveries of gifts on time unless the public cooperates by mailing early and thus spreading the transportation load over a longer period than usual.

MORE DEER HUNTERS TAKE '42 LICENSES

Conservation Department Adds to Original 240,000 Permits

Michigan's unpredictable wartime deer hunting season settled back to normal late this week after an opening so heavily patronized the conservation department ordered 10,000 additional licenses to supplement the 240,000 already in dealers' hands.

Snow on the ground at the season opening melted early and warm weather sent successful hunters hurrying home as soon as they got their deer. Familiar guides to the number of hunters actually in the field proved uncertain this year as time-off from work is limited and trips are shorter. Though 1,000 fewer cars crossed the Straits of Mackinac on opening week end, they carried 300 more hunters than crossed a year ago. Resorts and cabins are reported well filled.

Conservation officers report the early season kill as normal to light, with hunting conditions rated fair because of the weather.

STANDARDIZATION OF FISHING INDUSTRY IS BEING PLANNED

A survey of the Michigan commercial fishing industry has been started by the state department of agriculture, preparatory to the adoption of standardization practices requested by the United States government in connection with supplying this food commodity to the armed forces.

Uniform regulations will be in effect in Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, as the result of an agreement reached by representatives of these states at a conference called in Chicago by the fish and wild life division of the United States department of the interior. Michigan officials at the meeting were Miles A. Nelson, director of the bureau of foods and standards of the department of agriculture, and Don Palmer, chief inspector in the Benton Harbor area.

The regulations will govern the handling of fish from the time they are caught until they are shipped. Emphasis will be placed on keeping fish, both in storage and shipping, at temperatures that will prevent their spoiling. Standardized packaging will also be sought.

The present survey, Nelson said, is intended to acquaint the commercial fishing industry with the new setup and to offer suggestions as to how fish houses and storage plants may conform with its provisions.

HEMSTREET FRUIT FARM SETS RECORD

Production '42 Season Cited as Aid to War Effort

Production attained during the 1942 crop season at the Hemstreet Fruit farm, 2 miles west and north of Bellaire, offers proof that commercial food producing farms do exist in Northern Michigan. This one farm has done its share of producing food to win the war by turning out more than on half million pounds of human food this season.

Number one food item produced was 10,000 field crates of apples of such varieties as Snow, Wagener, Grimes Golden, Jonathan, and Northern Spy. An air-cooled, insulated storage of 4,000 bushel capacity carries fruit being prepared for market or awaiting needs of consumers.

Peaches, pears, tomatoes, 60,000 lbs. of red tart cherries, sweet cherries, sweet corn, milk, eggs and meat made up the total production of health giving food to well over the half million pound mark.

The farm was started in 1938 by the late F. H. Hemstreet, and is now operated by Mrs. F. H. Hemstreet.

Apples were shipped to Chicago, to various Wisconsin cities, to Detroit and to the upper peninsula. Peeler grade fruit went to Traverse City for the frozen apple process of Cherry Growers, Inc., while the small size, off grade fruit went to the Northern Orchard Company at Cheboygan to be made into filtered and pasteurized apple juice.

Some apples were lost through lack of labor in spite of the good cooperation of people in neighboring communities.

"We are thankful that we were able to produce such a large amount of needed food to help out in this emergency," said Mrs. Hemstreet. "It has been hard work. We have worked long hours. It has taken careful planning over a long period of time.

"Our employees have been both capable and loyal, however, we do need additional workers to keep up future production. Continuation of farm food production requires skilled labor. Our ability to produce vitally needed food next year will depend upon securing competent key workers with fruit or general farm experience. Most neighbors who used to help are now in the city or in the armed services.

"If people expect to eat next year it is going to take skilled experienced farm workers, not just talk, and promises. Right now the orchard and equipment is being placed in condition for next year's crop."

Who's Kickin'?

Are you doing a lot of kickin?
Are you always mad and sore?
You should remember, American,
Our country is at war!!

Are you kickin' about the rationing
On your meat and sugar and gas?
Do you think of all the heartaches
All our Allied countries have?

Are you kickin' about delivery service?
No more milk at your back door?
Are you kickin' about carrying your groceries
From your favorite grocery store?

Just stop and think a moment,
You have much to be thankful for,
Be glad the stores aren't in ruins,
Remember — We're at War!!

We're in this fight together
And when you're feeling blue
Come in and see us fellows,
Cookie, Gus, Jules—Bill, too.

We may not be such wizards,
But we like to see our friends
And we want to keep your good-will Long after this war ends.

VOLUME 47 NUMBER 48 EIGHT PAGES THE CHARLEVOIX COURIER, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1942 PRICE $2.00 PER YEAR

GAS RATIONING BEGAN TUESDAY

TIRE INSPECTION STATIONS ARE APPOINTED

Service Stations Had Business Boom Monday, Followed by Sbarp Slump; Rules Start

As nationwide gasoline rationing went into effect Tuesday, local servica stations presented a deserted appearance which was pessimistically expected to become habitual. Monday was a rush day, with motorists liniag up to fill tanks before clamping down of rationing regulations.

Tuesday also marked the first day of issuance of "B" and "C" supplemental ration buuks, for which numerous citizens made application last week.

Motorists holding "A" gasoline ration books may use all number 3 stamps at eny time during the first rationing period, November 22 to January 21, according to announcement by tho local war price and rationing board. Stamps numbered 4 aro good for the period Jan. 22 to Mar. 21; stamps numbered 5 from Mar. 22 to May 21; stamps numbered 6 from May 22 to July 21.

Car owners have been cautioned by the office of price administration to print in ink on the back of each "A," "B," "C," and "D" coupon their car licenso number and the state in which it was registered. Inasmuch as 1942 plates will not be changed for 1943 licenses, except for date tags, the entire book of coupons may be so marked. Such identificntion will help in the recovery of lost ration books and in combatting black market operators.

Passenger fleet operators using interchangeable coupon books most write or stamp the fleet name on each coupon. "T" coupons must be endorsed on the back with the war certificnte number or the fleet nnme(nad "E" nnd "R" coupons must have the namo and address of the user written on the back.

FUEL OIL COUPONS CREDIT EXTENDED

December 10 is Date Set by OPA for Surrender

Extension of the fuel oil coupon credit system to December 10th was aanounced Monday by the local war price and rationing board, upon receipt of a telegram from the office of price administration.

Due largely ta lack of office help, the rationing board has not been able to mail out fuel oin ration coupons to all persons who have applied for them. Volunteer help was enlisted to assist in tha work, and all applicants will receive coupons before the deadline.

Persons buying fael oil without coupons nre reminded to keep receipts showing tho amoant purchased since October 1, as coupons representing this amount must be surrendered to dealers.

Applications for fuel oil may be made at any time by those who have not yet applied.

For the henefit of the Charlevoix USO servicemen's center, a game party will be given Thursday, December 10, at 8 p. m. at the Knights of Pythias lodge hall. A group of local citizens are sponsors of the event, under the auspices of the Pythians.

The servicemen's center, now in its third week of operation, is providing an excellent place of recreation for coast guards stationed here, and other men of the armed forces temporarily in the city. Furnished almost entirely by contributions fram the homes af local citizens, and supervised hy women who have volunteered to act as matrons, the center represents the successful result of willing cooperation by Charlevoix people. Electricity has been donated by the city government.

Funds from the benefit will ba used to cover the incidental expeases of opening the center, end other operating costs.

MAKE APPEAL FOR AIRPLANE SPOTTERS

Chief Observer Clarenca Heise Asks for Volunteers

An appeal has been issued by Clarence Helse, chief observer for the city of Charlevoix, for additional volunteers to man the local airplane spotting station.

Due to the large number of peoplo leaving town for the winter, the staff of the watch tower has been sharply reduced from its original numbor. A force of 98 people is required to operato full time, and a complete crew bns been maintained with no difficalty until recently. Charlevoix people have made a fine showing by their willingness to contribute time to this wartime duty. High school students, eager to help, have made up more than a third of the crew.

Two planes were spotted by observers during November. Although there is little nir activity in this territory, thu station must be maintained as a preparedness measure.

USO-CSO BENEFIT PARTY A SUCCESS

Local Committea Thanks American Legion for Effort

The feather party given by the local American Legion post last Tuesdny night for the benefit of the United Service Organizations and Charlevoix Service organization was an unqualified success.

Net profit of $177.24 was divided equally between the two groups, providing a donation to the entire armed forces of the nation as well as for the local cause.

Members of the CSO committee extend their appreciation and thanks to the Legionnaires for their cooperation in the event.

GIVE WAR STAMP WITH XMAS GIFT

RETAIL MERCHANTS ADOPT NOVEL SELLING PLAN

Michigan Retailers Committee Has Prepared Gift Card to Be Used for Purpose

"No Gift without a War Stamp" is the theme Michigan's 60,000 retailers have chosen to keynote their drive to sell war savings stamps and bonds between now and Christmas. The idea is to encourage every individual in Michigan to include a war savings stamp with every individual Christmas gift, no matter for whom, or how small or large it may be.

"If every person will accept this suggestion, and include a war saving stamp with every Christmas gift, millions of war savings stamps can be sold between now and Christmas, resulting in a tremendous amount of money far helping to win tha war; and of course, all of it represents sevings for the future," stated Clarence Wood, retail war savings chairman for Charlevoix. "This is a sound, sensible idea, and its entire success depends upon every indlvidual carrying through tho plan."

The Michigan Retailers War Savings Committeo has prepared a little gift card, to be included with individual Christmas gifts, nad in it is a slot into whicb a war savings stamp, of any desired denomination, may be inserted. It has a place for writing tho namo of the one who presents tho gift, and is very attractive. NELSON SEEKS HELP OF AMERICAN FARMER

Washington, D. C. Novamber 25, 1942.

Editor Courier
Charlevoix, Michigan

Tbe Govaromont is asking the American farmar to dedicate the remaining weeks of 1942 te an intansified scrap hunt. Steal mills need more heavy scrap and the farms are one of the best sources of this type of metal. We need your further help in this farm drive, and in aiding our salvage committees to continue this effort throughout tha naxt few weeks.

All salvage commitees are being instructed to continue to make available to tha farmer all their transportation facilities and manpower, and to cooperate with you in every possible way. The nation is looking to the American farmer. I am sure, with your help, he will come through.

Donald M. Nelson, Chairman.

BOARD OF COMMERCE MEETING SCHEDULED

Annual Election of Officers is Set for December 9

Annual meeting and election of officers of the board of commerce will be held at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, December 9, in the circuit court room of the court house, it is announced by O. P. North, president of the organization.

This meeting is usually held in March, but the board of directors believe that an earlier election will give tho incoming officers more time to plan for the summer season.

The last portion of the program will be devoted to recommendations from the membership for activities of the coming summer months. A review of the past summer's accomplishments was given at a meeting October 21, and with this background, a worthwhile summer program could be drawn up.

President North strongly urges every citizen to attend this meetia, beceuse with present facilities, we must make a strang hid for all lines of eommerce in the neer future.

CHARLEVOIX WINS FIRST CAGE TILT

DEFEATED GRAYLING HIGH BY 28 TO 24 COUNT

Rayders Showed Class by Topping Veteran Visiting Team; Play at Petoskey, December 4

Charlevoix high school's Red Rayder basketball team initinted the 1942-43 senson with an impressive 28 to 24 victory over Grayling high school here last Wednesday night.

The contest was close and an up-hill battle for the Rayders in the first half. Grayling's veteran team, changed by only a single player from the one Charlevoix nipped by a 32 to 30 count last year, led by an 8 to 5 margin at tho quarter. With Vratinina and Carey scoring, the Rnyders evened the count and pulled away to a 12 to 10 ndvantage at half-time.

While Charlevoix was never again headed during the contest, they needed tho 6 to 2 advantage gained in the third stanza, for Grayling out-scored them 12 points to 10 in the final period.

Carey topped Charlevoix's scoring with 10 points, while Vratinina, playing his first season as a regular and occupying the pivot position, accounted for 9. Chambers scared 6 and Swanson contributed 3. Grayling's scoring was divided between Thompson, Neilson and Henson with 6 points apiece.

Coach Kipke made one substitution during the contest, replacing Rowo with Mitchell when tho former went out on four personal fouls. Grayling made one substitation also.

Charlevoix plays the first of three successivu games away from home when they tackle Petoskey's class B outfit Friday night, December 4. Subsequent games take them to Harbor Springs and Mancelona. The next home contest is with Pellston on January 12.

ORIN "PETE" SUTTON SETS HIGH MARK

Official Dispatches Reveal That Charlevoix Youth is in Thick of Combat

A Charlevoix soldier again made newspaper headlines this week as reports came over international news wires that Coporal Orin "Pete" Sutton was credited with the slaying of 45 Japs in New Guinea.

No information has come to this newspaper as yet on the circumstances surrounding his accomplishment, but it is presumed to he a box score released in officiel army dispatches.

Sutton, who was 23 last August 22nd, was born in Hitchcock but had made his home in Charlevoix since childhood, attending local schools and later working on the L. E. McGhan farm. His mother, Mrs. Carrie Sutton, at present resides in Gaylord. Enlisting in tha army in April, 1940, he has been overseas with American expeditionary forces for eight months, in Australia and later New Guinea.

Evidently he has been a busy man during that time, for only occasional letters have come to his family. The latest, received a month ago by his mother, said he had not shaved for three weeks, indicating that he was probably in the thick of the combat.

Pete's brother, R. M. Sutton, 316 West Garfield avenue, said he had promised to buy a war bond for every Jap his brother got. It looks now as though the combined effort of the entire community would he required to even the score, which is an excellent idea at that.

STATE SAVINGS BANK MAILS XMAS SAVINGS

Approximately $2,200 Released to Charlevoixans December 1st

Approximately 65 residents of Charlevoix and surrounding district were around $2,200 richer on December 1, when the Charlevoix State Savings Bank released Christmas savings club returns to respective owners.

Fifty weeks of saving for each of the 65 persons will provide funds for taxes, insurnace, and above all, ready money for Christmas shopping. For those 65 persons, at any rate, this Christmas will be a merry one.

Proof that Christmas saving is becoming more popular each year is shown by the substantial increase shown over 1941 savings. More than 8,000,000 Americans annually take advantage of Christmas clubs, it is reported.

Checks mailed December 1st averaged approximately $35 each, officials of the bank reported.

Installs New Fountain

A new soda fountain was installed this week in the F. S. Myers store, replacing one which had been in continuous use for several years. Of modern design, ordinary table height, and equipped with revolving leather-upholstered stools, the new fountain presents an attractive appearance.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By KEN USHER

The war has given us trousers without cuffs, and after paying income tax next year the government may just as well carry conservation a little farther and eliminate the pockets.

While the most popular word now is "Victory," when you couple the word "tax" with it, it somehow loses a lot of its popularity.

A card from Henrietta Gravuer, manager of the Belvedere Hotel the past 11 years, informs us she has joined the foreign service of the American Red Cross and will report for duty on December 7. Says she will write us from foreign shores some time. Assuming she will not be at Belvedere next summer, we wish her the best of good fortune.

Expressive of the spirit of our boys in the navy, and no doubt in other branches of the armed forces as well, is an Xmas card received from R. N. (Hime's Bob) Pearl. It portrays a Yank sailor about to enter a snow-covered chimney. On his back is a bag holding a weeping Jap, with the words "Merry Christmas, '42" inscribed on it. At the bottom is the wording, "In the Bag."

Charlie Heise says it wasn't hard to find where his brother, Clarence, stood when he shot at that big black bear up north of Trout Lake.

Uncle Josh gets off some good ones in his "Well, by Hock" column in the Boyne Citizen. Here's a typical example: "Scrape up your scrap to help us scrap our way out of this scrape that the other fellows got us into, but if you haven't any scrap to scrape up, then get into the scrap for scrap's sake. Oh, heck, I've got myself into a scrape that I can't scrap."

Leading public men must make speeches, attend ceromonies and conferences, read and sign reports, scan newspapers and magazines, meet interviewers, and answer

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Appointment of new councils of defense in some upstate counties will be on the 1943 calendar of Governor-Elect Harry F. Kelly.

But whether the state council of defense will be revamped, as to its membership and its administration, is a less pressing and less likely matter. Lieut. Colonel Harold A. Furlong, World War hero who is its administrator, has earned a prominent niche in the national defense picture, and the council generally has been regarded by Washington as decidedly above average.

In a recent conference at Washington, James M. Landis, director of the Office of Civilian Defense, said that Michigan and Pennsylvania were the "two most outstanding" states in civilian defense organization. Landis ought to know. He raided the state set-up to get Dr. Donald Hayworth, director of the council's speakers' bureau and head of the Michigan State College department of speech, to take the reins for a national speakers' bureau at Washington.

But as for some local councils of defense—well, reshuffling of appointments is a good bet for the Kelly program after New Year's Day.

While the state council and the civilinn defense organization were authorized by the 1941 state legislature, the administrator and the 12 council members together with the county councils of defense were appointed by Governor Murray D. Van Wagoner, and they serve at the governor's pleasure.

Governor-elect Kelly could legally change the entire set-up from the state council down to county councils.

In his campaign Kelly charged the Van Wagoner administration with putting war defense on a partisan basis. He meant what he said. And he isn't likely to forget it.

Another campaign pledge was economy. Efficiency of the office of secretary of state was held up as a model for the new adminis-

WHEATON CORNER

(By W. H. Supernaw)

(Too late for last week)

George Santos made a business trip to Charlevoix last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Alward called on Mr. and Mrs. Will Mayne Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bedford, of Charlevoix, callad on W. H. Supernaw Tuesday evening.

Several deer hunters in this territory now days. Some have got their deer, aome very nice ones.

Ed. Jones returned from his vacation trip last Friday. He visited his sons at Pontiac and Detroit, and his sister at Moline.

Jr. Supernaw was out Sunday trying to get himself a buck. No luck, too bad. Try it again and I am sure you will have better luck.

Sixty-one years ago, G. V. Nash came to Norwood from Mantiwoc and bought the Norwood Mill from B. F. Goodrich. At that time there were 12 families in Norwood.

Sixty years ago, F. J. Meech and family moved from Norwood to Charlevoix, into the house which is now the Charlevoix hospital. He had built it that year.

This Thursday is Thanksgiving. Hope everyone will have a nice big turkey for dinner and all offer a prayer for our boys who are across the big pond fighting for our liberty.

A. E. VanEvery, of Petoskey, has bought the log timber off the Harry Pearl forty. Will Chatfield and Lawrence VanDusen are cutting the loga and George Santos is doing the akidding.

Wheaton Corner is about one mile north of the Norwood church. From 1883 to 1898 it was the Norwood race track. Several of us young fellows (then) would driva out to the corner to watch the winner come in. Uncle Park McIntyre's hay horse, Tom, usually won the running race, with Fred Jackson's Black Nell and Lyman VanDusen's sorrel Maud right close up. (That is a long time ago.)

Mr. McKay made a business trip to Ellsworth, Monday.

Bobby Jones was a caller at the Supernaw farm Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Creiner, of Charlevoix, called on Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Jones, Sunday.

Frnnk (Tink) Carman, who has been working for Charlie Warner the lnst week or two, is back home.

W. H. Supernaw spent Thanksgiving with his family at Charlevoix, returning to the farm Sunday.

George Santos was a dinner guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Jones. He said the venison was just fine.

The Ellsworth school bus has set its time back one-half hour. It now passes through Norwood at 8:10 instead of 7:40.

Isa Alward was out the last day of the deer season trying for the buck that he had been looking for since the 15th. He went home disappointed.

When we landed in Norwood on August 21, 1881, the families living there then were Dr. Chamberlnin, F. J. Meech, county register of deeds; George Foote, shoo repair; Thomas Muirhead, blacksmith; Parker McIntyre, William Harris, Supervisor Hirum Stafford, carpenter; H. Moore, livery; D. R. Bennett, general store; Wm. F. Pearl, Edgar Stafford and B. F. Goodrich. He owned and lived in the house that was later known as the Furgeson house. William (Billy) Cowan was living with Mr. and Mrs. Muirhead, his grandparents. Rev. Keeler was the Methodist minister. The parsonage was on tha corner across from the school house. There were two vacant store buildings on the bluff. Mr. Goodrich owned that house also, and the house next to Edgar Stafford was vacant, but was later used for a boarding house that was run by Mr. and Mrs. John Muirhead. There was four vacant houses down below the hill on what we called the flat. The saw mill, a large barn, two large warehouses. One was later made into a two-family flat. So much for Norwood for this time.

METAL SCARCITY IS NO EXCUSE UNTAGGED TRAPS

The meal shortage will be no excuse for setting unidentified traps this season, conservation officers are warning trappers as the state's most productive trapping season—the taking of muskrats in southern Michigan in December—gets underway. Where there is a shortage of the standard metal tape of which trap tags are usually made, pieces of tin cans can be substituted, officers say.

THE Secret OF THE MARSHBANKS

• BY KATHLEEN NORRIS •

©NORRIS W.N.U. RELEASE

Chanter VI

"I'm free until half past four." Cherry did oot want to go and yet was wild with eagerness to go. The thought that he was in love with Fran made being in Kelly's company exquisitely painful to her, but she had hungered to see these persons again, to be one of them, to know what was going on, and this golden opportunity would not come twice.

"I'd love to," she said, smiling as she climbed in and wedged herself snubly beside Fran. The moment she did it she regretted it, wondering through what fetuity of complacence she hed accepted the invitation to play a third in their affair. Why had they asked her? she wondered.

"Mrs. Marshbanks," Kelly said, "once went to a movie in which a girl visited an artist in his studio, and everything went wrong for fifty years afterword. Was that it, Fren?"

"Something like that," said Fran's exquisite voice lazily.

"So she didn't want to come homa and lunch with me," Kelly went on.

"Perheps I know my own weakaaas," Fren contributed idly.

They crossed the bridge and on the eastern shore moved along a wide, smooth highway for a few miles, turned left and mounted an earth road that wound up the hill. Scattered cottages, hidden among oaks and eucalyptus, faced the road here and there. Kelly's place was at the bead of a small tree-lined canyon, and consisted of a cottage of perhaps three ruoms, a large white barn, various sheds and fences that suggested that the place had once been a small farm. There was an arbor covered with young grape vines, sheltering a long table and two benches, young berry bushes just in leaf, a languishing little garden whose neglected rose and geranium bushes were choked with last season's dried gross and some apple and apricot trees getting ready to bloom.

Cherry was under the spell of the peace of Kelly Coate's place, its simplicity, its beauty almost before ehe had gotten out of the car; she had never dreamed of anything so informal, so comfortable, so complete.

Thay were all hungry; they fell upon preparations for luncheon together. All this went on in the small kitchen, for a bleak wind had blown up from the south and it was too chilly and overcast out of doors for the arbor to be the dining room, much to Kelly's disappointment.

They were very much in love, Kelly and Fran; Cherry could see that. Or at least Kelly was. Perheps Fran was only pretending; Cherry could not be sure, but this was evidently a game of which she knew avary move.

CHAPTER VII

After lunch he begged them to leave the table disorder just as it was because he could not wait another moment to shew them his paintings.

—and they went to the big barn studio and while Kelly dragged out and dusted canvas after canvas Cherry and Fran were looking and commenting. Neither one assumed any knowledge of his art, but he accepted their criticisms gratefully and pointed out details of technique with no thought thet he might be leaving his audience somewhat behind him.

Presently Fran drifted to the great north window thet had been cut down to the floor, and stood looking duhiously between long homespun curtains at the now steadily falling rain. Kelly went over to stand beside her, and after a moment Cherry returned to the house thrilled hy the mere nearness of their emotion and realizing what this moment alone might mean to them. For she had not been blind and deaf to the apparently casual phrases and glances that had been sprinkled through tha luncheon talk; she was not unaware thet Judge Marshhenks was Othello; she had even heard Fran at a moment when she supposed herself out of hearing in tha kitchen answer some remark of Kelly's with a patient: "Because he may find out about it and it'll be all right if I say she was along!" and then, in another second: "No, but I did promise, Kelly, and I'm breaking my promise."

Cherry had heard no more, and what she did hear had not surprised her. She hed surmised from a quick, open remark or two made in the car that Judge Marshbanks had asked his wife not to see Kelly, and that the two had met by chance and were risking a discovery that might have been extremely uncomfortable for them both.

And when she found herself alone in the kitchen, she began to feel a certain shame and discomfort in the part she was playing in their secret. She felt ashamed for them and for herself.

When the kitchen clock said quarter to four, she went back to the barn. Fran and Kelly were still standing at the window looking out at the rain that was mingling now with an early dusk.

It was raining steadily again when they went out to the open car. Fran had refused Kelly's suggestion that they telephone for a taxi. She had said, "We're late now! We'll be home in twenty minutes; let's make a dash for it!"

The women were bundled into snug raincoats with bandannas tied over their heads. They packed themselves into the wide seat and raised an umbrella close over them. A quarter of a mile down the hill there was a bad turn and Cherry felt the horrible sensation of wheels skidding, and instantly they were wedged in a ditch with the engine's nose stuck into a dripping bank.

When repeated efforts had proved that the car would not move with its load, Cherry and Fran got out and stood still, laughing philosophically under their umbrella.

"Don't hurry. I'm just as good as divorced now," Fran's voice with its poignant note of laughter and tears said calmly.

"This'll only take a minute," Kelly struggled gallantly for fully ten minutes, his arms wrenching at the steering wheel, his face red. "Damn it!" he muttered under his breath, as the wheels spun around uselessly in a deepening groove of soft, wet earth.

"We'd better go back, I think, and telephone for a taxi," Fran said.

"Lord, I'm sorry about this," the men said apologetically. "This old bus never let me down before!"

Sausalito could supply no taxi but San Francisco obligingly offered to send one.

While they waited Cherry telephoned Emma; she had come with friends to Sausalito; they were delayed by the storm; they would be home in an hour; please tell Mrs. Porter that she was sorry. Emma answered that the old lady had felt ill after luncheon and was in bed, so that Cherry need not hurry. This relieved Cherry's mind.

Fran was restless and uneasy and Kelly miserably aware of it. His happy day was having the worst possible conclusion; he had long exhausted apology and encouragement, and could only settle down with his guests at the fire and make the best of a bad job.

It seemed a long, long time before the honk of a taxi was heard outside. Fran insisted that Kelly should not come with them; they said hurried good nights and were off.

"Cherry," Fran said then, calling her by her name for the first time, "will you do me a great favor?"

"Of course," Cherry said with a slightly quickened beat at her heart and a puzzled look.

"I want you to come home with me. It's perfectly obvious," Fran explained, "that we've been caught in the rain together. I want my husband to know that you were with me."

Cherry was strangely stirred. Fran, the remote and proud, had made her the recipient of her confidence, or at least part of it. She said that she would gladly go home with Fran before going on to her own destination.

Fran did oot pursue the subject further, and at six o'clock they entered the front door of the Marshbanks house. Molly and Martin, maid and butler, came forward immediately, and Fran asked anxiously if Judge Marshbanks was at home. No, not yet? Cherry felt the relief in her voice. Where was Rousseau?

"Right here, Madame." The chauffeur appeared and Fran drew him aside for a moment's talk.

"Rousseau says Jud had to go to San Jose to court this afternoon," she then said as she and Cherry went upstairs, "and he's coming back late with Mr. Trotter. So that's all right! You poor child, you're shivering. I have to go out to dinner, but why don't you stay and have some with Amy? The poor mouse is in bed with a cold!"

"Yes, do; yes, do!" called Amy from her room, and her first gesture of friendliness so warmed Cherry's heart that she could go to the room door and look in upon its pinkness and warmth and coziness as she explained: "I'm all wet and horrid!"

"Take a bath in my room, here; I'm dying of loneliness; all my friends are afraid," Amy said eagerly. "You've just been taking care of flu, so you're in no danger. Stay and have supper and talk. I'll lend you a hostess dress."

"I'd love it," Cherry said gladly. She was about to enter when an unexpected and unfamiliar voice behind her made her turn and find herself facing Fran and also facing a magnificently impressive older woman, a woman of perhaps seventy, who was staring at her with a surprised and unfriendly eye.

Fran had been welcoming this stranger, commenting upon her arrival a few days earlier than she had been expected from Florida, explaining her own plight. Now she introduced Cherry: "Miss Rawlings, Gran. Cherry, this is Mrs. Marshbanks, the judge's mother."

"Miss who?" demanded the old lady sharply, following Fran after a perfunctory nod to Cherry.

Cherry heard Fran murmuring in answer; the words were indistinct but her tone was conciliatory and apologetic. Suddenly the other woman's voice sounded clearly just before Fran's bedroom door closed:

"Of course I know who she is; I knew the minute I saw her! And I won't have Amy know her; I won't have her in this house!"

Cherry stood still for a moment, idly reflecting upon the bad temper of this proud, handsome old lady. At the moment it did not occur to her to attempt to give these words significance, still less to connect them in any way with her insignificant self. But they remained indelibly imprinted upon her memory, and the day came when they found their rightful place in her story.

Judge Marshbanks came into the room while Amy and Cherry were talking and seemed pleased to find them so cozy and friendly. He was tired after a long day in the San Jose court, and regretted frankly that he could not have supper with his niece and her companion.

"But Fran and I are going out to dinner and I must go and dress," he said. "So you got caught in the rain, did you, Cherry?"

"Oh, we were drowned!" Cherry said.

"Over at Coates' place, eh?"

"Things going pretty well over at the Porter house?"

"They've both been sick, you know, Mrs. Porter and — and Emma." She flushed brightly on the last word; it seemed disloyal still to call her no more than that.

But evidently he saw nothing amiss. He told her that she looked very nice in that thing of Amy's, and that Rousseau was taking Fran and him to the dinner and would then come back and wait for Cherry.

"Oh, I can walk! Only two blocks and it's stopped raining," she protested. But he would not hear of it. Rousseau was to call for them after their dinner party at half past ten; he would be on service anyway.

"Well, be good. Come and see us again, Cherry," the judge said, and when he was gone the girls fell to eager talk again.

There was a light in Emma's room when she quietly climbed the stairs. Cherry went in, sat down near the bed and poured out the story of the day.

Emma listened in the convalescent's mood of weary content until Cherry came to the request from Fran that Cherry on the return trip come first to the Marshbanks house.

"Why on earth didn't she drop you here if you were dripping wet?"

"Well, we weren't quite dripping. We'd sort of dried out over at Mr. Coates' place. But she was worried for fear Judge Marshbanks would be mad at her."

"For going to have lunch with Mr. Coates?"

"They've got an awful crush on each other, Aunt Emma."

The title slipped out, Cherry's face turning red as she heard her voice saying it, and Emma's slow flush burning in her thin cheeks in answer.

"I can't help it. I think of you as 'Aunt Emma' now," Cherry said, laughing, but a little frightened.

"You can call me anything you like," Emma conceded briefly. "So Mrs. Marshbanks thinks she's in love with this painter?" she asked.

"He's certainly in love with her," Cherry answered.

"I've never met Judge Marshbanks' second wife," Emma said, reflectively, "but I've seen her, and she looks like one of the women who live for that sort of thing. They're always the ones with good husbands too."

"He didn't seem very angry. He came into Amy's room, and he was awfully nice. Amy'd had flu, and since we'd had it here, there didn't seem to be much danger of my bringing it back, and so I had supper with her. We had it on trays, and it was lots of fun!"

"I thought you didn't like Amy," Emma said, quietly watchful.

"I didn't." Cherry had a swift moment of surprise that Emma knew it. "She was extremely snobbish when we had the dance here for Dorothy," she said; "but she was lovely tonight. Oh, and Aunt Emma! Her grandmother is back; she got back today. She wouldn't come into Amy's room because of the flu, but she brought her all sorts of things—you're sick again!"

"No; just a little faint. I don't believe I'll ever get my strength back again," Emma whispered.

In the morning, old Mrs. Porter had a serious setback and was dangerously ill.

A few strange days—a week went by; doctors came and went; lawyers came and went. Judge Marshbanks had a long talk with Emma. The telephone and the doorbell, both muffled, were constantly in action. All the world wanted to know how old Dovey Porter was faring.

Just two weeks from the rainy day when Cherry and Fran had come home truants from Topcote, the old lady quietly passed away.

The judge and Amy and Fran came to the funeral in the cathedral with hundreds of other black-clad folks. Cherry and Emma with the entire domestic staff were modestly placed at the side of the church.

REMEMBER PEARL HARBOR!

Monday will be the first anniversary of the treacherous attack on Pearl Harbor by the Japanese. December 7th, 1941 is a date that will live forever in the memory of Americans. We shall never forget that quiet Sunday morning which found a special Japanese envoy calling on the President of the United States bring from the Emperor of Japan a message of continued peace and friendship while at the same time, Japan's ships and planes were on their way to attack us.

The treasury department is asking us to remember Pearl Harbor between now and December 7 this year and in the memory of those who gave their lives for us in Hawaii by buying an extra War Bond.

Frank N. Isbey, chairman of the Michigan War Savings committee has designated the week from December 1st to December 7th, 1942 as "Remember Pearl Harbor Week". He is asking every citizen of the state to buy one extra War Bond, no matter what denomination, from $25 to $100,000, during that week.

Since the initial announcement was made a week ago regarding "Remember Pearl Harbor Week", in various parts of the state, committees have been formed to conduct intensive drives for War Bond buying. A number of cities have pledged themselves to raise enough to "buy a bomber," others are going after enough to buy a pursuit plane. These planes are to be named in honor of the cities raising the money for their purchase. In Detroit, the Furniture Club, comprising people in that industry, are staging a drive for a bomber also.

All that any War Bond purchaser during the period from December 1st to December 7th, has to do to have his bond a commemorative one, and dated with its validating stamp "December 7, 1942" is to mark his application with the words "Pearl Harbor Commemorative Bond" and it will carry the December 7th date.

Remember Pearl Harbor and buy a War Bond to let the Japs know we are wide awake to our danger now and that they can never stab us in the dark again.

HOUSEHOLD SALVAGE PROGRAM ENLARGED

Don't Relax Efforts to Prevent Waste of Critical Materials

Housewives of America, already salvaging large amounts of waste materials, will soon be called upon for an increased response to the nation's rapidly growing need for salvage.

During the month of December the Woman's Home Salvage Program will be set in operation. An educational program, it will reach every home by newspaper, radio and personal visits, to explain the need for scrap metal, rubber, fats, silk, nylon and various other items in which a national shortage is expected to occur.

To the casual observer, it would seem from large scrap piles collected in many communities and not moved, that it was not needed. Every pound of it is needed, and those huge piles are to be considered a reserve just as a bank savings account.

Efforts to prevent waste must not be relaxed. Good news in the headlines should not slow down the fight to keep American soldiers supplied with the war goods they need to save this country from the tragedy of many nations already in enemy hands.

HAVE SUGAR RATION BOOK TO BUY COFFEE

Beverage Went on Sale Sunday Under Emergency Regulations

Coffee—the great American beverage—went back on sale Sunday after being frozen for a week to allow merchants to stock shelves preparatory to rationing.

Purchase of coffee may now be made only through the ration book system. Persons who do not hold war ration book No. 1, the "sugar" book, must have it before December 15 in order to get ration book No. 2, to be issued some time after the first of January. Those who had too much sugar on hand or for some other reason did not obtain the first book, must have a book in order to buy coffee.

Stamp 20 through 28 in war ration book one will be used to ration coffee, each stamp having a value of one pound. Only those books showing the consumer's age to be 15 years or more, will be valid for the purchase of coffee.

The first ration period will last for five weeks, from November 29, 1942, through January 3, 1943. Stamp 27 will be used during this period. Stamp 28 will be valid during the second ration period. Other stamp values and ration periods will be announced from time to time.

Coffee rationing applies to any coffee, packaged or unpackaged, bean or ground, whether or not decaffeinated, and to any mixture of coffee and chicory, cereal, chickpea, or any other substance. Not rationed are coffee concentrates, soluble coffee, liquid coffee extracts, and any similar products made in whole or part from coffee; coffee substitutes when not mixed with coffee. Sale of green coffee to consumers is prohibited.

'42 FISHING PERMIT NEEDED JANUARY 1

Conservation Department Reduces Licenses for 1943

After careful consideration of the probable effect of gasoline rationing next summer, the conservation department has scaled down its printing of 1943 fishing licenses by only 105,000. A total of 1,100,000 blanks has been ordered.

Fishing license sales in the current season surprised many observers by approaching sales in the boom season of the year before. At the latest count, the 1942 resident license sales, at 579,110, were down only about two per cent, and non-resident sales, at 201,600, were down just 13 per cent. Easy access to fishing waters in all parts of the state is credited with maintaining the spor in spite of travel difficulties.

The 1943 licenses will be required of all persons fishing on inland waters after January 1. The 750,000 $1 resident licenses (each with identification slip for wife) are 50,000 fewer than were prepared a year ago. Non-resident 1943 licenses on order are 150,000 temporary (10-day) at $1. 100,000 annual at $2; and 100,000 for wives at 50 cents.

MRS. CLAUD FAIRMAN IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Services Were Saturday Morning at St. Mary's Church

Mrs. Mary Fairman, wife of Claud Fairman, died last Wednesday after an illness which covered a period of several years.

Born on Beaver Island, November 12, 1907, she had spent most of her life in Charlevoix.

Surviving are her husband, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter John, this city; four brothers, Pvt. Amos John, serving overseas with the U. S. army, Pfc. Guy John, Camp Blanding, Fla., Wallace John, U. S. navy radioman, and Alvin John, this city; her grandmother, Mrs. Liza Duecker, this city; and an adopted brother, Pvt. Archie Wasegeshik, Fort Benning, Ga.

Funeral services were held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's church, with interment at Brookside cemetery.

DRAFT REGISTRANTS MUST CARRY CARDS

Selective Service Officials Have Announced New Ruling

Selective service registrants must carry their classification cards with them at all times, beginning January 1, under a new rule issued by selective service headquarters.

The regulations already require that registration cards be carried.

Upon entering active service, the registrant must surrender his classification card to the commanding officer.

Lt. Fisher Transferred

Lt. j. g. William Fisher, commanding officer in charge of the local coast guard unit, left Tuesday for Chicago, where he has been transferred. He has been in Charlevoix since May, coming here from Milwaukee. His family will remain here for the present.

ASK HUNTERS MAIL GAME REPORT CARD

Conservation Department Reminds Nimrods of Obligation

Now is the time—while the facts are still fresh in memory—for most of Michigan's hunters to fill out and mail their game kill report cards, the conservation department's game division advises.

The kill report cards are not due until February 15, but for the many thousands who are now oiling their guns to put them away for the season this is believed a more opportune time than February for adding up their individual scores and pooling them with the tallies of the rest of the state's hunters to get a composite picture of hunting conditions.

Most deer hunting ends November 30, duck hunting ends December 4, raccoon hunting ends December 15, and upland bird and squirrel seasons have been closed for weeks. Some hardy hunters will continue shooting rabbits until December 31 in southern Michigan, January 31 in northern lower Michigan, and March 1 in the upper peninsula.

Regardless of season dates, the game kill report cards are required of all hunters by February 15, conservation department men say. The fact that the license itself is valid until September 30, 1943, in no way affects the due date of the report card, which is printed as a license stub.

ANNUAL SCOUT ROLL CALL DECEMBER 1-15

All Troops Scenic Trails Council to Participate

The third annual roll call of Scouts in the 75 troops of the Scenic Trails Council will be held from December 1st to December 15th it was announced. G. W. Harsch, manager of the Bell Telephone Company, of Traverse City, will be in charge.

The roll call in each troop will be held at a special meeting, to which parents and friends are invited to attend. As a part of the program, the scoutmasters making the official roll call will present each troop with a plaque indicating the war service carried out by the troop.

A meeting of the troop committee representing the institution sponsoring the troop will be held at the conclusion of the roll call meeting. At this meeting plans will be developed for 1943.

TRAFFIC AT STRAITS IS BACK TO NORMAL

State Highway Ferries Are Now Operating 90-Minute Schedule

The state highway department reports that traffic at the Straits of Mackinac has returned to normal after a rush by deer hunters to reach home.

The state ferries are operating again on 90-minute schedules starting at 6 a. m. and continuing through 10:30 p. m. Extra trips will be made at 1:30 and 4:30 p. m. from Mackinaw City.

Train at Great Lakes

Two recent arrivals at the Great Lakes naval training station from Charlevoix are Clare W. Gleason and Keith Ager, son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Ager. Now classified as "boots," the new recruits are being trained and instructed in various fundamental phases of naval routine, and will soon graduate from recruit training as fledgled bluejackets.

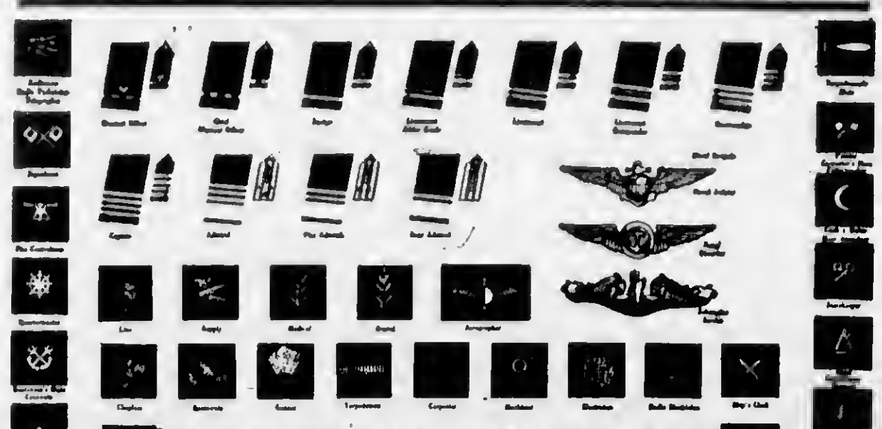
UNIFORM INSIGNIA U.S. NAVY



All Navy personnal must be first-class fighting men; men with courage, stamina and the will to win. However, the complexities of modern naval warfare also demand trained skill. Each man must know his job and know it well. In the Navy, the job of every officer and man is known by the insignia he wears. The various insignia which identify the duties performed are reproduced, on this page.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS
By B. C. Mellancamp

Farm Front Flashes for Fraadom

Sawdust on Building Timbers—A new stunt in powder post beetle control is cheap, effective, and does not require pyrethrum or rotenone which are needed for war use.—Borax is the material. One pound in 10 gallons of water (1-10). Spray this solution on infested timbers liberally with as much pressure as is available. The treatment of sills, stringers, or other infested hardwood building material, may prevent otherwise necessary replacements and help save farm buildings.

Chick Roms—Every breeding flock should have some precautionary provision taken against a sterile ram.

After the ram has been with the ewes for from 10 to 18 days, a mixture of Venetian Red or lamp black and oil may be placed on his breast between his front legs. If a large percentage of the ewes are robred (marked) it is advisable to turn in another ram at once. If marking is impractical, then a second ram should be provided by purchase or exchange with a neighbor. He should be turned in after the first ram has run with the ewes from 4 to 6 weeks.

Selection of Breeding Gilts—Gilts for the breeding herd should be carefully selected on the basis of their development and the production of their dams. It is a good plan sometime between the ages of 4 and 8 weeks to mark the sow pigs from the litters that are well started and where the sow has saved seven or more. If this has been neglected, it may be that some of the gilts can be remembered as out of the litters from the best-producing sows.

From such litters, one should select the gilts that are average or better in development and size. Select the gilts which have deep sides, even width, smooth bodies, straight feet and legs, femininity about the head and neck, and five or more well-developed teats on each side.

Chickens for Meat—Six million extra chickens are needed from Michigan this fall and winter, to be grown to three pounds. This is a part of a national campaign announced by Secretary Wickard to augment our meat supply. That will mean 18 million pounds of chicken, and will save that much beef and pork. This will provide one extra chicken to each Michigan consumer.

Look Ahead—Now, is not too soon to start planning next year's farm business. This year's feed supply if fairly well known. Do you have more or less feed than needed for your anticipated livestock load? On the rare farm where labor is available for handling more livestock and feed is the limiting factor, better fill the granary now.

If more pigs are wanted next summer, don't wait until next spring to think about that. Gilts to farrow next summer are now pigs and should be bought or selected while small.

Airplane Hoodicraft—Four-H handicraft may take the form of producing model airplanes, which are so sorely needed. Boys interested should see their county agricultural agents, who can get plans from the 4-H club department at Michigan State College.

Projects for girls will be restyling and remaking clothing, taking care of what they have. This project will include making suitable work clothing.

Manure for Nitrogen—Six loads of average farm manure contains as much nitrogen as 1,500 pounds of a 2-16-8 fertilizer. A 2-cow herd will produce 1,000 pounds of dung worth 65c and 55 gallons of urine worth 80c each day. Save the urine, absorb in chopped bedding, sawdust or dry muck. Spread manure thin on more acres by: (1) Top-dressing wheat, (2) Top-dressing sod to be spring plowed, (3) Top-dressing live-over-winter crops in orchards.

Manure can be saved by: (1) allowing it to accumulate in feeding pens; (2) Hauling promptly to the field, and spreading on sod, or fall-sown grains.

Poultry manure highest in nitrogen, sheep manure second. Save it!

Spare that Tree if It's too Small

There can be neither patriotism nor economy in selling off trees that measure less than 10 to 15 inches in diameter at the stump. That is the warning issued by W. Ira Bull, extension forester at Michigan State College. Trees too small are not profitable for farmers to sell nor for saw mill operators to process in spite of war demands.

Half the lumber from a small log goes to waste in sawdust and slabs and only half is made into lumber. Money can be made in selling trees 20 inches or more in diameter. From trees of this size three-fourths can be made into lumber and only one-fourth is left in sawdust and slabs.

When logs from trees 10 to 15 inches in diameter are measured with the Doyle log rule, there is a 75 to 100 per cent over-run, which means twice as much lumber can be sawed than is measured and estimated.

If these same small logs are measured by the International log rule, Forester Bull points out, mill operators could not afford to purchase such logs since this rule measures more accurately the number of board feet that can be sawed from logs of all sizes than does the Doyle rule. Small trees under the International scale would normally be left in the farm woodlot to grow a reasonable crop of timber.

Still another warning to woodlot owners is issued by the college extension forester. He advises against selling entire woods. Timber, he says, should be sold by the tree. His present woodlot management project will take him into most of the southern counties in the state to demonstrate the use of a cruising stick which aids in measuring board feet in standing trees. Instances have been found Bull reports, where a single large tree can be sold for as much money as was offered for an entire woods.

William A. Shepard, East Jordan, Raises Highest Yield of Potatoes In County

To William Shepard, of East Jordan, goes the honor of producing the highest yield of potatoes that ws have record of this year. His eleven acre field of Chippewas produced at the rate of 321.3 bushels per acre. This field was a beautiful sight all through the summer until the latter part of August when they begun to mature. The secret of this big yield lies in the fact that Mr. Shepard sprayed with a high power sprayer not less than eight applications of spray. As a result, this field was unusually free from disease of any type. In addition he applied 600 pounds of 4-24-12 commercial fertilizer per acre. This high quality analysis is nearly double what farmers usually use and it certainly encournged a wonderful vine development. This field was treated with seed treatment and the plants were put in close together. Twenty-two bushels of seed was used to the acre.

Because of the dry period, all of the yields in the county were below expectations. Mr. Shepard was fortunate that in this particular case these potatoes were planted on May 15, so that they were pretty well set before this dry period. Mr. Shepard has had no trouble in selling his potatoes. Many folks come right out to the farm to buy them, while the majority of stores are handling those high quality potatoes.

THE HOME FRONT IN MICHIGAN

With news from the fighting fronts far better than seemed possible a few months ago, it would be nothing short of disastrous to lose a major battle on the home front. Yet that very danger confronts us. Bluntly, this battle is the drive to save our rubber-borne transportation system from collapse at a time when it must carry a staggering but necessary war load.

In some parts of the country—Michigan included—agitation has spread against gasoline rationing. Opponents of this rubber-conserving program plead that gasoline is plentiful, that people are observing the 35-mile speed limit. Slow driving, tire inspection and car sharing—all are good, but they emphetically are not enough to insure an adequate supply of wartime tires. Unless every possible measure is taken at once to save tires, up to one-half of the nation's desperately needed passenger automobiles will be laid up by next April.

The Baruch rubber committee, which had full access to the facts and had the confidence of the American people, stated simply and emphatically: early adoption of nation-wide gasoline rationing, as an absolute check on unnecessary driving, is essential to tire saving. Tires on civilian cars are wearing down at a rate eight times greater than they are being replaced.

This nation's battle against high living costs, in spite of occasional set-backs, has made progress. Price control measures have saved American families about $8,500,000,000 (eight and a half billion) this year, and next—if present lines can be held—the savings will mount to $15,500,000,000 (fifteen and a half billion). But these huge savings can only be made possible by complete cooperation among the buying public, retailers, wholesalers, and manufacturers and other producers, including farmers.

Shirt tails have become a war casualty. The War Production Board has ordered two to three inches clipped from the length of new men's and boy's shirts made after Dec. 15. More than 10,000,000 additional shirts will be manufactured from the material saved.

Here's a good hunch on gasoline rationing! By properly endorsing your ration coupons at once, you will avoid the inconvenience of having to do so when you buy gasoline at the service station. Also, this advance measure will help protect your ration book from possible misuse in the case of loss or theft. The office of price administration points out that it is not necessary for ration holders to wait until they buy gasoline before endorsing coupons. So write your name on the back of your coupons immediately.

Every city and cross-roads town in Michigan and the nation will be combed for skilled men and women who are needed on war jobs, Chairman Paul McNutt of the war manpower commission has instructed U. S. employment service offices to make every effort to persuade workers to shift from peacetime jobs to work in war production plants. Many occupational scarcities of labor have developed.

Boys and girls, take good care of your toys. The War Production Board has ruled that no more toys, games or repair or replacement parts for toys and games may be produced that contain certain metals and other critical war materials. Even the use of metal plastics and cork for fishing tackle is forbidden.

DOT and DASHES: School children who work on farms have been made eligible by OPA for purchase of bicycles needed for transportation between school and home and farm. . . the December quota of new passenger automobiles for rationing in Michigan is 1,601. . . construction of a sound and comfortable family dwelling is still possible under restrictions imposed by war housing standards, the National Housing Agency has announced.

Keep an eye out for any old jalopies in vacant lots in your neighborhood and report them to your nearest salvage chairman. . . these old junkers are needed badly in war production. . . a "big "Jalopy round-up" will be in progress throughout Michigan until December 15.

LANSING LETTER

tration, should the voters elect Kelly te the governorship.

The Republicnn governor-elect believes that economy can be achieved through a one-year state budget. The state legislature would return in 1044 to consider another 12-month appropriation.

The one-year budget proposal has met with considerable favorable comment. Here is a typical newspaper comment, this coming from the Marquette Daily Mining Journal:

"Much could be said of Kelly's plan even in normal times. In wartimes it is almost impossible fer private or public business executives to anticipate conditions more than n few months ahend."

When budgets are lowered, state services or local government services must be curtailed. It isn't solely a Lansing problem.

Let's look at the state problem first. As Auditer General Vernen J. Brown said wryly, it is going to be difficult to convince state officials that their werk is not important, that their appropriations should be cut.

Lee V. Card, commissioner of agriculture, has asked fer an increase of $90,000 for the next fiscal year. With wartime emphasis on food, Card declares he needs mere inspectors instead of fewer. This state service is essential, the commissioner adds. It's like replying: "Don't economize in my depnrtment. Try someone else."

On top of this attitutde, obviously sincere on the part of Mr. Cnrd, the state civil service commission has been granting salary increases to many state workers. Why? Competition of state government with private industry. High war plant wages. If the cost of living keeps rising, how can wages be reduced?

So you see the state viewpoint is complicated.

"Well, how about the home governments?" you ask.

Let's look at the figures. During the last fiscal year, ending June 30, 1942, the State of Michigan distributed $129,287,850 to local government units.

It was an all-time high.

More than 61 per cent of all state funds are returned to home governments—counties and cities, schools, public health and medical nssistance, public welfare and highways.

What should the state do with this money?

Remember, the increase in local aid was nearly eight million dollars over 1041.

Highway improvement and maintenance, together with snow removal, constituted the first demand on state funds. Whereas more than $20,000,000 were distributed by the state to local highway departments, the state retained $20,000,000. On the welfare side, the state turned over more than $30,000,000 to counties for local welfare needs, while keeping around $0,000,000 for its own functions.

And so it goes.

We sympathize with any governor in his dream of curtailing state spending, especially during the war. But somebody's toes are bound to be stepped upon. And it may be the folks back home, not at Lansing.

Like the daughter who hung her clothes on the hickory limb but couldn't go near the water, the C. I. O. employees of the Consumer Power company may go out on a strike, but they can't shut off the power.

At least, Governor Van Wagoner says the generators must be kept going.

The C. I. O. wants a closed shop agreement. The company says that only 1,023 out of its 2,467 employes voted for the union and that it has offered the same maintenance of membership clause which prevailed for the competing A. F. and L. union.

How to hold a strike without leaving your job is a ticklish problem, to put it mildly. Especially when the lives of American boys may depend on the tanks and guns and shells which are being manufactured right here in Michigan war plants, all dependent upon electrical power.

LETTERS from the ARMY CAMPS

Dear Ken,

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for sending the Courier, the paper comes kind of few and far between but I am always glad to read about the home folks.

At the present time I am in New Guinea, after spending nine months in Australia. Australia is a very fine country and we Yanks were very well treated by the Australians.

I started out working in the Technical Engineering Dept. but when an order came out requesting those who had meter boating experience to report to the C. O., I immediately transferred out of the Dept. on to an Air Corps crash boat, which was a good deal for my benefit. I have been in charge of the boat for the past three months and am getting along fine and like the job very much.

I was reading in the last paper I received about Clare Staley and Brother Bob catching some nice lake trout. Well, Ken, I have found a little time to do some real fishing myself. We have had some very good luck trawling over here in New Guinea. The fish we have been catching are the white travelly and blue mackerel. The most we have caught in a morning's time was ten, between six and twenty pounds and they really set up a fight. The natives are the fishermen ever here. Every morning I see them out paddling around in their dugouts with a native boy standing up in the bow with a spear, and they seldom miss. A very interesting sight is the native outrigger coming in after lifting their nets, those boys are real sailors when they can handle these boats like they do.

I was reading the letter Bob Fochtman wrote for the paper, I have an idea that he is over here but as yet have not seen him. I did meet a fellow ever here whom I used to chum around with when I was at Western, he is a fighter pilot and from Cadillac, it sure seemed good to see someone from near home.

I sure miss being home and hope to get back some time in the near future, although in the meantime there is a war to be won.

As ever,
Bruce.

Dear Ken,

Just a line to let you know that I receive the Courier every Saturday and sure appreciate reading the news from the good old home town.

I have been transferred to another squadron here on the field so will give you my new address.

The weather is kind of cold out here now. I saw my first snow yesterday of this year, so now maybe we will be having some winter weather down here.

I have only 20 more days of schooling left out here and then I will be through with my course of training.

I sure hope you are lucky enough to get your buck this year, for the price of meat sure is high out here.

Will close for this time.

Dear Mr. Usher,

I would like to have you send me the Courier so I can get some news from home.

I have been out here in California for two weeks. Not so bad out here, at least it does not snow. I am at a camp out on the coast, with a fine view of the Pacific ocean.

Though this is a fine country out here, there is no place like home.

I will be looking for the paper soon.

Hello, Ken,

Was much surprised to find out that one of the sergeants of this outfit was from Bay City, Mich. He asked me if I knew Clement Olach of Charlevoix, said he worked with him in Michigan, and that they were in the same outfit at Greenville air base, S. C.

So I am now in Olach's old outfit, the fighting ninth. Sure wish he would have been transferred with the outfit. He is now in the 853rd Signal at Greenville.

Well, I just missed being in with a Charlevoix fellow.

GENERAL RULES FOR CORRECT DISPLAY OF STARS AND STRIPES

On June 14, 1923, a National Flag Conference, attended by representatives from the army, the navy and the principal patriotic, civic and educational organizations of the country, was held in Washington for the purpose of adopting a flag code prescribing correct ways of displaying and respecting the Flag of the United States. In addressing the opening session of the conference, President Harding said:

"Everything we do to bring the Flag into proper consideration by the citizenship of the republic is highly commendable and deserves to be cordially indorsed.

"Every salutation to the Flag makes my consecration to the country and the flag a little more secure."

The rules for flag display that follow are based on the code that was adopted by the National Flag Conference.

General Rules

The flag should be displayed from sunrise to sunset on buildings and on stationary flag staffs in the open.

Unless there is some special reason for doing so, the flag should not be flown in rainy or stormy weather.

The flag should always be raised briskly and lowered slowly and ceremoniously.

When the flag is being raised or lowered, it must never be allowed to touch the ground.

In a procession with another flag, the United States flag is on the right of the marchers.

In a procession with a line of other flags, the United States flag is in front of the center of the line.

When used on a speaker's platform, if displayed flat, the flag is above and behind the speaker; if flown from a staff, the flag is in the position of honor, at the speaker's right, and preferably slightly in front.

telephone calls. They must eat, bathe, shave, dress, sleep and relax. How much time does this leave for thinking? Walter Lippmann says it leaves very little, if any; that it is the rarest of exceptions when an American public man organizes himself so that he has time to think. It is obvious, though, that successful prosecution of the war requires quick thinking, often an abrupt change of policy and strstegy. Promptly to focus responsible minds on the problems of the hour is a formidable, if not impossible, task. Outside critics perceive this fact and offer excellent criticism. The moment they are taken into the government their usefulness vanishes. Apparently they, too, are overwhelmed by the details of departmental routine.

Oh, dear—no deer. That ends the story for 1942. My only lament is that Sunday, when I and lots of other local fellows were a half hundred miles away searching for the elusive buck, a nice spike-horn and doe swam across Round lake, right at our front door-step. Witnesses claim the animals entered the lake from the Chicago Club grounds, were frightened by excited onlookers away from shore near Hamilton & Son Boat yard and East Park, then swam back to the Chicago Club and disappeared among the cottages. And to think that's more deer than some of us saw during the whole season. Well, another year we'll be just as eager to try it over again. That's deer hunting.

Maybe you've noticed that satisfied look on Fritz Bergmann's face these days. You'd have a satisfied look, too, if your winter meat supply included four nice buck deer. Fritz and the younger boys bagged three over east of Vanderbilt and George knocked off one out by Wallers. What with n meat shortage and impending rationing, they're setting pretty. That's a hunting family, those Bergmanns, and no kiddin'.

Hunters who didn't have to go far for their dear were John Fratrick, who got his on the Harry Webster farm, Floyd Baber, a 12-pointer Saturday morning near Burgess, and Will Ager, who stalked and downed his buck on the Dick Paddock farm. Better put. strong fences around your gardens next summer, folks, 'cause those animals are moving in closer all the time.

Except for those who happen to fall in a privileged classification for gas rationing, the phrase "fill 'er up" went out of existence Monday for the duration. Stations did a land-office business November 30 and myself, along with probably every other car owner, wished we had a 100-gallon tank under the old jalopy.

In case you're not aware of the fact, there's just 19 more shopping days before Christmas. To shoppers, we'd say buy every single gift item you can from the home merchants; to the merchants, we say tell the folks what you've got to offer through Courier advertisements. These two suggestions should work for the benefit of all, and at the same time we're putting in a little plug for ourselves.

After seeing an elderly woman nearly fall on the icy sidewalk on the west side of Bridge street Monday afternoon, my conclusion was that all merchants should be forced to keep the sidewalk clean in front of their place of business or else it is time to start sanding.

For the benefit of those many summer resident readers of the Courier who are always interested to know how the Weather Man is treating us, the current situation is several tons of snow in a highly disorganized state, whipped to a frazzle by strong northwest winds and revolving rapidly at a temperature of 22 degrees. We had a "white" Thanksgiving, too, which was contrary to the rule in recent years.

AT THE MOVIES

"The Talk of the Town"

"The Talk of the Town" is a motion picture superlatively handled, according to Hollywood excited by the success of the film wherever it has been screened. Columbia's outstanding new romantic comedy opens December 5, at the Palace theatre for two days. Produced and directed by George Stevens, the brilliant movie-maker of such sensational hits as "Woman of the Year" and "Penny Serennde," "The Talk of the Town" stars Cary Grant, Jean Arthur and Ronald Colman.

Irwin Shaw and Sidney Buchman, author of "Here Comes Mr. Jordan" and other meritable screen plays, penned "The Talk of the Town." The supporting cast is headed by Edgar Buchanan, Gleada Farrell and Tom Tyler.

SEVENTEEN GET ARMY CALL ON DECEMBER 5

Three Charlevoix Men in Second November Contingent

Seventeen Charlevoix county men passing pre-induction examination November 23 at Kalamazoo, have been ordered to report to the draft board at 3 p. m. Saturday, December 5, for transfer and induction at Fort Custer.

They are: Albert W. Thorpe, Robert L. Gill, John F. Moore, of Charlevoix; Allen W. Campbell, Basil O. Moore, Claude E. McCleese, Earl Miller, Leonard G. Hosier, Wiley R. Vought, Richard W. Kirby, Elgie R. Newville, of Boyne City; Lawrence D. Brill, of Walloon Lake; Elmer R. Corwin, William G. Zitka, Donald C. Shepard, of East Jordan; Ernest G. Ruffe, of Clarion; Leslie J. Baker, of Boyne Falls.

A send-off program, sponsored by the Charlevoix Service Organization, will be held at the school gymnasium prior to departure.

GAS RATIONING BEGAN TUESDAY

These unable to apply for "A" ration books at the regular registration can still apply at the local ration board.

After December 13 it will be illegal to operate a car without the tire inspection record, which is evidence that tires have been registered and all excess tires (over five for each vehicle) have been disposed of.

Only two local garages, Brown Motors, Inc., and A. C. Hansen, have applied to the rationing board and been approved as tire inspection stations. Other garages and gasoline stations are expected to make application this week.

The first inspection of tires must take place during the first ration period. Holders of "A" or "D" books need get an inspection only once in every four months, while holders of "B" and "C" books must have tires checked every 60 days.

DRUMMOND ISLAND PRODUCES BUCKS

AAA PROGRAM IN CHARLEVOIX COUNTY

Secretary Wickard asked farmers about a month ago to increase next year's spring pig crop by 10 per cent. Since then, things have happened which probably will make the need even greater than it looked a few weeks ago. "Things" are happening fast; Russia has indicated more pork and lard is needed than we have been sending them, the same holds for the British. The African campaign opens up another great demand. Secretary Wickard says that if we are to get the pork and lard we will need, every farmer, no matter where he lives, will have to raise just as many hogs as his own circumstances will permit. "We need the help of the man who usually raises 20 hogs or fewer just as much as the help of the man who raises 200 more," the Secretary says.

During the last 19 months, 33 million dollars worth of American farm products have moved toward Egypt to support the North African campaign. The foods shipped were mostly meats and processed foods.

The Charlevoix county AAA committee announces that additional shipments of surplus feed wheat will be received in the county which will sell for about $1.70 per hundred pounds. If you are in need of feed wheat, place your order with the AAA office in Boyne City at once.

BUILD ADDITION AT FOSTER BOAT PLANT

STRUCTURE 60x160 IS NOW NEARING COMPLETION

Building Will Provide Assembly Indoors for Boats Up to One Hundred Feet in Length

Utilization of an addition to the Foster Boat Company's Ferry avenue plant is a matter of a short time now as interior finish is being rushed to completion.

The new structure, 60 by 160 feet in dimension and designed for the assembly indoors of boats up to a 100 feet in length, has sidewalls of concrete blocks built on reinforced cement foundation. The self-supporting type roof covered with asphalt is arched-shaped over ceiling joists, from which perpendicular timbers tie in the roof rafters.

Large, steel sash windows on each side provide ample lighting. The ceiling clearance is 16 feet from the full concrete floor to the joists. A concrete fire wall separates the old building and new addition.

The large steam boiler removed from the old grade school building is being installed and will eventually furnish heat for the entire plant. Installation of electric wiring and machinery remains to be completed. The project is under the supervision of W. H. Wallace.

In another part of the old plant a second improvement program is underway. South end of the second floor will be utilized for executive, accounting and secretarial offices. Two private rooms and a large open office are under construction. When completed, this program will provide for all offices with exception of that of the construction superintendent's on the second floor.

Commencing on the improvement program Tuesday morning, Harry F. Foster, president of the company, stated that the north side plant, formerly The Inn garage, will be continued in use for assembly. While Mr. Foster offered no official information, it is assumed the new plant addition is the forerunner of a program for construction of boats other than the type now being built.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY WOMAN'S GUILD

Mrs. Allen Campbell to Head Congregational Group

Officers for the ensuing year were elected by the Congregational Woman's Guild at their December meeting, last Wednesday afternoon at the church.

New officers are: president, Mrs. Allen Campbell; 1st vice president, Mrs. Oscar Smith; 2nd vice president, Mrs. Russell Curtis; secretary, Mrs. Alfred Brew; treasurer, Mrs. Otto Krueger.

A Christmas program of readings followed the business session. Mrs. J. J. Novotny's selection was "Christmas Bells," Mrs. George Jurdine gave Dickens' "A Christmas Carol," and Mrs. A. F. Novotny presented "Holy Night."

Tea was served by the Pilgrim Circle. Presiding at the prettily decorated table were the retiring Guild president, Mrs. Angus Fochtman, and the new president, Mrs. Campbell.

OUTDOOR LIGHTING RESTRICTED BY WAR

Council Complies with WPB Plea to Conserve Fuel Oil

Outdoor Christmas lighting has joined the lengthening list of wartime restrictions, by recommendation of the War Production Board.

Requiring the use of more electricity than normal, the colorful effects of former years must be abandoned this holiday season, as fuel oil for the city diesel plant is rationed.

The Bellaire hydroelectric plant cannot carry the increased load, due to the necessity of maintaining a maximum water level at the dam to insure efficient operation. Constant lowering of the level by spasmodic demands on its electric power would render the plant almost useless as an auxiliary.

In complying with the WPB request, the Charlevoix city council is making no provision for the usual lighted community Christmas tree, and urges that citizens also refrain from using electricity for outdoor decorations.

SEEK XMAS GIFTS FOR FORT BRADY

PLAN REMEMBRANCES FOR 15,000 SOLDIERS

Solicitation in Charlevoix County Is Sponsored by American Red Cross Chapter

Charlevoix county has been asked to contribute small Christmas gifts for soldiers at Fort Brady, also a tree and trimmings. The request was received by Mrs. Paul Clark, of Boyne City, chairman of the camp and hospital council division of the county Red Cross chapter, from officials at the post.

It is hoped that sufficient gifts will be donated to make a merry Christmas for every one of the more than 15,000 soldiers at the fort. This county's share is only a small portion of the amount needed, as other chapters in this council have pledged their aid also.

Gifts need not be expensive, but must be appropriate and acceptable to the service men. A pack of cigarettes, playing cards, books, or a game would be greatly appreciated. It has been asked that they be wrapped as Christmas presents. In this city, Mrs. R. F. Sinan is receiving the soldiers' gifts for the county chapter. Mrs. Clark is in charge at Boyne City, and Mrs. O. K. Hegerberg in East Jordan.

Army posts all over the country will be remembered by the Red Cross in this way at Christmas.

WINTER SPORTS GRAYLING PARK WILL BE SUSPENDED

Clarence B. Johnsen, manager of the Grayling Winter Sports association that for years has leased and operated the Grayling winter sports state park, this week informed conservation department Director P. J. Hoffmaster that the local association will not attempt to operate the park for the duration.

CAGE TOURNAMENTS ARE DISCONTINUED

State Athletic Board Considers Ao Alternate Plan

The 1943 state high school basketball tournament in which 11,000 Michigan boys ordinarily would have participated definitely became a war casualty last Friday.

The representative council of the state high school athletic association voted Thursday night to call off the games because of travel restrictions.

In place of the series of regional and district tournaments and the finals at East Lansing and Marquette, there "may" be several local tournaments in districts where schools can obtain transportation, according to Julian Smith, state high school athletic director.

The procedure for local tournaments will be established by a committee, to be appointed by C. A. Semler, Benton Harbor, newly elected president of the state high school athletic association.

Smith said the committee might consider combining class A and B schools in one group and class C and D schools in a second group for the local contests. Last year 60 district tournaments were held, but Smith declined to estimate how many local tournaments could be scheduled this year.

KIWANIANS EXCEEDED GOAL FOR RED CROSS

Made Canvass of City Tuesday Evening After Meeting

Charlevoix Kiwanians last Tuesday night collected $215.17 for the local Red Cross organization, far exceeding their goal of $150

The money will be used to fill comfort kits for American soldiers, containing cigarettes, shoelaces, writing materials, soap, razor blades, needles, thread, buttons and other useful articles.

Canvassing the city in the evening after their regular meeting, the Kiwanians did not have time to call at every home. Those who wished to aid the drive, but were not contacted at that time, will have an opportunity to contribute at some future date.

SERVICES SATURDAY FOR MRS. CLOTHIER

Had Been a Resident of This City Since 1936

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at Norvell for Mrs. Don Clothier, who died last Wednesday at Lockwood General Hospital in Petoskey.

Nellie Raby was born March 23, 1892, in Norvell, Mich. She married Mr. Clothier June 2, 1932, and they came to Charlevoix in 1936 to make their home. They have operated a mackinaw camp and Grey Cables Inn for the past seven summers.

Surviving are the husband; her father, Harvey H. Raby, and brother, Harry Raby, both of Norvell.

Services were held at the Werthington Funeral Home at Norvell, Rev. Fred Ambler of the Episcopal church officiating. Interment was in Norvell cemetery.

CALL IS ISSUED FOR SIXTH REGISTRATION

Proclamation by Van Wagoner Sets Period Dates

Governor Van Wagoner has issued a proclamation for the sixth selective service registration, for 18 and 19 year olds, in Michigan.

Registration provisions specify that those born between July 1, 1924, and Aug. 31, 1924, should register the week of Dec. 11-17; those born between Sept. 1, 1924, and Oct. 31, 1924, the week of Dec. 18-24; those born between Nov. 1, 1924, and Dec. 31, 1924, the week of Dec. 26-31; and those born after Jan. 1, 1925, should register on the day they become 18.

COUNTY BOND SALES SHORT IN NOVEMBER

National Quota Increased to Meet War Demands

As the nation's war bond quota was increased in November to meet increasing demands of the martial machine, Charlevoix county fell short of its goal for the month.

Breaking a record of five successive months of going "over the top" in bond sales, the county total was $25,581. The quota was $35,000.

Sales in this city were $8,893.75; Boyne City, $5,756.25; while East Jordan topped the county with $10,931.

Will Get Wings

William L. Hansen, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hansen, is one of a group of new army pilots who will receive the gold bars of second lieutenants and silver wings of pilots in the army air forces at Randolph field, Texas, this Sunday.

Completing an intensive, streamlined experimental course which cut in half the 27 weeks normally required for flight training, these pilots will train as instructors at Kelly field, Texas. Upon graduation from this course they will become instructors at army air forces basic flying schools.

Hansen was a member of the national guard for six months, enlisting in the army air forces as a private in November, 1941.

OUTLINE METHOD TO GET MORE GASOLINE

Appeal to State Board After Local Application Fails

Edwin G. Gemrich, state rationing attorney for the office of price administration, last Thursday outlined procedure for requesting larger gasoline allowances than those granted in the first registration.

Gemrich said motorists seeking to appeal must submit to their local boards within 30 days a form stating which sections of the rationing regulations they consider inconsistent with their allowed rations.

If the local board refuses to reconsider its previous action, he explained, it will forward the appeal to the state office, which either will affirm or reverse the local board's ruling.

Gemrich said appeals should not be sent directly to the state OPA office.

RAYDERS VICTOR OVER PETOSKEY

DEFEATED NORTHMEN BY 25 TO 24 SCORE FRIDAY

Contest Close in Every Period; Meet Harbor Spring on Harbor Court, Dec. 11th

Charlevoix high school's Red Rayder basketball team chalked up their first victory in several years over Petoskey's class B Northmen when they won 25 to 24 on Petoskey's court last Friday evening.

It was the Rnydor's second consecutive win of the season and marked them as strong contenders for northern Michigan class C honors.

As indicated by the score, the contest was close and hard-fought all the way. Charlevoix had a 6 to 4 advantage at the quarter. The count was reversed in the second period, Petoskey netting 6 points to Charlevoix's 4 for a 10 to 10 deadlock at halftime. Charlevoix put the game on ice in the third stanza, scoring 9 points to Petoskey's 4 for a 19 to 14 margin at which was seriously threatened as the third intermission, a lead Petoskey tallied 10 points to Charlevoix's 4 in the fourth period.

It was Charlevoix's accuracy from the foul line that gave them the margin of victory. They tallied on seven out of 11 chances, while Petoskey made good on only two out of six opportunities.

Carey, forward, and Vrabinina, center, led the Rayder scoring with 8 points apiece. Rowe contributed four, Swanson three, Chambers two. Coach Kipke used Bellinger, Ward, Gallagher, Bissell and Mitchell as substitutes. Cooper was high for Petoskey with 13 points.

The Rayders play away from home again this week. They play at Harbor Springs, Friday night.

LIGHT SPAWN TAKE IS REPORTED HERE

Commercial Fishermen Obtain 8,000,000 Lake Trout Eggs

Fall storms that kept fishing boats in port and smashed much twine that fishermen had set accounted also for the smallest yield of lake trout eggs the conservation department has obtained from Lake Michigan in years.

Spawn taken by commercial fishermen since fishing for lake trout was resumed on Lake Michigan November 11, after a month's suspension to allow this species to spawn, amounted to only 6,000,000 eggs. These eggs are now incubating at Harrietta, Oden, and Thompson state fish hatcheries, and another 2,000,000 eggs from Lake Huron are now at Harrisville state fish hatchery.

The 8,000,000 eggs at the hatcheries will be adequate for the conservation department's lake trout planting needs, but more eggs could have been handled, had they been available. A year ago six times as many eggs were taken, and after planting half of them back on the spawning grounds and stocking the federal hatchery at Duluth, there remained more than 17,000,000 for hatching at state stations.

MASONS ELECTED NEW OFFICERS FOR YEAR

Members Bought War Bonds at Tuesday Meeting

Charlevoix Lodge No. 282, F. & A. M., elected officers at their meeting Tuesday night.

George Priest was chosen to the post of Worshipful Master. Other officers are: senior warden, J. C. Marshall; junior warden, Rowley Williams; treasurer, E. J. Hiller; secretary, Lloyd Curtis; senior deacon, Glenn Ingalls; junior deacon, Harry Gehenn.

Art Wexstaff, retiring Master, was elected trustee and alternate to Grand Lodge. Installation ceremonies will be held December 22.

As a gesture of participation in a war bond selling drive being conducted among Masonic lodges all over the country, members of this lodge bought $225 worth of bonds at the Tuesday meeting.

JURORS SUMMONED ONCE EACH YEAR

Judge Parm C. Gilbert Issued Wartime Order Monday

An order limiting the calling of juries to one circuit court term each year in the 13th judicial district for the duration of the war was filed Monday at the county clerk's office by Judge Parm C. Gilbert.

The order was made because of limitations imposed by wartime conditions. Charlevoix county's jury cases will be tried the first Monday in March; Grand Traverse, fourth Monday in March; Leelanau, fourth Monday in April; Antrim, first Monday in December.

In the event that any condition may arise which will necessitate calling a jury at any other than the designated times, this order may be modified.

Three Charlevoix Men in Group Entering Service

Three Charlevoix men were among the seventeen county selectees who left Saturday afternoon for Fort Custer, after their customary two weeks' furlough following examination and induction into the army. They were Robert L. Gill, Albert W. Thorpe, and John F. Moore.

R. L. Lewis was master of ceremonies for the Charlevoix Service Organization's send-off program at the gymnasium, introducing J. M. Foster, speaker of the day. Rev. H. C. Ringenoldus gave the benediction.

CLOSED WHITEFISH BAN LIFTED DEC. 10

Commercial Fishing Fleet Will Go to Fox Island Grounds

Upper Lake Michigan commercial fishermen will center their operations at the Fox Island whitefish grounds with opening of the closed season.

Almost without exception, all boats operating out of Charlevoix left for the Foxes to be on hand for the season opening. Beaver Island and other upper Michigan ports were expected to add to the fleet which in past years has numbered as high as 40 boats on the opening day.

6TH REGISTRATION DATES ANNOUNCED

SELECTIVE SERVICE CALLS 18-19 YEAR YOUTHS

Schedule for Month of December Announced by Charlevoix County Draft Board

More than 25,000 Michigan youths will be registered in the sixth and probably the last general selective service registration to be conducted by local boards during the period beginning next Friday, December 11, and continuing thru December 31.

Men who became 18 during July and August this year will be registered at the county draft board office in the city hall on any day during the week beginning next Friday. Men who became 18 during September and October will be registered during the week commencing Friday, December 18; and those who became 18 during November or December will be registered during the period beginning December 26 and ending December 31. Registration places will also be established at St. James, East Jordan and Boyne City, it is understood.

Hereafter men born on or after January 1, 1925, will register on the day they become 18. If their birthday falls on Sunday or a legal holiday, they will register on the following day.

Men subject to registration should register at the local board having jurisdiction over their residence address. Persons away from home at the time of registration may register at the office of the nearest local board. In every instance the residence address given by the registrant will determine the local board that will always have jurisdiction over him. Persons outside the United States will register immediately upon their return. Inmates of state institutions will register at the time they are released.

More than 1,800,000 men have already been registered by the Michigan selective service system in one of the most complete inventories of manpower ever accomplished. This includes all men in Michigan between the ages of 18 and 65. All men between the ages of 18 and 45 have been declared by Congress to be liable for military service, if not otherwise deferred by their local boards.

CLARION SCHOOL HAS SOLD TB STAMP QUOTA

Is First Reported to Complete Work In This County

Before the first week of the current tuberculosis Christmas seal sale had closed, the Clarion school had sold its quota of seals and Miss Irma Gibbs, teacher, had sent a rush order the Michigan Tuberculosis Association for more.

This order was filled by Miss Lois Kempf, director of the rural school department for the MTA. "These teachers and children who act as salesmen for the Christmas seals, are doing an essential job in defending the health of Michigan," Miss Kempf said. "If our country escapes the sharp rise in tuberculosis which usually accompanies war, it will be because of such work as theirs."

One of the challenges ahead of the 1942 Christmas seal is to avoid the tragedy which struck England last year—a 45 per cent increase in tuberculosis deaths among children.

COMPLETE RED CROSS QUOTA

NINE THOUSAND SURGICAL DRESSINGS MADE HERE

New Project to Begin When More Material Received; Chairman Thanks Volunteers

The first quota of 9,000 surgical dressings for the American Red Cross has been completed by Charlevoix women, who made a splendid response to the call for volunteers for this work.

Mrs. F. F. McMillan, surgical dressings chairman, wishes to thank all those women who so willingly aided in the recently finished project. A comparable amount of material is expected soon for the second quota. The work will begin as soon as material is received.

On June 1 of this year, only 601 Red Cross chapters in the entire country were making surgical dressings. Now, nearly 3,700 are making them.

As the Red Cross makes the majority of all surgical dressings needed for the army, the questions are frequently asked: why does the Red Cross make surgical dressings? Why does the army not buy them from manufacturers? The answer is simple. Manufacturers have neither the facilities nor the labor to undertake this vast program. It would take months of preparation before they could begin production on so large a scale, therefore the Red Cross was asked to do it, not just to keep the women busy but as a definite, clear-cut need and obligation to be met.

Red Cross surgical dressings made by the women of America are now being sent to Russia.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By KEN USHER

If liberty is worth fighting for, it is worth paying for—buy War Bonds.

It has developed since election that some of those candidates who thought they heard the voice of the people calling heard themselves talking out loud.

Now that the deer season is over you can find someone on the street to talk business with, even if you don't get any.

Charlevoix county highway officials and workers did a right smart job of snow removal on county roads and trunk line highways during last Wednesday's storm. I had occasion to drive to Mancelona that afternoon, and had a chance to make a comparison between the work of this and adjoining Antrim county. There hadn't been a plow on M-66 south of East Jordan in Antrim county, but US131 from West Elmira, where Charlevoix county took over maintenance, to Boyne Falls, was as smooth as a floor and sanded the full width. A year ago this writer was thumping the road commission for the bad condition of some highways and, believing in giving credit where it is due, as well, am now handing out bouquets for the fine work being done.

I'm not particularly in favor of demonstrations like the Ohio Northern University students who paraded to class in bathrobes and carrying lanterns gave in protest to "before daylight" classes, but I am one parent, and know a lot of others who would welcome setting clocks back an hour like was done a year ago to escape the current "breakfast by artificial light" and hustling kiddies off to school in the pitch dark.

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

War or no war, the prerogatives of Michigan state legislators are sanctified by time-honored traditions and are not to be lightly put aside even in an emergency—or are they?

The governor-elect, Harry F. Kelly, has disclosed that efforts will be made to expedite the 1943 legislative session. State revenues are declining, while costs are mounting. Hence, the Kelly program for an annual state budget instead of the customary biennial budget.

Why? Two reasons: The war and a resultant need for economy.

However, it involves the breaking of tradition. A lengthy legislative session in 1943 for the state's biennium would be replaced by short sessions in 1943 and 1944. That's where the hitch comes in.

Lengthy legislative sessions have become the rule since 1933 when the New Deal arrived with a bagful of reforms.

Farmer members of the legislature counted on adjournment by June 30 so they could go home for summer work.

The farm labor shortage in 1943 will be acute. Rural legislators will be needed in their fields in the spring. This war situation should favor the Kelly plan, which calls for a radical change in habits of legislators.

Ohio's Governor Bricker has announced that the Buckeye legislature will be limited, by gentleman's agreement, to matters pertaining to the war and the state budget.

Law-makers will not convene at Columbus to engage in the traditional log-rolling practice of introducing bills which they know will be killed in committee, holding hearings "for the record", and otherwise spending a lot of time and money just to appease pressure blocs, large and small, in the district back home and thus fulfill campaign pledges.

At least, so says the Ohio governor who was re-elected for his

In town were Harry Boss, Westly Pearl, Willie McIntyre, Dar Meech, Robert, George and Tom Stafford, Louise, Lydia, Alice and Will Supernaw, Anna, Mary and Fred Wright, Fred and Emma Duval. Miss Nellie Meech, teacher.

It was right after September 1, 1881, that the steam barge Daisy Day came in to Norwood with a full load of general merchandise, everything from soup to nuts. The stock was put in the big store on the bluff. The company then was Guiles and Nash. E. R. Harris was manager of the store. G. V. Nash came in on the first trip of the Daisy Day. Bob Stafford and I loaded Mr. Nash's trunk on one of the tram cars and pulled it ashore. On that same day my father went to work for the company at $1,000 a year and what mill wood we burned. His first work was to repair the mill. It was then that we moved down on the flat. The other families that moved in were Antnino Duval, George Coon, Adolph Supernaw, Alex Wright, W. R. Hutchins. These men helped get the mill ready for cutting lumber and shingles. Ed. Stafford had a crew of men repairing the dock. From then on Norwood started to boom.

Words and Music Complete, Fred Waring's New Song Hit

Fred Waring dedicates his newest song hit tune, "Miss Victory" to America's girl war workers. "Miss Victory" is a song a boy in a uniform might sing to his sweetheart on the home front . . . and you'll find it FREE . . . complete with words and music . . . in the Pictorial Review with this Sunday's (December 13) issue of The Detroit Sunday Times.

THE Secret OF THE MARSHBANKS

• BY KATHLEEN NORRIS •

©NORRIS W.N.U. RELEASE

CHAPTER VIII

Emma was going to the cemetery; Cherry was going back to the empty house. She came out of the big hilltop church with the other mourners.

Across the street, standing quite still, was Kelly Coates. Cherry smiled at him, and he crossed the street and joined her and they walked away together.

"You weren't waiting to see me?"

"Why wasn't I?" he asked moodily after an oblique glance.

"Because I supposed you were waiting to see her," Cherry said.

To this the man made no direct answer, muttering after a moment, "God, she's beautiful!"

"I thought she looked rather tired this morning," Cherry observed somewhat timidly.

"She might very well look tired, being dragged through a lot of nonsense like this showy funeral!"

"They had to come," Cherry told him. "Amy's mother was Mrs. Porter's niece, or some relative anyway. Amy's mother's mother was a Wellington, and her husband was Mrs. Porter's uncle; something like that.

Emma came back tired at three o'clock, and had a late luncheon in her room. Cherry, dressed to go downtown, joined her there.

"You're going out?" Emma asked, mincing roast beef for the gray kitten. "Here, if you must steal my lunch!" she said to Cappy in an undertone.

"I thought I'd walk downtown and see a movie," Cherry answered, dropping into a chair.

"Well, do that." Emma approved. "You've got money? And then maybe if you feel like it you might bring your cards in here before supper, and we'll listen to the radio.

"We could have supper up here," Cherry spoke quietly. But the awkward little overture touched her deeply.

She walked down the street a few minutes later, passing the Marshbanks house just as the judge descended to the street.

"Hello, Cherry," he said. "Walking? The little car is right here in the garage if I could take you somewhere. I came back from the office to get a bite of lunch but I've nothing to do now."

"No, I really want to walk, Judge. I've scarcely stirred out of the house for a week, and I feel so free today that I can hardly keep my feet on the ground."

"You look it!" he said with his friendly smile. "Here's Amy!"

Amy came flying down the steps to join them. "Where you going, Cherry?"

"I'm ashamed to say," Cherry answered laughing, "that I'm going to a movie in the daytime!"

"I'm going with you," said Amy. "Funerals give me the horrors. Wait for me; I'll get my coat!"

She dashed upstairs again just as the big Marshbanks car drove up and Fran got out.

"She's seen Kelly; they've had lunch together!" Cherry thought instantly.

"Where've you been, my dear?" the judge asked casually.

"I suppose it was scandalous not to go to the cemetery and see the whole funeral through," Fran said, avoiding a direct answer. "But there were things I had to do, and I just ran out on it!"

"He's probably crazier about her than she is about him," Cherry said when Amy brought the subject to Kelly and Fran a day or two later.

"You never can tell with Fran; she's deep," Amy answered. She had to come to the Porter house by appointment on this occasion; it was the afternoon when Mrs. Porter's will was to be read. Two quiet elderly women were there from Pasadena; cousins, Emma told Cherry, who had been supported by their rich relative for years. The judge was coming, and surprisingly Amy had been notified to be present.

"She must have left you some money," Cherry surmised, "or they wouldn't have asked you to come."

"She must have had plenty," Amy said in satisfaction.

Emma put her head in the door and told both girls to come downstairs.

"Me, too?" Cherry asked.

"Yes, I think so. Everyone in the house," Emma said briefly, and vanished. Cherry and Amy followed immediately to the library, where chairs had been set in a solemn semicircle to face the wide, flat mahogany desk at which the lawyer sat. Judge Marshbanks was near him; he smiled at the girls as they came in. Almost at once the will was opened.

Their late employer had remembered them all, leaving to every servant a sum approximating a thousand dollars for each year in her service, and for Emma's eleven years of faithfulness a round twenty-five thousand. Cherry was stupefied to hear her own name read out as beneficiary for a legacy of fifteen hundred.

The old house was to be given to the city as a museum. Everything in the way of personal belongings, upstairs furnishings and the bulk of the estate were left to the granddaughter of her beloved old friend Amelia Wellington, Amy Marshbanks.

"What are your plans, Cherry?" Judge Marshbanks inquired.

"I haven't had time to make plans," said Cherry, "but I think I feel as if I didn't know anything."

"Well," the judge said, "that's not a bad idea. It will get you among people your own age, shake you up, put you on your own—yes, that's a good plan. Berkeley?"

"Stanford, I thought."

"Why not?" he agreed. "Wait a minute—wait a minute," he added, "I know a nice place down there where you might like to stay. Lots of youngsters in the family; you wouldn't feel so strange. What does Emma think of this? How you talked to her?"

"Aunt Emma and I talked the night Mrs. Porter was so ill, the last night but one—" Cherry was beginning when Amy put in an animated interruption:

"D'you call her 'Aunt Emma?' "

"Well, yes, I do—sometimes." Cherry's face turned toward the fire, flamed until the tips of her ears were red.

"We were sitting upstairs waiting for the doctors to come out of Mrs. Porter's room," she resumed her story, "and I said I hoped she would get well, and Emma said she was sure she wouldn't. So then we talked of what we would do, and Emma's going up into Mendocino, where she has a little place, and retire.

"Well, I should think Emma'd be fixed well enough to do that," the judge said again with an approving nod. And then with a glance at the doorway through which Amy had disappeared in quest of her coat and hat, he added, "So she told you about your mother, eh?".

"A month ago."

"Shock to you?"

"Oh, no, I think," Cherry confessed honestly, "I had been dreaming—imagining that I might have—well, different relations. I always thought Emma was my mother's nurse. But we—we like each other."

"You're a nice girl," the man commented, as if thinking aloud, his half-closed eyes upon her. Cherry flushed with pleasure; her little laugh was proud and embarrassed.

"Did you—did you ever see my mother? Didn't you say you hadn't?" she asked, sobering again.

"No." He fell thoughtful; his linked hands dropped between his knees, his eyes on the fire. "No, I was away—I was in Washington for several years after I married," he said. "But I knew she was very young and very trusting.

"And you mustn't," he went on after a moment, "you mustn't blame your father too much. He was goodhearted; he was a decent fellow in so many ways. But always ungoverned—unable to think out consequences! I've always thought," the kind, quiet voice went on, "that what happened between him and your mother was the result of a single moment of wild emotion—two young things completely deprived for the moment of reason—what is it, Cherry? What's the matter, my child?"

She had gotten to her feet, reeling, ashen-faced, one hand gripping the back of a chair.

"You said—you said—" she whispered, "that—that your brother Fred—Amy's father . . ."

There was a silence. The judge was standing now too, his face as shocked as her own. "You said that Emmie had told you!" "Yes, but not that! Not that! She only said my mother—she didn't tell me anything—she said . . ."

"Cherry!" The man's arm was about her shoulders. "Sit down," he said, "and talk with me a moment. My dear child, you mustn't take it this way! I'm sorry—I'm terribly sorry that I've shocked you!"

She was breathing hard, but she was quieter. Her eyes, very big in her pale face, met his courageously.

"It's all right," she said, "I ought to know. I ought to have known before!"

"Emma was my father's nurse and my mother's housekeeper," the man presently said. "She was always a superior person, you can see that. She had been Fred's nurse and mine in the hospital when we were boys, had been widowed and come back as my father's nurse. Her sister Charlotte was much younger, ten or twelve years younger; she met my brother, naturally, she used to be in the house a good deal; Fred was always around. He was married; his wife was expecting a baby of her own when all this happened. There was nothing to be done except make her comfortable and provide for the child. Amy's fortune — you understand? — has nothing to do with my brother. That came through her mother's father, her grandfather Wellington, he left that to her. But what Fred could do, he did.

"The money I have been administering for you was left you by my brother—your father—and in reference to this college plan of yours," Judson Marshbanks went on, in an easier tone but still watching her keenly and anxiously. "I want to remind you that we have a balance—a comfortable balance, and any profession you would like to take up . . ."

She was not listening. She seemed like a girl made of stone.

"So you see that I am your uncle really and truly," the judge said lightly, affectionately, after a pause.

"I know," she whispered with white lips. And then, with a sudden wince of pain that contracted her young face: "Has anyone told Amy? Does Amy know?"

"No. Nobody knows. My mother, myself, Emma. Not another soul."

"Your mother! She was talking of me then, when she said she wouldn't have me in the house!"

"Did she say that?" he asked with a little frown. "Well, you must forgive a proud, unreasonable old woman. Your grandmother too, Cherry."

"My grandmother!" Her eyes were dark with bitter thought. "I think—thank you so much!—but I think I'll go upstairs. I'm tired," Cherry faltered, and was instantly in his arms sobbing against his shoulder. His hand patted her.

"I know," he said. "I know. It's very hard!"

Almost immediately she stopped crying, gulped, fumbled for her handkerchief. "Amy's calling you!" she said thickly, and in another moment she was gone.

She fled upstairs and to her room and to a restless agony of thinking—to walk the floor, to pause, to burst into violent tears again and fling herself on her bed. The injustice of it, humiliation of it, the cruelty of her being one of two sisters who were strangers and whose destinies touched almost the extremes of human contrast, choked and maddened her and she stopped her weeping only to pace the floor again, and again to break into self-pitying tears.

It was eight o'clock, and she was haggard and weary, when she ran downstairs to the telephone upon a sudden desperate impulse and called a Sausalito number.

But when Kelly's heartening, pleased voice answered her, her tears came again and she could hardly make herself coherent:

BAN NIGHT PARKING GOES INTO EFFECT

Ask Cooperation to Aid Work of Snow Removal

Charlevoix's special winter "no parking on the streets after midnight" traffic rule has become operative for the winter season.

The rule calls for "no parking" on the streets between 1 a. m. and 7 a. m. It is intended to give the street department opportunity to snowplow and clear the streets of snow.

Last week's heavy snowfall made enforcement of the parking regulation necessary so that streets could be kept open to auto traffic.

Fighting Tuberculosis on Michigan's Home Front

Battle Creek Enquirer and News photo by R. E. Allgire

Typical of the children of the United States, who help in the tuberculosis Christmas Seal Sale, these six little girls, (left to right) Barta Hope Chipman, Gertrude Olmstead, Joon St. Pierre, Peggy St. Pierre, Pat Sweet and Patsy Turner, of Michigan gave their earnest bit to prevent the occurrence in this country of the tragic 45 per cent increase in tuberculosis deaths among children, which England has experienced.

California Growing Long Staple Cot

State Law Requires That Strain Be Kept Pure.

FRESNO, CALIF.—The development of cotton in California came "directly as a war-preparedness measure" before the United States entered the World war, according to W. B. Camp of Bakersfield.

Camp, formerly a research agriculturist for the United States department of agriculture, is credited with having developed the species of cotton—Acala—which is grown in California.

"I was sent here," Camp said, "with instructions to find places, varieties and methods all on account of war emergencies."

Camp said military authorities in 1916 wanted developed a long staple cotton that would produce strong fabrics for uniforms and airplane material.

California cotton always has been considered a premium crop, industry leaders said. A state law prohibits the growing of any other than Acala cotton. Growers said in this way they have been able to keep the cotton strain pure and obtain better seed, which have improved the best characteristics of the cotton over a period of years.

The Acala cotton is a medium long staple cotton. Growers said that irrigated cotton ususlly has been considered of better grade because it is grown in a dry climate and generally is not soiled and weakened by rain.

With the normal annual export of 3,000,000 bales of United States cotton cut off by war conditions, cotton growers count heavily on increased domestic consumption of the 1040 crop in national defense contracts and an increasing flow of war materials from this country to England.

Last Homesteader Gets Title to Michigan Land

LANSING, MICH. — Michigan's last frontier vanished and the last of a historic line of backwoods pioneers became a landowner.

The state conservation department closed its books on homesteading and on an epoch as well when it issued Theodore Wigren's title to 80 acres near Hardwood, in Dickinson county. For with the issuance of the title the early American custom of acquiring the land one lives on by staying there long enough passed from the Michigan scene.

Mr. Wigren, as the state's last homesteader, lost a thumb and two fingers in the long, tedious process, but he hewed from the northern Michigan woods a farm his descendants may call home as long as they live.

In 1035 he got a homestead certificate for his 80 acres and started building a house for his wife and two children. When the house was finished he built a barn, dug a well and fenced off 30 acres. He cultivated seven acres, planting alfalfa, beans, potatoes, and an orchard. These accomplishments he reported to the conservation department to get his title after five years of work.

It took a lot of axe swinging. Mr. Wigren reported loss of part of a hand, but told the conservation department his title to the land was worth both pain and effort.

Women Outnumber Men In Maine Century Club

AUGUSTA, MAINE.—More women live to be 100 than do men if the membership of Maine's Century club is any criterion.

Limited to persons who have lived at least five score years, the club has 23 woman and 10 men members. The Century club is sponsored by the Maine Public Health association, which awards each member a gold medal and assigns a representative to recruit new members.

The club's "oldster" is 105-year-old Capt. Thomas Newman of Southwest Harbor and its "youngster" is Capt. Colin Justin of Portland, 101 years old January 9, 1941.

Last of the Last 10 Men Drinks Toast That Sours

INDIANAPOLIS. — Nine empty chairs were turned up around the banquet table when John Thatcher, 79 years old, stepped up to claim the bottle of champagne that had been kept 55 years for the last survivor of the No. 10 Last Man's club.

The empty chairs represented the nine other members who had died since that evening in 1886 when the club was organized at Frankfort, Ind.

"Here's to the boys who have gone ahead to blaze a trail for me," Thatcher said in his final toast.

He drank and there were tears in his eyes. "It's sour," he said.

'Mystery Box' Reveals Faintest Fingerprints

MONTGOMERY, ALA. — The Montgomery police department now has a "mystery box" to ferret out fingerprints.

The box resembles a small, glass-walled fish aquarium.

It will bring out impressions of fingerprints invisible to the naked eye by exposing them to the fumes of heated iodine crystals.

The firmness of apple flesh provides necessary resistance in chewing which is of value in keeping the teeth and gums in good condition.

AWAIT TALLY CARDS ESTIMATE DEER KILL

Straits Count of Game Carried Slightly Under Last Year

While the final figures on the 1942 deer season will not be available for exact comparison with earlier years for some time yet, the guides customarily relied upon indicate it was a normal season in abnormal times.

If no more than the usual number of licenses remain unsold in dealers' hands, there were about 200,000 hunters in the field, conservation department officials believe.

If Straits of Mackinac traffic is a fair key, a not-yet-final 1942 count of 8,488 bucks, 147 bear, 10 coyotes, eight bobcats, 22 foxes and nine wolves may be compared with the 1941 tally of 10,916 deer, 127 bears, 18 coyotes, 10 bobcats, 20 foxes and eight wolves. Many of the 1941 deer were camp deer. In previous years the streits buck count ran: 1940, 7,859; 1939, 7,599; 1938, 7,073; 1937, 5,453; 1936, 3,900.

Permits to take deer through Wisconsin totalled 933 in 1941, while the latest report this season lists only 614.

Five elks and 300 illegal deer were recovered by conservation officers who made more than 440 arrests during the season, and incidentally delivered about 100 urgent messages. There were 12 fatal gun accidents—one more than last year, but only about half as many reported injured.

PACK MEETING CUB SCOUTS THURSDAY

Parents Interested in Organization Invited to Attend

Charlevoix Cub Scouts will have a pack meeting Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, at St. Mary's recreation center. Cubs of the four dens now in operation will present an interesting program, which parents and friends are invited and encouraged to attend.

Parents whose sons are not Cubs, but who are interested in joining, are especially invited. It is hoped to have Mr. Dawson, regional representative of the Cub Scout organization, present.

BENEFIT FOR USO CENTER THURSDAY

Local Citizens and Knights of Pythias Sponsor Event

For the benefit of the Charlevoix USO service men's center, a game party will be given Thursday night of this week at the Knights of Pythias lodge hall.

The party has been planned by a group of local citizens, with Pythian sponsorship. An enjoyable evening is promised those who attend, as well as an opportunity to contribute to the operating expenses of the service men's center.

NEW BAND MEMBERS INVITED TO JOIN

Officers Were Elected by City Musicians Recently

Officers elected recently by the Charlevoix city band were: president, Dr. D. C. Nettleton; secretary, L. W. Nicholson; treasurer, Floyd Webster; manager, E. D. Robinette.

An invitation is extended by the organization through the Courier, to all musicians, especially new residents of the city, to join the band.

We have a fine line of personal Christmas Cards. Assortments priced at 50 for $1.00, 36 for $1.25, 25 for $1.25—all with your name inscribed. Order now.—Charlevoix Courier.—46t4.

NOTICE

The War Production Board has recommended that cities refrain from using electricity for outdoor Christmas decorations this year as it requires the use of more fuel oil than normal. In complying with this request the City Council will not have the usual lighted community Christmas tree and urges that citizens also refrain from using electricity for outdoor decorations. Fuel oil for the diesel plant is rationed, which means that the oil we can save will be available for United Nations ships.

GENERAL RULES FOR CORRECT DISPLAY OF STARS AND STRIPES

When displayed from a staff projecting horizontally or at an angle from the window sill, balcony, or front of a building, the blue field of the flag goes clear to the peak.

When displayed with another flag against a wall, staffs crossed, the United States flag is on the observer's left, and its staff is in front of the staff of the other flag.

When flown on the same halyard with flags of states or cities, or pennants of societies, the United States flag is at the peak. In the army there is no exception to this rule. In the navy, however, the church pennant, which is not the flag of the church but a signal flag to indicate that the crew is at church, is flown above the national flag during divine service on shipboard, according to navy custom. But this pennant represents no particular church. It merely signifies that divine service is being conducted.

It is considered better form never to fly any other flag on the same staff with the flag of the United States, but instead to fly the other flag on another staff.

When displayed either vertically or horizontally against a wall, in a show window, or elsewhere, the blue field is uppermost and to the flag's own right, that is, to the observer's left.

GOOD YEAR FACES FARMERS FOR 1943

Labor Shortage Only Cloud on Horizon; Prices at Peak

Practical economics instead of a crystal glass leads to a prediction that if Michigan farmers can solve their own labor problems and have the advantage of continued favorable weather, their average farm income may exceed that of 1942 which set a new record.

That prediction comes from R. V. Gunn, Michigan State College agricultural economist.

"Continuation of the war thru 1943, further substantial increases in war spending, no serious breakdown of our transportation system and the most stringent governmental regulations over prices, wages and production in the history of our country are assumptions basic to a forecast for 1943," Professor Gunn comments.

Production of livestock and livestock products is expected to continue the upward trend but at a less rapid rate. This is particularly the prospect for meat animals, hogs taking the leading role. Increase in dairy production is threatened by poorer milk-fed price relntionships and inadequate labor supplies. Egg production for 1943 may exceed that of 1942. A favorable egg-feed price ratio and greater numbers of layers on farms are possible contributing factors.

Crop production was high in 1942. At prices probably equal to present levels, which are considerably higher than at the beginning of 1942, yields again would have to be higher than average to insure crop income in 1943 equal to 1942. Prices for wheat, beans, potatoes, important cash crops in Michigan, have advanced in the closing months of 1942. Prospects now are that present prices will enrry through 1943.

REMEMBERED PEARL HARBOR WITH BONDS

Pearl Harbor was well remembered in this city Monday, as a number of local citizens stepped up to the window of the Charlevoix County State Bank to purchase war bonds amounting to $2,500 par value. Bank President Robert Bridge made a personal campaign to encourage purchases on this date, suggesting that a bond dated December 7 would make an appropriate war souvenir.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Mrs. Leroy Allers entertained Monday afternoon in honor of her daughter, Dorothy's ninth birthday anniversary. Six little girls gathered at the Allers home in the See apartments after school, for games and a birthday supper.

Mrs. Peter Tapovic was hostess to her sewing club Monday evening, at her home in the Bogart apartments.

CORRESPONDENCE

IRONTON NEWS

The Ladies' Aid will meet Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Roy Meyers.

Mr. and Mrs. Arlo Wickersham and family have moved from their farm and are living in their home on Michigan Ave. in Charlevoix for the winter.

Last Thursday friends and neighbors were entertained at the home of Mrs. Roy Moyers in honor of Mrs. Marion Jackson. The afternoon was spent sewing and Mrs. Jackson was presented with a lovely Schaffar fountain pan. Delicious refreshments were served and each one wished the Jackson family joy and best wishes in their new home in South Bend, Ind.

Mrs. Lewis Brown is in the Charlevoix hospital. All her neighbors wish her a speedy recovery and we hope to see her home soon.

Sam Alexander, Sr. has received word of the marriage of his granddaughter, Emma Belle Barnum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Barnum, of Lake City, to Dr. Robert Aihi, of Chicago, last Saturday at the Northwestern Cathedral in Chicago.

Nancy Price and Jana Alexander each have a part in the senior play in Charlevoix Wednesday evening.

Business As Usual!

Well, gas has been rationed
But I don't give a d——m,
I'm going to keep open
As long as I can.
I'm going to fix flats
So they will hold air,
And keep them inflated
To give longer wear.
I'll grease and wash cars
When they are brought in,
And do it so well
They'll be coming again.
I'll fix up old tools
So the edge will be keen,
And make them cut faster,
Smoother and clean.
So why should we worry,
Grumble or fret—
Tho the Japs are so saucy
They haven't got us yet.

"How's the Food in the Army?" asks Ma. "It's fine!" says Johnny Doughboy who knows he's the world's best fed soldier—and the U. S. Quartermaster Corps sees to it that he gets his three square meals on time no matter where he is. Read what and how the army experts are feeding the boys in Khaki, as told by E. C. Schnurmacher in the American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next week'a Sunday Chicago Herald-American.

A Navy Yard'a 3,000 workers travel 60 to 85 miles, round trips, daily.

CAR OWNERS CAN BUY THE NEW

GOODYEAR War Tire

Yes, it's true! If your present tires cannot be recapped, you are eligible to apply for a certificate to buy the new Goodyear War Tire no matter whether you hold an "A", "B" or "C" gasoline ration book.

This tire is built under wartime restrictions with regenerated rubber, the only rubber now available for civilian use, to keep cars rolling for civilian driving. While this stalwart tire cannot come up to the standard pre-war tires, it embodies Goodyear recognized skill in tire production—a guarantee of a first class product.

Under today's wartime driving regulations and by following the rules of proper tire care, this tire will deliver surprisingly acceptable service.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

By B. C. Malleocomp

Farm Frost Flashes for Freedom

Calves Bring Lice—Young stock or other cattle brought in from pasture often carry lice and infest clean herds. Rough appearance caused by licking or rubbing indicates a "lousy condition". If such animals are isolated and treated before stabling with clean stock, serious trouble may be avoided later.

Two applications, fourteen days apart, of a louse powder made with rotenone (derris or cube) or pyrethum will do the job. Be sure to treat all parts of all parts of all infested animals. A small dust gun does a good job quickly and saves time and material.

Louse control may mean 10 to 15 percent more milk or beef from the feed used. Don't forget the bull.

Check Machinery Now—Before field machines are stored for the winter where they may be inaccessible, they should be carefully checked for needed repairs. These repairs should be ordered now.

Get The Tank Heater Ready.—Dairy cattle need four pounds of water for each pound of milk produced per day. Frozen water tanks will slow down the war effort for increased milk production. Each dairyman should ask himself the question, "can the old tank heater be used again?" If it cannot, it should be replaced immediately.

Water for cows need not be warm. The chill should be taken off which would be a temperature of about 45 degrees. Tanks can also be covered to assist in preventing freezing.

Cows should have an opportunity to drink at least twice a day.

Turkey Breeding Stock—O. E. Shear, extension poultryman, is issuing a warning of a possible shortage of turkey breeding birds and a resulting shortage of turkey poults for next yeur unless steps are taken now to save the best breeding hens. Mr. Shear says that the good price received this fall together with the shortage of farm labor may tempt many turkey growers who normally produce their own hatching eggs to sell all of their turkeys and buy poults next spring. Such a procedure, if followed by many, will result in a shortage of poults and a reduction of next year's turkey crop. Turkey meat to supplement other meat is necessary in our war effort; therefore turkey production must be maintained or better yet, increased in 1943.

Feed Pigs Wheat — Wheat-fed pigs are doing well. Four lots of experimental pigs at Michigan State College are showing up well on different methods of feeding surplus government wheat. In growing from 53 to 160 pounds, they have gained about one and one-fourth pounds daily on less protein supplement but about the same total feed as a corn-fed lot. The feed cost was slightly lower because of the saving of supplement. The test will continue to 200 pounds weight per pig.

Clip Cows for Cleanliness--Cows should be clipped to help in clean milk production. To do this properly the clipper is used to make a direct line from the cow's pin bone down to the milk well. Then the entire area below this line is clipped. The clipping should be done in late November or early December. The hair grows rapidly in winter; hence, another clipping is desirable about the first of February.

When a cow is properly clipped she will accumulate only a small amount of foreign matter, and the material that may accumulate on a clipped cow is more readily removed by brushing.

The time required to clip a cow is more than saved later, in the greater ease of keeping the cow clean.

Farm Tax Filing Given Aid by MSC—Preparation of a new type farm account book especially adapted to income tax problems has been completed by the farm management department at Michigan State College. Copies of the book, distributed at cost for 30 cents through offices of county agricultural gents and the department's office at East Lansing, will be available after December 15th.

An explanation of income tax rules and regulations affecting farm operation is included. Space is provided to enter and classify expenses and receipts in the manner used on income tax forms. Purchases and sales and inventories of livestock can be entered in the book.

Tables for determining depreciation of buildings and machinery are provided. A summary page permits a farm operator to determine the net profit on an accrual basis and another summary form if the operator files his report on a cash basis. A page for a plot of the farm and another page for a crop production record are provided.

This book does not replace the regular Michigan farm account book. The latter has been revised for use by farm account cooperators whose books are summarized annually by the department as a guide to more efficient operation.

Farmers who found it difficult to complete a tax return in March, 1942, could prepare now by obtaining the new type account book and getting the present year's operation to date, explains C. O. May of the college farm management department. Another copy of the book could be started the first of the year for 1943 transactions.

"Share-the-Meat Program" in Progress — The "Share-the-Meat" program started off Saturday when three meetings were held in East Jordan, Charlevoix, and Boyne City to discuss with the war club leaders their responsibilities. Previous to these meetings a nutrition committee was appointed to work on this defense project with Mrs. Leanore Dicken, Boyne City, as chairman. Other members of this committee are: Miss Mildred Halvorsen, Charlevoix; Miss Caroline Geiken, Boyne City; W. C. Palmer, Charlevoix; Mrs. Clarence Leslie, Charlevoix; Mrs. S. B. Newmark, Boyne City; Rev. C. W. Sidebotham, East Jordan; Mrs. Phyllis Malpass, East Jordan; Mrs. Violet Manglos, Boyne City; and Mrs. E. E. Edwards, Charlevoix.

During the week the three cities in the county started the organization of neighborhood war clubs in their communities. East Jordan is completely organized in this respect while Boyne City and Charlevoix will complete the organizatinn plans this week. Each city is organized by wards and then subdivided into small communities with local leaders selected for each community. A house to house canvass will be made of each home in the county both rural and urban. This little informal visit will acquaint each housewife with their responsibilities in the "Share-the-Meat" program. Briefly, in order to conserve our meat supply adults are alloted 2 1-2 pounds of meat per person per week. Children from 6 to 12, 1 1-2 pounds and children up to six years of age, 3-4 of a pound. Only in this voluntary program will our national meat supply be ample to take care of all needs. Poultry, fish, liver, and tongue are not included in this allotment. Thus, it can be seen that no family will be handicapped greatly if they all do their little part in conserving our meat supply.

LETTERS from the ARMY CAMPS

Dear Ken,

I suppose I should have written you before and thanked you for the paper. It really makes me feel good to get the home town paper.

This camp we are in just opened up the first of September. They are still building this place up. It will be pretty nice when they get it all finished, but what a place it is now. When it rains the mud comes over our shoes, and when it is dry you can't see for dust.

We moved into a new barrack yesterday. We only have about a half mile to walk to chow. By the time we walk back again we are hungry all over again.

Boy, I sure miss Charlevoix and all of the people. There are about three or four fellows in this barracks and we are all hoping we can get home for Christmas.

To read about the snow sure makes a fellow home sick. The weather down here has been pretty nice. It was pretty cold last Saturday. Wherever there was any water it froze solid. In places there was a quarter of an inch of water.

It is almost time for lights out so must close.

Barney.

Dear Sir,

Just a few lines to let you know my new address, as I would like to continue receiving your paper. We came here from Canada about ten days ago but won't be here very long, although I would like to stay here all winter as it's such nice weather now. It was pretty cold where we came from, so a little sunshine feels good. So, thanking you again for the paper, I remain third successive term last month and who has been mentioned prominently for the 1944's Republican presidential nomination.

LANSING LETTER

At a conference of Republican senators, held recently in Kalamazoo, a number of ideas were suggested for speeding up Michigan's war-time session.

One proposal is to eliminate the printing of bills and to substitute for them the use of "short title". This is an abbrevinted summary of the measure in a dozen or so words.

The bill would be announced by the clerk for first and second reading by reciting the short title and would be referred to committee. It would not be printed officially until the committee reported out the bill, whereupon it would be recorded in the house or senate journal.

Committees have a habit, now and then, of releasing bills most unexpectedly. It is conceivable that the legislature might unintentionally invoke public wrath by acting on a measure without having provided adequate notice to interested parties. Legislative language also can hide nullifying "jokers".

One thing is fairly certain for the 1943 session.

Legislative results should be conservative.

The Republican landslide in November is hailed as a rebuke to the national administration. And then the field of legislative action has been limited by the war. Washington has already regimented our daily lives; labor relations have been jelled for the duration; wages and prices frozen.

The day of experimentation has been superseded by war's rigorous demands.

Lobbyists forecast a minimum of "scare" legislation, some of which was always intended to improve the bank accounts of the sponsors more than the welfare of the "people".

We hear biennial talk among partisan stalwarts about the "state highway department machine." Some Republicans would like to abolish the job of G. Donald Kennedy, state highway commissioner. This eventuality is not expected to happen in the Republican-dominated legislature, if counsels of party leaders prevail.

The constitutionality of such circumvention is questioned by some lawyers.

Senator Elmer R. Porter, Blissfield, has a legal solution. He would create a state highway commission effective July 1, 1945 when the term of Kennedy will expire.

The commission would be appointed by the next governor. It would appoint a full-time director. This, so Senator Porter believes, would eliminate "politics" from the highway department, a bone of contention among Republican critics.

Because of the temper of the public, some legislators are shying away from "C" gasoline rationing cards.

OPA regulations permit "government officials" to use gasoline in excess of "A" and "B" allowances which ordinary folks receive.

It is interesting to note that some law-makers announce they will travel by bus or train and thus will shun "special favors". What will the folks back home say? They're taking no chances!

Uncle Sam isn't going to requisition the University of Michigan and Michigan State College, and close their doors to other students.

These institutions are apt to become officer training centers for men in the Army, Navy, or Air Corps. The men will be under military discipline and pay. Their military training will be subordinated to academic work. Courses would last from nine months to more than two years.

Reason: Preparedness for a long war.

The fate of liberal arts, and hence, small colleges, is uncertain. Military leaders feel that a liberal arts education is not relevant to combat training and hence is a "luxury."

Definite announcement is expected soon from Washington.

AT THE MOVIES

"George Washington Slept Here"

Uncle Sam has imposed no priorities on laughter, as you are slated to discover when Warner Bros.' "George Washington Slept Here" makes its debut at the Palace on Saturday, December 12. As a play it kept New Yorkers laughing, and advance reports indicate that the motion picture, boasting one of the finest casts of this season's crop of laugh hits, will carry on that reputation.

In the leading roles are Jack Benny and Ann Sheridan. Benny is cast as the average American big city dweller, reared in comfortable apartment houses, whose wife, an avid antique hunter, carries matters too far when she buys a house where George Washington was supposed to have slept.

Against Benny's protests, they move in to find the house in a state of dilapidation so advanced that it leads Benny to wonder what's holding it up.

Fun is provided when they are informed by the lugubrious caretaker, played by Percy Kilbride, that the well is dry, and it will be necessary to dig a new one.

In the midst of it all, the proverbial rich uncle (Charles Coburn's role) arrives, and must be made comfortable and happy at all costs.

The house proves to be a veritable gargantua for it swallows repairs without showing signs of improvement, and the situation becomes more involved when the money for the mortgage must be raised—or else.

When matters close in on the couple and there's no quarter in sight, Rommie the dog, saves the situation in a laughter-provoking climax.

Now that Sam Halverson is gone, who's going to start the perch fishing on Round lake so that other anglers will know when?

A local duck hunting enthusiast took me to task for a recent comment in this column that a "group of duck hunters" were agitating closing the west end of Charlevoix county to deer hunting. This individual said the so-called agitation was confined to just exactly one duck hunter, who, if by word had involved others, was taking in too much territory.

News is one of the essentials of war effort. It would be difficult, indeed, to summon the utmost powers of American democracy without an effective medium of information—a means of interchanging thought and stimulating purpose.

I heard a woman the other day remark that when she ordered three dozen diapers from a large mail order house, they sent her only two dozen and explained that the reason they couldn't fill the order completely was owing to the large demand for them by the army. Maybe the army is using them to "mop up" the Japs.

GAS RATIONING CUTS STATE AUTO TRAFFIC

Drop of 32.7 in Day Reported by Highway Department

With the advent of gasoline rationing on December 1, state trunkline traffic dropped 32.7 per cent in one day according to a state highway department report compiled this week.

State Highway Commissioner G. Donald Kennedy said that the results were averaged from 27 automatic traffic counting stations throughout the state and the metropolitan Detroit area on December 1 and 2.

SAMUEL HALVERSON IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Was Engaged Commercial Fishing for Many Years

Samuel Halverson, 77, veteran fisherman of this community, died last Wednesday evening. He had suffered a stroke on Monday evening, but had been active until then.

Born in Holmatron, Norway, April 10, 1865, he came to this country at the age of eighteen. He made his home in Sheboygan, Wisconsin, and sailed the Great Lakes from that port for many years.

In 1888 he married Mary Hansen, and they came to Charlevoix in 1902. In 1908 Mr. Halverson went to Portland, Maine, to introduce gill-net fishing on the Atlantic coast. He returned later to Charlevoix, and in 1910 took his family to Gloucester, Mass., where they remained until 1913. Mrs. Halverson died here December 4, 1934.

Mr. Halverson was a commercial fisherman for 35 years, retiring only a few years ago.

Surviving are two sons, Sander, of Charlevoix, and Martin, of Flint; seven daughters, Mrs. Sadie Bartlett, of Charlevoix, Mrs. Lydia Orvis, of Ironton, Mrs. Alma Fairweather, of Gloucester, Mass., Mrs. Ireno DeCastro and Mrs. Vara Buddy, of Milwaukee, Wis., Mrs. Geraldine Gillette, of Grandville, and Mrs. Helen Belding, of Lansing; also twenty-six grandchildren and fourteen great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the See Funeral Home, Rev. W. L. Cruthers officiating. Interment was at Brookside cemetery.

ISSUE ORDERS ON MILITARY SERVICE

ALL ENLISTMENTS HALTED BY PRESIDENT

War Department Stops Induction of All Men 38 Years Old and Over; May Discharge Some

Two orders affecting the future course for induction and enlistment of men in the United States armed forces were issued Sunday from the national capitol in Washington.

By executive order, President Roosevelt suspended voluntary enlistments in the army and navy, transferred Selective Service to the War Manpower Commission and authorized priorities over civilian employment.

At the same time, the War Department called for suspension of induction of all men 38 years old or older into the army.

The presidential order forbade the armed services from accepting voluntary enlistments of men in the 18 to 38 age group, forcing the services to take all future men through the Selective Service system. The order was given immediate effect, and further places in the hands of the War Manpower Commission the authority to determine not only who goes into the armed forces, but what civilian jobs the stay-at-homes can take. Wording of the order was: "No employer shall retain in his employ any worker whose services are more urgently needed in any plant, facility, occupation or area designated as more essential by the chairman pursuant to this section." Employers, particularly in defense plants, can now be forced to do all their hiring of new workers through the United States Employment Service.

The War Department order in addition to stopping induction of men 38 years of age and over, provided that certain enlisted men now in the army who are 38 or older and are unable to perform military service satisfactorily may be honorably discharged if they are qualified otherwise to assist in the national war effort. In addition to proof of handicap preventing satisfactory military service, the soldier must also present evidence that he will be employed in an essential industry, including agricultura, to obtain discharge.

ELECTION OF REBEKAH OFFICERS LAST WEEK

Installation Ceremonies Planned Early in January

Officers of Charlevoix Rebekah lodge No. 293 were elected at the regular meeting Tuesday night of last week.

Mrs. E. E. Stroud was elected Noble Grand, succeeding Mrs. Frank Novotny. Other officers are: vice grand, Mrs. Elmer Poola; recording secretary, Mrs. Sims Baker; financial secretary, Mrs. Fred Gill; treasurer, Mrs. Floyd Ikens; captain, Mrs. Fred Southwood. Appointive officers will be named later.

Installation ceremonies are scheduled for a date early in January.

JAMES B. PARSONS SUCCUMBS SATURDAY

Was Resident of City 56 Years; Funeral Held Monday

James B. Parsons, 83, died suddenly last Saturday afternoon at his home. He had been active and in good health until very recently, in spite of his advanced years.

Mr. Parsons was born in St. Johns, Newfoundland, October 16, 1859. As a child of five, he moved to Boston, Mass., and lived there during his youth. He first came to Charlevoix with his mother, Mrs. Marcus Moulton, when he was five years old, and spent many summers here before taking up his permanent residence about 56 years ago. He lived in Buffalo, N. Y., for a short time before coming to Charlevoix.

He was engaged in the wholesale and retail candy business with Frank Wood for several years, and later took up the manufacture of cigars. He traveled as a salesman for the S. Jung cigar company for 25 years, then was an insurance salesman until a few years ago.

On September 28, 1893, he married Eva Swalies, who survives. Also surviving are two daughters, Mrs. A. C. Dane, of Detroit, and Mrs. C. R. Robinson, of Alma; and two grandchildren. A son, Gerald, died in 1921.

Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at the See Funeral Home, with Rev. R. Russell Parker, of Northport, officiating. Interment was at Brookside cemetery.

WEBB-WISECUP VOWS SPOKEN NOVEMBER 14 IN WASHINGTON, D. C.

At a ceremony solemnized Saturday evening, November 14th, in the First Congregational church, Washington, D. C., Miss Fernaleen Hall Webb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Webb, of Elkhart, Ind., and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Molet, of Charlevoix, Mich., became the bride of T/Sgt. Denver Charles Wisecup, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wisecup, of Oak Hill, Ohio. Rev. Howard Stone Anderson read the service at 8 o'clock in the church auditorium. Mother of the bride and close friends of the couple attended the ceremony.

Miss Eleanor Tidrow, of Washington, D. C. and Tech. Sgt. Louis Bradley, of the War College, Washington, D. C., were their attendants. Paul Gable, the church organist, played traditional wedding marches and Mrs. Mable Foster, soloist and friend of the bride, sang "Ah Sweet Mystery" and "I Love You Truly."

The bride was given in marriage by Mr. George Chaplin, a close friend of the family, her father being unable to be in Washington due to the stress of War industry. The bride wore a royal blue chiffon velvet suit, a small teal blue hat with fuchsia plumes and an enveloping veil, fuchsia shoes and a corsage of white roses. Her maid of honor wore a black velvet suit, small black velvet hat and black shoes. Her corsage was of tailsman roses.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the apartment of the bride's mother, who was visiting in Washington until after the marriage. The thirty-five guests were served buffet style from a table set in white and dominated by a large antique punch bowl and white wedding cake. Topping the cake was the traditional bridal couple with the groom in uniform as was in keeping with the military manner of the wedding. Sharing honors with the bride's cake was a groom's cake prepared by the bride's grandmother.

T/Sgt. and Mrs. Wisecup are residing at 1725 New Hampshire Ave., N. W., Washington, D. C.—Contributed.

Keep 'em Rolling

Tho you can't buy a brand new tire,
Or a tank of gasoline,
Remember Gus and Cookie know
What's good for your limousine.

They'll cheek its air and change its oil
And manicure its fenders,
And scrub its hide and polish it
To bring out all its splendors.

The family bus is a loyal friend,
A servant tried and true;
Give it the tenderest of care,
And it'll be good to you.

And when the Rising Sun has sunk,
Und Der Feuhrer couldn't stood it,
Your car will be lively and full of vim—
Gus and Cookie dood it.

HOLIDAY RECESS BEGINS FRIDAY

CHRISTMAS PROGRAMS TO BE GIVEN BY STUDENTS

Outdoor Carol Singing Thursday Evening In Memorial Park; Play In Gym Friday

Charlevoix public schools will close at 3:30 p. m. Friday afternoon for the annual Christmas vacation, reopening at 8:45 a. m. Monday, January 4.

Students of the entire school have planned Christmas programs for Thursday and Friday, to which the public is invited.

Thursday evening at 7:30, children from the kindergarten and first six grades will give their program at the Roll of Honor signboard in Memorial Park, in tribute to those who have gone from this school and community to serve the country.

Bells will be rung from all the city church steeples at 7:25, heralding opening of the carol service. Selections by a brass quartette will begin the program. Carols to be sung by the children are "O Come All Ye Faithful," "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear," "The First Noel," "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing." Rev. W. L. Cruthers will tell the Christmas story, and the concluding carols will be "Away in the Manger," "Joy to the World" and "Silent Night." Rev. Cruthers will give the benediction. The program is under the direction of Mrs. Esther Hawley, Miss Frances Milner and Max Smith.

The high school program will be given in the gymnasium at 2:45 Friday afternoon. After a band number, "Beneath the Holly," by Brockton, directed by Mr. Smith, a playlet entitled "One Side of Christmas" will be presented. Audrey Byers, Elaine Taylor, LoAnne Anderson, Clarke Bergeon and Joan Ward will take part, directed by Miss Eleanor Thomas. A mixed chorus will sing "White Christmas" and "Silent Night." Community singing of carols will follow, concluding with "Star-Spangled Banner."

KIWANIS CHRISTMAS TREAT TO STUDENTS

Credit Tickets Replace Dinner of Previous Years

Foregoing the Christmas dinner for grade school children which has been their custom for the past few years, the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club this year will take a new method of giving holiday "treats" to children of both public and parochial schools.

At the grade students' Christmas' program in Memorial Park, Thursday evening, tickets will be given to children up to and including the sixth grade, which will be good for ten cents when presented at any store in town, for whatever the child wants. Merchants will later redeem the tickets at the Charlevoix County State Bank, through arrangements made by the club.

LAST SCHOONER CAPTAIN TAKEN

KNEW CHARLEVOIX AS PINE RIVER

Funeral Services Saturday for Oscar J. Smith, Resident of City for 72 years

Oscar J. Smith, 85, last of Charlevoix's sailing schooner captains and a resident of this city for almost three-quarters of a century, died Thursday after a short illness.

He was born at St. James, Beaver Island, October 30, 1857, son of the late Capt. T. D. Smith. The family moved to Charlevoix about 1870, when the village was known as Pine River, and schooners had to anchor outside in Lake Michigan because sandbars and overhanging trees made entry into Round lake difficult.

A lake captain all his active life, he was recognized as an able seaman on the lakes, and had never lost a man or boat. At various times he was captain of the schooners "Fleetwing," "Sea Gem," and "Jennie Mullen," and of his father's towing tug, "James H. Martin."

Mr. Smith married Sarah E. Thompson in Charlevoix, December 25, 1882. Two children were born to this union, and one son, Lowell J., died in 1928. Mrs. Smith died in January, 1938.

Surviving are a son, Byron O. Smith, of Grand Rapids; two sisters, Mrs. Effie Davis of Charlevoix, and Mrs. Stella Withers of Syracuse, N. Y., two granddaughters and one great-grandson.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Leigh H. Hagle at the See Funeral Home on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment was at Brookside cemetery.

REQUEST XMAS MAILING COMPLETE BY DEC. 15TH

The postoffice department announced Friday that a survey of seven large post offices showed an increase in early mailing of Xmas packages and cards, but not enough to assure delivery of all mail before the holidays unless mailing is completed before December 15.

MANY ARE ASSISTED BY MEMORIAL FUND

Committee Has Aided Numerous Needy Local Families

During the past two months, the local committee of the Lenore Goldman Meyer Memorial Fund has been very active. A number of requests for assistance have come to the organization and many new cases have been helped this year.

Approximately 75 persons have received help, consisting of food, clothing and fuel. Many children have been outfitted with warm clothing, shoes, stockings, rubbers and overshoes.

In addition to these individual cases, the committee is assisting with the milk fund at the Charlevoix public school. This particular activity is of great help to the community and many children are able to have milk who could not otherwise receive it.

Many appreciative letters have been received by the committee for the assistance given families who have needed help this fall.

CANNED FRUITS ARE PLACED UNDER BAN

WPB Halts Production to Save Vital War Metals

The War Production Board, in an order designed to save large quantities of tin, steel and rubber for war purposes, Friday banned production of many items of canned foodstuffs and other canned articles for civilian purposes in 1943.

Canned foods henceforth banished from the civilian larder for the duration included apples and many other kinds of fruit and berries, vegetables, meats, fish, oils, cream and fats.

After December 31 such commodities are to be canned for government purposes only.

It was learned, however, that an order is being prepared for packing some foodstuffs in glass instead of tin containers.

The WPB also drastically slashed production of numerous other canned foods, including soup, for civilian consumption in 1943.

HANNA ASSISTANT TO NEW GOVERNOR

Harbor Springs Publisher In On Harry F. Kelly's Staff

Elmer J. Hanna, owner of the Emmet County Graphic, has been appointed on the executive staff of Governor-elect Harry F. Kelly as administrative assistant.

For the past four years Hanna has been head of the fourth district of the Department of State, comprising 29 counties in the upper half of the lower peninsula of Michigan, in charge of all personnel, branch offices and investigations in the area.

Hanna will move with his family to Lansing, prior to January 1. He will retain complete ownership of the Emmet County Graphic.

CHICAGO CLUB MEMBER AUTHOR OF NEW BOOK

Mrs. Solomon A. Smith, of Chicago and the Chicago Club, is the author of a book of children's verses recently published under the title, "The Magic Stairway." Mrs. Smith, who uses the name of Fredrika Shumway Smith in her writing, has ten grandchildren. Another book, "The House in the Tree," was published last year.

REGISTRATION PLACES NAMED

FOUR OFFICES TO HANDLE WORK IN COUNTY

Schedule of Dates Is Announced by Charlevoix County Draft Board for Registrants

In a letter dated December 11 and addressed to Charlevoix county newspapers, Fay A. Davis, clerk of the Charlevoix county draft board, outlined procedure for the registration of 18 and 19 year olds in Charlevoix county. The communication follows:

"We received notice yesterday that state headquarters approved our request to establish places of registration at St. James, East Jordan and Boyne City in addition to the local board office as was announced in the communication you received from them.

"Men born in July and August, 1924, shall be registered at this office any day, except Sunday, during the week commencing today and ending December 17, 1942. In addition to the above, those of this age group who are unable to report at this office may register at the city hall at Boyne City or East Jordan on Saturday, December 19, 1942.

"Those born in September and October of 1924 shall register at this office any day except Sunday during the week commencing Friday, December 18, 1942, and ending Thursday, December 24, 1942. Men of this age group not able to report here may register at the city hall at Boyne City or East Jordan on Saturday, December 19.

CHARLES GLOSSENGER SUCCUMBED SATURDAY

Had Been Resident of Charlevoix Past Thirteen Years

Charles H. Glossenger, 81, died following a stroke Saturday evening at the home of his son, Harry Glossenger. He had been active and in good health despite his advanced age.

Born July 6, 1861, at Palmyra, N. Y., he was married there to Katherine Welch in 1883. They came to Michigan 48 years ago, residing in Big Rapids, Cadillac and Evart, where Mrs. Glossenger died about 37 years ago. In 1907 he married Charity Ann Morton, at Evart, and she died in 1920, in Cleveland, Ohio. For 21 years he had made his home in Petoskey and Charlevoix with his son. Mr. Glossenger was a cigar maker by trade, retiring before he came to this city in 1929.

Surviving besides the son, Harry, are a grandson, Grover Glossenger, of Los Angeles, Calif., and a great-granddaughter.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Leigh H. Hagle at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon from the See Funeral Home. Interment was at Brookside cemetery.

Throw your scrap into the fight.

CLASSES IN PILOTING, SEAMANSHIP TO START

Organization Meeting of Power Squadron on January 7th

James Bellinger, commander of the Charlevoix Power Squadron, has announced that the organization will begin its 1943 series of classes in piloting and seamanship on January 14th.

The initial meeting, designed to organize classes for the series, will be held the evening of January 7th in the commercial classroom at the high school building. All persons desiring to participate in this elementary training are asked to be present at this meeting, or they may contact Mr. Bellinger in advance at 105 Bridge street.

Any person may attend the classes and to men who have, or intend to enlist in any branch of marine service, they are of especial value.

Classes in advanced piloting and navigation, open only to members of the Squadron, are already under way.

CUB SCOUTS PACK MEETING THURSDAY

Dens Presented Program of Drama and Verse

Cub scouts of Charlevoix Pack No. 111 held a pack meeting Thursday night at St. Mary's recreation center, in which their parents and friends were invited.

Each Cub den took part in the entertainment. "Custer's Last Stand" was dramatized by Mrs. Ralph Hamilton's group. Mrs. Ronald Fairbanks' den presented the scene from "Mrs. Miniver" depicting the capture of a German aviator. Verses were recited by the boys of Mrs. Gerald Fisher's den, while a selection of patriotic poems was given by Mrs. Walter Bergeon's group.

SCHOOL AT NORWOOD TOPS TB SEAL SALE

Is First In This Section of County to Complete Quota

Marion Brooks and her pupils of the Norwood school win the honor of being the first rural school in Charlevoix county to send in returns for the 1942 tuberculosis Christmas seal sale.

These eight pupils sold an average of 94 seals each, according to Miss Lois Kempf, director of the rural school department of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association.

Glenn Snider of the Murray school has also sent in a Christmas seal sale report for his 32 pupils.

TOP'S RAINBOW GARDENS IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Top's Rainbow Gardens, favorite dining and dancing locale for Boyne and surrounding territory, burned to the ground early Wednesday morning. The roadhouse, which was located about three miles from Boyne on the Boyne Falls road, apparently caught fire around 3 a. m. Wednesday, smouldered for an hour or so before flames were noticeable.—Boyne Citizen.

COUNTY TEACHERS MET HERE MONDAY

Hear Radio Forum; Discuss School War Program

Teachers of Charlevoix county met here Monday evening at the high school assembly room, to listen to a broadcast of the second national teachers' radio meeting, from 6 to 6:30 p. m.

After the broadcast, a potluck supper was enjoyed. Following supper was a discussion of topics brought forth in the radio forum, also a panel discussion on the high school's war program. Charlevoix was represented in this by Ray Kipke, Mrs. Margaret Theriault, and Miss Eleanor Thomas.

The effect of the war upon the younger child was another topic presented before the meeting, in which this school was represented by Miss Frances Milner.

RAYDERS WINNER OVER HARBOR "5"

WON BY 26 TO 22 COUNT IN FRIDAY CONTEST

Team Trailed Three Periods, Won In Last Quarter Spurt; Play This Week at Mancelona

Scoring their third successive victory, Charlevoix high school's Red Rayder basketball team defeated Harbor Springs by a 26 to 22 count on Harbor's court last Friday night.

The win, especially in view of the fact it was accomplished on Harbor's small, home court, put the Rayders over one of the toughest hurdles on their schedule. Harbor's team is a near veteran outfit, with four of last year's regulars in the line-up.

The contest was an up-hill tussle for the Rayders for three periods as they trailed the fast Harbor outfit. The Emmet county team led 6 to 5 at the quarter, 13 to 10 at the half and 18 to 17 at third intermission as the Rayders gradually closed the gap. A last quarter spurt, in which Charlevoix counted 9 points to Harbor's 4, provided the margin needed for victory.

Don Carey, netting 10 points, was high for the Rayders. Bellinger scored 8, Mitchell 3, Swanson and Rowe 2 apiece, Vratinina L. Allerding, with 7 points, led Harbor's scoring.

Charlevoix's accuracy from the foul line was a major factor in the victory over Harbor, as it was likewise in their win a week before over Petoskey. The team made good on 10 out of 18 free tosses, while Harbor cashed in on but four out of 12 opportunities.

The Rayders will travel away from home again this week, playing Friday night at Mancelona. Pellston comes here for the second home game of the season on January 12.

NAMED PRESIDENT ANNUAL MEETING DECEMBER 9

Charles Hamlin Retained As Vice President; Four Directors Were Chosen

Kit Carson, local lumber dealer and building contractor, was chosen president of the Charlevoix board of commerce at the annual meeting held last Wednesday evening. Mr. Carson succeeds O. P. North.

Other officers, re-elected, were Charles A. Hamlin as vice president, and Clifford McKibbin, Jr., as secretary-treasurer. Directors chosen were Fred E. Cartier and Earl A. Young to succeed themselves for three-year terms, Geo. LaBlanc, Jr., two years, and Charles A. Duerr, one year. Attendance at the meeting was exceptionally light.

A financial statement, showing comparative itemized expenditures for promotional activities during the years of 1941 and 1942 was issued. It revealed that $2,070.14 was expended during 1942, as compared to $3,739.10 for 1941, indicating a curtailment of expenses during the wartime period covered by the report. Outlay for directive and secretarial personnel and advertising topped the list of expenditures, $835.15 being required for the employes and $792.09 for advertising. The advertising outlay was about half the amount expended during 1941.

At the invitation of President Carson, who assumed his new duties following election, various members, including Arthur Bergeon, Fred E. Cartier, Earl A. Young, George LaBlanc, Jr., A. L. Livingston and Glenn Ingalls, gave brief talks, dwelling on suggestions for betterment of the organization.

Wednesday night's meeting will be followed by the appointment of committees for the coming year. The annual election was held earlier this year than in the past for the purpose of giving newly elected officers and directors an opportunity to name committees and start planning activities for 1943 at an advanced date.

CHRISTMAS BENEFIT DANCE USO CENTER

Service Men in City Will be Guests of USO Committee

A Christmas dance will be given Saturday evening, December 26, at the local USO service men's center, to which the public is cordially invited.

Service men and their friends will be guests of the USO committee, sponsors of the semi-formal event. Admission charged to others will be used for the benefit of the center. An open invitation is extended to all service men in the city at that time, whether stationed here, home on furlough, or on their way through town.

Although Charlevoix has one of the smallest USO centers, the energy and hearty cooperation of the committee in charge makes it outstanding. This center is one of the first to have been chartered in northern Michigan by the United Service Organizations.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By KEN USHER

Having someone tell you that Santa Claus died is a queer experience, bringing the realms of fancy down to the harsh plane of reality. I know, because it happened to me. But in this case "Santa Claus" was the late Arthur P. Taylor, of Cincinnati and Belvedere Club, who for the past two years supplied the means of answering kiddies' letter which appeared in the Courier addressed to the bearded old gentleman, thereby making a happy Christmas for many a child who would otherwise have had an empty stocking. Maybe someone would like to step into his place.

I'll bet no town of our size, anywhere, has a more active group caring for the needs of service men. I'm speaking about the Charlevoix Service Organizations and what's more, I believe this organization can lay claim to being the first in northern Michigan to establish a USO sanctioned and chartered service men's center. Congratulations to you people behind the CSO.

Monday's weather recalled some lines written once upon a time in wondrous merry mood by a certain gentleman farmer out Ironton way—a gentleman and a farmer—who said: "Don't get the idea that all snow is soft as feathers. You put some of it right in front of a northwest gale and try to stop it and she'll cut the buttons right off your duds." Well spoken, Ralph.

And speaking about winter, it looks like we're in for one like the old-timers tell about. We have had snow since Thanksgiving day and it appears as if it has come to stay. Some of our boys away from home may be thinking about a "white" Christmas, but we're going to have one.

As I believe I've mentioned before, this column saves me a lot of letter writin' and I'm going to put it to use to acknowledge some greetings, too. There's Pvt. Harry Alnson, stationed out at Lincoln, Neb.; Thomas Olsen, the Chicagoan, and last, but not least, Harold

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Two interesting alternatives face Michigan's new administration:

First, imposition of the new taxes to meet an anticipated fall in state revenues during the next fiscal year starting July 1, 1943.

Second, reduction of state expenditures by legislative and executive curtailment or elimination of "less essential" public services.

Somebody is bound to be hurt.

And, furthermore, political alibis will be hard to conjure. Republicans possess overwhelming control of both houses of the legislature. Only one state elective office—state highway commissioner—remains at the capital today, and the Grand Old Party can't logically pass the buck to him.

The two alternatives, just presented, are based on the assumption that World War II is going to affect state sales tax collecting adversely in 1943 and 1944.

Washington officials, who seem to jump periodically from over-optimism to dire doom, have warned that our 1943 economy will decline to the 1932 low level. And all that despite soaring pay rolls which are flushing the purses of workingmen and women.

Privately, several secretaries of Michigan trade associations are forecasting a definite slump in sales. War priorities will hit the hardware, lumber and drug-store business, they concede, when present stocks in many lines of merchandise are exhausted.

One hopeful sign in the state revenue sky is the memory of World War I when industrial workers insisted on spending money, even for $6 silk shirts.

This philosophy of war-time spending goes something like this:

After a depression drouth when people were frustrated from the pleasure of luxuries and non-essentials, you can't expect wage-earners to resist the temptation in 1943 when pay checks are bigger than ever and Washington insists the war might continue for many years.

Consequently, some wage-earn-

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

Farm Front Flashes for Freedom

4-H Pigs Will Help—To help meet the shortage of pork—encournges your 4-H club members to enter the 4-H winter Swine Feeding project. Ralph May says 4-H club members in southern Michigan can raise 750,000 to 1,000,000 lbs. of pork if the boys and girls and their parents get behind this project. Write your county agricultural agent for details.

Bean Yields and Returns—A study of records from Saginaw Valley farm account cooperators for the period 1937 to 1941 shows that farmers who had hean yields of twenty-four bushels per acre had over twice as much gross income ($41 an acre) from beans as did the farmers who had yields of 15 bushels per acre ($20 an acre). The high-yield farmers averaged $2.85 per cwt. while the low-yield farmers averaged only $2.22.

Old Phonograph Records—Have you any old records around your home? Turn them over to the 4-H club in your community. They can sell them at 6c per pound for broken records or 2 1-2 each for unbroken records. All records except Edison and paper records are acceptable. Each of the larger cities has a collecting agency for this material. Grinnell Bros. are handling the collection in Bay City and Saginaw—in Detroit the agency is Philco Distributors Inc., 1627 W. Fort street, Detroit, Michigan—in Chicago, Sampson Electric Co., 3201 S. Michigan avenue, Chicago, Illinois. Shipments must be sent prepaid to the collecting agency. 4-H club members could use the funds secured from this source for the 4-H ambulance drive.

Stock Laps Up Idle Soy Beans—Michigan's livestock votes, by proxy, that it certainly will aid in saving and consuming the 1942 crop of soy beans, some of which lack storage space, many thousand bushels rate too high in moisture for safe keeping and some fields haven't even been harvested.

The proxy vote comes from the animal husbandry department at Michigan State College where staff members point out that it is wise and economical to feed soy beans as a protein supplement.

Far fattening cattle, ground suy beans may ba substituted far cottonseed meal, linseed meal or soy bean oilmeal for the first three months the cattle are on feed, giving 1 1-2 to 2 paunds per head daily.

After 100 days, cattle tire of the say beans. The prutein supplement should then consist af 1 lb. of ground say beans and 1 lb. af either cattanseed oilmeal, soy bean meal or linseed meal. With hogs following the cattle it is not necessary ta grind the beans. Occasionally, cattle scaur when fed soy beans, in which case tha amounts should be reduced or fed in combination with same other prutein supplement.

Fattening hogs weighing over 125 pounds may also be fed as much as 10 per cent say beans in their rations. Hags of this weight, an a full feed af corn, could be allawed the run of a field where soy beans have not been harvested because of wenther ar lack of labor.

Younger pigs, the college tests indicate, do not make satisfactory gains when fed raw soy beans as a protein supplement. Cooked soy beans may be fed to hogs of any age. Most satisfactory results are obtained, however, when a small amount of meat meal or skimmilk is fed.

AAA PROGRAM IN CHARLEVOIX COUNTY

The number and variety of new farm machinery for Charlevoix county to be sold in 1943 will, according ta the county allocation, be very small. New machinery for the state is only a small percentage of what is normally purchased, so on the basis af number of farms our supply will be extremely limited.

It is entirely possible that repair parts will also be hard tu obtain. Taking these facts into consideratian, every farmer should go over his machinery for needed repairs and order them us soon as possible.

Every farmer is going to be called upon to praduce to the limit and you can't da it with broken machinery.

In the near future, every farm family will he contacted to determine what crops he expects ta produce, how much meat, poultry and dairy products he will market. Along with this, he will be questioned as to the amaunt af machinery he has, whether in use or not, the available barn room for additional stock, labor required to operate his farm and the labor now available, also other items. This survey will be the basis upon which our gavernment will allocate food to variaus countries.

CHAPTER IX

"I'm in tr-trouble and I've been crying, and I wondered if you'd came—come—come and take me for a drive!" stammered Cherry.

"I—I've had—bad news—and I'm—all—all alone!"

"Trouble, Marchioness?" Kelly said, instantly concerned. "Hold everything, and I'll be there in twenty minutes, and you come on over here and have supper with me. Hey? Good girl! I was just feeling very low and blue and we'll fix each other up. I'm on my way!"

Kelly would not let her begin on the story of her troubles until she had eaten. Then he piled things on a tray, carried them away, came back to sit in the chair opposite her, stuffing his pipe and looking expectantly toward her.

"Now, who's been mean to you?"

She gave him a flicker of a smile, but immediately her face was serious again.

"I feel so ashamed of having bothered you with it! But I—I felt that I was going mad, and you were the only friend I could think of. I just thought that if you were coming to town you might take me for a drive. I didn't mean all this!"

"I tell you my troubles," he reminded her, drawing on his pipe.

"You see, we girls at Saint Dorothea's never know much about our families. It isn't a regular school, you know. There aren't any vacations, and no relatives coming to see you."

"That's the school you came from?"

"Yes. I was there thirteen years, from the time I was seven. But I remembered my mother before that, and that I had a nurse named Emma."

"Fran told me something about it."

"At least I thought she was my nurse, and I used to imagine that my mother had been—well, rich, I suppose, because someone had left money to take care of me—and that Judge Marshbanks was my guardian."

"I see. Go on, Marchioness."

"Well, then when I came down and they'd found me a position with Mrs. Porter, Emma told me one day that she was my mother's sister. She wasn't a nursa at all, she was—she is my aunt!"

"A jolt, huh?"

"I don't think it was a jolt because she was a housekeeper and because I'd always thought of her as a nurse," Cherry said.

Close to tears again she looked blindly into the darting daggers and stars of the fire, and tried to steady her trembling lips.

"My dear girl," Kelly Coates said, taking his pipe from his mouth, "loads of people are going to love you, don't you worry!"

Cherry laughed brokenly, stealthily wiped her eyes, and went on, "but, you see, Mrs. Porter left me some money—"

"Well, bully for her!" Kelly commented. "Have a good cry over that!"

"They read the will today. The house is going to be a museum, and lots of the furniture will be left there, and Amy gets a lot, and we all get money."

Cherry paused as if undecided how to proceed, then rushed on, "But then—but then, after they'd read the will, Amy and the judge and I were having tea in the library, and we were talking about what Amy'd do and what I'd do and all that, and I happened to call Emma 'Aunt Emma.'"

"But he's your guardian. He'd know that she was your aunt."

"Oh, yes, that wasn't it. And when Amy seemed surprised I just said that I called her that sometimes, and Amy didn't pay any attention. But afterward Amy went out and then the judge asked me if Emma had told me about it, and I said yes, because I thought that was all he meant."

"What was all he meant?"

"That Aunt Emma was mother's sister."

"And what more did he mean?"

"Well, that—that—he went on talking about it, and that Aunt Emma was so fine even if she was rather cold, and then he said that his brother Fred was really a good person but impulsive and always getting into trouble . . ."

"His brother Fred!" Kelly had kneeled to straighten a slipped log in the fire. He shot her a look over his shoulder. "Fred was Amy's father?"

"Yes. Amy's name is Amy Marshbanks."

"That's right too. There was another brother?"

"No. Only Amy's father."

Kelly stopped his pipe halfway to his mouth and stared at her.

"Huh," he commented, in a brief sound like a grunt.

"And it—it killed me," Cherry said, not crying now, but pale and beginning to be agitated again. "It killed me! She's always had everything—she'll have more now—but it's not that! It's that they all loved her and wanted her and they've made so much of her and she's always had—I mean, I don't want anything she has—but they love her . . ."

She steadied suddenly at the sight of his attentive but not too sympathetic face and for a moment looked at him in silence.

"I mean," she went on presently, gaining self-control with every word, "I mean that it—it sickened me to think that Amy and I are half sisters, and that he, my father, could treat my mother so terribly—my mother was so gentle, and she was ill so long! And she got nothing, and I spent all those years at Saint Dorothea's while Amy was traveling . . ."

Her voice trailed off into an ashamed silence; the look she turned to Kelly became aggrieved and then apologetic. For a full minute neither spoke, and then Cherry said something timidly, "Don't you think that's terrible?"

"You rather knew, I suppose," Kelly began, "that things in your background had been somewhat irregular?"

"Oh, yes, I did. Indeed, I did! They don't tell you anything at Saint Dorothea's, you know, but of course the girls talk. And we read books."

"Well, then, looky, Cherry. Why is it so much worse to know that your father came of a good family, and that he really tried to do what he could for you? I suppose it was he who supported your mother, Emma's sister, and left money to take care of you?"

"Yes; the judge said so today."

"You're better off than I am," said Kelly. "You're twenty and I'm thirty-one. You've got all the world before you, and I'm so damned in love with a married woman that I don't know what to do with myself."

He glanced at his watch. "It's ten-ten. I'm going to run you home." They went out into the darkness to the car.

He stopped at the gloomy Porter mansion and got out and went up to the door with her.

"You'll never know what you've done for me tonight," Cherry said in the dark columns of the entrance.

"You did something for me too. I've been seeing blue devils all day. Listen," he went on in a brighter tone, "here's a bargain. If you get too down, you telephone me, and if I'm going crazy any time I'll telephone you, and we'll walk it off together. There are swell walks up over the hills over my way. How about it?"

"I would think it the nicest thing that ever happened to me," she said in a low tone.

"It's a go, then."

"There's only one thing. If we do that then I mightn't ever have any troubles," Cherry explained, her hand in his.

"You know what you ought to get for that!" His arm held her lightly, his lips brushed her forehead and he was gone.

Emma had gone with her kitten to the country now, and Cherry was to leave for Palo Alto in a few days, to take possession of a room in the house of one Mrs. Pringle, and to begin summer-school work and to do a certain amount of coaching so as to be able to enter college as a regular student in the fall. On this particular day she was going down in the limousine with Fran who had a call or two to make in Atherton and Menlo Park, and who would pick Cherry up for the return trip after Cherry had introduced herself to her new landlady and inspected her quarters.

When she and Fran were in the car, Fran said presently, "Run the window down, will you, Cherry? It's warm."

"Wouldn't you rather have the side windows down?"

"No, I want to speak to Rousseau. Rousseau, go the old road, will you, please?" Fran asked, when she could speak to the chauffeur. "For I promised I'd stop at the antique shop."

The young Frenchman did not turn his head. But he nodded slightly.

"No, wait a minute, I think we'll do that after we leave Miss Rawlings in Palo Alto," Fran changed it suddenly.

"Now what's she about?" Cherry thought. "She's meeting someone!"

"I've not seen Kelly Coates for weeks," Fran presently said thoughtfully, as if reading Cherry's mind. "He telephones, but I haven't happened to be in. I like him, too."

"He likes you," Cherry said daringly.

"You see Kelly now and then, don't you?" Fran asked.

"Now and then."

"Lately?"

"The day we closed up Mrs. Porter's house—that was day before yesterday—I saw him then," Cherry said, omitting any mention of the Sausalito visit. "We walked a little while in the Presidio."

"You like him a lot, don't you?" the soft, hoarse voice with its hidden notes of laughter and of tears asked simply.

Cherry felt the blood in her face. "I—guess so," she admitted, swallowing.

"Too bad," Fran said absently. "I'm sorry about Kelly! I was very unhappy when I married Jud," she presently went on, "and I told him that although I didn't love him as I might love some man some day—he's twenty-two years older than I am, you know . . ."

"But that's all the more reason," Fran began again, after a pause, "why I should play fair with him." She paused. "Cherry, I wonder if you will do something for me."

"I'd be so glad, Mrs. Marshbanks!"

"To begin with," Fran said with a direct smile from under her silky black bangs, and ultramodern hat, "don't call me Mrs. Marshbanks! It sounds as if I were an elderly aunt."

"Fran, then. What can I do?"

"I'm trying to think it out, exactly," Fran answered. "I think I mean that I'd like you to be a friend of Kelly's, Cherry, and help him see my position. If I were free," Fran went on thoughtfully, "I'd marry him. But I'm not free. You see, Cherry, two years ago—more than two years ago, when we'd been married—oh, perhaps eighteen months or so—I told Jud that I wanted to live my own life. I didn't want to be his wife any more—suddenly I went restless and unhappy, and it was that. I didn't want to be his wife!"

Fran continued. "Perhaps I'm a little less scrupulous than I might be about—I won't say flirting, I hate the word! But about friendships with men, liking men; I can't help it. I've made . . ." And to Cherry's astonishment the dark eyes so near her own were suddenly misting. "I've made such a mess of my life so far," Fran said, "that I'm going to play the game now."

"So if you can," Fran concluded, as Cherry continued to watch her in silent fascination, "put that to Kelly. He likes you. He thinks you're interesting. And you see, nowadays I don't see him at all. I promised Jud I'd not see him unless it was unavoidable, and it is avoidable.

"This is your place; it looks comfortable enough," Fran said as the car stopped. "Ask Rousseau to go to the gas station in Atherton, will you, and we'll find out where the Rasmussen place is. And we'll be back for you at five."

Cherry, delightfully thrilled, descended at a green hedge not too well trimmed. Mrs. Pringle, large and untidy, took her up to her room, which was large.

Antidote for Inflation

THE germ that causes inflation is spending. The antidote is thrift. Putting it another way, the dollars you bank fight on our side, the dollars you spend unnecessarily fight for the Axis. It's not quite as simple as that but the fact is that regular bank deposits, besides being very good for you and your family, are also very good for your country. CHRISTMAS AND WAR

By Rev. W. L. Cruthers

War has been in the world since almost the beginning of time and since then has recurred frequently bringing its hardship, sorrow and heartache. Some 1900 years ago Christmas came to the world in the person of Christ. The two ideas and their ideals are mutually antagonistic and where the one is the other seems out of place.

When our ancestors desired to emphasize in their way of living the spirit of Christmas rather than the spirit of war they left behind them homes of ease and possessions and came to these unfriendly shores to struggle for a precarious living.

One year ago while our thoughts turned to the Christmas season those whose thoughts turned to war attacked our shores and today we are at war to determine whether nations whose desire is to be at peace may do so.

In the midst of all the suffering which war brings not only to those who participate, but also innocent children and women, someone asks, "Why doesn't God do something?" Why does He allow Wars?" God did something on that first Christmas. He sent to earth a program of peace. And since that time men have divided themselves into two groups by their allegiances. Herod, afraid someone would take his insecure kingdom from his grasp, ordered all babes two years old and under put to death, and today Hitler, Mussolini and Tojo follow his leadership in making war on helpless populations. The so-called Christian nations, while they fall far short of their high calling, are teaching and fighting for freedom not only for themselves but for all nations.

Must we then hate these nations? Some years ago an epidemic broke out among the cattle and pigs called hoof and mouth disease. Apparently the only way to stop it was to kill all the animals in any herd that was infected. Many healthy ones died also, but eventually the disease was stamped out because those in charge were severe in carrying out the mandate that so long as the disease found a lodging place anywhere, the world was unsafe. We killed many head of stock not because we hated them, but because they were dangerous not only to other animals, but to humans also. Today it is impossible to live in the world in peace with the ideology which permits a nation like Greece or Poland to die of starvation to permit the feeding of a nation which considers itself superior as the Nazis are doing. This infection is like a disease, an epidemic, and unless severe measures are taken, it cannot be stopped.

In the meantime we must keep alive in our hearts and our homes the spirit which makes Christmas what it was intended in the beginning to be, the revelation of God's outliving love to a needy, hungry, heartsick world. Otherwise, though we win the war, we shall be the loser. May we wish you all a very Merry Christmas, and may the Spirit of the Living Christ dwell in you richly.

TIRES NEXT YEAR?

Jess Jones, secretary of commerce, is credited with the statement that artificial rubber production may reach 1,000,000 tons a year by the end of 1943. That is just a little more than a year from now. Production in normal times was estimated at two-thirds of that.

On the basis of his statement, many people with tires in pretty good condition may decide to drive about as usual. If so, they will be making a serious mistake. It will be remembered that some of Secretary Jones' estimates in the past have been too optimistic. And in the present case, there is going to be an unprecedented demand for rubber as production nears normal again.

That demand will come not only from the driving public, but from the army, whose supplies are being used up fast and whose needs grow continually. It might take at least two years for private motorists without priorities to replace their present tires. Better be careful, drive slowly and watch every mile.

ECONOMICAL DRIVING

With the severe rationing of gasoline, automobile mileage per gallon becomes an important matter. Apparently great improvement is possible.

In a recent contest in Detroit, the winner is credited with the astonishing record of 88.3 miles per gallon. His 1937 car, which weighs 3,375 pounds, is reported to have traveled a fraction over 54 miles on less than two-thirds of a gallon of gas, a rate of 88.3 miles per gallon. Several other cars made records far better than is usually considered possible. They all drove slowly. Otherwise the most important factor was probably the condition of the cars and tires.

Experts emphasize the importance of clean spark plugs, clean air-cleaners, clean carburetor jets, proper pressure in fuel pumps, properly adjusted brakes and wheels, absence of leakage, and so on. Tire pressure is important, too. The tires in this test are said to have been inflated to 75 pounds, which would be very risky for most tires and bumpy for the passengers. But apparently there is real economy in high pressure.

A Christmas Carol

by Douglas Whitney

THIS, friends, is a Christmas story though stories of kindliness shouldn't only bob up with Kris Kringle. Our tale is concerned with Robert Parker.

If you don't remember him, ask some of the elder folks. Parker was once one of the leading character actors of the legitimate stage. For years he trouped the hinterlands in support of the great names.

The week before Christmas always found Parker in New York at the center table of the Leopards club, the noted actors' organization.

This was his day.

The room was always well filled the week before Christmas. It is a tradition in show business that the weeks preceding Christmas and Easter are the worst in the theater.

Born of extremely poor parents, Parker had never forgotten the miseries of poverty. Each year it had been his custom to arrange a variety show, using the talent of the Leopards club. The money realized went toward the purchase of food baskets which were distributed every Christmas day from the lobby of the clubhouse.

When there was snow, instead of the carriage he would use a sleigh and, like Santa, set out on his annual round. It took a great deal of money, but as a result, Bob was beloved by everyone.

Bob grew older, and his stage engagements became fewer.

One day, at a club meeting Bob stood up and addressed the members: "Gentlemen, I'm getting old. It's time for me to put away my grease paint and costumes, and retire. Before doing so I want to extract a promise from the general membership. I ask that you gentlemen continue to run the annual Christmas basket benefit for the poor. I cannot assume the task any longer. Will you do this for me?"

Actors are a sentimental and generous lot. They promised Bob that the tradition would be faithfully maintained, and honored him further by voting him a life member. And so, retiring from the scene, his visits to the club became infrequent. The baskets were forgotten.

A year ago, Bob came back to the club a little before Christmas. He looked much older, his shoulders bent and his shock of white hair noticeably thinned.

"Gentlemen," he said on rising, "this is probably the last time I shall address this group. I am an old man now. There is one favor I wish to ask of you. As many of you may recall, the distribution of Christmas baskets was my hobby and sole interest outside the theater."

His voice breaking, he continued: "I wish to request you to give once more your time and talents for a benefit, the proceeds to go toward the basket fund."

Moved by the appeal of their old master, the Leopards gathered all their resources and achieved an unusually successful response. Every prominent actor and actress within a day's traveling distance appeared. The theater was jammed to capacity. A large sum of money was realized.

To Bob's supreme delight it was a white Christmas. Since he was too old and feeble to sit again on the driver's seat and guide two prancing horses, the club arranged for the needy to come for their baskets. All day Bob attended to the distribution.

He took the subway home. His smile remained despite his weariness.

An hour later he was seated at a small table in a plainly furnished room. A tiny white-haired lady sat opposite him. "Robert, will you carve, please?" she requested with marked deference.

"With pleasure, Mrs. Parker. White meat?"

"Yes, if you please, Robert."

"This is a wonderful occasion," he said. "Were you embarrassed, dear? I hated to do it, Mary. When you came to the head of the line and I handed you the basket, I was afraid that some of the boys would recognize you as my wife."

He seemed a trifle perplexed. "Strange I should have felt uncomfortable about it," he mused. "Surely two as poor as we deserve a [illegible] don't you think?"

The Last Christmas Card

By Estelle M. Nelson

MA SAWYER sewed the final stitch in the Christmas turkey while she kept her ear "peeled" for the postman's step. Still, she actually dreaded his coming lest he bring another card of loving regrets like the one received yesterday from their son Fred. Even four grown boys did not dispel the possibility of a lonely Christmas for Ma and Pa.

She answered the double ring, and forced a smile as she waved Ben's card at Pa. "He can't make it, neither. None of them ever yet mailed a card unless they wasn't coming."

When she came out, Pa asked mildly, "You ain't gittin' a cold, are you, Ma?"

"Cold? Nonsense. Pa. Just the Christmas onions, I s'pose." "Oh, Jim will make it easy, seeing his children is almost grown. And Billy most died of disappointment 'cause he couldn't come home last year. But folks can't travel with a new baby and three other young ones. This year it'll be much better for him."

When Ma left her tree decorations to throw a log in the stove, the crimson glow might have shown Pa the lines of fearful doubt on her round face. But he had just wasted another match on his pipe. "Suppose neither Jim nor Billy can come?" ran through Ma's tortured mind.

At quarter to four, she wished the letter carrier a merry Christmas and hurried back, her hands filled with cards. This was the last mail. If neither son had written, it would mean both boys would arrive about six, laden with mysterious bundles.

Then Ma spied Jim's bold writing in its usual purple ink. There was a special message for his parents and a five-dollar bill.

"The spruce trimmings look fine, Pa," she said. "I won't think of the mess when it dries, for Billy does set such store by Christmas. And coming on Sunday this year, it will give them an extra day to stay." A peal of the bell interrupted her. "It's Billy, got off a little early," she called as she hurried to the door.

The postman beamed, because he didn't know that Ma's expectant smile was not for him. "Overlooked this before, Mrs. Sawyer."

Silently Ma passed the card to Pa after her own swift perusal. The simplest greeting in Billy's careless scrawl, 'Sorry we can't make it."

"Well, I s'pose everything is for the best, Pa. What with all I've cooked, it wouldn't do any harm to invite poor Miss Coombs over.

Pa packed his pipe slowly. "You sure hanker after work, Ma," he sighed.

"We might as well cut into the ham and cake. That'll be enough."

"You ain't eating before six?"

"Might's well. I'm starved," she lied. Four boys and all alone for Christmas! Not one of them able to come home. A short, clipped ring of the bell. Fred's present, perhaps Billy's, too.

"Express package," sang a man's voice. But the thought of a square brown box held no thrills for Ma. It was her brown square-shouldered son she wanted as she opened the door.

Three children stamped the snow from their feet, and before Ma reached the kitchen Billy's wife had deposited the smelly clad baby on Pa's lap. And then Ma found herself folded within Billy's spacious overcoat with its smell of tobacco and crisp fresh air.

"Ha-ha! Expressman, huh?" roared Billy, relinquishing Ma with a kiss. "Didn't expect us so early, did you? Didn't hope for such good luck when we wrote. You got our card?"

"Oh, sure, but—Pa, what did you read on Billy's card?"

"What'd I read? Why, just something about having shopping to do. But you read it, Ma."

"Yes, yes, of course I read it, Billy. I—"

"Ma!" He caught her hand. "Say, you're not catching cold, are you? Good grief, Ma, you're not crying?" His arms were about her again.

"Crying? Nonsense, you silly boy. But onions is onions even at Christmas," said Ma.

NUMBER SMALL GAME HUNTERS IS NORMAL

License Sales for 1942 Were Off But One Percent

In spite of travel troubles, shell shortages and lack of leisure, nearly as many small game hunters took to the field this year as were out in the record season a year ago, before the war, state conservation department license records reveal.

Small game license collections at the beginning of this month for 527,948 licenses were less than one per cent behind collections at the same time a year ago, and within about 80,000 of the 1941 peak. Non-resident licenses, at 3,145 to date, show a remarkable 12 percent increase over 1941 sales in the same period and a 57 percent increase over the number of non-residents hunting here in 1940. Some may be war workers who have not yet lived here for six months.

Resident sport fishing licenses continue to run two percent less than a year ago and are now about 72,000 short of the 1941 total of 600,000, while non-resident licenses remain at 12 percent less than in 1941. Hunting, fishing and trapping licenses collected for the 1942 season to date total more than $1,480,000.

TREE SELLERS MUST HAVE BILL OF SALE

State Officials Are Insisting On Conformance With Law

Farmers cutting and selling Christmas trees should obtain a bill of sale from the person from whom they buy the trees in order to conform with the Michigan state laws.

Bill of sale forms are available at State Police headquarters, conservation headquarters, county agents' offices, county sheriffs' offices and at the Department of Agriculture, Lansing, Michigan.

PALACE THEATER WILL ENTERTAIN CHILDREN

Annual Christmas Free Movie Is Scheduled December 22

Mrs. Elizabeth Moon, owner and operator of the Palace Theatre, will again present a free movie for children of Charlevoix and vicinity as a Christmas treat.

A matinee program is to be given at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday, December 22. A gift of candy will be presented each child who attends.

There are more apple trees in Michigan (5,400,000) than there are square miles in all the deserts in the world. (5,000,000)!

A & P EMPLOYES TO GET ADDED COMPENSATION

Additional compensation totalling $1,400,000 will be distributed to employes of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company before Christmas, it was announced by John A. Hartford, president.

All A & P employes throughout the country with six months or more service will participate in the cash distribution.

The company's employes were voted similar compensation last year.

SUGAR STAMP NO. 10 EFFECTIVE WEDNESDAY

Stamp No. 10 in present sugar rationing books may be used to buy three pounds of sugar between December 16 and January 31, the local war price and rationing board has announced. Industrial and institutional users of sugar registered Tuesday for January and February allotments.

FEATHER PARTY TUESDAY AT ST. MARY'S CENTER

An advertisement on page 8 of this issue announces a feather party next Tuesday night, December 22, at St. Mary's recreation center. Turkeys, chickens and a door prize are offered and a good time promised all who attend.

GENERAL RULES FOR CORRECT DISPLAY OF STARS AND STRIPES

During the ceremony of hoisting or lowering the flag, or when the flag is passing in a parade, everyone present should face the flag, stand at attention, and salute.

Those in uniform should render the hand salute. When not in uniform, men should remove the headdress with the right hand and hold it at the left shoulder, the hand being over the heart. In case of inclement weather the hat may be slightly raised and held above the head. Men without hats merely stand at attention, without saluting, unless they belong to the naval or military service.

Women should salute the flag by placing the right hand over the heart.

If the flag is passing by, the salute is rendered when the flag is five or six paces away and is held until it has passed.

Salute to the National Anthem

When "The Star-Spangled Banner" is played, everyone present should stand at attention and salute as described above. The salute is rendered at the first note of the anthem, and the position is retained until the last note.

LIQUOR PLACES OPEN LATE NEW YEAR'S EVE

Ralph Thomas, chairman of the state liquor control commission, has announced that the state's taverns and bars would be allowed to remain open until 4 a. m. New Year's day instead of closing at the regular 2 a. m. hour.

Thomas said the extension was made at the request of 4,500 license holders.

NOTICE

The War Production Board has recommended that cities refrain from using electricity for outdoor Christmas decorations this year as it requires the use of more fuel oil than normal. In complying with this request the City Council will not have the usual lighted community Christmas tree and urges that citizens also refrain from using electricity for outdoor decorations. Fuel oil for the diesel plant is rationed, which means that the oil we can save will be available for United Nations ships.

THE HOME FRONT IN MICHIGAN

Estimates of Uncle Sam's production of combat armament in 1942 assure Mr. and Mrs. Michigan that any trouble and inconvenience caused by cutting of civilian goods and services will be rewarded. By the end of 1943 the United States, alone, will produce almost as great a volume of fighting weapons as all the rest of the world combined. The United Nations already are producing twice as much as the Axis.

A greater war effort will mean less food and consumer items in coming months—but those items that are available will be distributed as evenly and fairly as possible. After the first of the year the new "point" system of rationing will start for rationing certain commodities not yet announced. The system will not replace straight coupon rationing of sugar, gasoline and coffee. It will be used only for groups of related or similar commodities.

Santa Claus—and all the kids in Michigan—got a break the other day when three governmental agencies ruled that no restrictions will be imposed this year upon the production, distribution and sale of Christmas trees. But the kids, and their mothers and fathers, will have to do without chocolate Santa Clauses, St. Valentine's hearts, Easter bannies and eggs and other chocolate novelties. The War Production Board is prohibiting their manufacture after Dec. 15 because of the shortage of imported cocoa beans from which chocolate is made.

By the way, if you can't always buy your favorite candy bar, it's because soldiers need candy when they go to war. The soldiers' "extreme emergency" food package, Ration D, for example, contains hard chocolate and sugar—lots of body fuel, little bulk.

Everybody soon will have to stretch their chewing gum a little further. Chewing gum chewers must cut down about 130 sticks per year because the boys in service are using more than they did when in civilian life and the sugar shortage has prevented an increase in output. However, the available supply is almost what it was in 1941—an all-time record year for gum chewers.

The Michigan fishing industry must exert every effort to increase current and future production in spite of all dislocations caused by the war, according to Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior and Coordinator of fisheries. He explains there is now a vital need for every possible pound of fresh, frozen, canned and otherwise preserved fishery product.

Farmers and other Michigan commercial motor vehicle operators whose Office of Defense transportation certificates of war necessity do not provide enough gasoline for essential operations will be given sufficient gasoline to meet their needs through Jnn. 31, pending the issuance of corrected certificates.

War workers are advised to make Christmas day a holiday, if possible, because there have been no other full holidays in war production since the fight for freedom began. However, the WPB has announced that war factories would be expected to observe normal working schedules on New Year's Day.

DOTS and DASHES: Men in the U. S. armed forces abroad can now send gifts or souvenirs to the value of $50 back home duty free. . . .only about half of the excess tires motorists are turning in are usable or can be made serviceable by repairs and recappings. . . 3,500,000 volunteers are now doing Red Cross work . . . heavy cream has been made available for persons on special diets and for hospitals . . . our boys in Africn have the help of tens of thousands of among the most feared and effective soldiers of modern warfare—the dreaded Senegalese who come from the land of battling Siki in French West Africa. . . wartime hardens on transportation and on the postal service make it more necessary than ever that you do your Christmas mailing early . . . more coal and wood-burning stoves are being made available for those who want to change over from fuel oil heating equipment.

Farm Fire Loss Cut by Inspection by School Pupils

Evidence of the practical value of the inspection of farm properties for fire hazards, made throughout the state by school pupils last spring under the supervision of Council of Defense agencies, is offered by C. V. Ballard, chairman of the agriculture committee.

He reports that Joseph Schueller, secretary of the Farmers Mutual Insurance Co., which carries more than 50 per cent of the farm fire insurance in Isabella county, recently stated that his company did not have a single fire loss in the first six months of the year. Schueller attributed this remarkable record to the inspections made by the school children.

Women Fire-Fighters

Enrollment of women as well as men in the volunteer Forest Fire Fighters Service will open a field of activities heretofore regarded as a man's job to women and is expected to help meet a serious labor shortage. Durward Robson, chief of the State Conservation department's fire-fighting forces and State Coodinator of the Forest Fire Fighters Service under the Michigan Council of Defense, reports that much of the labor ordinarily available for this service has been drained from forest areas by the military services and defense industries.

It is planned to enlist from 7,000 to 8,000 volunteers, including high school pupils. Training schools will be established in convenient localities in all forest areas. Recruiting through local councils of defense will begin in February and only personnel assigned by councils of defense will be used. Certificates of identification will be issued by the councils. Volunteers will be paid 30 cents an hour when on fire fighting duty, the same rate paid previously to impressed labor, supplanted by the volunteer program. Women will be used as drivers of light trucks and for other duties within their capabilities. All enrollees will be entitled to supplemental gasoline allowances to attend the schools and emergency gasoline rations when on fire-fighting duty.

War Clubs Growing

Neighborhood War Clubs, designed to bring every family into coordinated war service, are well organized in 65 of the state's 83 counties, according to Mrs. Margaret E. Blaney, chief of volunteer activities of the Michigan Council of Defense, who is in charge of neighborhood war club development. More than 20,000 manuals outlining the purpose and plan of operation of the neighborhood war club plan have been distributed.

LAST Christmas our local jewelry store added two new departments we never had carried before. One was a toy counter, where a selection of movie dolls was featured. The other—an optical department—catered to the trade who could not afford glasses unless they could arrange to pay for them on credit.

Visiting the shop the night before Christmas, I watched a tiny little girl . . . I'm sure she couldn't have been more than six . . . standing before the already sadly depleted doll counter. Her eyes were big as she looked up at the one doll still unsold, and there was a child's longing in them as she tugged at the tattered overall jacket of her father, busy talking to the optometrist.

"Daddy," she called, her voice shrill with excitement, "look! Isn't it the darlingest thing? Do you think Santa will bring it to me?"

The man's tired face turned toward her, and a hurt expression flashed across it settling hopelessly in the gray eyes. "'Fraid not, Mary," he answered. "I saw Santa in a store down the street a while ago, and he said that he'd be about out of everything by the time he reached our house. Reckon he might have some sweets, or maybe a rag doll, though. And he's promised for sure to bring those glasses.

She turned to make one last appeal!

"Oh!" Tears were in her eyes, but she fought them back bravely, and her worn coat sleeve wiped the last trace of them away.

"I did so want one of them," she whispered. "But I'm glad Santa isn't going to bring it to me. It means that he's found someone else who wants it even worser than I do, don't it, Daddy?"

"Come on, Mary," the optometrist called, taking the little girl by the hand. "Santa told me to see what kind of glasses you should have, so's to be sure he'd get it right. Now just sit in this chair and do as I say."

The examination didn't last long, and I was still there when it was completed. The optometrist turned to the father. "I'll make a special effort to finish them tonight," he said.

He was back soon, a slip in his hand. "I've fixed it with the management. A dollar now, and a dollar a month until the balance of five dollars is paid."

Mary had returned for a final look at the toy. "Don't you think, Daddy, that the glassee could come as a birthday present, and . . . oh, I did want a doll so badly! But . . . but I won't cry."

Her father hadn't heard. He was busy feeling in his pockets for the dollar needed for the down payment. He found a lean wallet, and from it pulled a quarter and seven dimes. He counted them over twice, a scared look on his face, then began a renewed search. Triumphantly, he finally produced an eighth dime, and handed the silver to the optometrist.

As the man in overalls and his elfin daughter started toward the door, the girl behind the doll counter looked at the optometrist, then at me, a tear in her eye. Then she ran after the pair. "Wait a moment—isn't your name Mary?" she asked.

"Uh-huh?" the little girl answered, bewildered.

"Then I guess Santa meant you. He was here just a few minutes ago, and said he had a doll for a little girl named Mary, but he was afraid he wouldn't have the time to deliver it. Then he remembered that the little girl's father said he was coming here, so he asked me if I'd keep the doll and give it to you. That's it, up on the counter. Take it and run away, because I'm so busy I haven't time to talk."

Shyly, Mary reached up for the proffered treasure, and hugged it close.

Mary was speechless while her benefactor busied herself behind the counter. Suddenly the girl felt a tug at her skirt, and Mary was at her side, looking up at her. "I believe you're Mrs. Santa Claus," the child whispered, awe in her voice.

As the door closed behind the pair, the girl took her purse from her bag and looked inside.

"Mrs. Santa Claus, indeed!" I heard her mutter. "Lucky for me this is pay day or Mrs. Santa wouldn't eat tomorrow."

War has brought many changes and new conditions; who would have prophesied three years ago that the food in Charlevoix county would be under government control? Meat, flour, eggs, butter and milk have trebled in price and the end is not yet. Even though you have plenty of money the government asks you to have no more than 30 days' supply of food on hand. If we can help win the war by saving on food, let us do it cheerfully.

Miss Lillian McKiel is acting as chief clerk of the local draft board while questionaires are being sent out.

Charles Novak started to East Jordan Sunday, but found the drifts so deep that he returned to Charlevoix without accomplishing the feat.

Samuel King, who has been in Chicago for some time past, has enlisted in the aviation corps, and is home for a short visit with relatives and friends before leaving for training camp.

Miss Caroline Geiken received notice Tuesday of her appointment by the government as assistant superintendent of base hospital No. 1 at Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, Texas, and will leave Friday to take up her duties there.

Monday night at the meeting of Pewasu Camp Fire a surprise was given in honor of Hildegarde and Clara Wilkinson, who leave next Tuesday for Douglas, Arizona, to spend the winter with their father, Capt. A. M. Wilkinsen, who is stationed there.

Letters to Santa Claus

Charlevoix Courier:

Will you please print these letters for us/ We have written to Santa Claus. We thought he would see the letters if you printed them in your paper.

Sincerely,
Maude, Edwin, James and Neldin Emans
Rt. 1, Charlevoix.

Dear Santa,

I am 5 years old. I would like a teddy bear and a sleigh. I know you are busy so I won't ask for very much this Christmas.

With love,
Neldin Bruce Emans.

Dear Santa,

I am a little boy 6 years old. I would like a train and blackboard this Christmas.

There are a lot of us, so I won't ask for much.

Best wishes,
James Emans.

Dear Santa,

I know you are busy so I am writing early. I would like a train that runs on a track, also a puzzle. I am 8 years old.

Yours truly,
Edwin Emans.

Dear Santa,

I am ten years old.

I want a doll buggy for Christmas. I want a doll with real hair for Christmas. So I am writing early so my letter will get there.

Yours truly,
Maud C. Emans.

Dear Santa Clause,

I want a bracelet, and a big doll. If you haven't got a big doll, I want a small lady doll with a skirt and blouse that I can sew for.

Good-by,
Joyce May Keiller,
Rt. 3. Box 19, Charlevoix.

Dear Santa,

Please send me a story book, dolly with hair, broom, dust pan, for Christmas.

Marylee Baker.

Dear Santa,

I am a little girl 4 years old. I would like a book with Mickey Mouse stories, also a doll with dresses, pajamas, shoes and stockings. I would like hair and a ribbon on it like Marylee's. I try to be a good girl. Thank you, Santa.

Loyola Mae Courson.

Dear Santa Claus,

I am a girl 14 years of age and I have a brother 12 years old, also have two sisters, one 6 and one 3 years old. Ruth, 3 years, wants a pink dog, and Margie, 6 years, wants a panda bear (black and white) and they would like a doll buggy. Bud, 12 years, wants a baseball glove and a baseball and a small pen knife. I would like a kerchief (blue) and a manicure set. But we would like anything you might bring us.

AVERAGE $1,428 FOR FARM LIVING

Michigan's unmatched variety in agricultural production matches the variety of ways in which typical farm families spend and budget the cash necessary to operate households.

Proof of that has been found in a survey conducted by Julia Pond, specialist in home management at Michigan State College.

Expenses total 69 percent for the "big four" farm family accounts. Food averages 25 percent, the car 16 percent, household operations 15 percent and family clothing 13 percent. That leaves 31 percent for education and recreation, personal, medical, gifts and contributions and furnishings, and equipment.

Typical of the variations is found in electric bills which range from $10.50 to $102.93 depending on the amount of equipment. Twenty-four of 25 families surveyed had high line service.

The least spent for food was $70 and the most was $606. Lowest and highest in household operation run from $27 to $264. Clothing averaged $109 from the lowest of $30 to the highest of $340. Haircuts, permanent waves, tobacco and other personal allowances ranged from one family spending $1.50 in a year to another that had a total of $334. The average was $42.

One family spent $1.15 for soap and made the rest. The average family's soap bill was $8 for a year.

Farm contributions to family living averaged $562 in food, housing and fuel. Total cash living expenses were $866, which made the year's annual farm family living average $1428 when farm food, fuel and housing was included.

How to Make "Old Fashioned 'Christmas Treats'"

Some old recipes passed down from Civil War days, with which our great grandmothers, despite shortages and substitutes, provided delicious, mouth-melting goodies so important to Christmas cheer, will be found in the Housewife's Food Almanack in The American Weekly with this Sunday's (December 20) issue of The Detroit Sunday Times. Be sure to get The Detroit Sunday Times.

A Pennsylvania housewife has scrapped a pancake griddle, made by one of her ancestors at his forge shortly after the Revolution. It had served five generations of pancake enthusiasts.

LANSING LETTER

ers are going to spend even if it is for goods or services which they otherwise normally would not demand.

Liquor sales are soaring. Beer taverns and night clubs are crowded. Youth is enjoying another "last fling." Juvenile delinquency is mounting everywhere.

If this pattern of war-time living is going to prevail, then actual spending will be maintained regardless of restrictions. The state will get its share in taxes. Do you agree?

Because electors are often won on the basis of campaign promises, legislators may not relish the prospect of going to Lansing and cutting "non-essential" expenditures to the bone.

And you can't blame them greatly at that.

The two-year term of a Michigan governor doesn't help matters either, for the governor is only human in hoping he may please enough voters to merit re-election in 22 months. Pleasing one voter by offending another is often the price of economy.

It merely emphasizes that economy in government is easier to talk about, and to write about, than to accomplish.

Some students of government are ready to concede that all this talk of government economy is a childish waste of time. Their argument runs as follows:

Our machine age has caught us in a trap.

When someone invents a labor-saving machine which automatically will harvest sugar beets, for example, replacing human labor such as a Colorado inventor insists he has achieved, government must provide for the workers thus displaced.

And the argument continues by pointing out that social security, as we now understand it in the United States, is only a modest beginning of what is to come.

Bismarck introduced social security to Germany as a cure for socialism back in the 1880's. More than a half century ago Germany established a national system of accident insurance, sickness insurance and old age pensions.

Back in 1908 the British government provided for old age pensions with compulsory deductions from pay of workers and earnings of employers.

In 1911 the British authorized state health insurance on a contributory basis, and followed it up in 1912 with unemployment compensations for 90 per cent of all the working population. It is estimated that one-third of the housing in England is government-financed.

And all this 20 years before F. D. R.!

The advocates of state socialism, either on a basis of being inevitable or desirable, point with satisfaction to a report just submitted to British parliament by Sir William Beveridge.

Among benefits, the Beveridge plan would create a state system of insurance for the public, offering a variety of policies at low premiums. The state would extend security to the individual from birth to death with maternal to burial payments also on a "pay in advance" basis such as we now have for old age pensions.

As Sir Beveridge sees it, here is the answer to "freedom from want" as proclaimed in the Atlantic charter. Obviously it has a tremendous propaganda value to the man and woman who are sacrificing heavily to win this war. Whereas the last war was motivated by that paradox of ideas—a war to end war—this conflict would offer the appeal of a war to secure individual freedom.

Former President Herbert Hoover, addressing the manufacturers in annual session in New York city recently, called attention to the following change.

In the last war we trained and equipped six million men of whom we transported two million overseas, all of this being accomplished by a Washington bureaucracy numbering 425,000 persons.

In today's war, we have trained around four million men, of whom less than one million are understood to be overseas, while the federal bureaucracy is a veritable army in itself, more than 2,000,000 persons.

As Hoover sees it, the government is top-heavy. But, of course, many things have happened since 1918.

Every time a new public service is authorized, whether it be public welfare or anemployment compensation, government assumes a new obligation. More persons are needed to provide for the new benefits.

This trend has been clearly evident in all recent state administrations, Democratic and Republican.

Now the question arises: Can the 1943-45 state administration in Michigan halt the swing? Will the voters back at home favor curtailment in services which have brought new benefits into their lives? Can state aid to local government be reduced?

We don't envy the responsibility of the Michigan state legislators and state officials in wrestling with the problem. It's a tough nut to crack.

Keep Long Distance lines clear for war calls

AMONG the things we're asked to do without, this War Christmas, is the pleasant custom of making Long Distance calls to greet our friends.

As on other days, the wires will be crowded with war messages, and such calls cannot be delayed.

Therefore, on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day, please do not make Long Distance greeting calls, particularly to points outside of Michigan.

TURKEYS - CHICKENS DOOR PRIZE

SHOT AT RANDOM

Cartier, out New York way. The Cartier greeting, I note, has five sitting in front of the fireplace this year instead of four. There's Harold, the Missus and three youngsters, and when you count what I suspect are the kiddies' pets—two pigs, a turkey and a duck—you've got nine altogether. A Merry Christmas to all of you, say I!

Love is going to be put under a terrific strain now that the WPB has banned the production of many items of canned goods. There was a time when young married couples needed only love and a can-opener, but war has a way of bringing all things down to reality.

Elmer Hanna, our neighbor and owner and publisher of the Emmet County Graphic at Harbor Springs, has been appointed administrative assistant by Governor-elect Harry F. Kelly. The appointment, to say the least, is a deserved reward for the energetic manner in which Elmer has supported Kelly for the past several years. Besides publishing a mighty good newspaper, Hanna has found time to act as district head of the Department of State the past four years, is a past president of the Michigan Press Association and past state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. That Kelly will find him an able assistant, we are positive.

Most of us try to solve our problems by forgetting them.

For the duration of the war, no sacrifice is too great for the American people, provided others make the same sacrifice. If that statement seems odd or un-American, let me explain. Every man has a dual obligation. One to his nation and the war effort; the other is to himself and his family. Except by official order, he can't reconcile his emotions. Rationing of sugar is better than voluntary restriction in the consumption of sugar. As a curb on inflation, sales taxes are better than an appeal to voluntarily restrict purchasing. Compulsory savings, by payroll and income deductions, would be more effective than voluntary purchase of War Bonds. To win this war, the American people are willing to be stripped to their underwear. Underwear is a satisfactory costume, providing the fashion is universal. But if a few, in over-enthusiasm, toss into the pot everything but their underwear, they feel foolish the following day when they discover the majority are wearing clothes, as usual. When the government puts the pressure on everybody, and when everybody knows he is doing no more and no less than the other fellow, the cooperation will be heartening, whatever sacrifice may be involved.

Well, well! Here it is only eight days until Christmas and I haven't written to Santa Claus yet. Guess I'll pass up the "hint method" this year in view of conditions, and everything. I did want some new fishin' tackle, but with gas rationing here I probably won't be able to get to the streams. Come to think about it, maybe it would be better to forget the whole thing, 'cause I'm getting too old to write letters to Santa Claus, anyway.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Mrs. Ira Smith was hostess to members of her sewing club at her home on Monday evening.

A farewell party honoring Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Robinette was given Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Anderson. Guests who enjoyed a venison steak dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Pemberton, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Korth, and Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Coleman. The remainder of the evening was spent at cards.

Members of the Past Matrons club met Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. O. P. North. Mrs. Albert Cook was initiated into the group as junior matron.

A Christmas party was enjoyed by members of the Young Mothers club Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Henry Supernaw, West Lincoln avenue. Games were played, for which the highest award went to Mrs. George Smith, Jr. Guests exchanged gifts, and refreshments were served.

Mrs. Clair Webster entertained the Charlevoix Garden club at her home on Tuesday afternoon, for their Christmas party. Miniature evergreen wreaths were made by the members, to be given to Charlevoix Hospital for tray decorations. After a short business session, a social period was enjoyed and refreshments served, which included "snowball" cakes with small lighted candles. Pine boughs and tall white tapers on the mantelpiece made a lovely Christmas setting for the meeting.

ODT STREAMLINES APPEAL PROCEDURE

Operators Will Get Enough Gas to Last Through January 31

A streamlined procedure on appeals from commercial motor vehicle operators who consider their mileage and fuel allotments provided in ODT certificates of war necessity to be inadequate was announced today.

Earl Wathen, district manager for the Office of Defense Transportation, with offices at 602 N. Mitchell St., Cadillac, is making the announcement, said also that farmers and other commercial motor vehicle operators whose ODT certificates do not allow sufficient gasoline for essential operations will be given enough gasoline to meet their needs through January 31.

Certificates of war necessity have been issued for the bulk of the state's trucks, buses, taxicabs and other commercial motor vehicles. However, a number of the original applications did not contain sufficient information for ODT to determine with reasonable accuracy the mileage requirements of the operators.

In such cases, certificates were issued bearing mileage and fuel allowances designed to tide the operators over until additional information could be obtained thru appeals and new or supplemental certificates issued. This procedure was necessary because in most cases there was not sufficient time to obtain the necessary additional information from the operators.

In order to facilitate the issuance of the new or supplemental certificates to bring mileage and fuel allowances into line with the actual needs of the operators, all appeals will be handled by the ODT district office.

Farmers wishing to appeal for additional allotments should file their appeals through the farm transportation committees of their U. S. Department of Agriculture county war board. Other operators should file appeals directly with the ODT district office. These appeals may be filed immediately. The original instructions requiring that the appeals be withheld for 30 days are now cancelled.

FORMER RESIDENT OF NORWOOD IS TAKEN

Had Lived In Charlevoix County For Thirty-Six Years

Frank D. Brown, of Olivet, Mich., formerly of Charlevoix, died in Ford Hospital, Detroit, last Tuesday morning, December 8. He and his wife were visiting his son, A. L. Brown, in Dearborn, for Thanksgiving, when he was taken ill. Undergoing two operations at the hospital, November 28 and December 6, he failed to rally from the second.

Mr. Brown was born in Lima, N. Y., November 10, 1864. He came to Michigan as a child, living in Missaukee county until 1903. Moving to Norwood township, Charlevoix county, in that year, he lived there until he went to Olivet in 1939.

He was first married to Myrtle Merrill, who died in 1906. In 1917 he married Matilda Poole, of Bangor, Maine, who survives him. Also surviving are four sons of his first marriage, A. L. and Frank K., of Dearborn, Leon R., of Ypsilanti, and Myron J., of Traverso City.

Funeral services were held in Dearborn on Friday, and the body placed in the vault there. Burial will be at Norwood in the spring.

"Beaver Island residents may register at the St. James postoffice during the week other men of their age group register.

"Registration places mentioned above will be open on the dates indicated from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

"Persons required to register who are not able to report in accordance with the above, should notify this office by letter or telephone as soon as possible.

"During the continuance of the present war, those who were born on or after January 1, 1925, shall register at this office on the day they attain the eighteenth anniversary of the day of their birth; provided that if such anniversary falls on a Sunday or a legal holiday, their registration shall take place on the day following that is not a Sunday or a legal holiday."

OES INSTALLATION CEREMONIES WERE THURSDAY EVENING

Officers of Charlevoix Chapter No. 72, Order of Eastern Star, were installed Thursday night at the Masonic temple.

Mrs. Lloyd Curtis was installed as worthy matron, while Dr. F. F. McMillan took office as worthy patron. Others installed were: associate matron, Miss Frances Durance; associate patron, H. R. Fowler; secretary, Mrs. Clair Webster; treasurer, Mrs. Charles Bellinger; conductress, Mrs. Harry Walstad; associate conductress, Mrs. Harry Ladd; marshall, Mrs. Arthur Wexstaff; chaplain, Mrs. Laura Courier; organist, Mrs. Stewart Coleman; Ada, Mrs. Joseph Smith Jr.; Ruth, Mrs. Maurice Hinckley; Esther, Mrs. Lawrence Feindt; Martha, Miss Wilma See; Electa, Mrs. Dean Davenport; warder, Mrs. S. O. Sorenson; sentinel, Mrs. Floyd Ikens.

Opening the ceremony, Mrs. Albert Cook, retiring matron, was escorted to the East to give her farewell and thank her officers for their cooperation during the past year. New officers were then presented at the altar and escorted to their stations.

Mrs. Clair Webster, accompanied by Mrs. Charles Bellinger, sang an original song to the worthy matron and patron and associates. The new matron, Mrs. Curtis, was presented with a corsage by her daughter, Suzanne. Mrs. O. P. North presented the Past Matron's pin to Mrs. Cook and welcomed her as a junior member to the Past Matron's club. Gifts were exchanged between Mrs. Cook and her officers.

Refreshments were served in the dining room at a face-covered table, presided over by Mrs. O. P. North, Mrs. Robert Bonthron, Mrs. Angus Fochtman and Mrs. Rosa Nettleton. Tall white candles and colored tree ornaments were placed in the evergreen garlands down the center of the long table. On one wall of the dining room was a large wreath, with a V of blue lights upon it. Strauss waltzes were played on the phonograph during the social hour.

"Snowshoes" Next Target

After deer hunting and before the snow gets too deep, hunting snowshoe hares with beagle hounds is one of the season's liveliest sports in northern Michigan. Many veteran hunters make it sportier by using .22 caliber rifles. Now in their white winter coat, the big, fast moving "rabbits" make an elusive target against the snow. Last season Michigan hunters bagged 400,000 of them.

Smart state, Michigan! In time, an hour ahead of all the other states, and an hour and a half ahead of the sun. If we can make ourselves heard at Lansing, maybe we can go back to Central Time where we belong.

LETTERS from the ARMY CAMPS

Dear Ken,

You are the only person I could think of that would have the addresses of the other Charlevoix men in service. I would appreciate it if you would send some of them that are in this part of the country. (San Diego).

Well, I must study tonight for an engagement in Berlin. Thanks.

Yours for Victory,

Dear Ken,

Just received orders to move again so thought I'd better write and let you know my address. We are moving to primary school and having quite a time. Things slacked up for a few minutes so thought I'd dash off a letter.

We have just finished nine weeks of pre-flight training which has helped to get us ready for the flying that is to come next week. It may sound funny having a track team in the middle of December, but it is warm down here and we run in shorts as in high school. You can tell Mr. Coleman that I finally broke a 5 minute mile which still placed sixth in the track meet. We have a cross-country run, that is a killer. It winds through the woods and across a creek two or three times. A couple hills are thrown in just in case we have some extra strength left at the end. I stepped on a cactus the other day and for a little while my foot looked like a pin cushion—pins included.

Sincerely yours,
Av/C Edward R. Stinson.

Dear Ken,

I guess it is about time I wrote and thanked you for the paper. We all surely enjoy it here. There are three fellows in the company from Boyne City, so you see the paper is well read.

Sorry you didn't get your buck. I have a new address so will send it. And thanks again for the paper.

The same Tucker,

Dear Ken,

Every Monday morning for the past seven weeks has found me anxiously waiting the mailman and the Courier. It has really been swell receiving the weekly paper, it gives out a lot of news and goes a long way in keeping up the morale of a certain "Seabee." I'd like to take this means of communication, just like many of the hometown boys in the service have done, in thanking you, your father, CSO and the new owners for sending it so faithfully.

I'm leaving this camp soon for California, we're to be there a short time, then we leave for parts unknown, so if you would send the Courier to the following address, it will be greatly appreciated.

Thomas L. Carey, Sea 1/c USNR,

Cr. Fleet Post Office
San Francisco, Calif.

I remain yours, and hoping the people of Charlevoix don't miss me reading their meters as much as I miss reading them.

Tom.

Hello Ken.

I got the December 9 issue of the Courier, and it sure is swell of you to send me the home town paper, it sure is good to read about what the folks back home are doing. I especially like your column, Shot at Random.

Well, Ken, I haven't much to say, but the army life is swell, at least I think so. The weather here in Louisiana is something similar to what Barney Chambers has to put up with. We have had a few chilly nights, but we have not had frost, and I sort of miss it.

The Charge of Quarter just said lights out. So long.

Thanks for the nice Christmas card you sent with your letter, Orville.

AT THE MOVIES

"The War Against Mrs. Hadley"

Laughter and romance in the face of emergency, in bustling wartime Washington, enliven what is literally the cross section of a woman's soul in "The War Against Mrs. Hadley," playing December 27-28 at the Palace theatre, and presenting Fay Bainter as the prototype of many American women who tried vainly to avoid being enmeshed in war conditions until their awakening came.

"White Cargo"

Hedy Lamarr doesn't need music to convey the sultry charms of Tondelayo. There is no cut-and-dried musical scoring of "White Cargo," which shows Wednesday and Thursday, December 30-31, at the Palace theatre.

This was decided by Bronislau Kaper, responsible for the musical background of the M-G-M melodrama.

"White Cargo" has one bit of styled music. It wheezes out on an old-fashioned phonograph. It's the old-time rag rhythm, "Ida, Sweet as Apple Cider"—and Hedy Lamarr dances an African jitterbug to it!

"A Yank at Eton"

A highlight of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "A Yank at Eton" showing January 1-2 at the Palace theatre, is a battle royal to rival the famed William Farnum-Tom Santschi fight of "The Spoilers" and the Clark Gable-Spencer Tracy melee in "Boom Town." Wrecker-in-chief of the scene is Mickey Rooney.

Mickey leads twelve Hollywood juveniles against four adult "heavies." The result is both thrilling and hilarious.

"Blond Cargo"

Blond girl hermit of the jungle. The Michigan farm girl who found her paradise in the Ecuadorean wilds, with only birds and animals for companions and fruit and nuts for food. Read of her adventurous life, and of the kind of husband she would like to have share her Eden, as told in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next week's Sunday Chicago Herald-American.

CHARLEVOIX COURIER

VOLUME 47 NUMBER 51 | EIGHT PAGES | THE CHARLEVOIX COURIER, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1942 | PRICE $2.00 PER YEAR

SECOND RATION BOOK OUT SOON

WILL BE DESIGNED ON POINT SYSTEM

Local Rationing Board to Close Wednesday Afternoons; Will Have Holiday December 26

The office of price administration has postponed until January 15, 1943, the final date for obtaining war ration book No. 1, the local war price and rationing board has announced.

Weather conditions, transportation problems and heavy work loads of many board offices all contributed to the difficulty of finishing registration by December 15, the deadline originally set. Late applicants for ration book No. 1 thus have another three weeks to register. It is necessary to have this first book before obtaining ration book No. 2, which will be issued soon, and which is understood to be made up on a point system. It is evident from recent government news releases that the book will be designed for rationing of many other articles than those now under control.

Coincident with this bulletin, the OPA announced that all war price and rationing boards will be closed to the public every Wednesday afternoon starting January 6, 1943, to enable board personnel to clean up their routine office work. This does not mean another half-holiday for the boards, but only that the boards will have a half - day each week to get their files, reports and other routine office duties in order. On all other days, the boards' hours will be the same as are now established.

BULLETIN

Announcement was made on Tuesday by the local rationing board, in accordance with instructions received from the state OPA office, that fuel oil ration coupons for period 3 would become valid on December 23 for the purchase of 11 gallons of oil. Originally, the valid date of these coupons was January 7 to February 22, but weather conditions necessitated setting this date ahead. Coupons for period 2 are good until January 20 for the purchase of 10 gallons.

The local office will be closed all day Saturday, December 26, taking advantage of a full holiday offered by Arthur H. Sarvis, state OPA director.

Confusion has been found among motorists holding "A" gasoline ration cards, as to when the No. 3 tickets expire. Date given in the books is January 22, 1943. However, postponement of rationing from November 22 to December 1 has caused extension of the valid date of those coupons to January 31. The No. 4 tickets will become valid on February 1.

CHRISTMAS HOLIDAY ASKED FOR WORKERS BY WPB HEAD

The governor's office has forwarded to Michigan labor organizations a statement by Donald Nelson, War Production Board chairman, urging that the war plants recognize Christmas as a full holiday but maintain regular work schedules New Year's Day. Nelson's statement said industries need keep only maintenance and stand-by staffs on duty Christmas Day.

FIRST CASUALTY OF WAR FOR ELLSWORTH

Nephew of Mrs. Peter Timmer Is Reported Killed In Action

Pfc. Henry Jansen, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Jansen, of Ellsworth RFD 1, has been reported as the first Ellsworth casualty of the war. A wire from the war department stated that he had been killed in action in New Guinea on December 15.

Pfc. Jansen was born near Ellsworth on June 6, 1919, and entered the service in April, 1940. Surviving besides the parents are a sister and two brothers at home and his grandmother, Mrs. Wilhelmina Cooper, of Ellsworth. He was a nephew of Mrs. Peter Timmer, of Charlevoix.

CHRISTMAS IN CITY CHURCHES

SERVICES AND PROGRAMS ARE PLANNED

Two Young People's Groups Will Sing Traditional Carols In Residential Districts

Charlevoix churches are this week holding Christmas services and programs, in observance of this most joyous season of the year.

Tuesday night, the children of the Baptist church school gave their program of recitations and songs. Mrs. Walker Miles was in charge, assisted by Mrs. R. T. Davis and Mrs. Leo Carey. Ladies' aid circles will have their Christmas party Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. C. Y. Marshall on Antrim street, sponsored by the Carey-O'Brien circle.

Rev. W. L. Cruthers is planning a watch night service for New year's eve, to begin at 9 p. m. next Thursday evening. There will be no service at the Baptist church on Christmas eve or Christmas day.

Church of God Sunday school students, from the cradle roll class to young people's group, will present their program at 8 o'clock on Christmas eve. "The Bethlehem Story" is the title of a play the young people are to give, while the smaller children will give songs and recitations. Rev. W. D. Wood will conduct the service, which is to include congregational singing. Mrs. Winifred Bambach and Miss Delora Richardson are directing the program. Following the program, the young people's group will sing Christmas carols in residential sections of the city.

The Methodist youth's choir also are to go caroling after their party at the parsonage on Wednesday evening. The children's division party is at the church Wednesday afternoon, and their program of recitations and songs was last

REPORT RULES FOR TRAPPERS CHANGED

Action Taken to Economize on Travel, Tighten Control

New rules for reporting by trappers and fur buyers, drawn to economize on travel and tighten local control over fur handling, have been announced by the conservation department.

Instead of asking by mail for pelt possession permits formerly issued by the Lansing office, trappers now will contact the local conservation officer, and after they show him the furs they wish to hold, he will issue the permit for holding the raw hides. Trappers should have these permits within five days after the close of the season in which the furbearers may legally be taken.

Fur buyers, required by law to report the number and kind of furs, hides and pelts in their possession on the last day of the open season within 10 days after the season closes, also will step reporting to the Lansing office. Now they must send their reports, duly notarized and by registered mail, to that one of the conservation department's 17 district offices which administers conservation affairs in the county in which they have their place of business.

RATION BOOK DATE SET AHEAD A MONTH

Have Until January 15 to Obtain War Ration Book No. 1

The Office of Price Administration has postponed until January 15, 1943, the final date for obtaining war ration book No. 1.

"Weather conditions, transportation problems and heavy work loads of many board offices, all contributed to the difficulty of finishing registration by December 15, the deadline originally set, and an extension of time was needed," Paul M. O'Leary, deputy administrator in charge of rationing, said.

O'Leary said that late applicants for ration book No. 1 were mostly those who take their meals out and who had no use for the first book while it was good only for buying sugar and coffee. Ration book No. 1 will be necessary to obtain ration book No. 2 before the new deadline which has been set for January 15.

WARN PUBLIC USE PASTEURIZED MILK

State Health Department Cites Increase Undulant Favor

Over 100 cases of undulent fever in Michigan this year is a warning to drink only pasteurized milk, according to the Michigan Department of Health.

"Undulant fever is commonly transmitted to man by raw milk from cows infected with Bang's disease, and pasteurization kills the organism which causes undulant fever," said Dr. H. Allen Moyer, state health commissioner. "If everyone would drink pasteurized milk, undulant fever would be reduced in Michigan just as typhoid fever has been reduced by the treatment of public water supplies and by the development of sanitary waste disposal systems."

RAYDERS DEFEAT MANCELONA TEAM

CHALKED UP 43 TO 26 WIN FRIDAY NIGHT

Victory Was Fourth Straight Win for Rayders; Play Pellston Here January 12

Continuing their undefeated record, Charlevoix high school's Red Rayders drubbed Mancelona by a 43 to 26 count at Mancelona last Friday night. It was their fourth consecutive victory.

Like in their previous three contests, the Rayders came from behind to win. The Antrim county team, which lost to Boyne City's strong outfit by only a single point, had a 14 to 5 advantage at the quarter. The Rayders scored 11 points to Mancelona's 4 in the second period to trail 18 to 16 at the half, then put on the pressure in the next two periods. They out-scored Mancelona 15 points to 5 in the third quarter and 12 points to 3 in the final stanza.

Charlevoix's scoring was divided between Carey, Swanson, Chambers and Vrtatina. Carey led with 14 points, Swanson scored 10, Chambers 9, Vrtatina 8 and Bellinger 2. Ward, Gallagher, Mitchell and Rowe were used by Coach Kipke during the contest. Garlick was high point man for Mancelona, scoring 10 of his team's 26 points. The Rayders netted 18 field goals and scored 7 points from the foul line.

The Rayders will make their second home appearance of the season on January 12, meeting Pellston on the home hardwood. No contests are scheduled during the holidays as in previous years. Lack of material has eliminated possibility of the annual Rayder-Alumni contest and no other teams are available for the period between last Friday night's tilt and the Pellston games three weeks hence.

BUTTER TOO SCARCE TO USE FOR COOKING

Request Nation's Housewives Turn to Vegetable Oils

With reduced amounts of milk and butter available for civilian use next year, housewives will have to use more skimmed milk and vegetable oils for cooking, Agriculture department experts have announced.

"We have wasted huge quantities of skimmed milk because farmers don't have the facilities to dry it," William Ward, milk expert in the Agricultural Marketing Administration said.

"There will be a sufficient amount of whole milk for children, but housewives will have to depend on dried and powdered skimmed milk when the shortage of our milk supply becomes noticeable."

Butter is not likely to disappear from American homes, but will not be available in quantites adequate for use as both a spread and cooking fat. Vegetable oils and meat fats will replace it in cooking.

MERCHANT MARINE IS ENLISTING MEN

No Conflict With Man-Power Regulations, Officials Say

Lieutenant Gerard W. Cross, regional director for the United States Maritime Service recruiting offices in the states of Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky announced that under a special ruling, recruiting for cadets in the Merchant Marine Cadet Corps will continue without conflicting with War-Manpower Commission regulations, and that a special drive to enlist 500 future officers from the tri-state area is under way.

Candidates for officer training must be unmarried United States citizens between 18 and 23. However, average waivers may be given to applicants who submit evidence of having completed studies in an accredited college or university. An allowance of one year in age may be granted for each academic year completed. A maximum of four years credit may be allowed.

Descriptive pamphlets and applications can be secured by applying at the United States Maritime Service office, Hammond building, Detroit.

SEN. BISHOP SEEKS STATE ADVERTISING

Will Introduce Bill in the 1943 Legislature for Funds

State Senator Otto W. Bishop, R., Alpena, will introduce a bill in the 1043 legislature asking for $160,000 to advertise the state's resort and agricultural industries for the next two years, practically the same amount now provided.

Senator Bishop said resort operators were not planning to "fold up" because of transportation and gasoline difficulties, but were expecting that vacationists would come into resort areas by boat and train and remain at one place for their entire vacations.

"The bill will ask for practically the same appropriation because resort owners feel that even if vacation prospects are not favorable, the name of the state should be kept before the public," Senator Bishop said. He pointed out that neighboring state were also planning to continue their advertising as a "good will" program.

REPORT RAINBOWS DO WELL HOFFMAN LAKE

Fish Plentiful at Close of First Year After Planting

Rainbow trout can furnish steadier and more consistent sport fishing than brook trout in small lakes, the conservation department's fisheries research men learned from a test planting of 1,000 adults of each in Hoffman lake, Charlevoix county.

Early in the 1942 season, the brook trout took anglers' hooks much more readily than did the rainbows. But in a post-season check with nest no brook trout were observed, while the rainbows were still relatively plentiful, in good condition, and growing well.

SNOW REMOVAL POLICY GIVEN

TRUNKLINES, MAIN COUNTY ROADS COME FIRST

Commission States Emergencies Will Be Met Under Reduced 1942-43 Winter Plowing

In answer to numerous requests for information regarding snow removal during the 1042-43 winter season, the Charlevoix county road commission, upon request of the Courier, has issued the following statement of policy:

"As in the past, state trunklines will be opened first after any storm and practically all the main county roads will be opened as soon as possible after the state trunklines are opened.

"On township roads it has become necessary to considerably reduce the mileage to be plowed in each township. There are several reasons for this reduction: First, not enough money is available for this work; second, we cannot buy new equipment and find it difficult to obtain necessary repairs for old equipment, some repairs being limited in quantity and some require days, and sometimes weeks, to secure delivery which previously only required hours or perhaps a few days, hence if old equipment breaks down and waits for repairs, it cannot work until repairs are received and installed; third, in some cases plowing is more difficult on township roads and causes more breakage of equipment.

"An attempt will be made to answer home side calls from doctors and undertakers whenever equipment is available to do so.

"The county road commission urges all citizens to be as considerate as possible in view of the difficulties with which the commission is faced, and also urges that no cars or other obstructions be left on any highway where snow removal is practised. They also advise that when the roads are open, a sufficient supply of food and fuel to last through a storm should be obtained.

CITY FINANCES IN GOOD SHAPE

BALANCES HIGH DESPITE DROP IN REVENUES

Report Covering Period of March 1 to November 1, 1942 Issued By City Accountant

That the financial condition of the City of Charlevoix is in excellent shape is revealed by a report compiled by Robert C. Emrey, city accountant, covering the period of March 1 to November 1, 1942.

The report was issued, in view of wartime conditions and anticipated reduction in revenues, as a means of guiding future operations as efficiently and economically as possible.

The report revealed the city's cash on hand to be approximately $26,000, which is $8,000 higher than normal for this time of year and reflects a general reduction in expenses.

Bonded indebtedness, which has been reduced at the rate of around $15,000 a year, is down to $165,000.00. Next year's retirement program will require 2 mills instead of 3 now being assessed. Mr. Emrey pointed out that a reduction either in mill tax or valuation can be made next year unless revenues drop below requirements.

The present year, the report revealed, will eliminate entirely the local improvement fund. All special assessments for paving, curb and gutter, sewers and other local improvements thus will have been paid.

Operating expenses in practically all departments except streets were considerably reduced last year. Street work was more extensive than originally anticipated, due largely to the fact that next year, under wartime restrictions, little, if any, street improvement work will be possible.

Revenues from the electric and water utilities were down during the period covered by the report. Electric revenue decreased 12.2%, but despite this fact, profit from the utility was $20,000 compared to the usual average of $14,000.

DIES CAUSE DELAY CAR LICENSE TABS

Work 24-Hour Day to Produce Strips Needed Jan. 1

Michigan prison industries workers are laboring 24 hours a day to overcome a delay in manufacture of 1943 auto license tabs, needed January 1, it was revealed by Lee C. Richardson, director of the State Department motor vehicle division.

"Delay in obtaining dies has held up production of the 1943 tabs, but we hope to deliver them to 174 branch license sales offices within a few days after January 1," Richardson said.

In order to save steel, Michigan can't manufacture full-size plates this year. Instead, both full-year and half-year tabs, each containing only 3.6 square inches of metal, are to be produced.

"The savings in producing only tabs will amount to approximately $10,000," Richardson explained. "We will also free some 1,600 tons of steel for war use since the new tabs will require only 85 tons of metal."

SHOT AT RANDOM

By KEN USHER

Here's wishing each and every one of you a very Merry Christmas!

As this—our second wartime Christmas—approaches, many inconveniences disturb our daily life. There are shortages, rationing and priorities, it's true. There's also a definite shortage of "peace on earth"—thanks to Hitler, Hirohito and Mussolini. But as far as we know, there is no rationing of good will and friendship, the most cherished gifts of the Christmas season, nor is there likely to be any priority needed for kindliness, unselfishness and the desire to share with the unfortunate. Essentially, the spirit of Christmas is the same this year as it always has been and always will be. So let us all, then, wish for as much happiness as our hearts can bestow on this Christmas day and every other day.

A year ago this corresponding week, this writer expressed a wish for snow so that Christmas would be perfect for the kiddies. There is no need for such a wish this year as there is plenty of snow and, as a matter of record, Lake Charlevoix froze over Saturday night to become ice-locked in December for the first time in quite a few years.

Uncle Josh, in his "Well By Heck" column, says: "The difference between a W-A-V-E and a W-A-A-C is that a Wave is a commotion in the water and a Waac is a commotion anywhere."

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Thursday (Dec. 31) marks completion of our first year of World War II.

The news parade of 1942 in Michigan might be summed up as follows:

Pearl Harbor angered us; Singapore shocked us. We tightened our belts in preparation for hardships. We witnessed the gradual conversion of Michigan automobile plants to war production. We waved goodbye to more Michigan boys in 1942 than the total of those who were called to service during World War I. Mother and Dad took to Red Cross training, air raid duty.

Our farms blessed us with bounteful harvests.

The summer tourist season, contrary to fears, proved to be surprisingly good in the lower peninsula, only fair in the upper peninsula.

Retailers struggled with price ceilings; consumers stood in lines for sugar coupons.

Michigan's political campaign, near eclipsed by war interest, was tame. Harry F. Kelly, secretary of state, was unopposed for Republican nomination for governor. The pendulum swung in November, and Democrats Prentiss M. Brown and Murray D. Van Wagoner were swept out of office in a Republican landslide.

History consists of events foreseen and unforeseen.

Few events of 1942 were as startling, in retrospect, as the stopping of the automobile assembly line and manufacture of passenger cars and trucks and a hurried conversion to all-out war production.

That, above all, "would not happen"—so we had been assured by authority of Alfred Sloan, chairman of the General Motors Corporation. Mr. Sloan had said that war requirements could be met by the automobile companies as an additional load on their civilian output. But don't criticize Mr. Sloan. Like most of us, he guessed badly—that's all.

UNHAPPY TAXPAYERS

What makes the taxpayer poor? Just now, perhaps, the demands of the war which must be met lest a worse thing than mere financial inconvenience befall all Americans. In the long run, however, the taxpayer's troubles have been due mainly to the existence of unnecessary and overlapping units of government.

With but 48 states there are no fewer than 165,000 governmental bodies in the United States. These include counties (and parishes, as in Louisiana), incorporated cities and villages, towns and townships, and school districts, besides 8,382 special districts, like those established to look after roads, bridges and housing. The figures are compiled, through 1941, by Prof. William Anderson of the University of Minnesota.

What happens is that every citizen is a member of at least three, often more, of these governmental units. All have officials, and all are supported by taxes. In many cases they entirely overlap, as in Massachusetts, where Boston and Suffolk county cover exactly the same territory with two sets of officials. One could be abolished with great advantage to the taxpayer.

That is where his money goes. The one encouraging feature is that 10 years ago the situation was worse. There were then 175,000 units instead of 165,000. But much more than this must be done before there is real relief for the payer of taxes.

"GOOD WILL"

(By Rev. Donald R. Evans)

Once a year we repeat the words: "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men." If we can say these words once a year, why not every day during the year? And as we say them, why not mean them?

"Good will toward men" is too often merely a phrase out of the Bible, to be read and heard, but not taken too seriously. We forget that good will is something to be practiced daily toward our neighbors and our business associates. With uncertainty and sorrow pressing closer upon us, we tend to become preoccupied with our own troubles. But the people around us have troubles, too, and they need our sympathy and understanding. Now, when our nerves are often tense and "jittery", we need more than ever before to practice good will toward one another.

"Peace" is a word commonly used around Christmas time. We still talk about it this year, only today it has a different meaning. No longer is peace something we carelessly take for granted; now it is a burning wish and hope. In the midst of war there still is peace—in the vision of mankind. Christianity is the bridge between the horrible realities of war and our hopes for permanent peace. Without Christianity, our hopes for a better world become mere illusions. There is truth and strength in the Christmas spirit, as well as cheer. It was never more needed than now.

RESTRICTED BOATS

The country is getting used to the idea of gasoline rationing to save rubber. Over and over, the assurance comes that there is no gasoline shortage, but that limitation on its use is the only practical way to enforce economy of tires.

In view of this, the new restriction on the use of gasoline for power boats comes as a surprise. Inboard motor boats may have two gallons for each horse power, or not more than 125 gallons altogether. Outboard motors receive two and one-half gallons per horse power, or not more than 20 gallons altogether. This is the ruling of the Office of Price Administration. Water sportsmen begin to ask whether power boats are supposed to run on tires.

Power boat users are not a large part of the population. They have been indulging in what they thought an amusement that would not interfere with the war effort. If it does, the matter should be explained to them.—Petoskey Evening News.

CURE FOR SPEEDING

A new way has been found to punish speeders and other practitioners of careless driving. Take away their gasoline rationing books, and you have the answer. Some judges in large cities are adopting this method of repressing abuses of a wartime privilege, and finding the public behind them.

In the past, vigorous enforcements of traffic laws has sometimes been dangerous politically, but not now. People selfish enough to trifle with the special favors they receive at other person's expense will get very little public support when they protest their punishment.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY SENDS GIFTS TO ALL EMPLOYES IN SERVICE

This Christmas in Africa, on the Pacific, in the United States or wherever else they may be, the almost 2,000 men and women employes of Standard Oil Company of Indiana in the armed forces will be remembered for their loyal service to their country now, and to their Company in the past.

The remembrance will be a Christmas package from the Company. Men will receive cigarettes, cakes, butter cookies, nougats, shaving cream, razor blades, tooth powder, and a tooth brush, while women will get the same gift except there will be a substitution for shaving cream and razor blades.

In the Christmas package to employees is a greeting card reading: "To men and women who have gone from service with Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to service with the armed forces, the directors of the Company send Christmas greetings and best wishes for the New Year."

ASK XMAS GREETING CALLS BE ELIMINATED

Michigan Bell Makes Unusual Request to Patrons

If you're the type who always long distances "Aunt Nellie" on Christmas, take it from the telephone company—don't do it this year. She might think it's unpatriotic.

The Michigan Bell Telephone Company, in urging the general public to restrain its long distance greetings impulse this Christmas, pointed that a similar plea is being made throughout the nation-wide Bell system. It's all because war calls must go through promptly on Christmas, just as on any other day.

"By now," said C. L. Johnson, manager for the company, "the necessity for keeping telephone lines adequately clear for war calls is pretty well known all over the country. For that reason, the long distance Christmas greeting may not meet with the appreciative response in these war times that always greets the ringing of the telephone bell during peacetime."

It's the first time in history that the company has urged users to refrain from making long distance calls on Christmas. The request is particularly urgent on "long-haul" calls and those beyond the borders of the state, the company said.

Included among the war calls will be thousands from men in the service to their families. For best results, the company said such calls should originate with the men themselves. Others with urgent calls to make are asked to call by number and to keep their calls brief.

CHRISTMAS IN CITY CHURCHES

Thursday at the church night supper. Rev. L. H. Hagle will hold a midnight service on Christmas eve, beginning at 11:30 p. m. Special music is to be presented by the youth's choir, directed by Miss Ernestine Chew.

Congregational Sunday school classes are giving their program at the church at 7:30 Wednesday evening, under direction of Mrs. Alfred Brow and Mrs. F. R. Bulow. A candlelight service is to begin at 11 o'clock Christmas eve, Rev. Donald Evans has announced. The mixed choir will sing an anthem, and carols will be sung by the congregation.

High mass will begin at midnight Christmas eve at St. Mary's church, to be preceded by a half-hour of carol singing by the congregation. On Christmas day, low mass will be at 8:30 a. m.

There will be a Christmas communion at the Episcopal church on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at which Rev. William C. Warner, of Grace Episcopal church at Traverse City, will officiate.

BOOKS, APPLES ARE NEED OF USO CENTER

Bookcase Provided In Answer to Courier's Request

Answering an appeal made by the Charlevoix Service Organization through this newspaper, a bookcase has been provided for the local USO service men's center. Books to fill the shelves are now needed.

Current fiction, late scientific books, humorous and mystery stories and many other types of books can be used. Persons who have books to contribute may call any member of the CSO committee.

Donations of apples for eating would be most welcome, stated CSO chairman Ralph Hamilton, appealing to rural residents of this vicinity who would like to aid the center.

CHRISTMAS EVE. In the entrance drive of a huge apartment building, Shorty Cavendish huddled in a vain attempt to protect himself from the cold. His normally genial face was pinched and drawn, and his roly-poly body shuddered as the wind bit through his pitifully inadequate clothing.

Shorty was broke. For six weeks now he had been tramping the streets, hoping and praying to find a job. Only the day before he had been turned out of his rooming house, his clothing and other possessions confiscated by a sharp-tongued landlady.

Yet what bothered him even more was the gnawing emptiness in the pit of his stomach.

It was then his attention turned to the two men on the corner. For some time they had stood regarding him, the younger man sometimes gesturing his way, the older one shaking his head. Shorty shrugged. Maybe they were plainclothes officers. Anyway, he was going to hit them for a dime.

He approached the men. "Do you happen to have an extra dime, Mister?"

The older man reached into his pocket, drew forth a bill and handed it to Shorty with a smile. "Merry Christmas," he said, then turned away.

Shorty stared at the bill, his heart in his throat. Five dollars. The man must have made a mistake. But when he looked up his benefactor had melted into the crowd.

Shorty remained undecided for a moment, then turned and walked as swiftly as his half-frozen feet would permit toward the restaurant. Through his mind were racing wonderful dreams.

He merged with the crowd in front of a toy shop, felt himself jammed tightly against the display window. A small boy and girl stood beside him, their noses pressed to the cold pane, staring in mingled awe and anticipation at the big red wagon on display. Then he noticed the woman who stood behind them.

Pressed the precious five-dollar bill into her hand.

She was shabbily dressed, and on her face was a look of despair.

The little girl glanced back, eyes shining. "Do you think Santa will bring us that wagon, Mama?" she asked. "That's all Jimmy and I want. Just that wagon."

The woman tried to smile. "I'm afraid not, darling."

Shorty suddenly realized that he was free to go on. Still he hesitated.

"But, Muma," the boy pleaded, "we wrote to him. We told him where we live now . . ."

Shorty stepped forward impulsively. "Pardon me, Madam," he murmured, pressed the precious five-dollar bill into her hand, and walked quickly away. Not, however, before he heard her gasp of delight.

He stood on the curb, unaware of the freezing wind, as happy as he had ever been in his life. Tonight he would sleep in the city jail a common tramp. But tonight he had done something of which he would always be proud.

A hand settled on his shoulder. He turned, recognized the gray-haired man who had given him the money. For an instant Shorty was frightened.

"I'm sorry, sir," he said. "I wanted to tell you of your error right away, but you left before I could. I haven't the money now."

The man smiled. "Don't worry over that," he said quietly. "It wasn't an error."

"Then, what . . . ?"

"My companion and I made you the subject of a wager," the man explained. "He claimed the first thing you would buy if you put your hands on some money would be a bottle of liquor. I disagreed. After we saw what you did do with it, we couldn't just walk away." His eyes played briefly over Shorty's fat little figure, and he cleared his throat. "Our lodge is giving a party tonight for some children from the Clearview Orphanage. We need a man to act as Santa Claus, and if you don't mind my saying so, you'd take the part splendidly. After that we could arrange to give you a job as assistant janitor at our hall. Would you be interested?"

"Interested?" Shorty choked. "Mister," he said slowly, "you've just offered me a ticket to heaven."

TAYLOR-BELYUSAR VOWS WERE SPOKEN SATURDAY AT CHICAGO

At a ceremony solemnized at four o'clock Saturday, December 19, in the Lutheran church at Chicago, Miss Lucille Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Taylor, of this city, became the bride of George Belyusar, coxswain's mate, U. S. coast guard, of Struthers, O.

Rev. A. Martin Alander read the service in the presence of a few relatives and close friends. Mrs. Betty Geera and Emil Geera, of Chicago, were their attendants.

The bride wore a light beige flannel suit with light brown accessories. She had red roses in her hair, and a corsage of tea roses. Her attendant wore a white knitted suit, and also had roses in her hair. Her corsage was of violets.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the groom's sister in Chicago. The twenty guests were served buffet refreshments from a table set in red and white, upon which was a large white wedding cake. Topping the cake was a figurine of a sailor in uniform.

The bride is a graduate of Charlevoix high school, class of 1941. She has been employed in Chicago for several months.

Mr. and Mrs. Belyusar are residing at 2911 Arthur avenue, Chicago.

Midnight Mass Thursday

High mass will begin at midnight on Christmas eve at St. Mary's church. A half hour of carol singing by the congregation will precede mass, beginning at 11:30.

CHRISTMAS PROGRAM BY GRADE STUDENTS

Kiwanis Presented Dimes Friday for Annual Treat

An unusual Christmas program was presented last Thursday evening by children of the kindergarten and first six grades of Charlevoix public school, assembling before the Roll of Honor signboard in Memorial Park to sing carols in tribute to those who have gone from this school and community to the nation's armed forces. A sizable crowd was present.

Rev. W. L. Cruthers gave the benediction and told the story of Christmas. Selections by a brass quartette opened the program, which was arranged by Mrs. Esther Hawley, Miss Frances Milner and Max Smith.

The original plan for giving credit tickets to the children at this program, as their annual "treat" from the Kiwanis club, was changed instead to presentation of a dime to each child of the public and parochial schools during school hours on Friday.

POWER SQUADRON TO OPEN NEW CLASSES

Organization for Winter Series Scheduled January 7

Attention is again called to the Charlevoix Power Squadron winter classes in piloting and seamanship, due to start January 14.

While splendid response was received from the initial announcement last week, James Bellinger, commander, stated more persons were wanted for this elementary training and asked that the announcement of the organization meeting scheduled the evening of January 7 in the commercial room of the high school building be repeated.

The course, of value to all boat owners and operators, and open to all, is especially good training for men planning to enter any branch of marine service.

TEN ACCEPTED FOR MILITARY SERVICE

County Group Is Inducted at Kalamazoo Tuesday

Ten Charlevoix county men were accepted for military service and inducted into the army at Kalamazoo Tuesday. They have returned home for two weeks' furlough, and date of reporting to Fort Custer will be announced later.

Those passing physical examination were: Donald W. Stevens, Arthur E. Emmons, Elmer W. Gibson, Edward C. Heise, Charlevoix; Burl C. Walker, Ward W. Carnoll, East Jordan; William J. Vrondran, Ezra A. Cross, Glenn S. Gilmore, Oren F. Small, Boyne City.

SKATING RINK AWAITS FAVORABLE WEATHER

Foundation Begun But Halted by Thaw and Heavy Snowfall

Tuesday's heavy snowfall and subsequent thaw halted construction of the municipal skating rink at the school grounds.

Clearing and scraping began last week and an ice foundation was started but is not yet thick enough to allow skating. A thick blanket of heavy, wet snow had to be removed before work could proceed.

Provided through cooperation of the city council and board of education, the rink this year is in charge of Sims Baker.

CORRESPONDENCE

IRONTON

We extend happy holiday greeting to you all.

Mrs. Lewis Brown is convalescing at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lewis Peterson, in East Jordan.

Last Thursday afternoon twenty local ladies enjoyed a Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Ross Alexander. Decorations were in keeping with the holiday season. Everyone was very much surprised when Santa Claus arrived to distribute the gifts each one had brought, of their own hand work. Refreshments were served, with tiny cakes decorated with red and green candles. Mrs. Sam King assisted as hostess to the guests.

Monday evening a large attendance enjoyed the school program at the church. Bibles and books were given the honorary Sunday school members. Santa Claus also arrived in his usual jovial manner, making all the little folks happy. The usual gifts of toys and clothing were given each one, parents and friends also being remembered. This party is made possible by Mrs. Robert Stuart, of Chicago, with George R. Hemingway giving a lovely tree. Each one in the community had some work to do to make this annual party a success—and it is appreciated by each one of us.

Mrs. Georga Wood and mother, Mrs. Carson, left Tuesday to spend the holiday vacation in Detroit with relatives.

The lake is freezing over and will soon be safe enough to walk on.

Virginia Hemingway is spending her vacation with her father, Geo. Hemingway, at the Dilworth Hotel in Boyne City.

SENIOR DANCE AT GYMNASIUM TONITE

Service Men to Be Admitted Free to Christmas Party

The senior class of Charlevoix high school is sponsoring a Christmas dance tonight (Wednesday) at the gymnasium. Dancing to the music of Baird's orchestra, of Petoskey, will begin at 9 o'clock and continue until 1 o'clock.

Wanda Adams is general chairman of the event, L. G. Fisher is head of the decorating committee and Audia Jean Trimble chairman of the music committee.

The public is cordially invited to attend the party. Service men will be admitted free.

USO CENTER DANCE IS SATURDAY NIGHT

Service Men Are Guests of Local Committee In Charge

Tickets are on sale this week for the Christmas benefit dance to be given Saturday night at the local USO center, by the USO committee.

The general public is invited to attend, and service men in the city will be admitted free of charge. Novotny's orchestra has been engaged to furnish music.

Proceeds of the party will be used for operating expenses of the center.

Emrey's Store Damaged

Fire caused by a short circuit in an electric sign above the display window did slight damage to the front of Chas. Emrey's store early Sunday morning. Discovered by Patrolman Joe Smith, Jr., at about three o'clock, the blaze destroyed the store awning and scorched woodwork above the windows. Articles in the windows suffered some water dagomo as the fire was extinguished by Fire Chief Charles Marshall.

Fire Burns Cheboygan Gym

The high school gymnasium at Cheboygan was destroyed by fire Wednesday with an estimated loss of $20,000. Athletic equipment, including football and basketball uniforms, was destroyed. The brick veneer building, known as the Thompson gymnasium, was used as an armory before the board of education bought it in 1026.

Kiwanis Meeting Tuesday

Rev. W. D. Wood, new pastor of the Church of God, was speaker at the Kiwanis Club meeting Tuesday night. His theme was the Christmas story. Members and guests joined in singing traditional carols.

Lumber Camps Boom Again

After a strenuous day in the woods, card tricks in the bunkhouse appeal to these Luce county loggers as much as they did to the oldtimers who harvested Michigan's pine. Instead of pine, the lumberjacks are now cutting hardwoods such as birch for plastic airplane veneers. Theirs is the big job of meeting the nation's war demands for timber products

THE Secret OF THE MARSHBANKS

CHAPTER X

"Mother, I didn't know Miss Rawlings was here! How do you do? Are you hungry? What could I offer you?" said George Pringle.

"How were you ex-es?" asked the mother.

"Repulsive," said Rebecca Pringle calmly. Cherry laughed and Rebecca smiled at Cherry and they immediately liked each other. "It was all stuff he'd never dreamed of mentioning to us before," said Rebecca. "But I think I hit some of it. You've been up to school?" she asked the visitor. "You haven't? Then I'll tell you what we'll do; we'll take a run up there now, and I'll show you 'round—"

"Oh, but you're tired! I wouldn't think—"

"I'd love it," Rebecca, whose manner was goddesslike in its serenities, said pleasantly. She and Cherry went out to a battered open two-seater at the gate and were immediately engulfed in a town full of small cars from which students dangled hilariously.

The college buildings were set in long cloisters and flower-edged lanes. When they stopped at the co-operative store, boys swarmed about the car and Rebecca introduced them, and Cherry could talk of classes she wanted to visit and of coaching in a group that was thoroughly absorbed in the same interests.

Altogether when they went back to the Pringle house and sat on the steps in real small-town fashion, Cherry was half intoxicated with happiness and anticipation, and felt that of all the changing phases of her life this one promised her the most contentment and the most to which to look forward.

She had telephoned Kelly only once in her life; she thought she might telephone him legitimately tonight, making an appointment to tell him of her good fortune. Although she put in the call immediately upon reaching home and waited for it until ten o'clock, the number was reported as not answering, and somewhat chilled, she abandoned the idea.

However, two weeks later when Easter vacations were over and she was conscientiously visiting classes, and studying dutifully with a coach who had been recommended, she had a telegram from him that sent her spirits to the skies.

"Coming home from Carmel Sunday morning. Can I pick you up for picnic at Topeonte at about ten? Love, Kelly," read the message. Cherry could not answer it but she was ready and waiting when he stopped the battered old car at the gate, and when she settled herself beside him she would not have changed places with any woman in the world.

"Goody!" she said.

"Why 'goody?' "

"Because you're alone."

"Who'd you think I was bringing?"

"No one special. But it's more fun to be alone."

"I've been a little too much alone," he said. "I came down for the Rasmussen wedding, and then went on to Carmel and painted cypresses and rocks."

"When—" She felt a prick of sick premonition. "When was the Rasmussen wedding?" she asked, with a slight quiver in her voice.

"Two weeks ago—two weeks ago Wednesday. Alice Rasmussen is the closest friend I have, you know. She's a peach. It was a small home affair; no fuss. Her brother must be fifty and the bride looked about that, and Stan wanted me for his best man. So I stayed there a couple of days—I was bluer than indigo anyway—and then went on down to Carmel."

"Then you saw Fran," Cherry stated rather than asked, with the bright day going dark about her.

"Fran?" His amazed eyes gave her a side glance. "How d'you mean?"

"She brought me down to the Pringles' to make arrangements and things. That was on Thursday, two weeks ago."

"I didn't know Fran was there!" He was honestly astonished. "Did she come to see Alice Rasmussen?"

"Well, maybe she didn't." Again Cherry must stand corrected about Fran. Instantly the solution occurred to her. Fran had learned in some way that Kelly was there, that by an extraordinary accident he was the Rasmussens' guest. And she had determined to avoid him.

Perhaps she had made her other call first and someone there had happened to mention him. Whatever she had done, Cherry knew she could believe Kelly now, for his consternation at the thought of her leaving been so near and his having guessed her was unmistakably genuine.

This might be her chance to speak to him of Fran.

"Maybe she didn't want to see you, Kelly. Maybe she thought it would be no use," she offered timidly.

"I haven't any illusions as to its being any use, if by 'it' you mean my feeling for her," he answered decisively, almost savagely, and there was a silence. After a moment or two he said that he was sorry to be so rude, and they talked by rather awkward degrees of other things until they were at ease again.

But the morning's gala mood was hard to recapture, and Cherry felt something lacking in the beginning of the day. The bridge and the Sausalito hills were wreathed and buried in fog; the picnic turned itself into a house party. Three or four friends had been asked to lunch with Kelly, all bringing picnic contributions far more suited to the woods or the beach than to the living room.

Cherry's cheeks glowed; more than once the others smiled to hear her ringing laughter.

"Oh, Kelly," she said ingenuously when they were back beside the fire again, "it's such glorious fun here! Why can't we all stay here always!"

"All right by me," Kelly said, busy with drinks.

"It seems so horrible to go out again into the fog!"

"We'll give you girls the bedroom," Kelly arranged it, "and we can go over to the studio and bunk there."

"Oh, no!" Cherry turned a fire-flushed face toward the room. "I was only fooling. I have to be at Judge Marshbanks' for dinner."

"We have to go. We'll take you over," said little Mrs. Wilcox.

"No I'm responsible," Kelly told them. "I brought her here and I'll see that she gets back safely."

Cherry leaned against the rough homespun shoulder of Kelly's coat and listened dreamily although this talk was mostly about Fran.

She was deliciously tired after the long day in the open air. She thought how she loved him, and how proud she would be to belong here, in the front seat of his car, resting against him.

They reached the Marshbanks house only too soon for her, and she said good night and ran up the steps.

Cherry found a comfortable robe, slippers and a nightgown laid out for her. She was anticipating the comfort of an hour's rest and reading before Amy arrived when there was a knock at her door.

A little puzzled, she said "Come in," her heart leaping with irrational terror when the invitation was accepted by old Mrs. Marshbanks, the formidable woman who was her grandmother and Amy's.

"I hoped I'd find you alone, Miss Rawlings. I wanted to speak to you," Dora Marshbanks said. She advanced to a deep chair, seated herself and by a slight inclination of her head indicated that Cherry was also to be seated.

"I don't know whether you know," the older woman began, with a steady look, "how definitely I object to your presence in this house. You should know, for I've asked my son to speak to you of it but I have no idea that he has carried out my wishes up to this time."

For a few seconds the words did not seem to make sense to Cherry; their shocking import reached her, in all its deadly simplicity and she felt her throat thicken and her hands grow cold.

"Or has he done so?" demanded Mrs. Marshbanks.

"He—he—No," was all Cherry could feebly stammer.

"I thought he hadn't. I thought even the least sensitive person would hardly come here after any suggestion from him. I am no longer the mistress of this house," said the old lady, in a sort of cold passion, "but I am not a cipher yet! I am asking you civilly not to make it a habit to come here."

Cherry sat staring at her in a fascinated horror of silence.

"You know your own history," said the inflexible voice. "You know why your presence here is an—an insult to decency and to me. I bitterly regret the—circumstances that have given you what you seem to consider a right to regard yourself as a daughter of the house!"

"I am a daughter of the house!" Cherry answered, her own words surprising her as much as they could possibly have surprised her companion.

"How dare you say that!" Mrs. Marshbanks said sharply. "You have absolutely no claim. You have been well established in life; you are being cared for now. Be careful that you don't lose even what you have!"

"I am not afraid of losing it, and I am not afraid of you!" said Cherry, at white heat. "I will come to this house as long as Amy and Fran and the judge want me! I wish you would go out of my room! I am sorry that any blood of yours runs in my veins!"

"And you think you can go on with your college work, be asked about in good society, once your history is known?" the older woman demanded, rising. "You think that Amy will continue to think you the most charming friend in the world once she knows that you are her half sister, that you are the living reminder of her father's weakness and immorality. I think you won't risk that. I think you'll realize that only you can keep your own people from being disgraced in the eyes of the world. Your own father and your mother too, you know."

"Your own son!" cried Cherry.

"What about Fran's own son?" Amy asked, coming in from her room, tired and cold and blown after her long ride. "What's Uncle Jud done? Why, what's . . ." She looked in amazement and concern from one face to the other. "What is it?" she asked. "What were you saying about Uncle Jud?"

There was a silence while the three looked at one another. It seemed to Cherry to last for a long, long time.

"There we stood like statues," Cherry said, telling Kelly about it a few weeks later, "until I thought we must all be frozen! Amy knew something was horribly wrong, and she kept asking 'What is it? What is it?' and old Mrs. Marshbanks was sort of panting, and she wouldn't say anything, and I couldn't. And finally Amy said: 'I know it's about uncle, because I heard Cherry say so!' "

"You hadn't said so?" Kelly was lying face down in the fresh, deep grass now, biting a blade thoughtfully; he looked up at her. The sun was sinking. Below the hill where Cherry and Kelly were sitting were the lake and the college buildings and beyond them the roofs of Palo Alto.

"No, I hadn't said a word about the judge, but I had said 'your son' and Amy heard that!" Cherry answered. "That's the whole trouble! That old fiend—that old inquisitioner—had told me that if I didn't break off my friendship with Amy, she'd tell everyone who I was—who I am, and I said that would mean her son was in it too!"

"You meant that wouldn't help her family reputation much?" Kelly asked, with a faint smile.

Letters to Santa Claus

Letters to Santa Claus ....

Dear Santa,

I never had a doll, but I am writing you a letter to tell you I would like one, and if you have any two feet tall dolls, I would like just one. If you haven't one like that, I don't care what size it is, just as long as there is clothes for it.

Your friend,
Dorothy Feltenbarger.

Dear Santa,

I am a little girl seven and my brother, Earl, is five. I would like a table and chairs. My brother wants a train.

Christmas in the FIVE and TEN

By HELEN EDWARDS

MARY'S feet throbbed. Her knees wanted to buckle beneath the weight of her slim young body.

"Fifteen minutes more!"

She saw Mr Adams, the cross-looking floorwalker, frowning in her direction and she hastened to tidy her counter. Clerking in the five and ten, she decided, wasn't such a bad job—except during the Christmas rush.

A shabbily dressed old woman stood across the aisle looking wistfully at a display of curly-haired dolls on Mary's counter. The faded blue eyes were making an effort to read the price tag.

"May I help you, madam?" Mary asked. The woman looked up guiltily, then her fingers fumbled nervously at her shabby black purse.

"I—ah—I—no, I don't guess so." The woman turned and almost ran from the store. At the door, however, she turned and slowly retraced her steps to the counter. "How much for that yellow-haired doll, miss?"

"Twenty-nine cents. Shall I wrap it in our gift pack? That will be ten cents extra."

"N—no, I'll come back later. Not tonight, please."

As Mary nodded her head the woman's shoulders seemed to sag lower, and she trudged slowly toward the door.

Mary's thoughts kept returning to the wizened old lady as her tired feet dragged through a long Wednesday and a longer Thursday. As she left the store Thursday night she was almost happy, reflecting that there would be but one more day of the Christmas rush.

A timid hand clutched at her arm. Mary recognized her near-customer of the preceding week, and smiled encouragingly.

"N-no, I'll come back later."

"That doll, miss—" she seemed momentarily at a loss for words—"it—is it sold yet?"

"No, we have a few left. Do you want me to save one for you?"

"If you could?"

Mary nodded and the woman hurried away.

Mary selected an especially nice doll the next morning and laid it carefully beneath the counter. Then she watched, between spurts of last minute shoppers, for the timid old lady. At noon the doll still rested beneath the counter. At six it was still unclaimed. When Mary sold her last remaining doll a few moments before nine, she reached for the hidden one.

"I'll give her a few minutes more," she decided. "If I put it out it will go almost as soon as anyone sees it."

At last she appeared, breathless as if from running. She gazed along the counter and stark despair was written in every line of her face.

"Am I too late? Are they sold?"

"No, I saved one for you, madam."

"How much did you say it would cost?" The old woman was fumbling in her purse while Mary wrapped the doll. "Twenty-five cents, wasn't it? I think I have that much."

Shaking fingers reached into the shabby purse and fumbled into every crease and corner of its flat interior. Two dimes and a penny appeared, and then two more coppers. The woman's face turned white, and the fingers continued to search frantically. Finally they reappeared clutching two additional copper coins.

"But," Mary began, "it costs—" a picture of some tiny waif waiting for just such a doll flashed through Mary's mind. Mary turned to the woman and held it out to her.

As she did so she saw Mr. Adams bearing down upon her, his mast ferocious frown upon his face. Now she was in for it! Maybe she would be fired. And for four cents? Well, it had been worth it.

"Will you say 'Merry Christmas' to the little one for me?" she whispered.

A muffled cough at her side told her that Mr. Adams had arrived.

"I saw what you did, Mary, and—"

"But, Mr. Adams, I intended to repay the company from my own purse."

"I know—I know. I'd have done it myself if you hadn't. Merry Christmas, Mary."

MICHIGAN COUNCIL OF DEFENSE
Michigan War Week

More Difficulty Seen in Getting 1943 Scrap Quota

The scrap salvage campaign will continue into 1943 with prospects that although next year's estimated requirements are less, the job of meeting them will be much harder, according to a report submitted by the salvage committee of the Michigan Council of Defense.

The scrap metal quota in 1943 is placed at 24,000,000 tons for the nation, as compared with 31,000,000 tons in 1942. The reduction is due to larger inventories of scrap on hand at the mills and the fact they will be able to supplement this by the production of pig and "sponge iron", or artificial scrap.

Increased difficulty in obtaining scrap salvage is expected because the accumulation of household and farm scrap may be regarded as cleaned up unless, the committee says, "we dig deeper". Industrial salvage is also not as great in the manufacture of war weapons as in peace time consumer production, while such battle scrap as is returned to this country cannot be depended upon as a constant source of supply.

The campaign for the collection of metals, including tin and copper, must be intensified, the committee believes.

Indications are that Michigan's objective of 1,101,000 tons of scrap for the last six months of this year will be reached, as the state has been exceeding its quota of 184,000 tons a month.

Schools Already Doing Job

"Victory Corps," such as requested by the Federal Office of Education, have been organized in only a few Michigan secondary schools because "We were already doing the job", Eugene B. Elliott, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, told the Michigan Council of Defense at its December meeting. Under Defense Council auspices, this mobilization of youth for scrap drives, bond sales, and other forms of civilian participation in the war effort had already been accomplished through the formation of high school defense councils.

Copyright Difficulties

With the blessing of the Michigan Council of Defense, Dr. Joseph E. Maddy, of Interlochen, chairman of its Wartime Music committee, will continue his fight to overcome copyright difficulties in the distribution of song sheets containing a collection of 25 American patriotic songs. Copyright owners have refused an offer of a cent a sheet for three numbers, the Crisson song, Semper Paratus and the Army Air Corps, representing three branches of the service—the Artillery, the Coast Guard and the Air Corps. Maddy believes official songs of the military services should be part of the public domain in music literature and he threatens to take his case to Congress.

THE HOME FRONT IN MICHIGAN

Now is the time for Michigan motorists to get that tire inspection which is essential to the rubber conservation program. Motorists throughout the country must complete the record of their first tire inspection by Jan. 31 and owners of commercial vehicles must be ready for tire inspection by Jan. 15. Don't delay—there'll probably be a last minute rush.

If we are going to meet next year's war schedules, the War Manpower commission estimates that 70 per cent of all persons in the United States between the ages of 15 and 65 will be employed or in military service.

The year 1943 will see far-reaching changes in buying and budgeting habits. Before spring, the "point" method of rationing scarce products will be in full swing. Michigan families then must decide whether to use up more points of their Ration Book No. 2 by purchasing scarcer articles or use less points by buying more plentiful ones. Incidentally, the final date for obtaining Ration Book No. 1 has been postponed to Jan. 15.

Here's good news for mother—or should we say father—who is running short of rubber panties for baby. It looked for awhile as though the rubber shortage spelled the end of rubber panties for baby but this problem has been solved by the introduction of several plastics, synthetic resins and other compounds which are now being used as coatings on ordinary cotton fabrics to make them water proof.

Speaking of clothing, Michigan women won't have to pay any more for next spring's clothes than they paid last spring, according to the Office of Price Administration. And there'll be no shortage of men's victory suits in 1943 nor will they be any skimpier than they are now.

Save your matches, the War Production board urges. Increased requirements for our armed forces, as well as the necessity for exporting matches to countries where they are scarce, means that plain John Q. Citizen should borrow a light from a neighbor when he can and put up with groping in the dark while looking for the light switch.

If you fish for sport, don't waste any of your catch—see that it is used for food by someone. This is the message voiced by the Fish and Wildlife Service, Department of the Interior. Food is becoming as important as bullets in the war program.

Some Michigan lumbermen who need laced rubber boots (packs) are now eligible for rationing certificates authorizing the purchase of this type of footwear. They are available for lumbermen who work in the woods and engage in felling, cutting, topping, hauling or similar activities that require this protection.

The 1942 iron ore movement on the Great Lakes has exceeded the WPB's goal of 91,500,000 tons by 577,000 tons. The last ore carrier has cleared the upper lakes with the cargo which will bring the season's total to 92,077,000 tons. This is a 14.9 per cent increase above the previous record high of 80,116,000 tons established last year.

DOTS and DASHES: Sugar stamp No. 10 will be good for three pounds of sugar until January 31. . . production of film for camera enthusiasts — both snap shot fans and moving picture amateurs—has been cut 50 per cent below the 1941 output. . . members of . "share-the-ride"- groups will not be subject to insurance liability for carrying passengers. . . . consumers of sugar and coffee who eat 14 or more meals a week at the same boarding house or restaurant must give up their Ration Book No. 1 to the proprietors but they will get them back temporarily to secure Ration Book No. 2 . . . an instrument has been developed that will make it possible for blind persons to make precision inspections of certain machine products. . . a candy company is making a former waste product — coconut shells — useful by burning them into coconut char which is used in gas masks. . . . President Roosevelt told Congress that American forces overseas will number more than one million by the end of this month. . . members of the WAAC may soon be doing parachute rigging, bombsight repairing, weather observing and glider instructing at the request of the Army Air Corps. . . 165 Red Cross chapters throughout the nation will establish recruiting stations to sign up nurses for the armed forces. . . the office of Defense Transportation wants everybody to abandon meetings and conventions that will not contribute to the winning of the war.

USE SAUERKRAUT AS WINTER DISH

Some like it hot, some like it cold. Either way, sauerkraut is one of our best food crops, rich in vitamins and minerals, nutrition specialists at Michigan State college affirm.

Because of the tin shortage packers have put millions of gallons of kraut into barrels, and with the large cabbage crop of the 1942 season, there is ample supply of this hearty food. The nutrition specialists give some good tips on preparing sauerkraut.

Famous teams are sauerkraut and spareribs, kraut and sausage, or kraut and pigs' knuckles. One of the most popular combinations, they say, is kraut boiled with spareribs, with dumplings steamed on top of the kraut. Other combinations are diced apples and kraut browned together, or kraut and liver, or kraut and fish. To some, roast goose is incomplete without a companion dish of kraut.

Sauerkraut juice, chilled, makes a good first course. Some prefer it straight; others with a little lemon juice, or it may be mixed half and half with tomato juice.

There is more than one way to cook and season sauerkraut itself. When you eat savory sauerkraut, as it's sometimes called, you are having the Norwegian style. It's done quickly this way: Lightly brown 1-4 cup or less of fat in a skillet and add 1 quart of sauerkraut and 1-4 teaspoon of celery or caraway seed. Mix well, separating the kraut with a fork. Cover and cook for 5 minutes, and serve hot. You give the kraut a Pennsylvania dutch touch when you add onion, apple, and a chopped potato.

LANSING LETTER

Remember how we were stunned and then angered by the Japanese treachery at Pearl Harbor, while their diplomats acted as if they were seeking peace?

And didn't the radio commentator tell us that an American admiral had said we Americans could lick the dirty Japs "any Thursday morning"?

Of course, we thought, it would be a mere sideshow to the Nazi cleanup.

Then came Singapore; the march of Japs down the Malaya rubber plantations to that "impregnable" British fortress of the Orient.

Michigan and Malaya were linked in economic significance. Rubber tires! And that carried us back to the horse-and-buggy customs of grandfather's day—all because of Singapore in 1942.

Michigan newspapers carried news items daily of the sinking of American freighters and tankers off the Atlantic coast, victims of enemy submarines.

Next came a shortage of sugar. Sugar and tire rationing were introduced in April. Pontiac experimented with the "car club" idea for sharing transportation. On May 18 came another step in war regimentation, the arrival of price ceilings on thousands upon thousands of articles of merchandise.

Retailers struggled with questionnaires and reports. They were apprehensive of Washington snoopers and consumer retalistion. Many citizens had misgivings that social reform, not anti-inflation, was the goal of the national planners.

Newspapers began to shrink slowly in size, as automobile and tire and radio advertising dropped to a mere dribble.

Simultaneously, people, hungry for information about the war and civilian defense preparations, bought more newspapers than ever before.

Editors looked to England, read with avid interest that survival of the press had been achieved through circulation revenue, that subscription rates had been raised again and again, while copies of papers were rationed to readers. The British demanded independent news and views, and the press had come through its greatest crisis.

As selective service began draining workers from business, industry and farms, a new problem arose. It was called "manpower."

Michigan cities saw the rapid growth of munition output, while thousands of young men left for military training camps. This meant a head-on collision of economic forces, and predictions were rife that the woman must leave the kitchen for the factory bench.

Willow Run smashed into the front pages in May, although it was six months later than the first bomber came off the assembly line and was flown to a fighting front.

Farmers saw their sons leave for war plants where wages were astronomically high or depart for training camps. Draft boards were reluctant to grant permanent deferment to farm labor; not until November was the farm laborer given a deferred rating of an essential war worker—too late for thousands of Michigan farmers.

The 1942 political campaign was enlivened by the threat of Gerald L. K. Smith, ex-Huey Long lieutenant and new Michigan radio crusader.

Next came the high-pressure community mobilization to uncover scrap metal, keep the steel mills in operation. Michigan met that challenge.

December brought rationing of automobile mileage. Inflated payrolls motivated a consumer rush to buy goods, and retail sales soared to new heights.

We read about the victorious Yanks in Africa and the Solomons. We sang of a "White Christmas" and walked to work.

Yes it was a historic year.

Wishing You . . . A Merry Christmas

We chose the simple age-old greeting, "Merry Christmas," to hail you, our friends, in this joyous holiday season. We choose these time-worn words because we believe them best qualified to carry the full quota of sentiment and Christmas good will we want to convey.

The officers, directors, and staff of this bank join in extending wishes for a joyous, happy, old-fashioned holiday season to everyone in our community.

SHOT AT RANDOM

A movie star went to court over a $250 bill presented by a masseur. Apparently must have been rubbed the wrong way.

If you ure inclined sometimes to grumble about snow removal from city sidewulks, think how it must have been at East Jordan, where just some of the sidewnlks are this winter being plowed for the first time in a number of years.

If you're anything like myself, you miss the outdoor Christmas decorations this year. The lack of this significant reminder of the Yuletide season just seems to take a lot of the "kick" out of the whole thing. And now that Angus and Cookie have sort of spoken my mind by suggesting the city turn out a lot of unnecessary boulevard lights instead of discouraging outdoor Christmas lighting, I'm going to reiterate their stand.

Now that the boys have had a chance to cool off a little, will say that members of the city council were conspicuous by their absence at the recent annual meeting of the Charlevoix bonrd of commerce. Some of the fellas were quite frank in pointing this out, too. And while on the subject, nn nttendance of 20 isn't a very good representntion for a meeting of such importance, either. Well?

Acknowledge Xmas greetings from Sgt. Don R. McKenzie, of Camp Perry, Ohio, and Pvt. Orville W. Shananquet, of Camp Shelby, Miss. Thanks, and greetings to you fellows, too.

EXPECT SEN. BROWN WILL BE PRICE BOSS

Predict Nomination Will Be Made To Congress January 7

Resignation of War Price Administrator Leon Henderson has again thrown the national spotlight upon Michigan's Senator Prentiss M. Brown, D., of St. Ignace, who is favored to succeed Henderson.

Senator Brown, who was defeated for re-election in November by Judge Homer Ferguson, of Detroit, gained national recognition

Prentiss M. Brown

when he piloted the controversial nnti-inflation bill through the Senate lnst fnll.

While President Roosevelt has not yet confirmed that Brown will be the new price boss, it is freely predicted thnt his nomination will be sought on January 7, one day after the new congress convenes, and that important chnnges in price control, tending toward relaxntion of some stringent measures, will follow.

CITY FINANCES IN GOOD SHAPE

which is accountable by the fact that equipment was in excellent condition, requiring only minimum outlay for repairs and maintenance. The reduction in revenue is traced to a smaller number of short term, or summer resident consumers.

Water utility revenue was down 20.3% for the period. This reduction is traceable lnrgely to abundant rainfall, lack of prolonged hot spells and fewer summer residents. The water department, which nsnally shows a slight annual profit, had a net loss of $1,161.94 for the 9-month period. This situation wns crented by an expenditure of $6,129.02 for the new lower channel water main which is completed and in readiness when the highwny depnrtment builds a contemplated new bascule type bridge on US31.

Copies of the report nre available upon npplicntion at the city clerk's office. Receipts and disbursements of all funds for the 9-month period are covered.

STATE'S GAME KILL HIGH THIS SEASON

Estimate Enough Meat Taken for Fifteen Million Meals

Michigan hunters took enough game in the past year to provide an estimated 15,000,000 meals, R. G. Hill, extension specialist in game management at Michigun State College estimates.

Hill said the amount was practically the same as was taken in 1941.

In 1941, deer totaled 6,000,000 pounds of dressed meat, rabbits came to 3,500,000 pounds dressed, and pheasants accounted for 2,500,000 pounds.

Hill said the game meat total equalled the pork, beef, lamb and poultry produced in one year on 5,000 average Michigan farms. He said game meat had increased in importance since the wur because it provided variety in the human diet, gave recreation opportunities, and in addtion helped to augment domestic meat supplies.

He said thut if 1942 game totals ran the same as 1941, 75,000 deer, 2,689,000 rabbits and 1,254,000 pheasants would be killed by Michignn hunters.

"Unfortunately some of the meat never reaches the table due to lack of knowledge of its preparation and misunderstanding of its food value," Hill said. "This is especially true of muskrat and raccoon."

FISHERMEN CONTINUE NETTING WHITEFISH

Early Open Season Operations Brought Light Catches

Despite light catches which followed opening of the closed whitefish season December 10, many boats of the Charlevoix commercial fishing fleet are still operating at the Fox Islands whitefish spawning grounds.

Returning to port in a heavy northwest blow Friday afternoon, several boats brought in sizable catches, marking first good results since the season opened. The first week, due to persistent heavy winds, brought only damaged gear and a negligible nmount of fish. Fishermen generally expressed the opinion that whitefish had not yet come onto the grounds and subsequent results have substantinted this belief.

Many boats reset gangs of nets at the Foxes late last week and are back to the grounds agnin this week to lift. Whitefish nre bringing a high market price.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

NEW RATIONING ORDER OUTLINED

CANNED FOOD TO BE HIT BY OPA RULING

War Ration Book Two Will Be Designed for Purchase of Numerous Items

Charlevoix housewives who canned numerous quarts of fruit and vegetables this fall will find themselves well prepared to face the government's new rationing program affecting nearly all processed foodstuffs, which will begin in February, according to announcement Sunday by Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard.

Canned, dried and frozen fruits and vegetables will be rationed under approximately the same plan as that now used for coffee and sugar. War ration book No. 2—designed on a point system—will have two types of coupons, blue ones for canned goods, including soups, and red ones for meat which is scheduled to be rationed soon also. Individuals, restaurants and institutions will be required to declare stocks of canned foodstuffs already on hand when registering for the new book. The foodstuffs involved will be frozen for a week before rationing begins.

Every member of the civilian population will have exactly the same number of coupon points to spend during each ration period, expected to be about a month in duration. The periods will be announced in advance. Point values for various foods will be identical throughout the country and housewives will be able to shop in any store and select at will the foods for which they wish to spend their coupons. Goods which are scarce will have a high value; goods which are more plentiful will have a relatively low value.

Though OPA officials frankly stated that normal consumption of canned, dried and frozen foods would be cut from 46 to 33 pounds per person annually, there will be enough food for a healthful diet for everyone in this country.

Fresh fruits and vegetables, and home-canned and processed foods are exempt from the provisions of the new ration program, as are jams and jellies, olives, pickles and relishes, paste products such as spaghetti, macaroni and noodles, and a few other foods.

ENLISTED RESERVE TIME IS SEVEN DAYS

Order Announced Thursday for Sixth Service Command

Post-induction furloughs for selectees throughout the sixth service command, including Michigan, are now seven days, Capt. Sidney A. Moore, in charge of the Kalamazoo induction center, announced on Thursday.

The post-induction furloughs, more correctly known as "enlisted reserve time," previously ranged from 10 to 14 days.

The induction center, formerly located in the national guard armory, was moved Thursday to the basement and first two floors of the large Masonic temple. The center serves approximately 160 selective board areas in lower Michigan.

CSO Bund Sales

Last week's sales of war bonds and stamps by the CSO at the Central Drug store amounted to $71.55.

TEN LEFT TUESDAY, REPORT FORT CUSTER

First to Be Affected by Seven-Day Furlough Ruling

Ten Charlevoix county men left Tuesday for Fort Custer to enter army service. They were the first local group to be affected by the recently announced reduction of post-induction furloughs from 14 to seven days.

Lt. Commander Edward K. Shanahan, U. S. Navy, home on leave from Pensacola, Fla., was the speaker at the program at 3 o'clock in the high school gymnasium. R. L. Lewis was master of ceremonies, and Rev. W. L. Cruthers gave the benediction.

Those leaving on the 4:03 train were Edward C. Heise, Arthur F. Emmons, Donald W. Stevens and Elmer W. Gibson, of Charlevoix; Glenn F. Gilmore, Oren F. Small, Ezra A. Cross and William J. Vrendran, of Boyne City; Ward W. Cornell and Burl C. Walker, of East Jordan.

FOSTER BOAT CO. HAS XMAS PARTY

EVENT WAS HELD DEC. 23 AT FERRY AVENUE PLANT

Employes Remembered with Gifts Program of Talks and Entertainment Held

On Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 23, the Foster Boat Company held an impromptu Christmas party for its employes at the Ferry avenue plant.

Guest speakers present were Mayor Robert Bridge, Rev. Leigh H. Hagle, Rev. Donald R. Evans, Rev. W. L. Cruthers and Rev. W. D. Wood. Invocation was given by Rev. Wood and short talks by Reverends Hagle and Cruthers, while Rev. Evans led the group in patriotic singing. Due to unavoidable delay, Fr. John W. Collins was unable to be present.

V. S. Manchuy, assistant general manager, acted as master of ceremonies. Harry G. Foster, general manager, talked briefly on plans of the company for the future, and Gordon Clement, production manager, discussed organization.

Hot dogs were served with all the necessary trimmings, milk and soft drinks as liquid refreshment in place of coffee. Cigars and cigarettes were enjoyed and turkeys were distributed among all present, following out the spirit, and in keeping with the Yuletide season.

JOHN CURTIS DIED SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Was Contractor and Builder Here Nearly Half Century

John C. Curtis, 69, a contractor and builder in this city for 45 years, died Sunday afternoon at his home as the result of a self-inflicted bullet wound. No reason was given for his action, although ill health was thought to be a contributing factor.

Born April 26, 1873, in Chicago, Mr. Curtis lived in that city until he came to Charlevoix 45 years ago. He married Sarah Cunningham on December 23, 1897, at Charlevoix.

He was a member of Round Lake Lodge No. 293, I. O. O. F.

Surviving are his wife; five sons, Charles, Eugene and Harold, of Detroit, Frank, of this city, and John Jr., with the American army in Trinidad; three daughters, Mrs. Ida Rose, Clarabelle, and Mrs. Betty Balch, of this city; six grandchildren; a brother, Henry, of Chicago; two sisters, Mrs. Ida Lovig, of Chicago, and Mrs. Matilda Ikens, of Charlevoix. A daughter, Sarah, died in 1929.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Leigh H. Hagle from the See Funeral Home at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Interment was at Brookside cemetery.

Miss Annalane Groenink, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Groenink, of Bentley Hill, joined the WAACS on December 12 and is now stationed at Daytona Beach, Florida. She graduated with the class of 1938 of the Ellsworth high school and is the second girl to enlist from that vicinity.

SGT. CHARLES RICHARDSON WAS FINE SOLDIER

Letter to Commanding Officer at Presque Isle, Maine, Gives Praise for Ability

Sgt. Charles O. Richardson, U. S. army air corps, who was killed November 2 when an army flying boat capsized on a take-off in rough water off the Maine coast, had proven his exceptional ability as a soldier and aircraft engineer.

A letter of commendation received by his commanding officer at Presque Isle army air base,

Sgt. Charles O. Richardson

Maine, from Capt. R. J. Hassell, with whom Sgt. Richardson had previously made a flight to some undisclosed foreign destination, was sent in duplicate to his brother, George Richardson of Detroit. The flying boat used on that trip had run aground in shallow water upon landing, and Richardson had stuck to his post in waist deep water to get the pumps working, and to make temporary repairs in order to float the plane to facilitate further repairs. Capt. Hassell stated in his letter that Richardson's knowledge in field work and service made him a valuable crew member, and that he was "proud to soldier with a young man of such high caliber."

HUNTING LICENSE GOOD ANOTHER NINE MONTHS

Throw away your old fishing license when the new year rolls around, but keep that hunting license for another nine months, conservation officers are advising sportsmen. New licenses are needed for fishing beginning January 1, but this fall's hunting licenses do not expire until September 30, 1943. When seasons on game are closed, small game licenses are required of sportsmen getting gun permits.

TB PROGRAM DEPENDS ON SEAL SALE RESULTS

Association to Send Reminder to Delinquents in January

Warning that the strength of Michigan's 1943 anti-tuberculosis Christmas seal will concentrate upon those people who have so far "just put off paying for their Christmas seals", Curtis M. Wylie, president of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association stated that reminder cards would be mailed to thousands of persons the first week in January.

"The anti-tuberculosis association asked for more money this year, to meet the dangerous war threat from this disease", Mr. Wylie stated. He said response has been very generous from those making prompt returns, and expressed the belief that those receiving the reminder card would contribute, and so guarantee adequate tuberculosis protection. Michigan people have never failed to respond to the Christmas seal plea, Mr. Wylie said.

During this year the tuberculosis Christmas seal will concentrate on health education for industrial workers, and students; clinics to search for unknown cases of the disease; and a special project for helping ex-patients back to employment, according to Mr. Wylie.

COMMERCIAL FISHERS HAVE BIG INVESTMENT

Tugs and Gear Worth Millions, Employs 1,699 Men

Michigan commercial fisheries now have an investment of more than three million dollars in gear and other equipment, according to a report issued by the conservation department.

The report stated that 1,699 men are now employed in commercial fishing operations in Michigan waters of the Great Lakes.

Michigan fishermen operate 1,127 boats, including 12 steam craft, 61 oil screw boats, 500 gas boats, 66 outboards, 220 rowboats, 117 gas-operated sport trollers, besides scows. Boats are valued at $853,554.

Three-quarters of a million gill, pound, trap and other nets make up most of the inventory value of commercial gear, having a total value of $1,542,512.

IMPORTANT MEETING FOR FARMERS CALLED

Annual Farm Bureau Session Jan. 12 at Marion Center

At a meeting scheduled Tuesday, January 12, at Marion Center grange hall, Charlevoix county farmers will respond to President Roosevelt's request for nation-wide mobilization of agricultural interests to meet 1943 wartime food production goals.

The meeting is combined with the annual session of the Tri-County Farm Bureau, which, due to travel restrictions, is being held in convenient localities to accommodate farmers in various districts covered by the organization. The Marion Center meeting is especially for farmers in the west portion of Charlevoix and Antrim counties.

The meeting January 12 will be an all-day session, with an extensive and interesting program. Full details will be announced in the Courier next week.

CHRISTMAS MAIL SET NEW RECORD

WAS LARGEST AMOUNT EVER HANDLED HERE

Cards and Parcels Sent Early In Cooperation With Request Made by Government

Christmas mail handled this year by the Charlevoix post office was the heaviest on record, with hundreds of letters and parcels going to men in the armed forces at home and overseas. Postal receipts were $2,125.66, as compared with $1,950.00 for 1941.

In spite of the enormous amount of mail going out, local people heeded the war department's admonition to send overseas parcels before November 1, and domestic mail earlier than usual. A good response was made here to the post office's effort to get all parcels and cards to their destination before Christmas. As early as December 7 a steady flow of cards and parcels began and continued through December 22. On the two days before Christmas, postal business was only slightly above normal.

It is estimated that this office handled approximately 38,000 outgoing Christmas cards this year.

MRS. CASSIE HART DIED AT SIOUX CITY

Was Resident of Charlevoix for Half a Century

Word was received here of the death last Tuesday of Mrs. Cassie Hart, 83, in Sioux City, Iowa. She was a Charlevoix resident almost half a century until she left here about two years ago to make her home with her son, Loren.

Mrs. Hart and her family first came to Charlevoix 50 years ago as summer residents. Later they built their home on Clinton street and became permanent residents.

She was a member of the Christian Science Society of this city.

Surviving are a son, Loren, of Sioux City, and a daughter, Mrs. Mabel Campbell, of San Diego, Calif.

Funeral services and burial were at Sioux City on Saturday.

SEEK CHANGES IN GAME LAWS

UNLUCKY ARCHERS TO SEEK GUN LICENSE ALSO

Authority for Commission to Set Fish and Game Seasons Will Be Requested

Broad changes in Michigan conservation laws will be sought in the 1943 legislature, it has been disclosed after a conference of state game officials and leaders of sportmen's organizations.

Chief among anticipated bills will be one authorizing the conservation department to fix fishing and game seasons and bag limits. At present, authority for such decisions is vested in the legislature.

Department officials admit they might be inviting headaches to set out to fix hunting dates and limits, but proponents contend the system would be more flexible and permit adaptation of hunting and fishing rules to changing conditions.

Bow and arrow hunters will seek liberalization of state regulations to permit use of one deer hunting license to cover both the bow and arrow and gun seasons. At present, the Robinhoods cannot hunt deer with a gun even though they failed to fill their license in the preliminary bow and arrow season. It is proposed to issue one license which will cover both seasons.

Also up for consideration of the legislature again will be a water rights bill, seeking to clarify public and private access rights to public lakes and streams.

Conservation officials also anticipate a bill asking establishment of a special $1 trout license. At present one fishing license covers all fishing. Another action would seek to make ordinary rod license effective for the Great Lakes and connecting waters.

Still another bill will likely ask legislative action to lift current statutes prohibiting dog field trials between March 15 and August 15. The measure was originally intended to keep dogs from game areas during the breeding season, but dog fanciers point out that many field trials are staged at fairgrounds and other public grounds where game is in no way endangered.

CRIBBAGE CONTEST OPENS MONDAY

Play in the annual Masonic-Odd Fellow cribbage tournament will begin Monday evening, January 4th at the Masonic temple.

There will be ten nights of play, followed by the customary banquet given by the losing side to the winners.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By KEN USHER

Who can recall the grand old carefree days when gasoline was so unrationed that women could use whole pailfuls of it to clean their kid gloves and have enough left to blow up the kitchen.

Whoopee! The sun's shining and it ain't snowing.

Friday is New Year's day. A year ago, as we stood on the threshold of 1942, the war we had been unwillingly drawn into by aggressor nations only a brief time before, was still unreal and remote to most of us. Today it is a grim reality. Since that New Year's day of 1942, millions of our young men have been called to the colors to defend not only the ideals, privileges and standards by which we live, but the honor of ours, the greatest nation in the world. Many have already given their lives, untold others will probably be called upon to pay the supreme sacrifice for the privilege of living as free men. To those millions at the battle fronts throughout the world, we at home owe a solemn duty. Our part in this titanic struggle is to provide the food, armament and supplies needed by the fighting men. So let us resolve for 1943 to redouble our efforts.

With the WAACS and WAVES, and other female alphabetical combinations of the service, that setup will make it possible for some man to go down in history with the statement that he "regrets that he has but one wife to give to his country."

What a contrast between Christmas of 1941 and 1942! The 1941 variety was chronicled as the first "green" Christmas since 1923. Golf enthusiasts got in a winter round, kiddies tried out their new roller skates instead of skis and sleds. But we'll remember the 1942 Christmas season as one of King Winter's best, with plentiful snow and just Saturday's variation of rain and sleet, thunder and lightning, the street so slippery a centipede couldn't hold its feet,

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Will old John Barleycorn survive World War II?

Here is a controversial question for 1943 when, according to all business forecasts, the war is going to hit us right in the face and non-essentials will be given a crucial test of survival.

Michigan's situation might be summed up about as follows:

Industrial payrolls are soaring. Shelves of stores are being depleted of goods. More liquor, wine and beer are being sold today than in many a moon. The temperance forces are getting active. Liquor dealers are worried. The state government is tightening its controls.

The Temperance Foundation of Michigan, an organization which succeeded to the name of the Anti-Saloon League, aspires to the eventual return of prohibition through legislative county option and an educational program in the schools and churches. Many of its loyal members, headed by State Senator Earl Burhans, of Paw Paw, believe the time is getting opportune for favorable action.

The alcoholic beverage industry—the firms which make and sell the stuff that cheers—is becoming apprehensive over the state of public opinion should the abuse of liquor enflame the voters.

And then, contrasted to the Michigan war days in 1918, the state government at Lansing is conducting a rather militant drive to control the liquor business through an appointive three-man commission. The state's activity in 1943 may become one of the deciding factors.

The pre-war saloon, a popular target for vivid sermons and indignant wives, has been followed by the modern tavern where men and women alike imbibe together while the juke box grinds out recorded jazz and sentimental lyrics.

Whether the average tavern is any better or worse than the old saloon is for you to decide, and we surmise that the verdict will not be unanimous.

THE Secret OF THE MARSHBANKS

CHAPTER XI

"Yes, but old Mrs. Marshbanks was too wild to mind that . . . Well, after we'd all stood petrified for what seemed about an hour, she said to Amy, 'it is extremely dishonorable to listen to the conversation of others!' and walked out of the room. Of course Amy was mad with curiosity and so I pretended that her grandmother didn't like me because Emma was once their nurse, and she didn't think it was a very suitable friendship for her granddaughter."

"Good girl, Cherry!"

There was a long silence. Kelly raised himself on his elbows and stared at her.

"What are you thinking?" Cherry said.

"That you look very nice, today. That—well, I was wondering if you'd like to come and live at Topcote, Cherry."

She looked at him, flushing and paling.

"How do you mean?"

"I mean marry me, of course; I mean as Mrs. Coates."

"I see," Cherry said, she looked away.

"I've been thinking about it. Ever since that night when you made the toast and it was so cold and the Wilcoxes were there, I've been wondering why it was all so cozy that night. It came to me that it was you. So I telephoned you and asked you if you were free last Sunday, and you were going on a picnic to Point Lobos."

"George arranged that."

"Is George Pringle in love with you?"

"He has no case," Cherry answered indifferently.

"But you don't like him."

"Not that way. No. He's nice, but not that way. No."

"You know how I feel about Fran," Kelly said presently. "She'll always be the unattainable — the dream woman. I can't help that. But you and I could have a lot of fun, Cherry, roaming about, painting things and clearing the creek."

He looked at her expectantly, and met a strange, thoughtful look in her eyes, fixed upon his.

Cherry jumped to her feet, and started to walk to the car that was parked a hundred yards away.

"Why, thank you, Kelly!" she said politely. "You're tremendously kind to think that way about me. I appreciate it just as much, and I'm eternally grateful to you," she went on briskly, no emotion whatsoever discernible in manner or voice, "but—well, you see, I've missed a good deal in my life. I've never had a father; I barely remember my mother; I had no home as a child, no birthday parties and bedtime stories—all that.

"Now I have a half sister and an aunt and a grandmother and a cousin and I can't claim any of them," she continued, still in the same light, impersonal voice. "I never can claim them. So when I am a wife, Kelly," Cherry said, with a quick glance at him over her shoulder as they walked toward the car, "I want the whole thing. I want some man to think I am perfection. I want romance and glamor and the feeling that we two are all the whole world to each other. No Fran in the background!

"So I do thank you, and the answer is 'No.' And I hope you'll forget that you said anything about it, and we'll have more picnics and walks some day. I'm walking home," she finished, as they reached the car. "It's not far, and I want to be alone. Good-by Kelly."

"Cherry, you've got me all wrong!" he began distressedly. But she only said good-by again, and walked away down the orchard. After a minute or two he got into the car and drove away.

Just a week later Cherry sat opposite the judge in his comfortable chambers.

His kindly eyes smiled at her. "It's the summer plan—the camp at Big Basin—you wanted to see me about?"

"No, not unless you object. Beck and I can't wait to pack. We go next Tuesday, and the girls begin to come in Saturday."

"Then what was the trouble, Cherry? Your letter said 'trouble.'"

"It's this. Amy came down to see me Wednesday. I didn't know she was going to. She wanted to tell me all about the trip and this Navy ensign she's so crazy about."

"Yes, but why look so distressed about that? You like Amy?"

"I do like Amy. Amy's my—of course we're pretty closely related, Amy and I. But one thing is—one thing is that your mother doesn't like me to see Amy too much. She asked me—she practically asked me—not to come to the house any more."

A shadow came over the genial face; the judge's forehead contracted a little.

"My mother did?"

"Yes. She said it wasn't—decent."

"H'm!" the judge said, gravely enough. "I'm sorry she did that. You know how much we all like you, and what reason I have for feeling that I've something to make up to you."

"Amy came in while your mother was talking to me. I'd reached the house before Amy did, and I was in my room, reading, and your mother came in and said how much she resented my being there."

"How much did Amy hear?"

"Well, your mother had just said that if I didn't break off all my relationships there, she'd have to let everyone know, and Amy too, that we were half sisters. And she said that would hurt my father, and my mother, too. And I said that that meant injuring the reputation of her own son! Amy heard that."

"And guessed the rest?"

"Guessed that it was you, instead of your brother Fred. After your mother had gone Amy said that she always had suspected that I was—" Cherry's throat thickened, she looked at him imploringly, "that I was your daughter."

"I see," he said thoughtfully.

"I didn't contradict her — I couldn't say anything. I kept trying to think which would be worse, telling her, or letting it go and talking some day to you."

"Fran and I were in Los Angeles then?"

"Yes. And then I went to Palo Alto and didn't see you, and I knew that your mother cared more about keeping it from Amy than anything else, and I hoped that Amy wouldn't talk. But now Amy's back, and she wants me to come in to spend the night with her next Saturday, and go the Quatres Arts Ball, and I don't know what to do!"

"My mother's a proud woman, Cherry," the judge said, after a silence. "She's had a sad life."

"She had been living in an apartment hotel and hating it. Fred and his wife, Amelia, had had a little place in Burlingame. But after years, five or six years, I think, she was going to have a baby. Old Wellington, her father, was an immensely rich man; he was going to come on from New York for the event, and do everything for the baby. Fred, who'd been restless and unsatisfied, settled down all of a sudden. Mother had opened the city house by this time, and they were all together. The baby was coming in November—"

"I know. I'm four days older than Amy," Cherry, listening absorbedly, put in as he paused.

"But you came two months too soon. That's all part of the story. Well! My wife and I and little Gregg got here just a week or two before Amy was born, and what we learned was rather confusing. It seems that Emma's sister, Charlotte Rawlings—much younger than she—was sometimes at the house and that Fred had seen this girl, and had taken advantage of her. Emma knew nothing of it until almost the end when Lottie came to her and told her. Emma felt that nobody must know, that her sister's secret must be kept now, of all times, when Fred's wife, who wasn't any too strong, was expecting her own baby any day.

"But poor little Lottie couldn't bear it. One night she suddenly appeared in my brother's room, as he was reading to his wife, and accused him of having ruined her life!"

"If I was the baby," Cherry said, hardly breathing. "I must have been born just about that time, too."

"You were only a few days old. Your mother, poor Lottie, was perhaps weak and feverish, hardly knowing what she was doing."

"But she couldn't have come to the house. She'd have been too weak."

"She may have been in the house with Emma. I have always suspected that Emma was there and the baby was born there. However it was, she rushed into Amelia's room. Amelia had lost all control of herself; she was sobbing bitterly . . ."

"Did she say anything about the baby?"

"No. Amelia never knew about the baby.

"Of course I don't know what she said," the judge admitted with a faint frown. "But whatever she said, it didn't last long, for Amelia fainted, and when she came to she was very ill, and the baby was born within the hour."

Emma came hurrying down and took Lottie away, and a few days later Emma left my mother, and she and Lottie went to live somewhere in the country.

"Fred was killed in a motor smash a few years later, and Amelia didn't survive long. My mother took charge of Amy and the money my brother left for you I administered as best I could. Emma had sent her sister to this school of Saint Dorothea's for a while, when she was little but Lottie hated it and came back. "A school of character," as the catalogue says, and she wanted you sent there."

Cherry was standing; she came over to his chair, bent over him swiftly, and he felt her warm lips against his forehead.

"I love you! There's never any trouble for anyone where you are!" she said, and was gone.

"Oh, the relief, Kelly!" she wrote him from camp. "The relief of doing something you simply don't want to do, and having it over, and your soul as clear as a bell!

"When will you see me? When college opens. For three delicious weeks before that, as soon as we close camp, Rebecca and I and a darling girl named Lucie Fargo are going on a wild cruise. Up to Victoria—we'll actually be out of America, Imagine!—and on the way home we're going to stay with Lucie's grandmother, who has a country hotel. That's up in Mendocino County, not far from Aunt Emma's place; it's only about thirty miles. So I've written Aunt Emma that I'm coming over to see her."

And she signed it "Your devoted and obedient Marchioness."

But despite high spirits she dreaded the visit to Emma, and was glad that it was to be put off until the end of the holiday.

In due time she and Rebecca and Lucie drove along the ocean coast, and into high mountains, and through valleys where great riveras raced. It was all glorious and restful and exciting.

When they were back in California with the great mountains and the days of laughter and change and adventure behind them, Cherry felt herself older and wiser. On a certain sober September afternoon she presented herself at the door of Emma's cabin with nothing more than a little shyness in her manner.

Emma lived in a lumber country. Cherry, for her drive of thirty miles, had borrowed the car, leaving the other girls with Lucie's grandmother.

Emma had been lying on the couch, evidently napping; she welcomed Cherry pleasantly enough, but without an embrace, and put the girl into a chair at the hearth while she started a fire and lighted one dim kerosene lamp.

A PATTERN FOR LIFE

(By Rev. Leigh H. Hogle)

Christmas is past. The wishes for a merry time are over. The new year faces us now, looking like a jig-saw puzzle and one wonders if all the pieces will fit into place.

A little child was working on a puzzle of the world and it just did not seem to fit, so he was told to turn the puzzle over and on the other side he would find the likeness of George Washington, the "Futher of Our Country". So he began again from that angle and soon had it together and then turning it over he found that the map of the world fitted together perfectly.

Life in this new year will be a puzzle and in its piecing there will be so many things that seem not to fit in their proper places. To the youth many of the modern customs, interpretations and war are misfits in Christian living, so he casts out the spirit of Christ in his attempt to make them fit. The problems of everyday life as he sees them, with sin, crime, war, and the indifference to the laws of our land, cause him to flounder around in an attempt to find some way to fit them into his way of thinking. It is here that the Christian church must come to the rescue by first showing them how the ideas of Christ fit into this great life.

The component parts of this puzzle of life are represented by sorrows and joys, happiness and discontent, losses and gains, courage and fear, loves and hates, cheerfulness and grumbling, generosity and greed. It is hard to see how they can fit or even why they should fit.

The purpose of the Christian church is to show people, both young and old, today how to meet their life problems by teaching the ideals of Christ. Having pieced these ideals together to form the "Father of all Mankind", they will find the reverse side of the puzzle not a jumble of misfits but a harmonious whole held together by the love and companionship of Christ Jesus.

There are many words in the dictionary—big words and little words . . .
There are homely words, too, and between home folks like ourselves these are the ones that we choose to carry our simple New Year message to you. Many thanks for your kindness and every good wish for a

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

OUT OR UNDER

There seems to be no question that too many incompetents are employed in governmental offices in Washington or elsewhere. People who have been used to working in private offices, and told what to do, clearly and effectively, do not know what to do themselves to clear confusion and red tape. They are to the office work what untrained soldiers are in war. They get in their own way and that of other people. Their very presence contributes to confusion and consequently to waste.

Every experienced employer knows that one good employe at twice a certain wage is often worth more than three men—or women—at that wage. A great trouble is that really competent people are few and incompetents are many. Some are just naturally inept and can never learn to be otherwise. Some are simply square pegs in round holes. Some could learn under the right boss, as boys learn in the army. A few good drill sergeants under a stout colonel who would stand for no ineptitude might help Washington and some other places quite a lot.

Employees incompetent for paper work by nature ought to get out into some place where they could produce. The ones who can learn ought to be put under someone who could teach them—and fast.

Maybe what Washington needs is a few good newspaper copyreaders, used to cutting thousand-word articles down to twenty lines, and keeping the meat in.

MENACE OF JOHN L. LEWIS

Do this nation's all-out strain and sacrifice toward winning the home front on which John L. Lewis war require the opening of a new and his United Mine Workers can battle for more power by seeking to control the country's farms and food, beginning with its dairy farmers?

To the bugs and beetles that are the farmers' perennial foes must there be added the beetle brows of a ruthless labor conqueror bent on exploiting war or any other emergency to extend his conquests?

Is one of our war aims a peace that shall enthrone John L. Lewis as the most powerful labor tyrant and political dictator the country has ever seen?

Unless the answer is YES, watch out; Something will have to be done about it—and in time.

Stop Lewis and you stop a host of imitators. A country at war can't stand them. After war they would over-top government itself. —New York World Telegram.

THE HOME FRONT IN MICHIGAN

Raising of fresh vegetables will be added to the duties of some of our soldier boys overseas. Part of 50 million pounds of seed, destined for planting on foreign soil under Lend-Lease arrangements, will be sent to areas occupied by our troops. Johnny will be sowing and weeding when he isn't fighting. But the bulk of the seeds will go for foods to feed the peoples of allied lands in desperate need of them.

Michigan farms must raise a great deal more crops of many kinds next year but civilians must not expect to benefit by the increase. Our armed forces will need much more of all that is raised and so will our allies.

American light tanks, made in Detroit and other parts of Michigan, are reported in action on the jungle-enclosed strip of New Guinea beach. The fact that they could get there indicates to what extent our boys are slapping the Japs around.

Wanted: Snapshots, films, postcards and photos of places in Europe, Africa, Asia and the Far East. If anyone in Michigan traveled in peacetime and has such items, apply for a questionnaire from Cdr. L. E. Narris, Strategic Photos, Box 46, Station "G", New York city.

The increase of fuel oil rations in Michigan, recently announced by the office of price administration, means that coupons issued to homeowners for period 3 (those numbered "3") are valued at 11 gallons instead of ten. Likewise, coupons used by apartment houses, office buildings and other large consumers, have been increased ten per cent to 110 gallons.

Junior will like this! At the normal rate of consumption less than one month's supply of castor oil will be on hand in this country on Jan. 1, according to war production board officials. Limited shipping space from South America prevents the importation of castor beans from which that "ugly stuff" is made.

And now we're going to get a "Victory" alarm clock. As you know, the WPB stopped production of alarm clocks along with other civilian timepieces but now a popular priced model has been okeyed. The new "Victory" clock will have a non-metal case and will be designed to use the least amount of copper and brass in movement parts.

If Mrs. Michigan likes individuality in an umbrella, she had better take care of the one she already owns. Umbrellas are among the latest accessories to feel the wartime pinch of shortages in steel, fabrics and manufacturing facilities. The new ones have been simplified by WPB order and are about to be standardized as to weight, number of ribs, etc.

Eighteen printing plants scattered across the country are rolling in full production on War Ration book No. 2. This book, which will introduce the point rationing system to Mr. and Mrs. Michigan, will be distributed soon after the first of the year. The printing of 150 million copies is one of the biggest jobs of its kind in history.

DOTS and DASHES: U. S. steel production next year will approach twice the combined output of the Axis nations. . . the large steel expansion program should be completed by June. . . . lumber consumption for 1943 is estimated at approximately 32 billion board feet, compared with 40 billion feet in 1942. . . Michigan fruit and vegetable growers and shippers are urged to stock up on used wooden boxes, crates, baskets and barrels for next year. . . the telegraph industry will abandon its special services to customers but low-rate messages may still go to members of the armed services. . . one million ceramic fireplace grates have been made for installation in American homes, thus saving 30,000 tons of cast iron. . . gas fired and oil burning water heaters have been added to the list of products which will be manfactured next year only for use in war housing or other war projects. . . the maximum prices for chili con carne, julienne potatoes and shoestring potatoes have been set at the November 1941 levels. . . because of time difference, our boys in the Solomons will be celebrating the Incoming New Year when it is noon of Dec. 31 in Michigan.

Throw your scrap into the fight.

Ship Ahoy!

Yes, we would need a whole ship to carry our messages of appreciation and good will to all our friends. That 1943 may bring you joy, health and prosperity is our wish.

DEER HUNTERS GIVEN PART BOUNTY MONEY

Several Wolves, Coyotes Fall During Regular Season

Bounties on predatory animals paid by the state conservation department in November totalled the ordinary sum of $3,225 for 10 wolves, 159 coyotes and 48 bobcats, but hunters who shared the month's rewards with professional trappers had some extraordinary stories to tell.

During the first week of the deer season one hunter near Newberry blundered onto a wolf and a fox and killed both, and went out the very next day to bag another wolf while again looking only for deer. Near Crystal Falls a small game hunter equipped only with a single-shot 12 gauge shotgun and No. 6 bird shot stumbled upon four coyotes, managed to reload fast enough to kill three of them.

LEONA JASKIERSKI AND GEORGE DEAN MARRIED AT WAYNE

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Leona Jaskierski, daughter of Mrs. Victoria Jaskierski, of Charlevoix, to George E. Dean, of Dearborn, son of Mrs. Edward Dean, of Petoskey, at Wayne, Mich., on Christmas eve.

Rev. R. Niemann performed the ceremony at the Wayne Methodist church. Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Dean, the groom's brother and sister-in-law, of Petoskey, were attendants.

A wedding dinner was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dean, of Petoskey, and a farewell dinner at Mrs. Jaskierski's home. The couple left Saturday to make their home at 4096 Calhoun avenue, Dearborn, where both are employed at the Ford Motor Co.

Mystery Sealed in Room 1046

How police might have parodied an old adage with "Two many CLUES spoil the broth", on a certain morning when the curtain rose on one of the strangest murder mysteries in the annals of American crimes, is told in a thrilling story from real life . . . by Theodore Roscoe . . . in 'The American Weekly with this Sunday's (January 3) issue of The Detroit Sunday Times.

Somewhere in New Guinea.—American commanders in the Buna area have had to assign a personal bodyguard with a rifle to one of their most valuable men lest other Americans make an embarrassing mistake.

The man is 26 year old Sgt. Fred Nishitsuji — an American whose parents are Japanese. A former Los Angeles wholesale salesman, who is now an interpreter-translator with an advanced command post which is in almost constant contact with retreating Japanese.

As he goes about his duties the sergeant is accompanied during every waking moment by his grinning bodyguard, Pvt. Albert Jackson, Charlevoix, Mich. Fred and Al are good pals and Fred gets along fine with his campmate now that they have gotten used to the uniqueness of the situation.

Note:—Albert is one of our Ironton boys and we are proud that he holds such an important mission for our country.

Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Adams and daughters, Joan and Sally, of Northville, were holiday guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Adams and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Marshall, and their daughter, Wanda.

Mrs. Enrl Bolleau came recently from Chicago to make an indefinite visit with Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Ingalls. Mr. Bolleau, formerly at the local coast guard station, has been transferred from Chicago to New York City.

Mrs. Robert Loveless and daughter, Amandu, arrived Thursday from Detroit for an extended visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Cartier. Mr. Loveless came with them, returning Sunday to Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Block returned Sunday from Huntington Woods, where they visited their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Zavitz. Mrs. Block had been there a month, while Mr. Block went last Friday.

Christmas day guests of Dr. and Mrs. F. F. McMillan were Mrs. McMillan's father, Harry Dagwell, of Indian River, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dagwell and Mrs. Ed. Cluff, of Cheboygan, and Dr. Lyle McMillan, of Mackinaw City.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Curtis and son, John, and Harold Curtis, of Detroit, were here for the holiday week end and remained for the funeral of their father, John Curtis. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Curtis were called from Detroit on Monday.

We are pleased to report that our summer friend, Mrs. L. S. Rupert, is again at her home in Bloomington, Ill., after a month of surgical care at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn. Mrs. Rupert will probably go on to Florida in a few weeks.

Miss Bette Ross, of Detroit, spent from Thursday until Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Ross. Other Christmas guests at the Ross home were Mrs. Ross' sister, Miss Bertha Smith, of Belfaire, and Art Knowles and son, Jack, of Central Lake.

J. C. McDonald has been transferred from North Manitou Shoals light station to South Manitou island, where he is officer in charge of the coast guard station. The transfer was effective December 27. Mrs. McDonald expects to join him in the near future.

Mrs. John Norton and infant son, John, left Tuesday for Milwaukee, Wis., to join Mr. Norton and spend the winter in that city. Mrs. Gerald Fisher also went with them to join Mr. Fisher. Both men are members of the crew of the lighthouse tender "Hollyhock."

Mrs. Maurice Dixon, who is attending Lansing Business University, came last Wednesday to spend two weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Pedersen. Her sister, Amy, came with her and returned to Lansing on Sunday.

Miss Esther Lou Fochtman, instructor in Marysville schools, is spending two weeks' vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Angus Fochtman. The Fochtman's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Riggle and son, of Lansing, were here from Thursday until Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Solomon, of Traverse City, and Mr. and Mrs. Leon Solomon and two children, of Reed City, were guests Friday and Saturday of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Soloman. Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Sobleisky, of Saginaw, were at the Solomon home for the week end.

Word comes from Mrs. R. A. Mumm, of Lansing, that Mr. Mumm has accepted a position in the engineering division of Beech Aircraft Corp. in Wichita, Kansas, and they are to make their home at 131 South Beckley Drive, that city. Mr. Mumm was formerly employed by the Michigan state highway department and the family resided here about two years.

In Nevada all state-owned autos are on a car sharing basis and required to carry a full load of passengers.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS
By B. C. Mellencamp

Farm Front Flashes for Freedom

More Milk—More milk is needed. The feeding of more grain will produce that needed milk.

The cows that will respond best to heavier grain feeding in the order of their responsiveness are: (1) Dry cows. (2) Cows just fresh, (3) Cows in production but due to calve in late winter.

Feed all cows 2 to 4 pounds more of grain per day than was fed during the past year. Water—Plenty available at all times.

The information can be written with chalk and thus changed when necessary. This information will help make sure that the cow receives the right amount of feed, and that she gets a rest period previous to freshening.

13 Hour-Day for the Hen—Give your hens a 13 hour day by the use of artificial light. This will produce more eggs and pay a good profit. Be sure your birds are free of parasites if you expect maximum production. Lice, mites and worms, steal eggs, meat and feed.

Good Potato Seed may be Scarce—Potato growers should check up now on their seed for 1943 planting. The Michigan potato crop of 1942 was several million bushels below normal and because of late blight, losses in storage may be severe. Growers having good quality potatoes should keep an ample supply of seed and should not sell too closely on the table stock market. Those with crops badly infested with late blight or with seed of inferior quality should order Michigan certified seed early in the winter. Most of this seed may be gone by late winter.

Sources of good seed may be obtained from the Farm Crops department of county agricultural agents.

Legume Seed is Short—Alfalfa, red and alsike clover seed is apt to be scarce and higher in price next spring. Any small lots of seed on the farm should be cleaned now and made ready for spring sowing. If seed has been lying in the granary for some time, have a germination test run to determine the percentage of live seed. Those farmers with no legume seed on hand should make arrangements now for their spring supply.

Plant good seed by making sure it is free of weed seed and high in germination. Prepare seed beds well, firm, and less seed will be required.

Produce and Protect—Increased food production for war is necessary. This increased production should come from those lands that will suffer the least from erosion and leaching. Level fertile lands should be farmed most heavily. Rolling lands should be protected by cross slope cultivation and sodded waterways. When possible, grow all cultivated crops on level or slightly rolling lands, and use hills for hay or pasture.

Watch Stored Grain—The weather man has been providing ideal conditions for "granary bugs". Grain should be cool now. If you stick your hand into the wheat bin about a foot below the surface and the grain feels warm, the bugs are probably there. Shovel the grain into an empty bin or the alley-way on the first cold clear day. This will cool and dry it and slow up the damage.

Liked bins can be fumigated with good results if the temperature of the grain is about seventy degrees Fahrenheit. Ethylene dichloride has been released from other war-need-priorities for the protection of stored grain on the farm. This is a good safe material for use in Michigan.

Lice on cattle are expensive—If a cow's winter coat is rough, and if she rubs against the stanchion or against posts, she is lousy. That is the diagnosis of C. B. Dibble, extension entomologist at Michigan State College. Lice cost the dairyman money, too Dibble says, and he has figures to prove it. One dairy farmer recently was getting a reduced flow of milk, and as soon as he delouse his cows, the flow of milk increased about 15 per cent.

Derris or pyrethrum dust is Biddie's prescription, applied at 14-day intervals. It is as simple as that, with no more bother, whether the cattle are infested with longnosed lice, shortnosed lice, or the red variety.

Chickens are bothered by two pests, house mites and bird lice. Either will reduce egg production from 10 to 15 per cent, and the entire increase in eggs requested Dibble believes, could be produced if all hen flocks in the nation were free from mites and lice.

Mites are controlled by scrubbing the chicken house, and then spraying the entire interior with crank case oil and kerosene, mixed in equal quantities. Spraying is better than painting, since the oil gets into the cracks. Lice are destroyed by putting a line of nicotine sulphate (black leaf 40) on each roost. This treatment should be repeated in 14 days to kill the new hatch.

Hogs will pretty well delouse themselves if provided with a rubbing post coated with crankcase oil. An old hay rope wound around the post helps to hold the oil. To destroy lice in and around the hogs' ears, the grower may, while the hogs are feeding daub their ears with oil, using a rag dipped in the oil.

Horses require the same treatment as cattle.

The annual death toll from tuberculosis in the United States would be more than 250,000 if the death rate of the early 1900's still prevailed. Thanks to the steady educational work carried on by Christmas seals, the annual toll is now less than 60,000.

LETTERS from the ARMY CAMPS

Hi, Ken:

Boy, is this real country. Seems good to see some snow and trees again. And it's really cold, seems like the north. Will send my new address soon.

Gilbert Powers AMM 3-c
U. S. Navy
Portland, Ore.

Dear Ken,

I have received your Courier while I have been here in camp and it sure is good to get the home town news.

I have been here in Great Lakes for six weeks and have been getting along fine so far. Our company graduates tomorrow, the 17th, and it will be a relief to put my leggings in the bottom of my sea bag.

So you won't have to send me the Courier until I give you my new address. I thank you for sending me the paper.

Wm. Keith Ager, A. S.
Co. 1628, Bat. 23, Regt. 16
USNTS, Great Lakes, Ill.

Dear Ken,

I just have time to dash off these few lines at present. I wish you would send me the paper to this camp. I'll be here for four weeks basic and any news from home would be more than welcome.

In case you don't know it, Camp Crowder is in the extreme southwest corner of Missouri and altho it's in the south, I noticed ice on the puddles coming home from chapel this morning. I'll take northern Michigan snow in place of this red Missouri mud any day, but what has to be has to be.

For your information, I enlisted in Lansing in the signal corps, was accepted and sworn in on December 7th in Detroit. Spent ten days in Fort Custer and now here I am at Camp Crowder. When I complete my training here, I am to be sent to school for thirteen weeks. You should see some of these streams in the Ozarks, bet you'd like 'em.

Say hello to everybody for me, and a merry Christmas to you all.

Following is a letter from Technician 4th class Ernest Potter, with American forces in Africa, to his cousin, William Potter, Charlevoix, Rt. 1.

Dear Cousin Bill,

I just got your letter today and seeing I've got the time I'll do the best I can to answer it. As you'll probably find out from my folks I'm on the Atlantic coast of Africa.

I'm where it's nice and warm, that is, during the day. At night it gets rather chilly, about like fall back home. The people here seem to be friendly enough but they could be cussing a guy and he still wouldn't know it. There are some beautiful white girls here too, but they don't speak our language either. Most of the natives are Arabs and they keep their women pretty well hid, and those that do get loose cover their faces with a veil. According to what we've been told (and I'm inclined to believe it) to take a veil off of one of these women is inviting oneself to a knife party and that isn't for me. It seems nearly all the natives carry knives and know how to use them.

The boat trip across wasn't so bad, it would have been swell if it hadn't been made under the conditions it was.

How is the deer hunting this year? Do you think you will be able to go? I suppose the gas rationing doesn't help any, does it. You should have what they have here, either horse and wagon or a car that burns charcoal. I haven't figured out just how it works, they seem to be the same as the cars in the U. S. otherwise. I think they have gasoline motors in them too. This charcoal must generate some kind of gas that they run on.

I suppose by the time you get this letter it will be Christmas or after, so I'll take this chance to wish you a merry Christmas.

If you want to send me a Christmas present, make it a can opener, as we sure can use it. There is a little garden back of our emplacement spot and they have radishes, red beets, lettuce, etc., most of the same stuff as in the states. I saw some flowers blooming. I haven't recognized any of the trees yet, but haven't been around much either. The flies are raising hob with my disposition, so I'll sign off.

Your Cousin,
Ernie.

Keep 'em firing—with junk!

Greetings to you

We extend our thanks for the patronage received during the past year, and while doing so, wish to all ents, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Gallagher.

Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Gallagher and daughter, Maureen, returned Saturday to their home in Muskegon, after spending Christmas with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Gallagher. They were accompanied to Muskegon by Mr. Gallagher's sister, Mae, who expects to spend the winter there.

MURRAY SCHOOL

Mr. and Mrs. Furgeson spent Christmas day with their daughter.

The McLellan children were visitors at the Price home Christmas.

Margery Hair arrived from Detroit on Christmas eve to spend the holidays at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hair, of Charlevoix, were Christmas day guests at the Wm. Hair home.

Considering the roads, weather and gas rationing, Murray school had a fine attendance at their Christmas program.

Bob White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert White, cut his foot quite badly while cutting the family Christmas tree. It was necessary to have several stitches taken in it. He is able to be about now.

The children started back to school again Monday after only a week end Christmas vacation and next week will enjoy only New Year's day. This will help out next spring when farm work comes on.

Recently it was reported that the 4-H summer clubs had received their money for prizes won at the Whiting Park exhibit. The summer clubs included nearly every child in the community who was eligible to participate in the club program. There were five projects—organized—for summer: commercial garden (contract beans for East Jordan Canning Co.) with Mrs. Cecil Murray as leader; home and farm gardens, with Mrs. Jake Speigl as leader; livestock (including dairy cows, calves, pigs and sheep), with Wm. Price as leader; canning club, with Lucille May as leader; food preparation, with Mrs. Wm. Price as leader. The projects were carried through and completed with very few exceptions and the community should feel especially grateful to these people who have given of their time and effort to act as leaders for these clubs. Everyone in these clubs feels that they have actively participated in the war effort as well as having a source of revenue for themselves, as was true in some of the clubs. We can thank Mrs. Wm. Hair for her great part in arousing interest and starting the clubs.

INWOOD

Mrs. Glen Cummings returned to Detroit Monday with her husband for a week's visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Lige O'Brien and son were callers at the William Ager home Sunday evening.

William Keith Ager and Charlie Vosburg were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Will Ager Christmas day.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Warner and daughter were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Edd Gregory Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Edd Gregory were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cummings and family Christmas day.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Ager just recently received word from their son, Pvt. Herbert L., that he is now in New Guinea.

Mrs. Stanley Jancha and daughter, Marie, spent the holiday in Lansing with another daughter, Olga, who is a nurse.

Miss Elsie Hilton, of Lansing, spent Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Hilton, returning to her work Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Orton VanDusen were supper guests of their children, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Murray and girls Wednesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. George Block spent the holiday in Lansing visiting with the latter's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Shapton and son.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Van Dusen and family, of Detroit, spent from Thursday until Sunday with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orton VanDusen and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cummings and family, of Detroit, spent from Thursday until Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orton VanDusen and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cummings.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fratrick Jr. and son, and Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Ager, of Charlevoix, and Kenneth Ager, of Detroit, spent Christmas day with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Ager and family.

William Keith Ager arrived home last week Thursday from Great Lakes naval training station for a seven-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Ager. He is planning on going to school on his return to the training station.

Several hundred people were present for the community Christmas carol program Saturday afternoon. Words of carols were projected onto the wall of the Central Drug store by a stereopticon picture machine so the audience could join all the combined church choirs of the city in the singing.

The Polar Bears basketball team won from the Manistee Iron Works 28-23 last Friday night, and lost to Alma College 58-22 Wednesday night of this week. Dean and Howard Davenport and Glen Ikens scored high points in the Alma game, Beaudoin was high in the Manistee game, and Pete Hallett refereed both battles.

Rainy weather failed to dampen the Christmas spirit of several hundred children who greeted Santa Claus at the Legion hall Saturday.

Lately there have been numerous reports of British sailors, here on matters vital to the defense of their country, being defrauded because they do not understand the value of our money. A recent instance was that of a young officer who came into Olney inn with 79 cents, the change a cab driver had given him for a $10 bill after hauling him less than a mile. As that was all the money he had, Clara May Downey not only provided him with a meal, but also with transportation back to where he was stationed.

LANSING LETTER

A new factor in today's wartime situation is the role of government, acting in behalf of the people, to curtail abuses and to syphon some of the profits into the public treasury. For all we know, profits from the sale of rum may have been used to enable your home-town library to buy books of literary merit. State aid to libraries comes from the general fund. And the general fund in 1942 received more than $20,000,000 from the state's profit in the liquor business.

Over at Perry, a country town in Shiawassee county, three tavern operators recently advertised in the local newspaper urging customers to drink less and to buy war bonds instead. These advertisements were suggested by the State Liquor Control commission, so we find in its 1942 annual report just issued.

Among the war controls exercised by the commission were these:

"Encouraged preparations of pamphlets and posters urging war workers not to drink before going to work and not to drink during their noon hours.

"Carried on a highway safety program to reduce the loss of manpower and automobiles critically needed in the war effort."

Tavern operators are urged by the state to promote the sale of war bonds and stamps.

The commission also "cooperated with army officers, and Federal Security agency and the state department of health in a venereal disease control program." Licensees are requested to refuse admission to questionable women and are warned that their license to sell liquor may be revoked "where it is found that contraction of a disease followed an acquaintance made in a tavern."

In one mid-western city the licenses of 18 bars were revoked because health authorities traced the source of disease to girls "picked up" at bars.

Selling of beer to minors is a violation of the Michigan state law.

In Lansing, a war boom spot, a dozen or so taverns have been closed for disciplinary periods by the state because operators sold beer to minors.

Last week two taverns near East Lansing, home of Michigan State College, were denied renewal of licenses. Reason: Sale of beer to students under 21.

Thus enforcement of the law is being pushed by the state with apparent success as a means of coping with war-time juvenile delinquency.

The Monopoly State Review, a trade publication of the monopoly states, said editorially in its July 1942 issue: "Michigan appears to be more active than any other monopoly state in its efforts to inform and educate the public on matters pertaining to liquor control."

The policy of the state commission is expressed in these words:

"The commission has repeatedly expressed its belief that expansion of this educational and research activity is essential to the end that a portion of the state's profits from the liquor business may be used to attack the troublesome problems which arise from it.

"Among the projects is an attack through education and mobilization of public opinion upon drunk driving. It also feels that the state could properly take the lead in providing funds for study under scientific auspices of the methods now being used in treatment of alcoholism to the end that we might approach European countries in the intelligence with which they treat and frequently cure alcoholics."

Will control of this type save John Barleycorn from another incarceration?

Are we going back over the old road to blind pigs and speakeasies and gangster bootlegging profits, those byproducts of the old national prohibition?

Right or wrong, the State of Michigan is today in the liquor business. It is wielding controls over profit and sale.

Because of this responsibility, the state's success or failure to cope with war-time problems is bound to influence the answer to the above questions.

As war conditions grow critical, government may impose drastic controls: Rationing of liquor; limitation of the hours of sale. The alternative, as we see it, is a return to prohibition. Which would you rather have?

We wish you all the Greetings of the Season and thank you for your patronage.

kids chasing a hockey puck down the middle of the street on skates, electric light poles broken down by ice with resultant heatless furnaces and cold breakfasts as the result of power disruption. Well, variety's the spice of life, they say.

Before he's too busy with the program set for February 1, there's one thing we hope Mr. Henderson gets around to rationing, and that's gossip.

Those oranges (the candy souvenir kind) that Ensign Warren and Ernestine Shapton sent me from Coronado, Calif., were a nice sample, and now if they'd come across with the real article I wouldn't complain. And that reminds me, too, that Bernie Foster offered to swap a case of oranges for a haunch of venison. I didn't get the haunch of venison to send, but there's nothin' to stop him from slipping over the fence out there and picking me the case of oranges. Hint, hint.

When the hotel clerk at Pittsburg asked the guest if he preferred an inside or an outside room, he reckoned he'd like an inside one this time, seeings how it looked like rain.

That Christmas party officials of the Foster Boat Co. staged last Wednesday afternoon was somewhat of an innovation in Charlevoix, not because it was the first time an employer remembered an employee at Christmas time, but from the standpoint of an employer remembering so many employees. It's been a long time since 70 or more men drew pay checks from one concern in Charlevoix and 70 or more turkeys at the present market price isn't peanuts, either. As an invited guest, I got in on the gifting, too, and Friday when I claw into one of them drumsticks, I'll be thinking with gratitude of Messrs. Foster, Mancley, Clement, Duerr, et. al.

Horace Greeley always insisted that the word "news" was plural. He once queried a correspondent, "Are there any news?" The correspondent replied, "No, not a new."

Most of the fishin' bugs, including myself, are wishing the west end of Lake Charlevoix would freeze over solid enough to get a shanty on the smelt or whitefish "holes." And don't forget you'll need a 1943 kind of fishing license if the freeze don't happen before January 1.

Well, folks, inasmuch as this is the last time I'll write this column until next year, I'd batter hurry up and say Happy New Year to you all, with extra emphasis for each boy in the service. Here'a hoping to see each and every one of them soon.

MUST HAVE TIRES INSPECTED SOON

JANUARY 31 IS DEADLINE SET BY REGULATIONS

After February 1, 1943, Periodical Inspection Required of All Holders Gas Ration Books

Tire inspection as provided by the gas rationing regulations must be finished by January 31 if the next issue of ration books are to be ready for consumers on time.

All car owners were required to list the five tires in their possession by serial numbers at the time of registration, and a tire inspection record blank is a part of the ration certificate.

Beginning November 15, 1942, it is required that every tire be inspected for: Correct air pressure; tire serial number, speedometer reading; correct size and type of rims and wheels; tread and sidewalls; condition of tires; inside of tires (the vehicle owner is asked if emergency repairs have been made such as boots, etc., and if so, then tire must be dismounted and inspected); rupture of inside plies due to hitting sharp objects, curbs, etc.; matching of dual tires; tubes (if losing air slowly).

If it is unnecessary to remove tires from wheel or rim a fee of 25c is charged by the inspector. If it is necessary to remove the tire, a charge of 50c per tire will be made. This tire inspection must be made if a new gas ration book is to be issued at the expiration of the present one. Tire inspections must be finished by January 31. This is every car owner's personal responsibility.

Beginning February 1, 1943, all holders of "A" books will be required to have tire inspection every 4 months with inspections not less than 60 days apart; "B", "C" and "D" book holders every two months with inspections not less than 30 days apart.

Inspection stations in Charlevoix are Brown Motors, Inc., Hansen's D-X Service, Northern Auto Co., W. H. Wallace, Meyers' Service, Charlevoix Oil Co.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Dickson, of Detroit, announce the engagement of their daughter, Betty, to Corp. Gregory Allen Miller, son of Allen G. Miller, of Grand Rapids. The wedding is to take place in New York City during the holiday season. Miss Dickson was third grade instructor in Charlevoix schools during the 1941-42 term.

AT THE MOVIES

"A Little Dutch Town in the Middle West"

A Dutch village, accurate in every detail and complete from the wide canal to the tiles on the roofs, was built on M-G-M's lot three for the tulip festival sequence in "Seven Sweethearts," which comes Jan. 3-4 to the Palace Theater.

"The Omaha Trail"

Rough-and-tumble fights were the order of the day on the set of Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer's "The Omaha Trail" when James Craig and Dean Jagger staged a barroom brawl.

Both of them, standing well over six feet and weighing in the neighborhood of 200 pounds, made the stage shake when they collided. The picture will be a feature Jan. 6-7 at the Palace Theater.

"Busses Roar"

A new exciting film about Jap spy and sabotage activities in the oil fields of California will be the screen fare presented at the Palace Theater Jan. 6-7, when Warner Bros.' "Busses Roar" starts its local run.

The fast-paced picture stars Richard Travis and Julie Bishop in the thrilling story of a group of innocent passengers on a bus who are used as the tools of Japanese saboteurs.

"Eilean"

Rosalind Russell belongs to that small Hollywood coterie who hurl the lie to the theory that to succeed in films a girl, in addition to being beautiful, must be very, very dumb.

Frank as a dollar watch, Rosalind Russell has that fresh, scrubbed look without appearing too unbearably healthy, the sort of expression that might naturally belong to a girl fresh from Columbus, Ohio. That, in fact, is the sort of girl Miss Russell portrays in her latest comedy, "My Sister Eileen," coming Jan. 9-10 to the Palace Theater with Brian Aherne and Janet Blair also starred. Screen version of the sensational Broadway stage success, the new comedy was directed by Alexander Hall.

SPEARING SEASON TO OPEN JANUARY 1ST

Anglers Must Have 1943 License to Fish Starting Friday

The two-month season for spearing through the ice on inland waters begins today, and the men with spears, like hook and line ice fishermen, can pick their choice of shanty sites with ease, as gasoline rationing limits the sport to nearby residents.

Spearers on inland waters may take carp, suckers, mullet, redhorse, sheepshead, lake trout, smelt, northern pike, muskellunge, whitefish, ciscoes, pikefish, catfish, bullheads, dogfish and garpike. On the Great Lakes and their connecting waters, walleyes and perch also may be speared. Spearing by artificial light is permitted only on Great Lakes waters and in St. Marys river.

Beginning today, all hook and line fishermen and spearers on inland waters will need new 1943 fishing licenses.

JEROLENE FOCHTMAN, LEWIS BROWN ARE WED AT PETOSKEY TUESDAY

St. Francis Xavier church at Petoskey was the setting Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock of the marriage of Miss Jerolena J. Fechtman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Fochtman, of Petoskey, and Lewis E. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Brown, of Charlevoix. Mr. Brown is stationed at the naval reserve aviation base at Grosse Ile, Mich.

The Rev. Fr. Austin Monaghan officiated at high mass. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Lou Fochtman, and James Behan acted as best man.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served to the immediate families at the home of the bride's parents.

After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Brown will make their home in Detroit.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Brown, the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Courier and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Brown, of Charlevoix, and Miss Marjorie Fochtman, of Ann Arbor.

The bride is a graduate of Petoskey high school. Mr. Brown graduated in 1939 from Charlevoix high school, attended Ferris Institute at Big Rapids for two years, and was employed here and in Petoskey until his enlistment in the naval reserve in July, 1942. He has the rating of yeoman third class.

NO FUEL OIL TO BUSINESS PLACES

"CONVERT OR CONGEAL" IS OPA ULTIMATUM

Ration Board Instructed to Refuse Oil Coupons Unless Conversion Is Proved Impossible

The Charlevoix county rationing board has received a communication from the office of price administration which will drastically affect all local business places heated by converted oil furnaces.

"In view of the increasingly serious fuel oil supply situation," said OPA Administrator Leon Henderson, "it is imperative that buildings other than private dwellings be compelled to convert or lose their fuel oil rations. Only most conclusive proof that property is not convertible will be acceptable.

"Boards should terminate heating rations for such buildings unless (1) written proof is presented that arrangements have been made for conversion by a definite date within the current heating season, or (2) applicant has proved conclusively that conversion is impossible. All 1101 applications except cold water flats, regardless of size or ration or whether or not converted to coal, must be tested for convertibility.

"It is the responsibility of the board to see that conversion is made at earliest possible date and that final ration allotment is only up to this date. Boards should fix time limits of conversion to accomplish savings in oil burned during the next two months when it is needed most.

"Your board is instructed to apply this policy vigorously even if it means heatless buildings."

Designed primarily to apply to large office buildings or factories which burn huge amounts of fuel oil, the order will nonetheless work a hardship on small businesses unless they immediately comply with the OPA's request. Transportation of fuel oil from the sources of supply is one of the greatest domestic problems yet to arise during the war, and requires the utmost cooperation of every individual to be successfully solved.

POST OFFICE RECEIPTS DROPPED DURING 1942

Figures for Last Year Higher Than 1940-39 Levels

Postal receipts for the Charlevoix post office during the year 1942, shown at the close of business on December 31, showed a distinct drop from 1941, according to figures released by Postmaster J. M. Fostor.

Receipts for the year were $19,298.84, a decrease of $768.42 from 1941 figures of $20,067.20. Figures for the past year, however, were still above those of 1940 and 1939.

The slump was particularly evident during the months of July, August and September, when receipts were $7,121.61 this year, as against $8,122.98 in 1941, a difference of $1,001.37.

Extension Club to Meet

The Charlevoix Extension Club will meet Friday, January 15, at 1:30 p. m., at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Black, on Mason street. Members are asked to bring one-half yard each of plain and printed material, not necessarily new, as well as needles, pins, thread, scissors and thimble.

TRANSPORTATION FOR SERVICE MEN SOUGHT

Rides to Other Sections County for Men on Furlough

Soldiers coming into Charlevoix on their way to other points in the county may be furnished transportation through arrangements made by the Charlevoix Service Organization, when public transportation facilities are not adequate.

Coming here by bus or train, service men on furlough may find it difficult to get to their homes in another section of the county. The CSO asks that these men be immediately referred to some member of its committee, who will endeavor to secure transportation. Persons making regular or semi-regular trips from one city to another, or along any rural route, may do some soldier a great kindness by giving him a "lift" to or near his home. Anyone who is willing to do so is asked to communicate with the CSO committee.

Registration for 18-Year Class

THIRTY-EIGHT ARE LISTED IN CHARLEVOIX COUNTY

High School Students May Finish Term Before Army Induction, Says Director Hershey

Thirty-eight youths of 18 were registered in Charlevoix county during the sixth selective service registration, December 11-31. Registration was confined to those who reached their 18th birthday between July 1 and December 31, 1942.

Those attaining their 18th birthday after January 1, 1943, will register on their birthdays, thereby eliminating any further mass registrations. It is also understood that 18-19 year old youths will be called up in order of their birthdays, and no lottery is to be held.

National Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey has ordered deferment of high school students in the 18-19 year class, if the students request it and are in the last half of the autumn-to-spring school year.

Following is the list of those registered:

N. C. C. M. ELECTED OFFICERS THURSDAY

Geo. LaBlanc, Jr., Succeeds J. M. Foster As President

Officers were elected Thursday evening by the Charlevoix council of the National Council of Catholic Men, meeting at St. Mary's rectory.

Newly elected officers are: president, George LaBlanc, Jr.; secretary-treasurer, Ralph Hamilton; chairman of Holy Name, Charles Duerr; chairman of ushers, Emerald LaBlanc; chairman of retreats, Joseph Foster; chairman of youth recreation, Hugh Mayne; spiritual assistant, Rev. Fr. John Collins. Retiring president was Joseph Foster.

The group unanimously went on record as lauding the fine work of Joseph Howard as chairman of ushers and his many other activities in the council. An honorary chairmanship for life was created for him in recognition of his fine efforts in behalf of the group.

Committees appointed were: youth recreation, under Chairman Mayne, Emerald LaBlanc and Harold Pearl; entertainment committee for the next meeting, Ben Yettaw and Ralph Hamilton.

Future patriotic activities to further the war effort were discussed. It is planned to have some such activity as the patriotic rally given at the gymnasium last March by this group, at which Tom Walsh of Grand Rapids, was secured as speaker. Members voted to purchase war bonds in the name of the church.

SELECTIVE SERVICE BOARD IS HONORED

State Headquarters Gives Praise For Outstanding Work

Charlevoix county's draft board has received the commendation of state selective service headquarters at Lansing for their excellent work in keeping records up to date and in order.

At both of the last two audits of the board's records, the state auditors have reported that no recommendations for improvement are necessary, that all records are up to date according to regulations. This is the only board in the state of Michigan which has been reported perfect by two consecutive auditors.

The clerical force and also the board members are deserving of credit for their fine work.

WORKERS WANTED FOR SURGICAL DRESSINGS

Must Complete Two Large Quotas Within Six Weeks

Workers and more workers are needed by the Charlevoix Red Cross chapter to fill their quota for surgical dressings by the end of February. Two complete quotas of 9,000 dressings each must be made up in the time ordinarily allotted for the manufacture of one quota.

Charlevoix women made a splendid response to the appeal for help for the first quota, which has been completed and shipped. An even better turn-out is needed to finish the second and third quotas in the required time.

A particular appeal is made to the younger married women and business women to come to the Red Cross room in the evenings. The room, on the city hall second floor, is open from 2 to 5 p. m. and 7 to 10 p. m. on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

That the women of America are making better surgical dressings than those made by volunteer workers in any other country, is the fact revealed by Red Cross headquarters. The making of surgical dressings is a definite contribution to the war effort, not just an idle-time occupation for women.

I. O. O. F. TAKE LEAD IN CRIBBAGE SERIES

Art Richardson High Man for Odd Fellows Second Week

Odd Fellows took the lead over Masons in Monday night's second game of the winter cribbage series, at the Masonic temple.

Rolling up a score of 11,966 while holding the Masons to 11,692, the Odd Fellows led by a margin of 274 points. Their lead in the series is 165 points.

Art Richardson was again high for the winners, with 955. E. J. Hiller let the Masons with a card of 947. Six and a half tallies were in play.

BANK DIRECTORS CHOSEN TUESDAY

TWO LOCAL INSTITUTIONS HELD ANNUAL MEETINGS

All Present Directors Re-Elected by County State Bank and State Savings Bank

Officers and directors for 1943 were chosen by stockholders of the Charlevoix County State Bank and Charlevoix State Savings Bank at their annual meetings held Tuesday afternoon.

No changes were made in officers or directors for either bank. Re-elected directors for the Charlevoix County State Bank were: Robert Bridge, E. J. Hiller, E. D. Hawley, J. M. Foster and M. A. Levinson. Officers re-elected were: president, Robert Bridge; vice-president, E. J. Hiller; cashier, E. D. Hawley.

Directors re-elected for the Charlevoix State Savings Bank were: P. D. Campbell, H. A. Craig, Dr F. F. McMillan, W. W. Srigley and Archie L. Livingston. Officers of the institution are: president, H. A. Craig; vice-president, Dr. F. F. McMillan; cashier, Archie L. Livingston.

Statements of the two banks issued as of December 31, 1942, and reviewed in last week's issue of the Courier, indicate a sound and satisfactory financial position for both institutions.

NO. 3 GAS COUPONS GOOD TO JAN. 21ST

Delayed Mileage Rationing Had No Effect on Valid Date

Coupon 3 in the "A" gasoline ration book will not be valid after January 21, announces Fenton R. Bulow, chairman of the local war price and rationing board. Because the start of mileage rationing was delayed last fall, there was a general misunderstanding concerning the valid date of the coupons. Many persons believed them to be good until January 31.
